HOOVER PROMISES TO MAKE CAPITAL MODEL DRY CITY; CHALLENGES HOWELL DATA

WHITE HOUSE STATEMENT

GLAD QUESTION IS RAISED

NEBRASKAN IS INSISTENT

Bootlegging Common Knowledge, He Asserts, but Has No Evidence.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Hoover tonight called upon Senator Howell of Nebraska for "definite facts" to support his assertion in the Senate yesterday that the President could make Washington dry, if he insisted on it.

A statement issued to newspapers from the White House this evening calls on Senator Howell to lay before the Department of Justice "definite facts with time and place" as to violations of the prohibition laws in the District of Columbia, and declares that it is his intention to make the national capital "a model for the country" in prohibition enforcement.

While the statement from the White House was not issued in President Hoover's name, it bears all the earmarks of having been prepared by him. The statement follows:

Senator Howell's statement that the prohibition law is not being enforced in the District of Columbia seriously impugns the good faith and capacity of Commissioner Dougherty, in charge of police; Superintendent of Police Pratt, District Attorney Rover and Prohibition Agent William Bland Ford.

The President is glad the Senator has raised the question. He is confident that the Senator would not make these charges unless they were based upon definite facts, with time and place, and if he will lay any such information before the Department of Justice the President will have the matter vigorously investigated, for it is the intention not only to secure the fullest enforcement in the District possible under the organization of enforcement agencies as provided by law, but to make it a model in the country. Moreover, it is only fair to give to the District officials an opportunity to meet such charges.

Denies He Was Attacking President.

When President Hoover's statement was read to him, Senator Howell said he would not comment on it at the time, but wished to say that he had not intended any attack on the President in his references to the prohibition situation in Washington.

He had no evidence, as to bootlegging, the Senator said, but it was common knowledge that the capital was very "wet." He would be glad, he said, to tell the Department of Justice about the Siamese Legation case.

The case involved the action of Washington police in seizing a truck load of wines and liquors intended for the diplomatic establishment. The wines and liquors had been obtained at Baltimore, where they had been landed from a steamer from abroad.

The truck and men with it, employes of a Baltimore trucking company, were released, but the incident resulted in the issuing of new regulations by the Secretary of State requiring some authorized member of a diplomatic establishment to accompany all consignments of liquor brought to Washington for the use of an embassy or legation.

It is probable that more on the subject will be heard in the Senate, many of whose members are partial to debating the prohibition question, although there has been little discussion of the subject in that body during the present extra session.

As the President's statement is interpreted here tonight, it was intended to be ironical. At Senator Howell's press conference, when the President said he was confident that Mr. Howell would not make his charges unless they were based on "definite facts with time and place."

The White House statement of the President's intention to make the District of Columbia "a model in the country" with respect to prohibition will be of the greatest interest in the

Dutch Life Savers Rescue Crew Of Ship Stranded for 36 Hours

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 22.—The crew of the Italian steamship Discipline, stranded during a heavy gale Friday night south of the Hook of Holland, was saved today by a rescue boat from the Hook. Last night the life-savers' boat tried in vain to come alongside, but the ship was in a difficult position and the rescue crew, after a two-hour struggle, had to return.

This morning the position of the ship had changed and, after hard work, the rescue boat came alongside. The captain was the last man to leave his ship, and he brought his papers and also a dog and cat.

The captain said that when outside the piers of the Hook his ship had become unmanageable in the storm. Soon she was stranded and the third hold and the engine room filled with water.

SUBDUES CRAZED MAN HIGH UP ON BRIDGE

NEAR PLUNGE MANY TIMES

Crowds Cheer Ironworker as He Eludes Pursuers for 6 Hours in Network of Steel.

Several thousand persons in Astoria Park and along the East River front near Hell Gate Bridge late yesterday afternoon witnessed a thrilling struggle between Patrolman Charles Saeger of the marine division and an ironworker who had escaped from the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane, on a narrow catwalk of the bridge 135 feet above the river's surface.

For nearly ten minutes the two men struggled on their narrow perch, swaying perilously. Watchers held their breath as time after time it seemed almost certain they would lose their balance and topple into the river. But Saeger subdued his man, and with the aid of another patrolman secured him with a rope and lowered him to safety.

The ironworker, James C. Bennett, was committed to the Manhattan State Hospital on Ward's Island several months ago, suffering from the delusion that he was an inventor and that he was being persecuted by persons seeking to rob him of the fruits of his invention.

Eludes Guards on Island.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when patients in the hospital were leaving chapel after the regular Sunday morning service, he managed to elude his guards. Hell Gate Bridge passes over part of Ward's Island and one of the big stone piers of the structure is built on the island. Bennett reached this pier.

For a man not accustomed to climbing the ascent of the pier would have been almost impossible. But it took Bennett only a few moments. With the aid of iron spikes driven into the stones at intervals he climbed up hand-over-hand and sat calmly atop the pier.

He had been there almost an hour when his absence from the hospital was discovered. Then attendants at the hospital sighted him. They ran to the base of the pier and called to him. They pleaded, argued, threatened in a vain effort to get him to come down. He was defiant.

One attendant started to climb after Bennett.

"Stay where you are," shouted the ironworker. "I know what you are after. You want to lock me up so you can get my invention. If you

SENATE BLOCS WIN TARIFF CONCESSIONS BY THREATS TO BILL

FARM GROUP GAINS POWER

It Is Now in Position to Adjust Rates to Protect Products of West, Capper Asserts.

FLEXIBLE CLAUSE ASSAILED

House Convenes Today, but Is Due to Mark Time While Issues Are Fought Out in Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The House of Representatives, which has been in recess since soon after it passed the tariff bill, will reassemble tomorrow and take three days' recesses until Oct. 14, in the expectation that the Senate will have completed the tariff legislation by that time.

Indications are, however, that the bill will not get out of the Senate at least until November, and perhaps later, unless some agreement is reached by the conservative leaders with the insurgent Republican bloc, which is now insisting upon a thorough discussion of the measure as written by the Republican Finance Committee members.

The chaotic situation in the Senate, the lack of control by the Republican leaders, the latter say, make it impossible to predict with any degree of accuracy when the bill will be adopted by the Senate and what the character of the measure will be when it emerges. Some forecast that it will be so modified as to be scarcely recognizable by its framers.

The disorganization now existing may make it necessary for the regulars to make many concessions in order to prevent the defeat of any tariff revision. These concessions, in the opinion of some, will cause such a prolonged and bitter fight in the conference of representatives of both branches of Congress as to carry final action on tariff into the regular session.

More Concessions Necessary.

The tariff will be shaped to a considerable extent in conference and the Old Guard leaders fear that unless the fourteen farm bloc Senators are upheld in their demands for higher farm rates and reduced industrial duties, there will be no tariff bill. The industrial States do not have enough votes to maintain their contentions for higher rates.

The situation confronting the Republican party, facing a campaign for the election of thirty-three Senators, the entire membership of the House and thirty-three Governors next year, its leaders admit, is none too favorable as a result of the tariff controversy.

Administration advisers are said to be somewhat concerned lest the party should suffer severe losses in the Congressional elections, and that this might be interpreted as a reflection upon the administration itself.

The Old Guard leadership in the Senate, whose program was to widen revision beyond the farm schedules and a few industrial commodities, has so far found itself routed in every open test made. It lost in the attempt to prevent the obtaining of income tax statistics of corporations, and also went down to defeat in the contest to retain the "milling in bond" section of the bill, by a vote of 51 to 18.

This was the most decisive battle the farm bloc has waged and it showed the strength of that faction. Eleven of the Republican members of the Finance Committee were included in the eighteen Senators marshaled by the so-called industrial group.

Leaders Hope for Appeasement.

The Old Guard Republicans hope that as consideration of the bill proceeds, the farm bloc, after it has ob-

Berlin Communists Fire on Nationalist Deputy In Parade Against 'Enslavement' by Treaties

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—Clashes between extreme Nationalists and Communists occurred this afternoon during a procession organized by the former in favor of a plebiscite on "the bill against the enslavement of the German nation."

This bill would repudiate all post-war treaties and agreements, including the Young plan for reparations, stipulating that any German Minister or plenipotentiary signing an agreement imposing financial or other burdens upon Germany be liable to trial for high treason.

The Nationalists were hooted along the entire route. Several shots were fired without injury to any one. An automobile in which Deputy Goebel of the Reichstag, a leader of the Nationalists, was sitting was held up by a mob of political opponents and a free-for-all fight followed, in which more shots were fired.

Altogether, 100 persons were arrested, most of them Communists.

The proponents of the plebiscite have decided to alter Article IV of the bill, which apparently would have made President von Hindenburg liable for high treason as a treaty signer, so that the President is specifically excluded and only Ministers and plenipotentiaries come within the scope of the article.

Gale Expected to Usher in Autumn Today As Great Combers Lash Near-By Beaches

Four days belated, the official Autumn season catches up with the weather early today upon the arrival of the autumnal equinox at 7:33 o'clock this morning. Storm flags, broken out at the Weather Bureau tower last night, warned that a northeast gale will probably accompany the season in.

The light wind which blew during the day yesterday slowly increased in force after sunset and a gale was tentatively predicted by the Weather Bureau early last evening. Although the wind over Manhattan at 9 o'clock last night registered only ten miles an hour, Sandy Hook reported a twenty-mile-an-hour wind and a steady increase.

But while the breeze over New York seemed relatively mild, the three-day continuance of easterly winds had noticeable effects at near-by beaches. At Coney Island yesterday combers drove in to 100 feet beyond their normal mark and in some places swept the sand beneath the Boardwalk. The sea wind gave a snap to the air and few strolled on the Boardwalk without overcoats. Only a scant half-dozen tried the surf.

At Seabright, N. J., the long rollers deposited tons of sand on lawns and roadways, breaking over Ocean Avenue, the town's main highway, and depositing heavy driftwood there. During the high tide of the morning, shortly before noon, combers swept in over the unprotected D. B. Kock estate along the South Beach residential section and piled stringers along the roadway. The grounds of the James E. Imbrie home there were completely washed to the roadway.

Few bathers entered the surf at Atlantic City, although there was a large crowd on the Boardwalk. Travel by train was fairly heavy, but the motor traffic influx showed a decrease.

CRAIG ASKS $350,000 AS FEE IN FARE SUIT

MAYOR SETS $75,000 LIMIT

Sum One-third More Than Total for All Lawyers for I. R. T.—Hughes Got $75,000.

Charles L. Craig, former Controller, has billed the city for $350,000 for his services as special counsel in the Interborough seven-cent fare case. His formal claim, covering the period from March 19, 1928, to Sept. 12, 1929, has been filed with Controller Charles W. Berry. It contained an offer to accept $280,000, a cut of 20 per cent, if payment was made in thirty days.

That the city will contest vigorously the payment of either sum was indicated in a letter sent to Mr. Craig on Saturday by Controller Berry who described the fee as "exorbitant," and asked the claimant to appear at a hearing in the Municipal Building at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning to explain why the amount asked should be paid.

Craig's Bill Far the Largest.

Mr. Craig's bill, by far the largest submitted by any of the lawyers on either side of the fare litigation, was presented, it was learned yesterday, after Mayor Walker had bluntly refused to sanction a $250,000 fee suggested by the former Controller. It is understood that in a somewhat acrimonious discussion of the fee Mayor Walker made it clear that the city's victory in the fare case in the United States Supreme Court was, in his opinion, due to the work of Samuel and Irwin Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission, both of whom served without compensation. During the discussion, which took place several months ago, Mayor Walker is said to have suggested that a fee of $50,000, or at most $75,000, would be quite adequate, especially in view of the fact that Charles Evans Hughes, special counsel for the Interborough, charged the latter sum for his services.

In transit circles yesterday it was regarded as a foregone conclusion that Mr. Craig would have to bring suit to collect anything like the amount he has asked. Neither Controller Berry nor Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial would discuss the details of Mr. Craig's claim. Mr. Prial, into whose hands the claim first came, contented himself with saying that it left him "speechless."

The Controller's Letter.

Controller Berry's letter, which termed the claim exorbitant, especially in view of the charges made by other counsel in the fare case, follows:

Sept. 21, 1929.

120 Broadway, New York City.

Dear Sir:

You have filed a claim in this department in which you allege there is $350,000 due you for services rendered by you as special counsel of the city of New York between the 19th day of March, 1928, and the 12th day of September, 1929, in relation to the five-cent fare on the rapid transit railways of New York City.

I also note that you offer to accept a discount of 20 per cent if payment be made within thirty days, and I might say in this connection that the city of New York is always ready and able to pay any proper claims without discount of any kind.

The amount demanded from the city in payment of the service rendered is exorbitant, more especially when comparison is made with similar charges made by eminent lawyers in the same litigation.

Pursuant to Section 149 of the Greater New York Charter I will hold a hearing on this claim in the offices of the Controller, Room 530, Municipal Building, New York City, on Wednesday, Sept. 25, 1929, at 10 A. M., and would be glad to be informed if you would present yourself on that occasion and testify as to just what services was rendered the city and the amount of time consumed, or if you prefer we will issue the usual sub-

WEALTHY YOUTH DIES IN EIGHT-STORY FALL

TWO FRIENDS WITH HIM

They Tell of Frolic in Tudor City Apartment—Young Man an Annapolis Graduate.

Allen Weir, wealthy young yachtsman, whose brother married a daughter of Lammot du Pont, chairman of the board of the General Motors Corporation, plunged to his death early yesterday morning shortly after he and two other young men had returned to his bachelor quarters in the Manor House, a unit of Tudor City in the East Forties.

Detectives of the East Fifty-first Street station were investigating last night the manner in which Mr. Weir dropped to instant death from a narrow window in his apartment on the eighth floor. Although they had officially listed the death as accidental, they were uncertain whether he jumped or fell from the comparatively low window sill.

Mr. Weir and his companions, Harry Evans, another tenant of the apartment house, and Charles Greening of 12 Warren Place, Montclair, N. J., had spent the evening out. The police said that, in visits to friends the three young men had had several drinks.

They had met by appointment at Weir's apartment on Saturday night and had started out for the evening in their host's automobile, one of two expensive machines belonging to him. They returned to the Manor House, which is at 335 East Forty-third Street, shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday morning.

Events There Not Disclosed.

Just what happened upon their return was not disclosed by Detectives Brady and Burns of the East Fifty-first Street station, who questioned Greening and Evans at length. As the detectives told it, Weir went to his bedroom, while Greening and Evans sat down in the living room. Both men had agreed to stay the night with Weir.

After remaining in the living room chatting for a while Evans and Greening decided to retire. Evans went to another room, while Greening went into the bedroom where Weir was sitting in his pajamas. Evans popped into the room, the detectives said, and the three men indulged in a little "skylarking." Detective Burns explained the "skylarking" as "pushing one another around."

After a short time Evans went to his bedroom, leaving Greening and Weir alone. Greening stepped into the hallway, and when he looked back Weir, who had been laughing and joking, was on the window sill. The ledge is low and the windows, each eighteen inches wide, open outward. A partition separates the two windows. According to Detective Burns, Greening said that Weir apparently had leaped to the sill.

Before Greening or Evans, who had heard the former's shouts, could get to the window Weir had lost his balance and disappeared.

Rush to Aid Friend.

Greening, who is a teller for the Irving Trust Company, and Evans, employed as manager of the Fiber Vulcanizing Company, 30 Church Street, hastily dressed themselves and ran to the street. The windows of the apartment looked out on a courtyard. Greening and Evans found Weir in the court.

They picked him up and carried him to the street. As they came out on the sidewalk Patrolman Thomas J. Ruppel saw them. As he noted the fact they were carrying a limp form he quickened his pace and overlook the two men, who explained what had happened and said they were looking for a physician.

Ruppel summoned Dr. Freeman of Bellevue Hospital. Weir, who had been breathing when the patrolman examined him, was dead when Dr. Freeman reached the scene. The doctor said he had died from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

The patrolman telephoned to his station and Brady and Burns were assigned. While they were questioning Greening and Evans, Detective Frank Trainor of the Homicide Squad joined them. After their examina-

COLONY HAILS AIR LINE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, B. W. I., Sept. 22.—Dense crowds lined the hill-girt, palm-fringed waterfront of Port of Spain late this afternoon as Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, reaching here from San Juan, Porto Rico, on the first flight of the new Pan-American Airway's line, soared over the harbor.

Colonel Lindbergh, with a crew of three and Mrs. Lindbergh, in his own amphibian and an accompanying craft carrying President J. T. Trippe of the Pan-American Airways circled over the city.

Then at 4:52 P. M. he landed gracefully near a buoy made ready by Major Hulse, the airway's representative here.

The launch of Colonial Governor Geir of Trinidad transported the party to the customs dock, where the mail brought by Colonel Lindbergh was transferred to the local postmaster.

Nearly Swamped by Crowd.

As Colonel Lindbergh and those with him left the custom house, cheering crowds swarmed around them, evading the efforts of police and guards and almost mobbing the party in the attempt to honor the flier.

Former service airmen were waiting for Colonel Lindbergh at the Union Club, where a reception had been prepared under the leadership of Sir Henry Alcazar, former Mayor of Port of Spain and member of the Executive Council, and George Huggins.

The demonstrators in the streets, however, so impeded the passage that it was decided to drive the Lindbergh party directly to Government House, at the invitation of the Colonial Governor.

There Colonel Lindbergh and Mr. Trippe were guests of honor at a banquet tonight.

"I thoroughly enjoyed the trip," Colonel Lindbergh told the correspondent in commenting on his flight here.

"I never expected such an overwhelming demonstration of popular enthusiasm here."

The opening of the Pan-American Airways line has aroused enthusiasm here. The Trinidad Guardian says that, while the company Colonel Lindbergh represents is not the first to talk of such a line covering the West Indies, it is the first to establish it. The paper devotes its front page and pictures and historical accounts to the occasion.

Completes West Indies Extension.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Sept. 22 (AP).—Landing here ahead of his schedule, Colonel Lindbergh completed the extension of the United States air mail from Miami, Fla., through the West Indies, to the tip of South America.

Tomorrow Lindbergh will take off for Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, blazing the initial air mail trail to the Eastern coast of the South American Continent.

Swooping down here in the giant amphibian in which he took off in San Juan, Porto Rico, this morning, Colonel Lindbergh was received by colonial officials. He will be the

Schreiber, Transatlantic Plane Stowaway, Probably Fatally Hurt in Motor Car Crash

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Sept. 22.—Arthur Schreiber, the 22-year-old Portland youth who flew the Atlantic as a stowaway on the plane Yellow Bird, was probably fatally injured here today in an automobile accident on the Newburyport Turnpike.

Five passengers in the same car, all residents of Portland, also were injured. They are Maurice Gress, 28, who suffered arm injuries; Edward Blumenthal, 23, whose collarbone was fractured; Gertrude Woods, 20, cuts and abrasions; William Meisler, 20, cuts on face; Mrs. Marjorie Meisler, cuts and fractured wrist.

State Patrolman Geist and Motor Vehicle Inspector French opened an investigation.

According to witnesses, the car, a roadster, which was owned and operated by Gress, turned out of line to pass another machine about half a mile from the centre of Newburyport, collided with another machine and overturned in a ditch beside the road.

Schreiber has been working in a fur store in Portland, of which his father is proprietor, and makes his home at 25 Washington Avenue in that city.

When the French fliers Armand Lotti Jr., Jean Assollant and Rene Lefevre took off from Old Orchard Beach on June 13 last in their plane, the Yellow Bird, Schreiber, the first airplane stowaway, was concealed in a cabinet at the back of the navigating compartment.

He had climbed aboard the plane unobserved by any one, while the fliers were busy trundling their plane down to the taking-off place.

French Warship at 40.2 Knots Sets a New World's Record

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—During trials held for the past two days off the west coast of France the new French destroyer Verdun has beaten the world's speed record, formerly held by another French destroyer, the Valmy.

Yesterday the Verdun made a speed of 40.2 knots over a fixed course, beating the Valmy's record of 39.185 knots. The Verdun also showed herself to be an exceptionally economic oil burner.

SINCLAIR PLEADS UNJUST SENTENCE

Petition for Clemency Not Based on Ill Health, Says Prisoner's Statement.

DEFENDS JURY SHADOWING

Asserts the Government Followed the Same Practice—Day Issues Similar Statement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Harry F. Sinclair, the oil man, now serving a sentence in the District of Columbia jail, issued a statement today, declaring that his petition for clemency, denied by the President, was not based on ill health, but on the ground that he was imprisoned for doing something that was not prohibited by statute or rule of the courts.

"I have been informed that the President has denied my application for the commutation of my sentence," the statement said. "I am not discouraged, because I am confident of final vindication.

"At the outset, I wish to state as emphatically as I can that I did not apply for Executive clemency on account of ill health. My health is as good as could be expected, under the circumstances. The broadcasts in the press that my application was based on ill health were the invention of newspaper correspondents and utterly without foundation.

"The Attorney General implies that 'business interests' were the basis of my application. The fact is that the principal ground for my application was that I was imprisoned for doing something that had not theretofore been prohibited, either by statute or rule of the courts.

Defends Jury Surveillance.

"Observation of a jury only became contempt of court when I engaged in it.

"I am imprisoned, not for having committed any crime defined by law, not for having violated any rule theretofore established by the court, but I caused a jury that was trying me for an alleged conspiracy against the government to be kept under surveillance. For this I was adjudged in contempt. No member of the jury was approached by the operatives in my employ, nor were they molested in any way, nor were they even conscious that they were being observed, and they so testified.

"I only did what I did because of the conviction that attempts would be made to influence the jury against me, and felt justified in so doing because of the knowledge that the same identical practice had been in-

STRESSES SHEARER CASE

The Senator for Separate Inquiry to Keep That Issue Clear.

SURE OF DEVELOPMENTS

TO CALL WAKEMAN TODAY

Senate Committee Will Ask Him About the Employment of Geneva Propagandist.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and sponsor of the resolution for the Senate inquiry into the alleged activities of William B. Shearer in relation to the Geneva disarmament conference of 1927, announced tonight that he is ready to sponsor a second resolution for an investigation of lobbying activities in Congress in 1928 in connection with the passage of the Jones-White merchant marine act.

The announcement was the result of disclosures before the subcommittee of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee investigating the Shearer case that shipbuilding companies had contributed to a fund of $148,000 for the operation of a merchant marine lobby.

A statement of the expenses of this lobby submitted to the committee yesterday by Clinton L. Bardo, president of the New York Shipbuilding Company, may prove to be the foundation of the inquiry. The full statement of these expenses was published in yesterday's NEW YORK TIMES.

Senator Borah's Announcement.

"I do not wish the two matters to be confused," Senator Borah said. "I am anxious that nothing will be developed that will cloud the main issue, which is an investigation whether there were attempts at Geneva by representatives of private interests in the United States to interfere with that international conference and destroy its purpose.

"For that reason, if it should prove necessary I am ready to introduce a second resolution for an investigation of lobbying activities in Washington, including the expenditure of funds here in connection with the Merchant Marine act a year ago. I am sure quite a bit could be developed.

"The two matters are entirely separate and distinct. One concerns alleged attempts to interfere with an international conference. The other is purely internal and I do not desire to have the two confused or the main purpose of the present investigation clouded."

To Examine Expense Account.

According to present plans, the Senate subcommittee, which is to resume the Shearer inquiry tomorrow morning, will also delve into the expenditures relating to the merchant marine lobby. The committee's present plan, it is understood, is to examine each of the scores of items on the expense account of the New York Shipbuilding Company in an effort to learn exactly the purpose for each expenditure.

Items in the expense statement included one of $36,663, advanced to L. R. Wilder, president of the Transoceanic Company, which was then promoting a project for four-day Atlantic liners, and one of $24,069 for hotels.

The statement showed the New York Shipbuilding Company, which was backing the Transoceanic plan, had shouldered $102,000 of the cost of the merchant marine lobby's activities and that the balance of $41,000 had been covered by contributions from the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, the Sun Shipbuilding Company, the General Electric Company, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Babcock & Wilcox and the Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation.

Wakeman Witness Today.

All the companies mentioned either build ships or manufacture marine equipment requiring inspection, but the only testimony as to the reason for the contributions was that made on Saturday by Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company, who testified he had approved his company's contribution in the hope of getting a ship contract, should the project develop, or contracts for furnishing equipment.

When the inquiry is resumed tomorrow morning A. W. Wakeman, vice president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation in charge of its Fore River operations at Quincy, Mass., is to be the first witness.

It is also understood the committee is ready to summon both from at home and abroad newspaper correspondents who reported the 1927 Geneva conference in the hope of learning to what extent Mr. Shearer attempted to influence the tone of the reports sent to the United States from the conference.

Testimony thus far adduced in the inquiry showed that Mr. Wakeman took part in a fifteen-minute conference of representatives of his company, the New York Shipbuilding Company, and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company in New York City on March 17, 1927, at which Mr. Shearer was employed to represent the companies at the Geneva conferences.

Two other witnesses called are Homer L. Ferguson, president, and Frederick P. Palen, vice president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

To Call Admiral Jones.

Mr. Palen was the representative of his company at the March 17 conference and Clinton L. Bardo, president of the New York Shipbuilding Company, in his testimony, said Mr. Palen had suggested that Mr. Shearer's fee for his work at Geneva should be $25,000.

It is understood that the committee will call Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, a close adviser of President Hoover in the naval armament reduction conversations with Great Britain and the naval member of the American delegation at the 1927 Geneva conference, as the first of the naval officers who are expected to be summoned to tell what they know of Mr. Shearer's activities at Geneva.

Members of the American colony at Geneva also are to be asked to come here to testify, it is understood, as to what they know of Mr. Shearer's activities as well as the scale of his establishment and entertainments there.

Just when Mr. Shearer will be called, if he is to be called at all, has not been indicated.

Wants Canal Lobby Inquiry.

ALBANY, Sept. 22 (AP).—Colonel E. C. Carrington, chairman of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways Association, said tonight he would ask that the scope of the Senate investigation into the activities of William B. Shearer be extended to include what Mr. Carrington said was a "paid lobby" maintained by advocates of the St. Lawrence River canal route.

Mr. Carrington said expenses of the alleged lobby were partly defrayed by appropriations made by Western States.

Havana Post Points to Ambassador-Designate's Experience With Latin Americans in Mexico.

HAVANA, Sept. 22 (AP).—The Havana English language newspaper, Havana Post, expresses editorially gratification today over the recent designation of Harry F. Guggenheim as United States Ambassador to Cuba.

"Several years of business experience in Mexico brought Mr. Guggenheim in close personal touch with Spanish-American people and he will come to Havana with a first-hand knowledge of Latin Americans which should be of great aid to him in his diplomatic work," The Post said.

"Mr. Guggenheim's prestige as a member of a wealthy and powerful family, and his own practical experience may be counted upon to counterbalance his lack of diplomatic training. The fact that his name was promptly approved by the Cuban Government when suggested as Ambassador to Havana insures him an auspicious commencement of labors."

The Ambassador-designate is viewed by The Post as a man possessing all potentialities of becoming a factor in the advancement of aviation in Cuba.

Speaking of Cuban views that he will have some bearing on the United States tariff issue, The Post said:

"The Cuban press has shown a tendency to hail Mr. Guggenheim's appointment as a harbinger of better economic conditions for Cuba, basing that view on the assumption that he will use his influence in reversing the drift of opinion in the American Congress toward increasing tariffs on sugar. We cannot concur in that view, as an Ambassador's diplomatic duties do not merge into the labors for commercial attachés.

"It is possible that Mr. Guggenheim, because of his knowledge of Spanish America and the Latin-American mind, may be able to cast a more perceptive eye on actual economic conditions in Cuba than have some of his predecessors; but we cannot but doubt that his office will have a definite effect upon the making of tariff schedules, which are wholly within the jurisdiction of the Congress and fundamentally to be treated by that body alone."

UNTERMYER WANTS SHERMAN ACT ENDED

Says It Has Failed to Curb Illegal Activities of Big Business Combinations.

FOR TRADE BOARD CONTROL

Proposes Licensing of Members of Associations Who Do Foreign or Interstate Commerce.

Declaring that the Sherman anti-trust law had failed to curb the illegal activities of huge business combinations, Samuel Untermyer last night urged that it be repealed and that broad powers of control over corporations and associations engaged in foreign and interstate commerce be vested in the Federal Trade Commission.

Mr. Untermyer's plea for repeal of the anti-trust law and similar restrictive legislation was voiced in a radio address broadcast over the blue network from station WJZ during the Collier hour. He asserted that the Sherman act had failed to accomplish the intended result because of the powerless state to which it had been reduced by acts of the judicial and executive branches of the Federal Government.

Favors Trade Board Control.

The best way to curb improper activities of "big business" without impairing its legitimate functions, Mr. Untermyer declared, would be to give the Federal Trade Commission the broadest powers over business combinations and to require them to obtain a license from the commission before engaging in either foreign or interstate commerce.

"The courts, Congress and the executive departments of the government have participated," he said, "with equal effectiveness in the blows that were struck at the anti-trust laws until they have been reduced to their present pitiable plight, from which they can never hope to be rescued. The result is accomplished without the aid of a spoken word or the scratch of a pen.

"These combinations have reached a stage where we could no longer, if we would, retrace our steps and put new life into these laws. Effective legislation and a courageous and impartial enforcement of the law against the thousands of offenders, involving the most powerful men in the industrial and financial life of the nation and affecting millions of investors and thousands of millions of dollars, would plunge us into a veritable débâcle that would shake the very foundations of our prosperity."

Prohibition enforcement, Mr. Untermyer declared, would be "child's play" as compared to enforcement of the Sherman act. He urged commission regulation as the only feasible alternative.

Suggests Regulatory Measures.

Mr. Untermyer gave the following as a "bare outline" of an effective plan for regulation:

"Give the Federal Trade Commission jurisdiction over all corporations engaged in interstate and foreign commerce.

"Require all such corporations to be licensed by the commission before they can engage in such commerce.

"Give the commission free access to the books of account of such corporations and the right of inquiry into all their transactions.

"Give the commission jurisdiction over all so-called 'institutes' and 'trade associations' any of whose members are engaged in interstate or foreign commerce and who directly or by indirection are concerned in price-fixing, restriction of production or like practices, and require such associations to take out licenses, and its activities to be subjected to supervision and visitation.

"All investment trusts that use the mails, telephone and telegraph in interstate commerce for the purpose of securing subscriptions to capital or of distributing reports upon corporations engaged in such commerce to be subject to like supervision and visitation.

"Wherever it appears that any corporation subject to the jurisdiction of the commission is engaged in price-fixing or restriction of output, its activities and the reasonableness of its agreements and restrictions in those respects to be subject to the control and order of the commission so as to prevent the oppression of the public or of its competitors."

poena as is customary in these cases.

Very respectfully yours,
C. W. BERRY, Controller.

Mr. Berry's findings regarding the reasonableness of the fee will later be submitted to Mayor Walker and the Board of Estimate, it was said yesterday.

Discarded Untermyer Defense.

Mr. Craig was retained by the city as special counsel in the fare case after the litigation had got under way in the Federal statutory court in March, 1928. In his first brief he discarded law points stressed by Samuel Untermyer when the latter was acting as special counsel for both the city and the commission. The United States Supreme Court decision, which sent the case back to the State courts, rested chiefly upon these points.

In his brief Mr. Untermyer denied the jurisdiction of the court and asserted that the Interborough's action had been prematurely brought. Upon his initial appearance in the case Mr. Craig declared that he had no objection to the jurisdiction. He discarded the prematurity of action defense, upon which the highest Federal court was later to decide the case in favor of the city, and accepted jurisdiction, filing a counter-claim.

Mr. Craig's service included appearances and arguments in the Federal statutory court, two arguments before the United States Supreme Court in Washington and a subsequent appearance before the Circuit Court of Appeals in this city. His connection with the litigation ended when the case was formally dismissed from the Federal jurisdiction early this Summer. Throughout the Federal phase of the litigation counsel who followed the case commented upon the fact that Mr. Craig's stand on the issues was radically opposed to that taken by Mr. Untermyer.

In a statement issued immediately after the Supreme Court decision Mr. Craig insisted that the case had been decided on the merits and that the court had decided that the five-cent fare contracts between the city and the Interborough were inviolate. This is the question which is now pending in the State tribunals.

He Has Had Two $25,000 Fees.

Since leaving the Controller's office, where he gave the city all his time at an annual salary of $25,000, Mr. Craig has received two fees of $25,000 each for services as special counsel. One was paid in connection with his successful defense of the budget provision for carrying short-term subway construction bonds. The other was paid for his unsuccessful defense of the proposed referendum on the five-cent fare several years ago. In August, 1928, $40,000 was set aside by the Board of Estimate for the use of the Corporation Counsel, the late George P. Nicholson, to meet legal fees in connection with the seven-cent fare case.

Contrasted with Mr. Craig's $350,000 bill are the payments made to special counsel by the Interborough during Federal litigation. Besides the $75,000 paid to Mr. Hughes the company paid $50,000 to Harry L. Butler, well-known utilities lawyer of Minneapolis, Minn.; $25,000 to George W. Wickersham, $5,000 to William G. Guthrie and $120,000 to William L. Ransom, who was its special counsel from start to finish in the Federal tribunals. Other lawyers retained by the company received relatively small fees. Mr. Craig's claim is more than one-third greater than the combined fees paid by the Interborough to its entire array of counsel.

Mayor Walker, it is understood, not only objected to Mr. Craig's suggested fee of $350,000, on the ground that it was far too large, but urged the city's special counsel to remember that he was a former public official and performed his services in the field of general public welfare.

Zoo Polar Bear Shivers at Thought of Winter As He Turns a Cold Shoulder on Tradition

The advent of Winter leaves the Bronx Zoo's polar bear cold. That is not so much a pun as a description of a state of mind—and, indeed, a state of health. For Head Keeper Toomey reported yesterday that throughout the past week—ever since the sharp snap began—Silver King has been spiritually very low. He has also been sneezing and coughing.

Silver King's trouble, Mr. Toomey said, is that he combines a personal hatred of the cold with the legendary tribal affection for it. He is aware that nothing should please him better than a good blizzard, when he could raise his head into the wind and be picturesque; he is aware, also, that there is nothing he dislikes more.

Each September, when the first cold wave appears, Silver King plans to be hardy. He makes new resolutions and he decides that he will try to act like a real polar bear. But by the end of the first week he begins sneezing, and toward the close of the second he abandons tradition for the sake of comfort and retires to the comparative warmth of his cavern.

Then, when the first few flakes of snow fall, he is forced out. At this time the cameramen appear to photograph him against the wintry background. Silver King is pulled from his warm pavilion and is made to stand, shivering, in the cold. Last year, when the first snow appeared, he felt twinges of pneumonia. Dying for Silver King is a pleasure compared with freezing for the New York newspapers. Silver King does not like his work.

Mr. Toomey conceded that the bear is by nature somewhat indolent. During the Summer he spends much of his time sleeping in the sun; it is warm then and he has the excuse that heat always affects a Northern bear. He must grade his naps, however, for if he slumbers too long he will wake to find that the keepers have surrounded him with ice. It is kindly meant but he just does not like it.

He would like to sleep in the Winter, too, Mr. Toomey said, but there is that annoying tradition that a polar bear is always in a gay mood when it is cold. But he is usually shivering so much that he could not sleep anyway.

HOOVER WILL URGE ILLINOIS WATERWAY

He is Expected to Ask Congress to Provide for Completion of Lakes-to-Gulf Route.

ENGINEERS NOW ON SURVEY

Army Experts Are Preparing to Report on Chicago-New Orleans and Minneapolis Projects.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—A Washington dispatch to The Chicago Tribune states that President Hoover will ask Congress at the December session to provide for the completion of the remaining link in the Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway and also to authorize improvement of the Upper Mississippi as far as Minneapolis and St. Paul.

"The War Department engineers, at the direction of the President," the dispatch states, "are now working on a report on both these projects, which will be sent to the White House by the time Mr. Hoover begins writing his annual message to Congress in November.

"In this annual report to Congress on the state of the Union the President will outline the system of great trunk waterways he proposes for augmentation of transportation facilities and will designate the Lakes-to-the-Gulf channel and the Upper Mississippi improvement as the part of the program which should be undertaken first.

"The army engineers planning the Chicago-New Orleans project contemplate a channel, requiring a diversion of Lake Michigan water of not less than 8,000 cubic feet per second eventually, compared with the 8,500 cubic feet now withdrawn for Chicago sanitation.

"The Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway has never been specifically authorized by Congress. The creation of a deep-draft channel in the Mississippi between the mouth of the Illinois River and the Gulf has been authorized and established, and the deepening of the Illinois River from Utica to the mouth has been authorized. But Congress never has formally recognized the links between Chicago and Utica constructed by the Chicago Sanitary District and the State of Illinois as part of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway.

"The repair of this omission is the object of the legislation the President will recommend. Under the authority sought the Federal Government would carry the waterway to completion. To this end the administration favors appropriation of sufficient funds to complete the link between Lockport and Utica upon the construction of which the State of Illinois has expended nearly $20,000,000."

His term would have been completed in December.

tion of the young men the detectives reported the death as accidental. Evans and Greening were directed to appear this morning in homicide court to tell the circumstances of Weir's death to a magistrate.

Patrolman Ruppel in filling in the report card at the East Fifty-first Street station said that Mr. Weir "was either pushed or fell" from the window. This, it was explained, was the routine way of describing a death caused by a plunge from a window pending the investigation of the detectives. The detectives said that Weir either leaped or lost his balance.

Youth Independently Wealthy.

Mr. Weir, who was 26 years old, was independently wealthy. He had had a bachelor suite in the apartment house for two and a half years, taking it shortly after he was graduated with the class of '28 from the Naval Academy. He owned the yacht Ceylon. He had no business, but occasionally speculated in the stock market.

He was a son of Mrs. Henderson Weir of Philadelphia. She collapsed when told of his death yesterday. He was active socially in Philadelphia and was a member of the Wilmington (Del.) Country Club.

Mr. Weir was best man when his brother, Campbell Weir, a graduate of West Point in 1924, married Miss Esther Driver du Pont in December, 1927.

The body of Mr. Weir was taken to the Morgue pending the arrival of the brother, who will take the body to Wilmington for burial.

TWO KILLED AS AUTO HITS POLE IN QUEENS

Three Others Are Injured When Driver Loses Control of His Car in Flushing.

FATHER OF 6 DIES IN BRONX

Struck on Alighting From a Trolley by Truck Which Keeps On—Driver Is Arrested.

Two persons were killed and three others badly injured yesterday when a car which the police say was driven by Laurence Lowe, 35 years old, of 170-44 118th Avenue, Jamaica, Queens, crashed into an electric light pole on Kissena Boulevard, near North Hempstead Turnpike, Flushing, Queens. The casualties were as follows:

Dead.

KELLY, JAMES, 52 years old, of 12 Osgood Place, Flushing.
KELLY, EVELYN, 22, his daughter.

Injured.

KELLY, Mrs. ELIZABETH, 50, fractured skull.

According to police, Lowe apparently lost control of his machine. Kelly was killed by the impact and the four other occupants in the vehicle were pinned under the car as the machine overturned. They were rushed to the Flushing Hospital, where Miss Kelly died. Her mother's condition is described as critical.

Harry J. Barry, 35, of 1,272 Nelson Avenue, the Bronx, was fatally injured by a truck about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon as he alighted from an Ogden Avenue trolley car at 169th Street. Barry had started across the street in front of the car when he was struck by the truck, which had passed the street car on the wrong side, according to the police.

The truck did not stop, and Patrolman Ford of the Highbridge police station, commandeering an automobile, halted the vehicle after a chase of two blocks. The driver, Willis Smith, a negro, of 254 West 154th Street, denied knowing that he had hit any one. He said he had passed the car on the left because several automobiles had blocked his passage on the right, the police said. He was locked in the Highbridge station on a technical charge of homicide.

Barry, who was the father of six children, died in the Morrisania City Hospital at 8 P. M.

FIVE HURT IN 3-CAR SMASH.

Three Nurses Are Among Victims of Pennsylvania Collision.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 22 (AP).—Three student nurses, Jean Worthington of Sayre, Edna Danniels of Lykens and Geraldine Grube of Allentown, were among several persons injured early today when three motor cars figured in a collision on the Emaus Pike, at Alton Park. The other injured are Lawrence Lawler of Waverly, N. Y., and Miss Nellie Ritter of Allentown.

Lawler and Miss Daniels were taken to hospitals. The others suffered but slight injuries.

The nurses occupied the car with Lawler, Clarence Bough of Sayre and Oscar Schule of Emaus, the last being the driver.

Schule's car sideswiped a light truck driven by Paul Guichet of Emaus. The car swerved and struck a sedan driven by Paul Klinger of Allentown.

SIX DIE AS TRAIN HITS CAR.

Family of Five and Roomer in Their Home Killed at Monroe, Mich.

MONROE, Mich., Sept. 22 (AP).—A father and mother and their three children and a roomer in their home were killed at 9 o'clock tonight in a collision between an automobile and a Michigan Central passenger train at a grade crossing a mile south of here.

The dead are: Leo Colbert, 40, employed in a paper mill here; Mrs. Colbert, the three small Colbert children and Gus de Boodt, 30, roomer in the Colbert home, also a paper mill employe.

Their automobile was struck by a Michigan Central Cincinnati-Detroit passenger train.

TWO FISHERMEN DROWN.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 22.—Two men were drowned and two were rescued after a dory which they have been in the habit of hiring for Sunday fishing trips capsized three miles off Swampscott today, spilling all into the water.

John Cleary and Wellington MacEachern were drowned, while Earl Ettinger and Carl L. Carlson were rescued by Walter L. Kehoe, a Swampscott lobsterman, who maneuvred his power boat in a rough sea to reach them.

Ettinger said that the dory struck something, presumably a fisherman's net keg, with enough force to throw them all off balance and upset the craft.

I. R. T. FARE DRIVE PLANNED THIS WEEK

Quackenbush and Ransom to Consult Hughes Regarding the Next Move.

AN APPEAL IS EXPECTED

Likely to Attack Frankenthaler Ruling and to Seek Rehearing on Elevated Decision.

Counsel for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, headed by Charles Evans Hughes, who returned from Europe on Saturday, will confer early this week over the next moves to be made in the company's court fight for a higher fare on subway and elevated lines, it was learned yesterday. James L. Quackenbush, general counsel for the company, and William L. Ransom of special counsel, will go over the situation with Mr. Hughes.

It is expected that the company will appeal Supreme Court Justice Frankenthaler's recent order severing the issues in the suits now pending in the State Court and requiring a trial of the question of validity of the five-cent fare contracts before taking up the company's claim of confiscation. Another expected move is a request for a rehearing by the Transit Commission, which recently dismissed the company's separate application for a ten-cent fare on the elevated lines. A denial is regarded as certain, paving the way for recourse to the Appellate Division.

The trial of the pending seven-cent fare suits is set for Oct. 7. The company, as part of its legal strategy, may appeal Justice Frankenthaler's severance order in an effort to get before the Appellate Division with its ten-cent fare case before the seven-cent fare suits reach that court. The reason for such a move would be the company's belief that the case of the elevated lines provides a better means of getting a favorable ruling on its contention that the Transit Commission has the power to alter a fare named in a contract with the city.

At the annual meeting of I. R. T. stockholders on Wednesday it is expected that minority groups will again ask the management's position on joining with the city and the B. M. T. in unification conferences. It is certain that they will be told that this question must be held in abeyance pending the outcome of the higher fare litigation.

Unless the Transit Commission nominates a "public director" before Wednesday to succeed Herman A. Metz it is expected that the stockholders will choose him for another three-year term. It is understood that the commission will make no nominations and that Mr. Metz will be re-elected. It has been pointed out in transit circles that although Mr. Metz was criticized by the commission for alleged failure to voice its five-cent-fare policy on the I. R. T. board his subsequent efforts to get the company to "sit in" on unification conferences restored him to the commission's good graces. Mayor Walker, it is said, is disinclined to see Mr. Metz turned down, believing that his cooperation can be had in the future, despite the fact that he recently made statements indicating that he favored a higher fare on Interborough lines.

Another problem to be dealt with by the company's legal staff is the suit of Nathan L. Amster, a minority stockholder of the elevated lines, asking for payment of back dividends. No answer has yet been filed, but the company has announced that it expects soon to pay $8,000,000 of these deferred dividends.

TALLEST BUILDING JOB LET.

Starrett Brothers to Erect the 80-Story Empire State.

The contract for the construction of the new $40,000,000 Empire State Building, the highest building in the world, which will rise on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, has been let to Starrett Brothers, Inc. William A. Starrett, a member of the construction firm, announced yesterday at his home in Madison, N. J., that the contract was signed last Friday. Former Governor Alfred E. Smith heads the company which was organized to finance the new building.

The directors include:

LOUIS G. KAUFMAN, president of the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company.
ELLIS P. EARLE, president of the Nipissing Mines Company.
PIERRE S. DU PONT, chairman of the board of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company.
Colonel MICHAEL FRIEDSAM, president of B. Altman & Co.
AUGUST HECKSCHER, capitalist and philanthropist.

The new building will rise nearly 1,000 feet, or about the equivalent of five city blocks. It will be about 200 feet higher than the Woolworth Building, now the highest in the world. It will rise fifteen stories on the street before there is a setback, and the great height of eighty stories will be reached by a tower.

Demolition of the Waldorf will begin at once.

HOSPITAL SURVEY MADE.

1,678 Beds Reported Needed for City's Tuberculosis Cases.

Accommodations in hospitals and sanatoria for tuberculous patients in New York City are less than the required number by 1,678 beds, Harry L. Hopkins, director of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association, announced yesterday after a survey. Mr. Hopkins bases his figures on the generally accepted standard that there should be one bed for each annual death from the disease.

There are fewer accommodations today than there were in 1923, Mr. Hopkins said, the total for the city being 3,650, as against 4,248 six years ago. Deaths reported last year were 5,328. The total of annual deaths, Mr. Hopkins said, has decreased since 1923, but the number of new cases has increased. While this indicated an advance in general control of the disease, Mr. Hopkins pointed out, it also indicated that increased hospitalization was an imperative need.

Mr. Hopkins urged that 900 additional beds be provided as quickly as possible. He suggests that 300 additional beds be provided through the rebuilding of the municipal sanatorium at Otisville; 300 at Kings County Hospital; 100 at Queensboro Hospital; eighty at Harlem Hospital and 120 at Riverside Hospital.

PROPOSES CONFERENCE ON FLOOD CONTROL

Chairman Reid Would Obtain Federal and State Cooperation in Mississippi Plan.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP).—A conference to discuss a broad policy of flood control and waterway development in which the Federal Government would cooperate with the States was proposed today by Chairman Reid of the House Flood Control Committee.

Mr. Reid also sharply criticized the manner in which the Mississippi flood control act is being carried out and urged the adoption of an amendment which he said would necessitate the abandonment of the "fuse-plug" levees or the acquisition by the government of the land and property they would subject to floods.

The conference proposed would discuss a development plan which would "secure united action by the Federal Government, the States and the local interests" in the work of controlling floods and developing waterways.

Mr. Reid made the proposal in discussing the surveys of tributaries of the Mississippi under the flood control act, and said that if public sentiment favored such a conference he would join with others in calling it and taking part in the deliberations.

"Until those surveys are completed and the flood control problems on the tributaries and their effect upon the main river are thoroughly considered and fitted into a comprehensive and correlated program," he said, "the solution of the problem will not have been reached.

"Congress should outline and authorize," he continued, "a project linking the Atlantic Ocean on the north with the Gulf of Mexico on the south, with the Ohio and the Missouri Rivers forming the east and west trunk lines. Of course, no waterway system will ever be effective unless there is first control of the floods on the rivers to be utilized for commerce."

He suggested that a bill be drafted for adoption in each State to create a State flood control and waterways commission, and empower it to cooperate with other States and the Federal Government.

5,000 SEE STONE LAID FOR BIALYSTOKER HOME

Featured by a parade of 5,000 persons, ceremonies in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the Bialystoker Home for the Aged at 228 East Broadway were held yesterday afternoon and evening in front of the projected building. Donations made at the meeting toward the $500,000 fund necessary for the building amounted to $110,000. With $55,000 pledged previously, this left $345,000 to be raised by the committee.

The Jewish population of the district made the day a holiday and about 25,000 men and women lined the streets to watch the paraders. These carried flags and banners with Jewish inscriptions and marched through Canal, Grand and other Streets.

Mayor Walker and Lieut. Gov. Lehman could not be present, but they sent messages lauding the purposes of the new institutions and wishing it success. Fire Commissioner Dorman, Representative Samuel Dickstein and Ralph Wein, head of the committee to erect the building, addressed the meeting.

"Too many Jews are spending their final years in city institutions and are pleading to be allowed to die among members of their own race," Mr. Wein said in explaining the purposes of the home. "We must help those unfortunates. Within six months our institutions will be completed and those friendless aged men's and women's dreams will be fulfilled when our doors will be wide open for them."

GIRL, 6, FALLS TO DEATH.

A 6-year-old girl and a 45-year-old man were killed instantly by falls early last evening. The girl, Nellie Layter, fell from the fifth floor of 206 East Tenth Street, where she lived, almost at the feet of her father, who was sitting on the front steps. She had leaned too far out of the window to watch children playing in the street.

An hour earlier, at 5:30 o'clock, Jack Degnen of 1,921 Morris Avenue, the Bronx, slipped over the railing of the stairway at 1,915 Walton Avenue, the Bronx, and fell five floors to the basement. Owen Patterson of 12 East 177th Street, the Bronx, who was with him, ran to Degnen but found him dead. Degnen, a foreman for the Fuller Construction Company, and Patterson, employed by the same firm, had called to see a friend at the Walton Avenue address.

SEIZED AFTER FATAL FIGHT.

Brooklyn Youth Accused of Striking Blow That Killed Carpenter.

Thomas O'Leary, 19 years old, of 826 Fiftieth Street, Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday on a charge of homicide resulting from the death, on Sept. 18, of Joseph Mjonli, a carpenter of 5,310 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn.

He is charged by the police with having struck Mjonli during an altercation on Sept. 15 at Fifty-third Street and Eighth Avenue. Mjonli was knocked to the sidewalk and his skull was fractured. Edward Halvarsen, an undertaker of 5,312 Eighth Avenue, witnessed the fight and told police that after Mjonli was knocked down his assailant left the man lying on the sidewalk and walked away. Halvarsen called an ambulance and Mjonli was removed to the Kings County Hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness.

CONTINUE THE TREATMENT!

YOUTHFULNESS is not merely a matter of looks or style of clothes. You are no younger than your digestive tract. It contains innumerable bacteria, some harmless, others definitely putrefactive.

By drinking milk cultures containing Bacillus Acidophilus, these poison-forming germs can be combated. The larger the number of Bacillus Acidophilus in the intestine, the fewer putrefactive bacteria will be present and the less likely it is that intestinal toxemia will occur.

But to obtain beneficial results you should drink Acidophilus Milk three times a day for a month either with meals or between. It should be continued thereafter at least twice a day in order to maintain the Bacillus Acidophilus in the intestines. For the colony of health germs grows slowly. When ordering, be sure to ask for Lederle's. It is accurately prepared with the true type of organism.

Facing Uphill Fight, He Will Launch His Real Assault in Coming Week.

Predict a 500,000 Plurality for Walker — Hold Advantage of Half Million in Enrolment.

By JAMES A. HAGERTY.

With the city campaign now well under way after the formal nomination of party candidates at last Tuesday's primary election, Representative F. H. La Guardia, Republican nominee for Mayor, will begin this week his real assault on the Tammany citadel, the strength of which seemingly has been impaired but little by his preliminary skirmishing.

That Mr. La Guardia faces an uphill fight is admitted by his supporters. Tammany, on the situation as it is at present, is confident of the re-election of Mayor Walker and his associates on the city ticket and expects the re-election of the four Democratic Borough Presidents of Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn and Richmond.

Expects 500,000 Plurality.

It expects Mayor Walker to have a plurality of at least 500,000 and the more optimistic of the Democratic leaders talk privately of the possibility of a record plurality approaching 600,000, if the vote is not too light. With a large plurality for their city ticket expected, the Democratic leaders expect to elect virtually every candidate for county office in the entire city, nearly all the judicial candidates and all but a few of the candidates for the Assembly and the Board of Aldermen.

The Republican leaders have little expectation of victory. Some of them hope that Mr. La Guardia may be elected and say that there is a chance of victory for him if the majority of the so-called "better element" of the party, many of whom at present have not accepted Mr. La Guardia, decide to support him. Despite the repeated assertion of the Republican candidate that there is no party disaffection and his charge that such reports are due to Tammany propaganda, there is a great deal of it. Almost any Republican leader with a residential district of the so-called better class in his territory will admit it privately, and much of the effort of the party leaders during the rest of the campaign will be to get these disaffected Republican voters back.

Neither of the other two candidates for Mayor, Norman Thomas, the Socialist nominee and former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, who has announced that he will run as the candidate of the Square Deal party, seems at present to have any chance of election, but either may affect the result. The Socialist vote in New York City has been too small in recent years to give any promise of victory.

Enright Candidacy a Mystery.

The candidacy of Mr. Enright, not yet a legal nominee, is something of a mystery. Mr. Enright has announced that he intends to make an issue of the failure of the police and the District Attorney to bring to justice the murderer of Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, and his speaking campaign, it appears, will be directed against Mayor Walker and Tammany. The votes he may get, in the opinion of most observers of politics, will largely be at the expense of La Guardia, and the greater the vote for Enright the more the chance of Republican victory will wane. It long has been accepted as a truism in New York City politics that Tammany is almost certain to win against a divided opposition.

Enrolment to Overcome.

The difficulty of Mr. La Guardia's task is evident from the party enrolment figures. At the last enrolment preceding the 1928 Presidential election there were in the city 1,265,423 enrolled Democrats, 601,719 enrolled Republicans, 14,457 enrolled Socialists and 146,906 persons who failed to enroll in any party. This is an excess of 664,704 enrolled Democrats over the enrolled Republicans. Allowing that some small business men may enroll in the dominant local party for business reasons and admitting—though this seems doubtful this year—that Mr. La Guardia will receive the votes of most of the Independents, there is a natural Democratic plurality of more than half a million which the Republican nominee must overcome to win.

So far in his speeches, with the exception of his talk at the unofficial city convention which designated him and his speech accepting the nomination, Mr. La Guardia has spoken only to Republican clubs and groups of citizens of Italian birth or descent, with a few speeches to negroes.

He has had good attendance and enthusiastic receptions at these meetings, but they have not touched, except in a very slight degree, the class of Republican voters he must have to stand a chance of victory. It is understood that his future speeches will be directed in part to this class of Republicans, many of whom are not native New Yorkers, but have moved into the city from up-State, New England, the Middle West and Far West and class themselves as Republicans. To many Republicans of this type Mr. La Guardia does not seem a Republican and his failure to support President Coolidge for election in 1924 and his candidacy for Congress on the Socialist ticket weigh heavily against him with this group.

Lacks Dry Support.

Mr. La Guardia at present lacks the support of some of the Republican drys. Although in the minority in the party in this city, the number of Republican believers in prohibition is considerable and the damage done to Mr. La Guardia's candidacy by the emphasis placed on the closing of the speakeasies by William M. Bennett, his primary opponent, has not been altogether repaired by his overwhelming victory or Mr. Bennett's announcement that he will support the Republican nominee.

His one chance of election, in the opinion of some of the more important Republican leaders, lies in his success in raising the "graft" issue against Tammany. For that reason the "bill of particulars" he has promised in his earlier speeches is awaited with interest. He has a reputation as a hard fighter, and his supporters believe that he again will be able to achieve the seemingly impossible and win a victory in what seemed to be an almost certain losing fight.

At present Mr. La Guardia seems to be strong among the rank and file of the Republican organization workers in Manhattan, not so strong in Brooklyn and still less strong in Richmond. The Bronx is so heavily Democratic that all he can do is to cut into the Democratic vote there, and the mixed situation in Queens is not altogether in his favor.

Walker Drive Starts Later.

The Tammany speaking campaign will not start until the week of Oct. 14, following the registration period, when Mayor Walker, Controller Berry and Aldermanic President McKee will swing into action, but the Tammany machine is already functioning. Former Governor Smith, who will aid the Democratic campaign, will not get into action until after that. It is probable, according to present plans, that Mr. Smith will make about three speeches, one each in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx.

Although it expects almost as easy a victory as against Frank D. Waterman, fusion candidate for Mayor in 1925, and Henry H. Curran, the coalition candidate in 1921, Tammany is not taking any chances. Benjamin F. Schreiber, who has a record of never having lost one of the many campaigns he has directed, has been selected as campaign manager and the non-partisan committee for the re-election of Walker-Berry-McKee has been established with August Heckscher as chairman.

Mr. Schreiber and this committee intend to conduct a short but intensive campaign, but the real work of getting out the vote will be done, as customary, by Tammany and its allied Democratic organizations in the other boroughs.

Seek to Hold Italian Vote.

An Italian committee for Mayor Walker will be formed to offset the drift of Italian citizens to Mr. La Guardia, but this will be largely in the nature of window dressing at Tammany, and the other Democratic organizations already have started to hold as much of the Italian Democratic vote as possible in line.

Surveys made by Tammany Italian election district captains indicate that this effort will be partly successful. A recent report by an Italian election district captain in an Assembly district south of Fourteenth Street may be taken as typical. This election district captain, a member of a well-to-do family, made a careful canvass and his report is substantially as follows:

This election district, which is almost entirely Italian, has a normal Democratic plurality of about 600, with less than twenty normally Republican votes. The election district captain estimated that Mr. La Guardia would cut this 600 plurality to about 300, which means that 150 Italian voters are expected to shift and that La Guardia would then get about 25 per cent of the Italian Democratic vote in this particular district. The election district captain reported that he would be able to hold virtually every one of these Democratic votes for La Guardia for the rest of the Democratic ticket.

Leading members of Tammany said they expected to hold more of the Italian Democratic vote in other districts. There are many influential Italians in the Tammany organization and their aid has been enlisted in an effort to keep other Italians in line.

The situation in Queens has ceased to be much of a cause for worry to Mayor Walker's campaign managers. It is generally believed that Borough President George U. Harvey, who won the Republican nomination after a fight with the De Bragga organization, will be re-elected, but this is not believed to be particularly damaging to Mayor Walker. Walker-Harvey clubs are being organized throughout Queens, and the independent Democratic ticket to be backed by John J. Halleran, Commissioner of Public Works, with Mr. Harvey as its candidate for Borough President, will have on it Mayor Walker and his associates on the Democratic city ticket.

With Mr. Harvey depending upon Democratic support for re-election, there is reason to believe that he will not be too active in support of Mr. La Guardia, although he will speak with and for him at Republican meetings.

It is the general opinion that the majority of the Democratic county candidates, particularly Richard S. Newcombe, nominee for Surrogate; Peter J. McGarry, nominee for Register, and Samuel J. Durden, nominee for Sheriff, will be elected. Dana Wallace, Republican nominee for District Attorney, who formerly held that office, is believed to have an excellent chance against James T. Hallinan, Democratic nominee.

THOMAS DENOUNCES 'RACKETEER RULE'

At Notification Ceremony He Charges Citizens Must Pay for Every Service by City.

SEES 'FIXERS' IN COURTS

Assailing the Walker Administration as a "rule of racketeering" and terming the Republican-fusion program of Representative La Guardia no better, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Mayor, outlined yesterday at the notification ceremonies of his party at Town Hall his demands for civic betterment of the city.

Mr. Thomas charged that Mayor Walker had displayed an utter lack of a transit program and that instead of being a savior of the five-cent fare he had done everything he could to block the successful fight in the Supreme Court. Mr. Thomas called for unification of all transit lines into a city-owned system with new lines financed by assessing a fair share of the cost on the neighborhoods benefited.

He attributed the same lack of program to Mayor Walker on housing and cited the need for ridding the city of its slums, avowed the necessity for municipal housing with dwellings rented at cost. He criticized the Walker Administration for the manner in which the courts were administered, charging that "fixers" demanding fees cluttered the courts. This fee system, he declared, was not confined to the courts but extended throughout the City Government and through both major parties, so that if a citizen wanted anything he had to pay for it.

Attacks Political Favors.

Mr. Thomas went on to charge that underassessment of property was obtainable through political favoritism, and demanded a scientific assessment system and called for more economical expenditure of the city's funds. In denouncing the Walker Administration on each of these counts he put the Republican-fusion program in the same class, and in passing assailed Charles Evans Hughes. He referred to Mr. Hughes's endorsement of Representative La Guardia, and declared that Mr. Hughes had lost "the right to speak with the voice of conscience" because of his connection with the I. R. T. in pressing its higher fare suit.

Mr. Thomas prefaced his comparison of the Socialist program with those of the Democrats and the Republicans by asserting that while there were many evidences of prosperity there were shocking contrasts of poverty. In presenting his call for a municipal housing program he recited ironically how "an enthusiastic realtor" described a "darling apartment of fourteen rooms and six baths for $24,500 a year." The mass of the people of the city, said Mr. Thomas, had family incomes of less than $2,500 a year, and it was for them that a housing program should be developed.

Criticizes Housing Moves.

"Mayor Walker's puny and superficial plan for housing, which for some years he has trotted out annually for election purposes, has broken down by the admission of August Heckscher, who was, perhaps, the only sincere person who ever thought much of it," Mr. Thomas said. "But the housing board plan endorsed by Major La Guardia has done little better. It has, indeed, helped such magnificent cooperative ventures as the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' houses, which show what intelligence can do. It did not initiate these ventures, and of limited dividend companies which it was meant to stimulate only two have been started. Even if selfish capital would take a risk at the limited 6 per cent figure, apartments could not be provided at a rent which would eliminate slums. There is no way out but municipal housing under an expert commission, with houses rented at cost. The savings of the difference between 6 per cent and the 4½ per cent which a public authority like the Port Authority pays for money would go far to making municipal housing feasible."

Mr. Thomas asserted that New York City was far behind other municipalities of the country in parks and playgrounds and he called for a permanent city planning commission and a long-range budget for municipal improvements to meet this situation. The budget, he said, should be elastic enough to allow for expansion of building activities in dull times.

Lack of Transit Program.

"In speeches in the past week," he said, "I have pointed out Mayor Walker's utter lack of a transit program. Instead of being a savior of the five-cent fare he did everything he could by the appointment of Charles L. Craig as counsel in the fare case to impede the Untermyer fight for a five-cent fare. Major La Guardia has scarcely been more explicit. He was vague on the vital matter of financing new lines.

"We Socialists are committed to a unified subway system completely owned by the city and operated under a corporation representing the citizen-users of the system and the workers who keep it running. I have outlined such plan in some detail in previous speeches and shall go into it more fully during the campaign. We would finance this plan by issuing at least one-third of the cost of new subways against neighboring property to which, under the present plan, the city realizes 40 per cent of increased values of from 300 per cent to 1,000 per cent."

He charged that graft and inefficiency in the Department of Markets was "notorious" and that "partisan and ecclesiastical politics" pervaded the educational system. Turning to the courts he continued:

"To thousands of workers in New York, it will look like the millennium when in ordinary times and in times of strike they can get justice from the police and the magistrates' courts without paying for it through 'fixers.' Workers who cannot afford decent houses for themselves and their children pay untold millions directly and indirectly to politicians and their police and gangster allies. The city can also do something to help unemployment by a municipal unemployment bureau and by unremitting war on grafting private agencies as well as by pushing public improvements in dull times."

Urges City Reorganization.

Mr. Thomas asserted that a reorganization of the city government which would eliminate "political sinecures" would permit pay increases to other city employes. He charged that one district leader who had made his start "by discreet poisoning of his rival's horses in a certain business" and was "barely literate" had a highly-paid political office to which he devoted only a few minutes a day, while underpaid clerks did the work.

"The motto equally of Tammany and the Republican machine is, give nobody anything for nothing," he said. "There is scarcely anything that is not for sale, including judicial nominations. Of course, they don't call it that. They call it contributing to the campaign fund.

"Run a legal poolroom and you pay the police. Run an illegal speakeasy and you pay the police. Get a permit from the Building Bureau or somewhere else and, directly or indirectly, pay for it. If you go to court, hire a fixer. If you don't want trouble, pay the racketeers and their politician friends. That is the rule in New York as in almost every other American city."

In charging that political favoritism brought underassessment to the favored, Mr. Thomas quoted Joseph F. Day in a recent magazine article as saying that property in the heart of the financial district was assessed at from a quarter to a third of its value.

"What the favored landowner does not pay, the rest of us have to make up," said Mr. Thomas, calling for a scientific assessment system.

In making his attack on Mr. Hughes, the Socialist candidate repeated criticisms made in the past on the ground that Mr. Hughes, regardless of the niceties of legal ethics, had displayed marked inconsistency between his acts as counsel for the I. R. T. and as Governor when the first public service law was passed.

"I repeat," he said, "Mr. Hughes has lost the right to speak with the voice of conscience."

Algernon Lee, Socialist candidate for president of the Board of Aldermen, and Charles Solomon, candidate for controller, also spoke. They sounded a note similar to that struck by Mr. Thomas. They both cited the success of Socialist municipal government in Milwaukee and Reading, Pa., as examples of what could be done, and referred to the welcome accorded to the British Labor administration. Morris Hillquit, national chairman of the party, presided.

HALLERAN ANNOUNCES HE WILL BACK HARVEY

But Independents Will Endorse City Democratic Ticket—Will Run Borough Candidates.

John J. Halleran, Commissioner of Public Works in Queens and leader of the Independent Democrats there, announced yesterday that his faction would indorse Borough President Harvey and the city Democratic ticket and would name its own candidates for borough offices without consulting Mr. Harvey.

"The fact that we are fighting for the election of a Republican for Borough President does not in the least clash with our ideals as Democrats," said Mr. Halleran. "President Harvey, Mayor Walker, Controller Berry and Aldermanic President McKee meet the condition of a real record of public service. We do not know whether these candidates seek our support, but they are going to be given the endorsement whether they like it or not.

"The Independent Democratic ticket will be in keeping with the policies of its sponsors and will represent the Jeffersonian principles of the Democratic party, so long stifled in this borough. These principles are clean government, fearless independence and fair play."

Both major parties in Queens plan to open their speaking campaigns this week, it was said at their headquarters, although the complete schedule of addresses has not yet been completed. Mr. Harvey and his Democratic opponent, County Clerk Edward W. Cox, have taken brief vacations to rest up from their efforts in the primary campaigns and are ready for the election battle.

William D. Bosler, chairman of the Harvey Speakers' Bureau, announced that Representative La Guardia, Republican nominee for Mayor, had promised to devote at least seven days between now and election to campaigning in Queens. The dates set aside for him are Sept. 25 and 27, Oct. 3, 11, 17 and 22 and Nov. 1.

On each of these dates except Oct. 17 Representative La Guardia will spend the entire day in Queens, addressing luncheon and afternoon gatherings as well as evening mass meetings. On the 17th he will speak only in the evening. It is expected that he and Mr. Harvey will speak from the same platform on at least several of these occasions.

MANN TO FIGHT DELANY AS AN INDEPENDENT

George Hiram Mann, who was defeated in the recent primary election by Hubert T. Delany, a negro for the Republican nomination for Representative in the Twenty-first Congressional District, announced yesterday that he would run as an independent candidate in the general election against Delany and Joseph A. Gavagan, the Democratic nominee. Mr. Mann said his petitions as an independent candidate had been printed, would be circulated this week and filed before the time for filing petitions for independent nominations expired on Oct. 8.

"My primary contest cost just $227 and I never thought one could have so much fun and cause so much trouble for so small an amount of money," Mr. Mann said. "I hope to have three or four thousand signatures so that the Board of Elections may have no doubt about their legality."

Mr. Mann, whose single issue is the payment of back salary to the employes of the New York Navy Yard, said he had not decided whether or not he would support Representative La Guardia, Republican nominee for Mayor, but hoped that Mr. La Guardia would be elected because he then could run for his place in the Twentieth Congressional District if beaten in the Twenty-first.

Mr. Mann's home is in Brooklyn. The Twenty-first Congressional District is in Manhattan. Mr. Mann said he would run as the candidate of the Lincoln Ideal party.

300 HONOR J. E. EROS.

Dinner Held for Hebrew School Head on His 60th Birthday.

More than 300 persons attended the testimonial dinner given last evening for Joseph E. Eros, president of the National Hebrew School, 206 East Broadway, at the Level Club, 253 West Seventy-third Street. The occasion was his sixtieth birthday and the fortieth anniversary of his career as an educator.

After the dinner, which was given by Mr. Eros's friends, he received a gold watch, and those present also promised to raise funds to pay off a $30,000 mortgage against the National Hebrew School. The committee of arrangements was headed by Supreme Court Judge Albert Cohn and Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman. Both lauded Mr. Eros's work as an educator.

CITY DRYS TO PRESS FIGHT.

C. N. Howard Says Speakeasy Campaign Will Go on All Winter.

Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, in addresses yesterday in three different churches on Staten Island, announced that the associated dry forces would continue their campaign against speakeasies all Winter in New York regardless of the result of the primaries. He spoke at 11 A. M. at Huguenot Memorial Church, Huguenot Park; in the afternoon at Mariners' Harbor Baptist Church, and in the evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, West New Brighton. At Trinity Church he said:

"Mr. La Guardia is quoted in the press as saying that the result of the primary will 'teach Canon Chase to keep his nose out of politics.' In our judgment a prophet's nose has as much right in politics as a politician's mouth. Mr. La Guardia went furiously into politics, 'horse, foot and dragoon,' from daylight to midnight since the day of his designation and polled 62,000 votes out of a Republican enrolment of 600,000, an average of two votes for each speakeasy in New York!

"The dry candidate polled 22 per cent of the vote cast; La Guardia polled 10 per cent of the Republican registration. On that showing, he won't get even his 'nose' in the election.

"Since when is a minister not a citizen and responsible to God for the morals of the community? A minister has as good right as a patriotic American to support the Constitution as a professional politician has to, become a candidate for Mayor."

ECKENER DENIES PLAN FOR NEW WORLD FLIGHT

There Will Be No Second Trip This Year, He Says — Preparations for Arctic Voyage Proceed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 22.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, interviewed by the Bund, of Berne, said the report that he is planning another world flight in the Graf Zeppelin this year is not true.

The flight, he declared, would not be feasible for technical and meteorological reasons. Besides, he did not want to abuse American hospitality.

The plans for the North Pole flight to be made in May or June, 1930, are in the hands of the Aeronautic Company which chartered the Zeppelin. The flight will be divided into four stages, starting at Tromsoe, then via Fairbanks, Alaska, to the North Pole, where a stay of several days will be made for scientific researches. The ship will return over Siberia and will cover a total distance of about 17,000 miles in some three weeks with forty-five persons aboard.

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, who is attending the League of Nations sessions, will visit Friedrichshafen shortly to supervise the scientific section with which he is charged.

Dr. Eckener said he would probably not accompany the expedition.

TO AID STRANDED GIRLS.

Volunteers of America Plan Home as Ballington Booth Memorial.

A fifteen-story home for stranded girls, with accommodations for 400, is to be built by the Volunteers of America as a memorial to General and Mrs. Ballington Booth's fifty years of social service, according to plans announced yesterday. A fund of $2,000,000 will be sought to erect the building.

According to the announcement made yesterday, endorsements of the project have been received from President Hoover, Governor Roosevelt, former Governor Smith, former President Coolidge, Mayor Walker and many others.

"Thousands of girls who come to New York to work," the announcement explained, "find themselves bested because of inadequate educational preparation, lack of funds, sickness, undernourishment, unemployment and many other causes for which they may not be at all responsible. Soon they become stranded and face disaster. Without money, food, home, health and other necessities, it is not difficult to imagine the strain upon their physical and moral resources. At such a time their greatest need is friendship and a home."

BERRY WINS PRAISE ON CITY'S FINANCES

Heckscher Group to Re-elect Him Says Fiscal Position Is Soundest in History.

REFORM IN COLLECTIONS

Debt Margin Put at $450,000,000—Controller's Policy on Park Purchase Called Great Economy.

Credit for marked improvement in the administration of the city's Department of Finance was claimed for Controller Charles W. Berry in a statement issued yesterday by the committee for the re-election of Walker-Berry-McKee, of which August Heckscher is chairman. The statement listed some of the "outstanding features and constructive achievements" of General Berry's Administration as follows:

"The city at the present time, as a result of careful management and judicious planning of public improvements, is in the soundest financial condition in its entire history.

"Today it has a free margin of debt-incurring power of more than $450,000,000, one of the largest of all time.

"The sinking funds for the redemption of the city's long-term debt have a surplus of more than $36,000,000 over and above the accrued amortization requirements.

Position Called Splendid.

"The city is in the splendid position of having provided in its tax budgets for every dollar of taxes heretofore levied which either have been canceled or are deemed uncollectible. In this respect the city of New York is an outstanding example to every other city in the United States.

"Property owners for the first time in the city's history are receiving their bills for taxes, assessments and water rents by mail with self-addressed return envelopes for the payment of their obligations by check or money order. Installation of this system has done away with the necessity for hundreds of thousands of busy men and women wasting hours of their time standing in line to pay their bills to the city. Each bill mailed to a property owner carries printed instructions as to when, how and where bills are to be paid.

"The consolidation of all the city's collection agencies—taxes, assessments, water rentals and city revenue—into one bureau of city collections with borough branches makes it possible for property owners to pay their bills at one central point in each borough.

"The collection offices in each borough are equipped along the lines of a modern bank, the personnel selected with a view of giving the taxpayer the maximum in service and the entire environment changed from the procedure which served an earlier period to the efficiency demanded by present-day standards. Modern business equipment and labor-saving devices, making for expedition as well as accuracy, complete the picture of efficiency.

"The organization of a division of information about assessments, operating in each of the five boroughs and providing present and prospective property owners with full information as to assessments and the various stages of local and city-wide improvements. This much-needed service to the public has won the heartiest approval of the newspapers and citizens generally.

Premium on Bond Sales.

"The six bond sales held by the present administration have been timed as to market conditions in such a way as to bring a total premium of $4,564,024. Taxpayers have benefited by this careful management, as this latter amount reduces the sum to be raised by taxation.

"Armored cars installed during the present administration now protect the millions in cash payrolls moved about the city's five boroughs.

"Three public auction sales of city-owned property no longer required for city purposes brought to the city approximately $4,000,000. This money enabled the city to buy up to the present time 2,000 acres of land in the five boroughs for park purposes and leave a substantial sum to purchase additional park areas and playgrounds before the end of this year. Another advantage to the taxpayer is the fact that the property sold at public auction has been restored to the tax rolls, where it will add to the city's revenue."

Praised for Park Policy.

The committee also claimed that Controller Berry had saved a large amount of money for the city by cutting red tape and purchasing property for parks and playgrounds by private negotiations. In telling of the immensity of the city's financial transactions with an annual business turnover of more than $2,000,000,000, the statement said that the Finance Department checked every dollar of the $725,000,000 required each year to carry on the city's business, collected nearly $800,000,000 a year in taxes, assessments, water rents and miscellaneous revenues, administers all city sinking funds, totaling $1,535,000,000, has full charge of the city's bond sales and arranges its temporary borrowings of about $500,000,000 annually, prepares and distributes the pay checks for 130,000 city employes, and examines and adjusts claims of every character against the city.

DECLARES LA GUARDIA FOE OF A PARTY IDEAL

Rev. T. H. Gallagher Asserts the Candidate Is Out of Harmony With Hoover on Dry Law.

Attacking the candidacy of Fiorello La Guardia for Mayor because of his stand on prohibition, the Rev. Thomas H. Gallagher, in an address before 300 members of his congregation at the Janes Methodist Episcopal Church, Monroe and Reid Avenues, Brooklyn, said last night that Mr. La Guardia was "not a good representative of the Republican party."

"If he is the best candidate the party could find," the Rev. Mr. Gallagher said, "then the party is in a bad way in New York City. I am of the opinion that he does not appeal to thousands of Republican voters. I am positive he will not get their vote.

"On some very serious questions he is not in harmony with the Republican party. His ideals are not those of Mr. Hoover but those of the man Herbert Hoover defeated. Somebody said he claims to be wetter than Mr. Smith ever thought of being. Judging from Mr. La Guardia's tirades in Washington relative to prohibition and his brazen utterances here at home, then he is wetter than the wettest. Right-thinking people will hesitate to vote to make our city blacker than it is.

"The Republican standard bearer no doubt has some winsome characteristics, but he stands no show of being elected Mayor of New York City."

Concerning the other candidates, he said that "none of the candidates comes within a mile of being worthy to fill the office."

LA GUARDIA CRITICIZES CHURCH COLOR LINE

"Christ Would Have Hung His Head in Shame," He Says at Emancipation Day Exercises.

Representative F. H. La Guardia, Republican candidate for Mayor, criticised the recent action of the Rev. William St. John Blackshear in discouraging the attendance of negroes at the St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, in a speech yesterday in Emancipation Day exercises at the Lincoln Status in Union Square.

"Christ would have hung His head in shame," said Mr. La Guardia.

This was Mr. La Guardia's only reference to current events, except for his statement that the complete political equality which Lincoln sought to bring about, and which the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution provided for, had not yet been realized.

Mr. La Guardia laid at the base of the Lincoln statue a floral wreath, woven in the design of a broken chain, in memory of Lincoln's striking of the shackles of slavery from the negroes.

Yesterday's observance was under the auspices of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People. The day was the sixty-seventh anniversary of Lincoln's issuance of his preliminary proclamation of emancipation.

The Rev. Frederick A. Cullen, pastor of the Salem Methodist Episcopal Church, delivered a prayer.

Among the negro leaders who arranged the exercises were:

JAMES H. HUBERT, Republican candidate for Congress from the Harlem district.

Colonel CHARLES W. FILLMORE of the New York National Guard.

Mrs. HORTENSE E. WARNER, independant candidate from the Twenty-first Aldermanic District for the Board of Aldermen.

Mrs. BESAYE J. BEARDEN.

'CHICAGO-ON-HUDSON' SEEN BY CANON CHASE

Gangsters Will Dominate Here if the Righteous Fail to Organize, He Declares.

Canon William Sheafe Chase, preaching yesterday morning at Christ Church, Bedford and Division Avenues, Brooklyn, declared that the refusal of 520,000 Republicans to vote for La Guardia or Bennett showed either willingness to leave the nomination in the hands of the political leaders or a belief that it was hopeless to remedy corruption in New York City politics.

"The fact that only thirty-five clergymen signed the letter of encouragement which was sent to Senator Bennett for his heroism in leading the fight against the 32,000 speakeasies and the more than thirty million of graft," said Canon Chase, "does not mean that the other clergymen do not believe that they are under sacred obligation to exercise their personal and official influence in behalf of a moral issue in politics and against corrupt government and the nullification of the Constitution. The clergymen are aware that the criminals and those politicians who depend upon the underworld for their financial and political support contend that clergymen have no right to interfere in politics even where moral issues are involved. The increasing commercialization of politics shows that some stronger motive than self interest is needed to purify politics.

"The report of a recent survey made in Chicago, which claims that 90 per cent of Chicago businesses are paying some form of tribute to corrupt politicians, is most alarming. The racketeers, the stick-up men, the gangsters and the thugs threaten New York business as well as public and private morals. We are likely soon to have a Chicago upon the Hudson, unless the forces of righteousness are soon better organized and under higher motives than before."

MRS. M'CORMICK WILL SEEK SENATE

Mark Hanna's Daughter Will Contend With Deneen for Illinois Seat.

ANNOUNCES HER CAMPAIGN

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick has entered the race for United States Senator from Illinois against Senator Charles S. Deneen. A formal announcement of her candidacy for the primaries of April 8 was made tonight at her home, Rock River Farms, Byron. The statement read as follows:

"I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of United States Senator from Illinois at the primary election April 8, 1930.

"Obviously, a candidate runs for office because he wants the office. But our system of choosing United States Senators wisely provides an opportunity for the voters of each party to examine the qualifications of all candidates before the party tickets are submitted to the people for election in the following November.

"In the campaign which I shall soon start, I propose to speak to as many voters and visit as many communities of Illinois as my duties in the House of Representatives will permit. I shall then discuss fully the facts which may be held to affect my own qualifications for the Senatorship and those national and international issues on which I will be called to vote if elected to the Senate.

Has No Obligations.

"I appreciate deeply the offers of support which have come to me, many of them long in advance of my decision to seek the Senatorship. These friends and all other citizens are entitled now to my assurance, unqualifiedly given, that my candidacy is free from any direct or indirect obligation except only the fundamental obligation of integrity in public service. No candidacy for this high office deserves to succeed if actuated by any purpose involving political reprisal or personal reward, or by any influence whatsoever, other than a genuine wish to administer a public trust, honorably and well."

This avowal of her intentions from Mrs. McCormick, daughter of the late Senator Mark Hanna of Ohio and widow of the late Senator Medill McCormick clears the way for what the politicians regard as one of the most interesting political battles Illinois has seen in many years.

How many candidates will be in the race is still conjectural. Senator Deneen has made no formal announcement of candidacy, taking the position that this is unnecessary, as he is already running. Down-State there have been several aspirants for candidacy. Lieut. Gov. Fred F. Sterling has been rated as among the possibilities.

Brundage Urged to Run.

In Cook County Edward J. Brundage, former Attorney General, is being urged to announce himself as a Senate candidate. A week ago Mr. Brundage launched a movement to "clean up" the Republican party in Cook County and to give it a "new and respected leadership." This has been received with daily stacks of applauding letters and telegrams. Advocates of reorganization are arguing with Mr. Brundage that he can head the movement most effectively by becoming a candidate, with the issue "Clean the Party." He is expected to announce his intentions soon after the filing of the independent judicial ticket is out of the way.

Politicians would not be surprised if a three-cornered race develops among Mrs. McCormick, Senator Deneen and Mr. Brundage.

Last year Mrs. McCormick led the field of eight for Member of Congress-at-Large and had a lead of 52,000 over the next highest. On election day she led the State ticket with 1,711,651 votes.

WOMEN QUERY CANDIDATES.

League Asks Board of Estimate Aspirants for Transit Views.

Candidates for the Board of Estimate have been asked by the League of Women Voters to say in reply to a questionnaire whether or not they favor a unified subway system and, if they do, whether they favor a fare sufficient to meet construction and operating expenses or the continuance of the present five-cent fare with possible payment of deficits out of taxation. The questionnaire was made public yesterday.

Other questions refer to the establishment of a board of city planning, immediate action on a sewage and waste disposal program, a trained play leader for every city playground, unlimited building heights, an annual budget for permanent improvements and reclassification of the municipal service.

Candidates for the Board of Aldermen are asked if they favor limiting the use of special revenue bonds, revision of the city's pension system, acquisition of additional playground space, a law requiring department heads to show necessity for exempting contracts from public letting. The candidates also are asked if they believe there is any justification for the continuation of the Board of Aldermen.

The questions put to Assembly candidates concern the enactment of a State prohibition enforcement law, the amending of the law to enable women to serve on juries and the broadening of the scope of the occupational disease law to include all occupational diseases.

URGES VOTE OF 'NO' ON POLICE PAY PLAN

Citizens Union Sees Estimate Board Evading Responsibility by Referendum.

SAYS IT CAN RAISE WAGES

Question Not One for Voters, Group Declares—Favors Proposal for Sanitation Commission.

Defeat of the proposal to fix the minimum pay of first-grade patrolmen and firemen at $3,000 a year was recommended yesterday by the Citizens Union in a statement setting forth its position on the seven referenda to be submitted to the voters of the city and State at the election on Nov. 5. In taking this position the Union did not express any opinion on the appropriateness of the proposed minimum salary, but contended that the Board of Estimate possessed ample power to establish such a minimum rate of pay and that submission of the question constituted an evasion of responsibility.

The Union advised an affirmative vote on the other city question proposed, the establishment of a sanitation commission. Of the five proposed amendments to the State Constitution, the Union declared against the proposal to give disabled war veterans absolute preference in appointments and promotions in all branches of the State and municipal civil service, but advocated adoption of the four others.

These proposed amendments would authorize the Legislature to provide a method for taking the votes of inmates of United States Veterans' Bureau hospitals; provide constitutional safeguards against interference by the Legislature in affairs of Westchester and Nassau Counties after "home rule" charters have been adopted by those counties; authorize the State to borrow funds to suppress forest fires and transfer to local criminal courts of inferior jurisdiction the powers and duties now exercised by justices of the peace.

In advising voters to vote "no" on the question of policemen's and firemen's salaries, the Union said:

"The submission of this question to the electorate is a flagrant abdication by the city officials of their budget-making functions. The local authorities have ample power in this field, but in this instance they appear anxious to evade responsibility. The Legislature encouraged evasion by passing the bill providing for this referendum, with the sanction of the city's representatives.

"In urging voters to vote in the negative on this question, the Citizens Union is not expressing an opinion as to the appropriateness of the rate of compensation proposed. Very likely there should be a readjustment of compensation for all grades in these important services. Whether this particular amount, slightly more or slightly less, is the minimum which should be set for these grades cannot possibly be determined fairly by the voters. A fair determination can be reached only after a careful weighing of the resources and obligations of the city, the rates of compensation in other departments and their adjustment to any changes in the departments under consideration. This is essentially a matter of budget-making and administration. Intervention by the voters with respect to a specific group of employes strikes at the foundation of responsible administration."

In advocating an affirmative vote on the proposal to establish a sanitation commission of three members for the city, with power to perform the functions of the Street Cleaning Department, to construct garbage incinerators and sewage disposal plants and to frame and administer sanitary regulations, the statement said:

"The Citizens Union is fully aware of the dangers which lurk in vesting in a single body, even temporarily, the broad powers contemplated by this legislation, but it is convinced that the situation demands drastic action and that the only hope for progress in sight is in the employing of this sort of machinery."

DEMANDS STATE ACT IN ROTHSTEIN CASE

Enright Tells Roosevelt That Public Believes Murder Was Mishandled Due to Politics.

ATTACKS BANTON'S STAND

Urges Appointment of an Important Investigator and Suggests Man Like Cropsey.

Declaring that it was the general impression that the police and the District Attorney's office have tried deliberately to conceal facts about the murder of Arnold Rothstein from coming out because they would involve men of political influence, former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, candidate of the Square Deal party for Mayor, made public yesterday a letter to Governor Roosevelt asking for an impartial investigation of the handling of the Rothstein case.

"In order to clear, if it be possible, the reputation of the public officials involved, and to give confidence to the citizens in the impartial enforcement of law," he wrote, "I suggest and I ask that you appoint an impartial investigator, such as Mr. Justice Cropsey of the Supreme Court, or a man of such standing as to be above suspicion of partisan bias, to inquire into the Rothstein case and into the conduct of the case by the officials who are under public suspicion."

Mr. Enright, who had earlier indicated his intention of making the Rothstein case the principal issue of his campaign, declared that the police and the District Attorney failed to seize Rothstein's papers until there had been opportunity to abstract certain papers from the files.

Says Biller Was Here.

Mr. Enright declared that Herman Biller, wanted as a witness, was in New York City in August, and he asserted that the police, if they wished to, could have found him almost at any time. Mr. Enright said District Attorney Banton had given the failure to capture Biller as the reason for not bringing George McManus to trial. He cited the case of Bridget Farry, the scrubwoman who was held in the Tombs for 134 days and refused $403 in witness fees when she was released on bail and appeared subsequently with an automobile which, he said, had been given her. Mr. Enright declared that there was doubt in the public mind as to whether she was actually held as a material witness or held until the authorities were sure she had been "fixed" and would not talk.

"The New York police and the District Attorney of New York County either know the murderer of Rothstein and the facts concerning that murder and have attempted to hush them up, or else these officials are grossly and utterly incompetent," Mr. Enright wrote.

"The real issue in the Rothstein case has become a question as to the integrity of the Police Department and the District Attorney's office. Their incomprehensible and suspicious muddling of this case has led thousands of the public to question that integrity."

Reviews Story of Murder.

Mr. Enright reviewed the known facts of the murder of Rothstein on the night of Nov. 4, 1928. The evidence, he said, disclosed that there were five men in the room besides Rothstein, that the overcoat of McManus was found there, that McManus telephoned Rothstein to come to the death room, and that it was reasonable to assume that McManus was among those present at the murder. He added that a Mrs. Keyes had identified another man in the room and that the police, from fingerprints on the glasses and bottles, may have identified the others and had declared they knew the identity of all. The murder pistol, a police pistol with one cartridge present, was found outside on the pavement. Rothstein immediately after the shooting went down through the hotel, told a policeman he had been shot and then collapsed, and the other five men in the room, he continued, must have gone through the hotel and been seen by many persons.

"In the case of a shooting in so public a place, with so many on the story and with so many easy clues, I, from my long experience, know that it would have been the easiest of cases to solve had the authorities wished to solve it," Mr. Enright declared. "If they were really unable to solve it, they are so grossly incompetent as to merit instant removal."

Sees Getaway Aided.

Mr. Enright declared that Biller, the missing witness, was interviewed by Detectives Daly and Flood soon after the shooting and let go.

"It is known that for four days after the murder he was around the hotel and could have been apprehended," Mr. Enright continued. "The police did not begin their pretended search for him until he had been given a head start and a chance to make his getaway. I have reason to believe that Biller has been in this city and about Broadway many times during the ten months since the murder and that he was here for two weeks in August. Every police officer and criminal who knows the facts must laugh in his sleeve at the statement of the District Attorney that the police have been unable to locate Biller. I believe they know where he is most of the time."

Mr. Enright declared that Rothstein was not guarded or observed in the hospital where he lingered for two days after the shooting, and the police even failed to take his fingerprints to determine which of the fingerprints on the bottles and glasses were his. He recalled that Police Commissioner Whalen had criticised the negligence of the police and had brought charges against Detective John J. Cordes, to whom McManus surrendered, for failing to bring the latter to Police Headquarters for photographing and fingerprinting before taking him to the District Attorney's office. The trial of Cordes was abruptly adjourned and he was restored to duty and has not since been brought to trial, Mr. Enright said.

"Did they fear the story his witnesses would have been obliged to tell on the stand?" Mr. Enright concluded.

NAVY LAMP STAYS DRY SIX MONTHS IN WATER

It Will Be Exhibited at Safety Council's Conference in Chicago Starting Sept. 30.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—A model electric lamp which has been kept under water for six months without any moisture entering it is among the safety devices developed by the United States Navy which it will include in its exhibit at the National Safety Council's annual conference at Chicago, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4.

The lamp's handle is of flexible rubber with a packing around the cord which shuts out water and prevents corrosion of metal parts. The rubber is also effective in keeping the lamp from breaking, as it has been thrown violently against walls and floors without cracking the light filaments.

The navy's display will include a working model of a submarine which is to be raised from the bottom of a glass tank by means of pontoons in the same manner that the navy salvaged the submarines S-51 and S-4. This model submarine is being built for the use of classes at the Washington Navy Yard, where its diving school is maintained.

An under-water demonstration of the navy's cutting torch, which has been improved to the point that the metal can be cut almost as quickly in the water as on the surface, will be given by a diver wearing a deep-water diving outfit equipped with all the latest safety devices.

SUSPECT SEIZED IN CHICAGO

Alleged "Purple Gang" Head Held as Detroit Kidnapper.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 (AP).—Seized on suspicion by Chicago detectives and identified by his police record, Abe Rosenberg, alleged gunman, gangster and kidnapper, will be returned to Detroit in connection with the kidnapping there of David Cass, aged 22, who disappeared July 25.

No trace has been found of Cass, son of a wealthy Detroit real estate operator, police said. Rosenberg is the reputed head of the "Purple Gang" of Detroit, extortionists and gunmen, according to officials, and was questioned in connection with the slaying of seven gangsters here St. Valentine's Day.

SUBDUES FUGITIVE HIGH UP ON BRIDGE

come up here I'll jump into the river. I don't care if I kill myself, I'll jump."

The attendant feared Bennett might do so and descended.

Hospital officials were notified. They telephoned the police. The marine police sent a boat to the scene. The police emergency squad from Astoria was sent, too. Detectives of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad also arrived.

A stairway leads up to the bridge from Ward's Island, but it is always locked. The key could not be found. Policemen broke the lock and started up after Bennett. He saw them coming and ran. That was at noon.

For six hours Bennett climbed through the steel network of the bridge, defying every effort to capture him. None of his would-be captors could match his agility. They tried to reason with him. It was useless. His response was always the same.

"You want to rob me of my invention," he shouted.

Finally Saeger took a hand in the chase. He managed to climb unobserved to where Bennett sat perched on the catwalk, and seized him. Bennett fought viciously. He kicked, scratched and bit the patrolman. But Saeger held his man.

The catwalk was so narrow that Saeger had great difficulty keeping his balance. Several times he slipped and nearly fell. But at last he managed to get an armlock on Bennett and he ceased struggling.

Then Seeger called to Patrolman John Malbeck, also of the marine division, to bring up a rope. Malbeck reached the catwalk and they bound Bennett. They tied a rope around his waist and lowered him to the top of the stone pier, where other policemen were waiting to receive him. As Bennett's feet touched the pier he was seized, unbound and taken back to the hospital.

But it was then nearly 7 P. M. Throughout the afternoon throngs of persons in Astoria Park, which is near the Queens approach to the bridge, had watched the tiny figures darting about through the steel network. Scores had spent the afternoon there, engrossed by the chase. Each time the police made an effort to get near Bennett and he eluded them by skillful climbing, there were bursts of applause from the crowd.

Several youths climbed up on the bridge to get a closer view. After driving them down, the police finally stationed guards at the Queens end of the bridge to keep all unauthorized persons away.

When Saeger reached Bennett's side on the catwalk and the two were seen struggling there with almost nothing between them and the 135-foot drop to the river, the crowd was breathless. They followed every movement as the two men swayed back and forth on their narrow perch, and when it was seen that Saeger had subdued his man there was a general sigh of relief.

"Gosh," observed a woman with a baby in her arms, "that was better than a movie thriller," and her neighbor agreed.

MORE LIQUOR CROSSING THE DETROIT RIVER

Conditions Said to Have Eased Down—Dry Detectives Arresting Bootleggers.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—An investigation is in progress here of conditions in the customs border patrol activities, it has been learned. Federal prohibition detectives are in Detroit making arrests of bootleggers.

The customs border patrol, after a short spurt of activity several months ago, is said to have been letting more liquor get across from Ontario lately. In August almost as much came from Canada as in August, 1928, just before twenty-three members of the patrol were arrested for taking bribes and 90 per cent of the rest dismissed.

The last seizure made by the patrol was a week ago yesterday, when a single rowboat with a deaf-and-dumb occupant was taken and eleven cases of bee. were confiscated. In November, 1928, when the twenty-three patrolmen were arrested, nineteen bootleggers were indicted, of whom only six have been captured. The rest are said to be hiding in Canada.

Among the men arrested recently are Sam Rosenfield, Sam Miller, Paul Hiller, Carlo Nebiola, Joe Lapot, Sam Munsey, Skipper Carson and John Gump. Bonds range from $5,000 to $20,000.

It has also been indicated that Federal agents are on the verge of exposing a rum-running conspiracy composed of men who distribute liquor from Detroit through the Middle West and east to New York. First arrests in the case have already been made in Detroit, and further moves can be expected this week, agents here assert. About fifty warrants are to be obtained, and it is probable that the prohibition men will strike simultaneously in several cities when they are prepared for the final round-up.

ABELL'S COMMISSION BEGINS INQUIRY TODAY

Legislative Survey of Alleged Extravagances in State Work to Start in Trenton.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 22.—The Legislative Survey Commission, headed by State Senator Frank D. Abell, will hold its first meeting at the State House tomorrow. Its first business will be investigation of State contracts for the construction and furnishing of the Capitol annex, a State office building adjacent to the State House, now partly completed and partly occupied.

There have been many accusations of extravagance in the construction and furnishing of this building. Members of the commission visited offices there last week and had pointed out to them rugs said to have cost $3,200 each, a table costing $737, chairs costing $43 each, waste baskets at $17 and ash trays at $10. Each office has an electric clock.

The commission, a Republican body investigating the administration of Republican officials, also will go into the placing of insurance on State buildings. Criticism has centred on the fact that Edgar H. Ellis, a partner of State Senator Roy T. Yates of Passaic County in an insurance brokerage business, recently was appointed official State broker by Controller John McCutcheon. It is asserted that Mr. Ellis has authorized the writing of $500,000 of insurance on the uncompleted wing of the State office building by thirty-one companies, including some which his own firm represents.

LELONG'S WHITE SATIN TUNIC BLOUSE WITH THE FLARED PEPLUM

Sizes 14 to 20 32.50

HAVE you ever seen a blouse like this one—so new that it fairly shouts 1930? Lelong has put into it all the subtlety of the new silhouette—with its normal waistline (shirred by hand), its sleek hipline and the flared peplum posed at just the right place to flatter the figure most. It comes only in white satin because white satin is THE blouse fabric of the year. It is simple, as are all Lelong's originations, but it has the formality that the new mode demands.

Stewart Approves This Patou Button-Frock With a Diagonal Weave

Stewart stylists didn't have to look twice to know they wanted to copy this frock—for in it Patou makes the most of the diagonal weave to the future to effect the subtle contrast that is so smart—and he uses little overlappings of material, buttoned to the front, to achieve his effect.

LINDBERGH LOG SENT BY RADIO OPERATOR

MRS. LINDBERGH READS

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 22.—Maintaining direct radio communication with Colonel Lindbergh's plane throughout his flight from Porto Rico to Trinidad, Pan-American Airways officials today received a complete log of his third day's journey.

As press representatives were left at San Juan before beginning the hop, the messages were filed by W. W. Ehmer, radio operator on the ship.

The radio log is as follows:

6:32 A. M.—Clear skies beckoning. Lindbergh guided big Sikorsky off Pan-American airport, San Juan, at 6:02, heading out over quiet harbor into rising sun for tip of South American continent. Unexpectedly heavy mail loads awaiting the Colonel at San Juan for distribution over new line necessitated dispatching second plane. J. T. Trippe, president of Pan-American Airways, and Mrs. Trippe, who are accompanying Lindberghs on 7,000 mile inspection flight, changed to second plane so Lindbergh could carry all regular mail, 342 pounds, with mechanic Charles Lorber and Radio Operator Ehmer. All special and office correspondence with Trippe in second plane took off one minute after the Colonel, with Jack Tilton, pilot; Johnny Donahue, mechanic, and George H. Barrows, radio operator. During first fifteen minutes of flight we are receiving constant radio messages from five different stations en route. All indicate fair weather ahead. At 6:18, Porto Rico mainland is slipping behind us and innumerable little islands appear out at sea, composing Virgin group. Gorda rising clear 1,000 feet into sky o keel, marking completion of good half of short flight to St. Thomas, our first stop on the new air mail route Lindbergh is establishing today and tomorrow.

6:45 A. M.—Island of St. Thomas clear ahead of us, identified by its twin peaks, Signal Hill and Crown Mountain, forming saddle across centre of rugged little country. Clear weather all about us and ahead. We are conversing with Trippe plane, hanging on our tail but one mile distant. He will follow us down at St. Thomas. Mrs. Lindbergh getting usual early start on her diary. Mrs. Trippe is in cockpit of plane.

7:23 A. M.—Off from St. Thomas at 7:10. Trippe's plane following at 7:23. Government officials extended royal welcome here. Colonel holding close to schedule even on receptions. Mrs. Lindbergh helped pass the new air mail aboard and has been like one of the crew all the way. Most interested in trip. More keys slipping below us now, rugged green hills, covered with guinea grass and surrounded by green-tinged water over which we are cruising smoothly at 90 miles. All clear ahead.

9:14—Circling over Basse Terre, St. Kitts, now. Whole shore is lined with crowds waving flags as Lindbergh drops down in three wide arcs, the last one just a few feet off water. Ground swells in harbor, but Lindbergh making beautiful landing. Land at 9:21, Trippe's plane circling after us.

9:45—Take-off perfect after short run. Left water 9:40 and now cruising 200 feet off water on direct line to St. John. Governor, with his staff and civic officials, accorded Lindberghs royal welcome. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh went to dock in car of Governor, whose invitation he accepted, although this was not regular air mail stop today.

9:52 A. M.—Sailing over pale green waters surrounding little islands with blue skies overhead and light breeze with us. St. John, our next stop and 225 miles nearer South America, radios more weather reports, all favorable. Mrs. Lindbergh seated in first seat of cabin, directly behind her famous husband, watching this magic scenery unfold, referring frequently to pilot's map and adding pages to her diary.

11:35 A. M.—Lindbergh slipped out of sky to perfect landing in smooth waters of protected St. John Harbor, Antigua, at 10:35. Over-enthusiastic greetings from populace in regret of boats covering harbor made it somewhat difficult for Lindbergh to come to anchor, causing slight delay. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh went ashore for brief visit with government officials, while crew refueled and serviced motors. Made beautiful take-off at 11:46 and pointed Sikorsky directly across island. Air slightly bumpy for a few minutes over rugged country. However, Mrs. Lindbergh served lunch unperturbed, like the good sailor she is. Southern tip of island slipping below us now with narrow strip of ocean ahead.

12:20 P. M.—Passing Pointe-Pitre near entrance of Salee River, which bisects French Guadeloupe Island into rugged 5,000-foot peaks on our side, while on the east is a gently rolling slope. Near us streams rush down to sea like falls. At 12:30 we are over Basse Terre. At 12:35 Lorber is at controls while Lindbergh consults charts for technical course and flight projection. We are conversing fluently with Mr. Trippe's plane, which is following our exact course one mile behind. Mrs. Lindbergh settled comfortably in lounge chair reading book as if home on front porch, 1,000 miles away in Maine. Limpid green water, stretches of coral reefs sailing below us now. At 500 feet skies fair, light breezes.

12:55 P. M.—Heading out over Dominica passage, leaving Guadeloupe behind. Gross Ciloang Island ahead of us is Dominica, with 5,000 foot backbone of rugged, volcanic peaks. Mount Diablotin, 1,000 feet higher than the rest, bids us surely welcome. At 2 P. M. we are over city of Rousseau sitting lazily on sloping coast with its feet dangling into the seas of open roadstead. Whitewashed steeple of church and square courthouse stand out distinctly. Lorber sighted Martinique, heading into St. Lucia channel.

3 P. M.—Lindbergh sighted for De France, St. Lucia mainland, at 1:30. Cruising out over coastal waters at 1:45. Lindbergh has been at controls again for some time. Passed over West Indian windjammer, picturesque sight in this unusual background. Crew waved salutations enthusiastically, but probably won't know for some time that the famous Colonel is aboard this boat flying 500 feet above their heads. Mrs. Lindbergh still reading, interrupting occasionally just long enough to keep track of many interesting sights.

2:25 P. M.—Lindbergh sighted Port Castries, St. Lucia, at 1:50. Colorful little city in snug harbor about seven miles southern end of island capital of British Windward Island group and our third scheduled mail stop on new United States mail line set by Lindbergh today. Ringed like other islands of southern Caribbean, but more is roken up with sheers, ravines, and gorges, all covered with forests and heavy tropic vegetation. Lindbergh swept into bowl-shaped harbor and landed at 2:01 with spectacular ease. Waterway well policed. Shot a buoy, made perfect stop. Large crowd cheered lustily for party and many beautiful bouquets were presented to Mrs. Lindbergh and Mrs. Trippe from British officialdom. Every one everywhere intensely enthusiastic over our transport service, which brings these peoples many days closer to United States than ever before. New neighbors for first time. Lindbergh busy at all ports clearing ship's papers. No longer "lone eagle" but busy captain of liner of the skies now. Smooth take-off for Port of Spain, Trinidad, 236 miles away, to complete first day's trail blazing and will rest tonight at tip of South American continent. Weather conditions excellent, Trippe plane following so smoothly might be our shadow, although mile behind. We are talking to Miami central station, nearly 2,000 miles away, constantly now as well as Trinidad ahead of us. Lindbergh and Trippe confuse to exchange notes on wing.

3:30 P. M.—Slipping over endless tiny islands, like jade gems in turquoise settings, under sparkling clear skies. Would thrill most blase. Passed Cape Monte-a-Chique at 2:56, bold precipitous headland at southern tip of St. Lucia marked with twin peaks of extinct cone. Over mainland sea passage, with St. Vincent Island directly ahead. Mrs. Lindbergh taking notes on scenery again. Passed over Soufriere at 3:10, a pretty little village, orderly and neatly looking in fringe of sulphur springs. Lindbergh sighted Bequia Island at 3:30, few miles south of St. Vincente on Admiralty Bay, making splendid time. Lindbergh piloting Sikorsky with usual genius for direct line flights. Ship sailing smoothly, seeming to sing song of pleasure with her master while motors chant rythmically in tone. Our pilot expects to arrive at Trinidad near 5:15. Now passing Quatre Islets south of St. Vincente.

3:54 P. M.—We are now twelve miles east of Grenada Island, just a smudge on horizon from our 500-feet altitude. No steamers in sight; only trackless sea. Watching back of Lindbergh's head from radio compartment, one can picture Lindy as he must have looked while winging his way across broad Atlantic in Spirit of St. Louis, but today the new member of "We" is sitting close behind that pilot and the ship's name is Spirit of Progress. Mrs. Lindbergh quietly reading book, "The Quest." An inspiring picture, sailing along through fine weather at 100 miles.

4:25 P. M.—Lindbergh sighted island at Trinidad at 4:27, rapidly approaching this unique crossroads of world commerce, discovered by Columbus during his third voyage in 1498. Our pilot has studied his charts carefully through the day and is watching straight ahead now. He has never visited Trinidad before, nothing of famous good-will flight, the direction of which he is now reversing on inspection of Pan-American lines which now cover all but few miles of that route. Excellent weather has held throughout the day. Northern tip of island now distinguishable. Densely wooded. Ridge of mountains with some peaks 3,000 feet. Heading slightly west now toward Port of Spain, capital city and end of our day's hop. Lindbergh signals he is preparing to land.

4:32 P. M. (from ground radio station at Port of Spain)—After circling the town the Colonel made his usual beautiful landing at 4:32. He had picked up all the time lost by his unscheduled courtesy stop at St. Kitt's between Port Castries and Trinidad, where he arrived three minutes ahead of original schedule. British officials and representatives of local organizations were waiting to meet the Colonel and the streets around the Queens House are crowded with people. Mr. Trippe's plane followed us down a few minutes after our landing. The Colonel is scheduled to deliver first sack of mail to local Postmaster General and then will be tendered a reception by the local aviation club, after which he will go to the Government House, where the Lindberghs will be guests of the acting Governor of Trinidad and Tobago.

ARMY FLIER DIES IN OHIO.

Lieut. M. H. Redman Crashes When Motor Cuts Out in Take-off.

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 22 (AP).—Lieutenant Mark H. Redman, Army Air Corps officer at Fairfield Intermediate Depot, was killed late today when his airplane motor cut out in taking off.

The plane fell to the ground and caught fire.

Officials at the field said Redman died from a fractured skull suffered in a fall from the plane before it struck the ground and was demolished.

Lieutenant Redman leaves a widow and two children, 7 and 5 years of age.

YOUTHS DIE IN AIR CRASH.

Inexperienced Flier of 20 Plunges 200 Feet With Lad of 15.

ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 22 (AP).—Charles Folsom, 20 years old, and Seth Baughn, 15, were killed today when an airplane piloted by Folsom went into a tail spin at a height of 200 feet and crashed on a farm seven miles southwest of here.

Baughn was idly examining the plane, it was said, when Folsom, an inexperienced flier, offered to give him a ride.

overnight guest of colonial Governor Geir.

Virtually perfect flying conditions favored the flight, most of which lay over water passages between the far-scattered Leeward and Windward Islands. Three scheduled air mail stops, at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands; St. John, Antigua, and Port Castries, St. Lucia, were made along the way. A courtesy call of twenty-five minutes was paid to the colonial Governor of St. Johns, who happened to be at the island of St. Kitts, about fifty-seven miles from the capital.

Carried Heavy Load of Mail.

On account of the heavy load of mail Colonel Lindbergh found waiting at San Juan it was necessary to take a second plane to carry President Trippe of the Pan-American Airways and his wife. Colonel Lindbergh flew the mail plane and Mrs. Lindbergh rode with him. Both planes carried a radio operator, who maintained constant communication with land stations through the West Indies and with the Miami headquarters.

Roaring away from San Juan, the flying Colonel first touched St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, at 6:52 A. M., leaving at 7:19. St. Kitts, a distance of 164 miles, was reached at 9:21, and the take-off was at 9:46.

Proceeding from St. Kitts, Colonel Lindbergh landed in the protected harbor of St. John's at 10:35, where he had some trouble in getting ashore on account of a large number of boats. He spent one hour and nine minutes there, having his plane inspected and refueling. The journey started again at 11:46 and at 1:30 P. M. the Island of Martinique was passed. Port Castries, the air mail stop for St. Lucia, was reached at 2:01, and the flier left at 2:45.

Along the way Colonel Lindbergh frequently relinquished the controls to his co-pilot and pored over a map, going into technical details of the new air lines. He advised with Mr. Trippe on the other plane through the radio.

At Port Castries a large crowd lustily cheered the transatlantic aviator and his bride. Mrs. Lindbergh was showered with flowers.

The Island of Trinidad was sighted at 4:27, and twenty-five minutes later the landing was made.

Leaves Porto Rico at 6 A. M.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 22.—Colonel Lindbergh, piloting a Sikorsky amphibian, with Mrs. Lindbergh, Co-pilot Charles Lorber and Radio Operator W. W. Esmer on board, left the Pan-American Airways field at Santurce at 6 o'clock this morning for Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana. He planned to stop en route at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands; St. John, Port Castries, St. Lucia; Port of Spain, Trinidad, and Georgetown, British Guiana.

A sister plane, piloted by John Tilton and with Co-pilot John Donahue and Radio Operator George Barrow and President J. T. Trippe of the Pan-American Airways and Mrs. Trippe as passengers, took off at the same time.

On this initial trip of the weekly air service which Colonel Lindbergh is inaugurating the planes carried 342 pounds of mail.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh and Mr. and Mrs. Trippe spent the night with Governor Towner at Fortaleza, declining an invitation to a dinner and dance at the Union Club. Public attention here is engrossed in the political situation and the coming of the new Governor, Colonel Roosevelt, soon, and the interest in Lindbergh's presence was less than on the occasion of his previous visit, Feb. 2 and 3, 1928, when an official holiday was proclaimed.

NEW LINDBERGH BOOK WILL TALK OF FLYING

New Era for World Predicted by Flier in Statement to Be Used as Foreword.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Publication about Jan. 1 of a new book by Colonel Lindbergh, to be called "We Fly," is announced by Gordon Dorrance of the publishing firm of Dorrance & Co., Inc. Accompanying the announcement was a statement from Colonel Lindbergh, part of which, the publisher said, would be used as a foreword of the volume.

"We are upon the threshold of a new era," it read. "On its coming of age, aviation has flown to great heights. Only recently a huge dirigible circled the globe in half the time in which Jules Verne, in fancy, circumscribed the earth. The greater part of the civilized world is today connected by air lines that touch our great cities.

"Whether man tries for a faster pace than six miles per minute, a higher altitude than ten miles up, an endurance record greater than a month in the air—he has much to attain. Yet, who can say that he will not succeed?

"The Graf Zeppelin has evolved from Knabenshue's first 'steerable' of a quarter century ago, the huge trimotored transport from the Wright brothers' first crude 'flying machine.' In those early days of the twentieth century man had got to the end of his rope.

"Although the balloon was only an inflated bag which would come down, that was man's limit. Aeronautically, what more was there that could be accomplished? Certainly anything heavier than air could not buck the law of gravitation and get away with it.

"But the old Bible prophets mentioned chariots flying through the air at great speed—and now they are here! Today more air mail is carried than I dreamed could be the case in five short years. All through the land flying fields are being made ready.

"Many of you, who a few years ago scouted aviation as a risky enterprise, a pipe dream too crazy ever to come true—you yourselves are flying over the country now. The world is becoming air-minded. Truly we fly!

"You have asked me to let you in on some facts about flying, a little more life history and some statistical information. I shall try to give you what you ask in my new book 'We Fly.'"

GOEBEL IN MEXICO FOR RACE

He Is Only American Flier to Arrive for Hop Today for Kansas City.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22 (AP).—Up to mid-afternoon Art Goebel was the only American entrant in the Mexico City to Kansas City air race to arrive and it appeared that the contest tomorrow would be between him and four Mexican Army pilots.

The aviators spent the day in tuning up their planes for the race, which starts at Valbuena Field at 9 A. M.

Colonel Roberto Fierro is the outstanding Mexican pilot entered. He made a good-will flight to Cuba and Central America eighteen months ago and last Spring played a prominent part in putting down the rebellion.

Other entries are Captain Luis R. Verdeja, Colonel Fernando Proal and Captain Feliciano Flores Dias.

WOMAN COMPLETES 12,000-MILE AIR TRIP

PILOTED HER PLANE ALONE

Began Tour in April, Halting It to Take Part in Women's Derby From Los Angeles.

Special to The New York Times.

HICKSVILLE, L. I., Sept. 22.—Miss Ruth Nichols, Junior League member, of Rye, N. Y., landed here at the Long Island Aviation Country Club this afternoon, completing a 12,000-mile tour of the United States which she started from Washington in April. Miss Nichols, an official of Aviation Country Clubs, Inc., and a founder of the flying country club organization, flew alone in a Curtiss open-cockpit plane.

The trip, undertaken primarily in the interests of the aviation country club movement, was suspended last month and Miss Nichols entered the women's derby from Los Angeles to Cleveland. She was well up with the leaders at the start of the last leg of the race from Columbus when her plane was damaged.

Miss Nichols visited every State except Maryland and Florida. She made stops in one hundred cities, eighty of them with populations of more than 30,000, and in forty of these cities she worked on plans for founding clubs. In Washington, Memphis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Louisville and other cities clubs have been organized. Miss Nichols was escorted by Robb C. Oertell, also connected with the country club movement, and C. O. Bedford, Curtiss engineer.

She was met at the field by members of her family. Miss Nichols plans to start Wednesday for Bear Lake, Quebec, to join a hunting party. She will fly from New York in an amphibian.

SOVIET PLANE THOUGHT DELAYED IN ALASKA

Message Telling of Departure Is Doubted—Russians Overjoyed by Success So Far.

SEATTLE, Sept. 22 (AP).—Despite an unofficial message received at the Naval Radio Station at Bremerton, Wash., today that the Russian plane, "Land of the Soviets," en route from Moscow to New York, had taken off this morning from Attu, the most westward island of the Aleutian group in Alaska, for Dutch Harbor, Unalaska, men on duty at th estation tonight were of the opinion that the flight had been delayed.

The message gave no details, and did not report the time of the plane's departure or when it was expected to arrive at Dutch Harbor, a distance of about 500 miles. Weather conditions were not mentioned in the radio message, but the sky was overcast with heavy clouds along the coast in the Pacific Northwest States.

The crew of the plane includes S. A. Shestakov, pilot; P. E. Bolotov, second pilot; B. V. Sterlingov, navigator, and D. V. Fufaev, mechanic.

The route followed by the Soviet airmen across the North Pacific has been flown only twice before, by English aviators, one of whom met disaster, and in 1924 by one of the army world flight planes, which was forced to turn back before reaching Japan.

Built by popular subscription from millions of members of the Aviation and Chemical Society, the Soviet plane is driven by two 600-horsepower engines and is of all-metal construction. Cruising near the Aleutian Islands to aid the plane in an emergency was the Soviet supply ship Krassny Vimpel.

MOSCOW, Sept. 22 (AP).—All Russia is rejoicing because the country's pioneer international airplane, Land of the Soviets, is now over American territory and that the most difficult part of the long journey is over.

As the airplane and motors are entirely of Soviet construction, the Russian public shows immense pride in the achievements of Chief Pilot Shestakov and his three companions, and feels that if the flight to New York is successful it will prove Soviet planes the equals of those produced in other countries.

The Soviet airmen are still faced with many difficulties, as they must fly over an uncharted air route above rocky and unknown parts of the Aleutian Islands. After going to Unalaska, Kodiak, Seward and Sitka, the airmen will replace the present sea floats on their plane with wheels in Seattle, whence they will set out for New York.

LIGHTS FIELD FROM PLANE.

Radio Device in Cincinnati Turns Airport Switch.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 22.—A device which enables a pilot to switch on airport lights from the air by pressing a button has been perfected by William Earle Stillwell Jr., engineer for the Columbia Engineering and Management Corporation of Cincinnati.

The apparatus consists of a miniature radio transmitting set, effective in a twenty-mile radius, which controls lights through a system of modulated wave lengths.

If the device proves practical, airports will be equipped with a receiving system tuned to a certain frequency for response to the impulse sent from a plane's instrument board.

John Paul Riddle, vice president of the Embry-Riddle Company, has announced that the device would be installed immediately in the Embry-Riddle passenger and mail planes flying between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago. The first demonstration is to be made on Oct. 14 while the National Air Tour is visiting Lunken Field.

Sidar Continues Good-Will Flights.

Some Smocks are Just Smocks but an English Smock is a Fashion

IF you should drop in casually at some English country house for tea and the "young hopefuls" were brought in for a word of greeting they would almost certainly be wearing English smocks. For English smocks are as much a part of English life as tea!

And over here (or anywhere else —in the best families) this might happen too!

AMERICAN mothers who follow this charming fashion will be delighted with the new English smocks just arrived in the Liliputian Bazaar. It would be hard to find a more varied collection—even in England—for these were made by the same needlewomen who supply the British aristocracy and imported by Best's for smart American youngsters.

NATIONALISTS DENY CHINESE CIVIL WAR

Leaders Say 'Ironsides,' Whose Commander Is Ousted, Do Not Plan to Rebel.

ONLY SHIFTED TO NEW POST

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22 (AP).—Leaders of the Nationalist Government said today that reports of a fresh outbreak of civil war "in any part of China are groundless."

These denials by officials came as the result of many and conflicting rumors during the last few days alleging that reactionaries had again taken up arms against the central government in Nanking. Outstanding among these reports was one from Japanese sources declaring that the Cantonese Fourth Division, known as "The Ironsides," which in recent months had been stationed at Ichang, western Hupeh, had shown a tendency to return to Kwangtung Province and possibly join the Kwangsi reactionaries in an attempt to overthrow the present Canton government, which is favorable to Nanking.

This division gained its nickname by its brilliant campaign as the spearhead of the Nationalist forces' triumphant advance in 1926 from Canton to Peking, in which they achieved a long list of victories against the Northerners with no defeats.

Officials, however, declared that the Ironsides had not indicated any such intention, but had been ordered north to take up garrison duties along the Lunghai Railway, which runs across Honan province.

"This movement," it was said, "possibly gave rise to the foregoing erroneous reports."

Say Troops Are Disbanding.

The same officials not only denied reports of civil war but asserted that "the government's troop disbandment program is proceeding in all areas." General Ho Ying-ching, Inspector General of Military Training, said:

"The reorganization of military units under direct control of Nanking will be completed in a fortnight, while those under the authority of other leaders, such as Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan [closely associated in governing Shansi Province in the northwest and recently reported to have sold allegiance to Nanking] will be completed by Jan. 1, 1930."

Japanese dispatches from Canton today said the Kwangtung Government had telegraphed Nanking that Kwangsi radicals were again active and were believed planning a fresh campaign against Canton. Earlier this year they fought their way almost to the gates of that rich commercial city, but were finally driven off with heavy losses. Nanking official circles, however, said "the southern provinces are quiet," and reliably informed circles here did not believe hostilities had broken out anywhere in China.

These unofficial circles, taking a general view of the position of the Nationalist Government, anticipate changes in its personnel in the near future. They hold the view that General Chiang Kai-shek is desirous of retiring from the Presidency and of handing over command of the Nationalist armies to Ho Ying-ching or Yen Hsi-shan. These sources believe the President has lost many of his supporters within the Kuomintang, the governing party, and point out that members of the Left Wing are seeking his downfall.

These Chinese observers believe the movement is not only directed against President Chiang but also against Minister of Finance T. V. Soong, Minister of Labor and Commerce A. H. Tung and others. The campaign has taken the form of numerous complaints to the central Kuomintang headquarters accusing government officials of "maladministration."

Say Wang Is in Hongkong.

Copyright, 1929, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 23.—The long-threatened attempted come-back of the left wing of the Kuomintang, associated with other dissatisfied elements of the party, is now feared by Nanking authorities as about to commence.

Persistent rumors of the arrival from Europe in Hongkong of General Wang Ching-wei, acknowledged leader of the Left wing, are denied by Nanking, but the correspondent is reliably informed from Canton that General Wang is now living in the British colony of Hongkong.

Friday night and Saturday morning, at the order of General Chiang Kai-shek, the Sixth Division, commanded by General Fang Tao, commenced advancing on Wuhu and Anking to check the movement of General Fang Chen-wu's troops garrisoned in this district. The latter's residence is under military guard and he is a captive there today.

The Governor of Kwantung appealed for support today and requested the immediate return of General Cheng Ming-su, chairman of the Kwangtung provincial government, who is now in Nanking. General Chen consulted with General Chiang Friday night and was expected to go to Canton by plane last night.

Chang Fa-kwei's Dismissal.

NANKING, Sept. 22 (AP).—General Chang Fah-kwei, who was dismissed yesterday from command of the famous Fourth Division, known as "The Ironsides," was ousted "for attempting to utilize his military command to the detriment of public peace and order."

This action was taken in a mandate issued by the State Council of the Nationalist Government, which declared further that the division was "awaiting Nationalist Government orders and meantime accepting the authority of the brigade commanders of the division."

It was understood the central government had been informed the General was showing a tendency for independent activities.

11 WHITE GUARDS SLAIN IN MANCHURIAN CLASH

Many Wounded as Soviet Troops Launch Counter-Assault—Repulse Chinese Attacks.

CHITA, Siberia, Sept. 22 (AP).—Eleven Russian White Guards were killed and many wounded and ten horses and a number of rifles were captured in a counter-assault by Red Army troops against White Russian bands today in the Vomosov district, twenty-five miles northeast of Nerchinsk. The Soviet forces had only one wounded.

In the Pabi-Gugutur district, five miles northeastward, Chinese troops unexpectedly attacked Soviet frontier guards with rifle and machine guns, but the assault was successfully repulsed by the Red Army.

Similar attacks by Chinese occurred in the vicinity of Michinsky, sixty miles south, and at Amazar, where one Soviet guard was officially listed as having been killed.

KHABAROVSK, Siberia, Sept. 22 (AP).—Detachments of Chinese soldiers invaded Soviet territory in the vicinity of Pogranichnaya on Friday, attacking frontier guards. Chinese troops opened terrific fire on the Soviet border posts in the region of Sanchago. After a spirited exchange with the Soviet troops, the Chinese forces withdrew.

GERMANS TAKE RED BANK.

Expected to Assume Soviet Financial Interests in Manchuria.

Copyright by The Chicago Tribune Co.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Sept. 22.—Kurt Schultz, director of the Far Eastern branch of the Garantie Kreditbank of Berlin and Hamburg, has arrived here, established an office in the quarters of the Soviet Dalbank and announced his intention of assuming charge of the liquidating of the Dalbank. This leads to the belief that the Germans are preparing to take over the Soviet financial interests in Manchuria, possibly to the extent of reopening the Dalbank under German auspices.

While Chinese officials evince suspicion over the German move, due to the large Soviet holdings in the German Garantie Kreditbank, commercial interests, American and Japanese as well as Chinese, welcome the plan as a means of relieving the financial crisis in Manchuria.

ANCIENT TOWER FOUND AT BETH SHEMESH SITE

Haverford University Expedition Unearths Houses, Tools and Toys in the Holy Land.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 22.—One of the very few enterprises which has not been disturbed by the recent uprisings in the Holy Land is the archaeological expedition under the auspices of Haverford University, which began work last July at Ain Shems, the biblical Beth Shemesh, and which has continued its task with but one day's interruption.

With Dr. Grant as director, assisted by Dr. Fisher and Messrs. Wampler, Wood and Sumwalt, excavations are going on most successfully.

Most of this year's results are architectural. The Israelite temple found last year has been entirely cleared as well as many houses, markets and cisterns of both the Hebrew and Philistine periods.

One of the new finds is a tower defending the city wall on the northwest which pre-dates Hebrew times. A drainage canal was found leading to the tower. A few Israelite tombs were also found and a Cornelian stone seal with two lines of Hebrew characters dating about 500 B. C. to 600 B. C. Other objects of interest unearthed include tools, jewelry, toys, vanity cases of ancient belles, dyeing equipment and stone weights, which were used on the ends of oil presses.

With 100 workers now engaged in digging and fifteen members on the staff, the expedition plans to double last year's work. Digging will continue until rains compel a stop.

dulged in by the government so frequently that it had become a common occurrence.

"Affidavits of numerous former employes of the Intelligence Service of the United States, including a former chief of that service, were submitted with my application, showing conclusively that the practice of jury surveillance was a usual practice by the United States District Attorneys throughout the country, with the approval of the Attorney General and the knowledg of the judges.

Disclaims Sinister Purpose.

"I purpose to secure the publication of these affidavits.

"There was no sinister purpose in what I did and no such finding was made against me by the court which presided at the contempt proceedings, or by the Supreme Court which reviewed the facts. The Attorney General, who had nothing to do with my case, states, if he is correctly quoted in the press, that while no corrupt purpose had been consummated, he was convinced that the jury shadowing operations were conducted for the sinister and ulterior purpose of influencing the jury.

"If he has read the record as he said he has, he must know that the trial court which heard all the facts indulged in no such speculation, for I repeat that the court found no sinister purpose in what I did and the Supreme Court which reviewed the facts found no such purpose. In effect, the statement of the Attorney General can be summed up to mean that I should remain in jail because I was acquitted of an alleged offense for which he feels I should have been convicted. Until now it has been accepted that a man is entitled to the vindication that goes with the acquittal of a jury composed of his fellow citizens.

Sees Favorable Suggestions.

"The Attorney General substitutes his judgment in place of the jury's verdict.

"The rules in reference to application for executive clemency require that the application be submitted to the President when accompanied by the recommendation for clemency by the judge who heard the case and the District Attorney who prosecuted it. As the application did go to the President, it is evident that the recommendations from some of the officials of the court, wherein the alleged contempt was committed, were favorable.

"The Attorney General has seen fit to make public his recommendations. In all fairness, why should not the recommendations and reports be made public? I should welcome the publication of the entire record. Having in mind that no statute or rule of court theretofore established was violated, the recommendation of the officials of that court should outweigh the adverse recommendations of those who have only a second-hand knowledge of the facts.

"I am exceedingly grateful to countless friends who interested themselves in behalf of my application.

"I am certain they will join with me in the feeling that I have that vindication will come with time and a realization of all the facts. Malice, prejudice and vindictiveness apparently must be allowed to exhaust themselves before truth can secure an impartial hearing."

Day Also Issues Statement.

Accompanying Mr. Sinclair's statement was one from Henry M. Day, his business associate, sentenced with Mr. Sinclair on the same charge. Mr. Day's statement was as follows:

"The basis of my petition for clemency was that what I did had never before been construed to be contempt of court. There had never before been any law or rule against surveillance of a jury. The members of the jury who were placed on the witness stand stated under oath that they were not conscious of being followed, nor were they in any way approached, which showed conclusively that the instructions relayed by me to the detectives were carried out to the letter. How, then, could there have been any sinister or ulterior purpose?

"Attached to my application for commutation of sentence were sworn affidavits by former employes of the United States Intelligence Service and in fact a former Chief, showing conclusively the practice by the government of the closest possible surveillance of juries, in some cases at the request of the presiding judge. The Attorney General's department now houses thousands of records of such cases.

"I considered that any further incarceration was not necessary to make a new rule—first established in my case—more binding, and that my past life was proof that I was a decent and useful citizen who had at every opportunity served his country well.

"My gratitude is unbounded for the hundreds of expressions I have received of belief in my integrity. That faith and my own consciousness of innocence of wrongdoing enable me to endure what I believe to be unjust imprisonment with the courage of a clear conscience."

ACTION ON TARIFF URGED ON CONGRESS

Directors of Manufacturers' Association Say Delay Is Checking Industry.

MESSAGE GOES TO HOOVER

Organization Advocates Flexible Provisions of Pending Bill as Essential to Progress.

A request that Congress take action on the pending tariff bill that will dispel the "blighting uncertainties" of the commercial situation was contained in a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers at their quarterly meeting, and made public yesterday.

Noting that the tariff bill had been pending five months, the statement added that "on an average of every six years during the past fifty, the country has witnessed the same unhappy spectacle at Washington."

The statement, signed by John E. Edgerton, president of the board, has been sent to President Hoover, to members of his Cabinet, and to members of both Houses of Congress. It reads in part:

"For five months this vital economic question has been on the political operating table while the legislative physicians have haggled over a correct diagnosis and proper treatment.

"In the meantime business has been making time, and in many instances plans for industrial extension and expansion have had to be held up. Every day of this uncertainty witnesses the increasing slowing up of our economic pace, for there are few things with which it is more difficult for industry and business to cope than with the uncertainty of political action upon a basic economic issue.

"On an average of every six years during the past fifty, the country has witnessed the same unhappy spectacle at Washington and has suffered the same anxieties and suspense as it is witnessing and suffering now. Unless some effective remedy is agreed upon and applied, it may be reasonably expected that the future of our developing industry and business will be marked by even more frequent periods of such political disturbance.

"It is for reasons clearly manifest in the light of these facts that the National Association of Manufacturers has been consistently insisting upon more adequate flexibility of our tariff administration and for such up-to-date machinery in government as will make our tariff requirements more responsive to constantly changing economic conditions.

"We are, therefore, heartily in favor of the flexible provisions in the administrative sections of the pending tariff bill, believing that all of the departures from present methods embodied in the new proposal are absolutely essential to our further industrial progress and economic welfare.

"It is our firm belief and contention that these proposals contain nothing which any man of either of the major political parties cannot support. In the name, therefore, of all American industry, we call earnestly upon the national Congress for the earliest possible enactment of a tariff measure which shall contain without substantial change the flexible provisions now pending."

Throng Greets Father O'Donnell.

The Rev. Patrick J. O'Donnell, officiating at his first masses yesterday morning in St. Gregory's Catholic Church, 144 West Ninetieth Street, was greeted by his new parishioners in such numbers that an extra room had to be opened to accommodate the overflow. Father O'Donnell, formerly pastor of St. Charles Borromeo, was transferred to St. Gregory's by Cardinal Hayes to succeed the late Rev. Dr. William F. Hughes.

SENATE BLOCS WIN TARIFF CONCESSIONS

tained greater concessions for the farm, will abandon its announced plan of beating down practically all rates proposed for industry. The argument is that the wiser counsel in the bloc will come to the conclusion that the food-producing West cannot be prosperous if stagnation arises in the manufacturing East.

There is no present evidence among the farm leaders, however, that they intend to depart from insisting upon their conception of President Hoover's program of a limited revision of the tariff. Their program includes higher rates on live stock, probably an abandonment of a duty on hides, so that the compensatory duty on boots and shoes may be eliminated, and increased rates on casein. An attack also will be waged against the flexible tariff provision as modified by the Finance Committee.

Some of the farm bloc leaders appear confident that they have absolute control of the situation.

"The temper of the Senate," Senator Capper of Kansas said, "is to take a very independent position and to vote for a different program from the one submitted by the Finance Committee. I think the tariff bill will be changed all along the line and that the West will obtain the protection for which its members are fighting.

"The farm bloc now controls the situation in the Senate, and it will be able to adjust rates on agricultural products to the satisfaction of that group. We already have shown that we have enough votes to succeed in our fight against the milling in bond section of the bill."

Lumber Bloc Adds to Troubles.

In this situation, the so-called lumber bloc, including Senators McNary and Steiwer of Oregon, Jones of Washington, Oddie of Nevada, Thomas of Idaho and Johnson of California, has been formed to offer additional trouble for the conservatives. This group is demanding duty on shingles and lumber, restoration of manganese to the dutiable list and higher duty on sugar. Its chief demand for a duty on lumber will be stubbornly fought by the farm group. Senator Steiwer says the lumber bloc will eventually include thirteen Republicans and six Democrats who will vote solidly on some rates.

In recent tariff-making has the Republican party been split into so many factions or groups formed to win rates for their commodities as at present. The Senate is composed of fifty-five Senators listed as Republicans, one Farm-Labor member and thirty-nine Democrats. When the fourteen farm bloc members are subtracted from the Republican strength, it leaves but thirty-one subject to control by the Old Guard.

Hence some predict that the Finance Committee faction, in seeking a thorough tariff revision, will find itself faced by insurmountable difficulties in endeavoring to pass the pending bill.

Another aspect of the situation is that the Democratic party finds itself in the position of gaining much political ammunition for the next campaign, in which the issues apparently will be the tariff and farm relief.

President Hoover, it is believed, will maintain his present silence as to details of the bill while it is under consideration in the Senate. He feels, it is said, that it is not his duty to interfere while the Republican factions are adjusting their differences, and hopes to see a bill satisfactory to the country adopted in the end.

Caraway Aims Fire at Hoover.

Senator Caraway of Arkansas, in a statement made public by the Democratic National Committee, said he could not understand why President Hoover was not interfering in the tariff tangle since he was so zealous in sending a letter to the Senate protesting against the export debenture provision when the farm relief bill was under consideration. Mr. Caraway asked why Senators Watson and Smoot went to the White House, if not to consult President Hoover on the tariff rates.

"The inference must be," Senator Caraway said, "either that Senator Smoot and Senator Watson must have just been dropping in and out in the White House in a purely social way, or else that the President has been listening to their report of what has been going on in the Senate in strict silence.

"It may be a little bit difficult to believe that the President, after calling an extraordinary session of Congress for an extraordinary purpose, should be so indifferent to the perversion of that purpose as to withhold from the administration spokesmen in charge any idea of what he wants.

"For example, in his message to Congress, he specifically requested an alteration in the flexible tariff provision and a reorganization of the Tariff Commission, and we all supposed that the House bill offered him the changes he desired, particularly as his own secretary represented him in the House conferences, at which the substitute provisions were framed.

Changes Now Whittled Down.

"They were framed in such a manner as to make the President a complete dictator in the matter of tariff rates and made the Tariff Commission absolutely subject to his will, inasmuch as they were to be appointed, not as now from both parties, but absolutely as he chose to select them, and they could be dismissed, singly or all together, at his pleasure.

"Under the fire of those who objected to his allegation of Congressional authority, the changes were whittled away until now the flexible provision stands about where it did before anybody thought of another revision of the measure.

"Anybody who wishes to may believe that all this was done without anybody telling the President about it, or without his making any inquiry while the newspapers were recording the fact that the Republican majority of the Finance Committee has been reluctantly abandoning what he wanted of it.

"Less credulous people, sad to say, take the view that the President, with his keen sense of the danger that lies in the enactment of so gross and extortionate a tariff, has advised his legislative captains that they must carry the burden. In other words, that they should go after whatever they can get away with on behalf of the administration's favorites, but must not quote him, and my two distinguished colleagues are doing the best they can in a difficult situation."

Duty on Hides Protested.

D. G. Ong, president of the United States Leather Company, has written a letter to the farm group and other Senators protesting against the duty on hides. He said that such a duty would favor only the packers and would result in higher prices for shoes, and that the farmer would not benefit by the duty.

"This proposed 10 per cent tariff on hides will add from $600,000 to $750,000 to the cost of our raw material yearly, which the packing tanner is able to avoid," he said.

"The independent sole leather tanning industry will be obliged to pass on this added cost to the shoe manufacturer, who in turn will call upon the consuming public to bear the burden through increased prices for shoes.

"In the end, the community at large are the sufferers. Instead of being benefitted, the farmer will pay more for his shoes and other leather products. The packing interests will be the gainers."

DEATH RATE DROPPED IN THE STATE IN JULY

Birth Rate Was the Lowest Ever Recorded by Health Department for That Month.

ALBANY, Sept. 23 (AP).—Although the birth rate for July in the State announced by the Health Department was the lowest ever recorded for that month, the death rate was lower than for July, 1928, or the average for five years.

Basing its statement partly on these facts, the department asserted that "for the fifth successive month favorable health conditions prevailed throughout the State."

An exceptionally low infant mortality was reported, the lowest ever recorded for any month. The report added that "among the cities of the State with a population over 100,000 the rate ranged from a minimum of twenty-four deaths under one year per 1,000 living births in Yonkers to a maximum of ninety-three in Utica. In this group of cities Utica recorded the highest infant mortality rate also during the months of March, May and June." The report continued:

"The decrease in the general death rate was mainly due to lower mortality from the important diseases of childhood and diseases of the respiratory system.

"Mortality from tuberculosis dropped to the lowest point ever recorded for the month. The death rate from pneumonia was the lowest in six years. The influenza rate, continuing its decline from the high point of January, was less than half of the corresponding rate a year ago. Decreases were also recorded in mortality from diseases of the arteries, with the lowest rate in four years; homicide, with the exception of last year, the lowest since 1922, and alcoholism, with the single exception of August, 1926, the lowest for any month in five years.

"The death rate from cancer was below the rates recorded in 1927 and 1928. In the last twenty years a lower death rate from puerperal septicemia has been recorded only once in July.

"On the negative side of the generally favorable account, we note new maximum death rates for the month from diseases of the heart and diabetes and the highest rate from suicide since 1915.

The birth rate for the month was 19.6 for each 1,000 population, compared with 19.8 for July, 1928, and an average of 21.0 for the past five years. The death rate was 10.7, compared with 11.0 for July of last year and a five-year average of 10.9. The infant mortality rate was forty-three deaths under one year for each 1,000 living births, compared with forty-eight in July, 1928, and an average of fifty-one for the past five years.

CLASH IN MEXICO LAID TO OFFICIALS

Portes Gil Says Presence of Deputy's Car Near Killing Has Aroused Suspicion.

STRONG MEASURES PLEDGED

Departure of President on 15-Day Trip Is Construed as Showing He Is Not Alarmed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22.—Suspicion that officials of his own administration were involved in the latest Mexican election clash, in which two persons were killed and four wounded Friday night, was voiced today by President Portes Gil.

The President is greatly disturbed by the development, but not sufficiently alarmed to postpone a fifteen-day trip to Monterey, San Luis Potosi, Ciudad Victoria, Tampico and other places, accompanied by several members of his Cabinet. The official train left last night and his statement was wired this morning to Chief of Police Valente Quintana.

The police are still investigating to place responsibility for the shooting, which took place in the fashionable section of San Fernando Park, in the course of a meeting in support of José Vasconcelos, the Anti-Re-electionist party's candidate for President. Shots were exchanged presumably between his supporters and followers of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, the nominee of the Grand Revolutionary party, of which President Portes Gil is a member.

The President's statement said:

"The lamentable events in San Fernando Gardens, when a meeting was being held by supporters of José Vasconcelos as Presidential candidate, as result of which two persons were killed and several wounded, leads the government of the republic to feel that the political campaign which was begun under such good auspices is assuming an unfortunate aspect which must be repressed energetically.

"First, there was the regrettable incident in Tampico, resulting in two dead, due to excesses by Vasconcelistas, and now elements opposing Señor Vasconcelos have provoked an unfortunate incident.

"From the police investigations it is learned that an automobile, the property of Deputy Teodoro Villegas, was being operated around the square where the sanguinary events occurred on Friday. As that fact has given rise to rumors that the persons concerned were officials, it is necessary that the authorities find out exactly who was responsible, for the government must see that the prevailing political battle is fought on a basis of decency and without appeal to criminal acts.

"My administration will take every step possible to prevent further similar occurrences."

Chief Quintana states that every step is being taken to comply with the Presidential suggestions.

BIBLE COMMAND CAST BACK AT DOUKHOBORS

Victoria (B. C.) Prosecutor Tells Sect to Render Unto Caesar Things Due Him.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 22.—With the declaration that "the laws of the country will be maintained with regard to all persons irrespective of creeds, bliefs or stations in life," Attorney General R. H. Pooley has issued notice to the Doukhobors that if they are not satisfied they are privileged to leave the country.

Mr. Pooley in his message replies to an appeal sent to Premier S. F. Tolmie by the Sons of Freedom, a Doukhobor sect.

"There cannot be a compromise between light and darkness, Christ and Caesar," read the Doukhobor missive.

From Mr. Pooley came the reply:

"Christ's teachings, which you profess, was to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's. See Mark, Chapter 12, Verse 17."

SAVES WOMAN IN FIRE.

Engine Company Driver Carries Out Smoke Victim in Tenement Blaze.

Mrs. Jamie McCormick, 20 years old, was overcome by smoke and was rescued by Driver William Seeley of Engine Company 7 in a fire that partly destroyed a five-story brick tenement at 135 East Twenty-seventh Street at 7:20 o'clock last night. Seeley, who had heard screams from the fifth floor, mounted a ladder and broke the window. He carried the woman downstairs, where she was revived.

The fire started in the cellar, spreading upward through a dumb-waiter and causing considerable damage to the upper floors.

Patrolmen John Herlee and James Wood of the East Thirty-fifth Street station, heard cries for help from a woman on the second floor. It was Mrs. Sophie Columbus, 45 years old, who had become hysterical, and who refused to leave unless a parrot and a poodle were carriedm to safety. The policemen saved the animals.

Julius S. Berg, commander in chief of the Jewish war veterans in the United States, received $1,000 in gold at a testimonial dinner given for him by the Colonel Harry Cutler Post of his organization last night at the Bronx Winter Garden, 1,876 Washington Avenue. About 800 persons attended the dinner.

Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, the principal speaker of the evening, paid tribute to Mr. Berg and to the organization which he heads. Telegrams regretting their inability to be present were received from Governor Roosevelt and Mayor Walker. Harry Stackell was toastmaster.

THE SACKVILLE $37.50 SUIT

isn't just a "show case" suit

THE SACKVILLE $37.50 COAT

will stand "wadding up"

THERE'S a funny psychology in the way a man treats his coat at the movies or the theatre. He may hang it up carefully all the rest of the time, but once inside a show house the chances are he'll wad it up and jam it under his seat like the rest.

It's a wonder topcoats don't all look wrinkled and disheveled after this use. But some, like this Sackville, are made of sterner stuff.

Take the collar, for instance. It's the first to suffer. In the Sackville, the collar is entirely hand-sewn and attached by expert tailors. The process of shaping and stitching a fine collar is intricate and must be painstakingly done. Extra cloth must be worked into it to take up the inevitable strain. If this is not done the result will be one of those permanently wrinkled and bulging collars that one occasionally sees.

[The fabrics in the new Sackville topcoats were selected with great care—warmly colored, yet in the best of taste]

ELECTION CAMPAIGN KEEN IN AUSTRALIA

Federal or State Control of Arbitration Issues Chief Point in Contest.

BRUCE TAX PLAN SCORED

Labor Attacks His Proposals for Levy on Amusements Backed by Movie Interests.

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—Extraordinary interest is being taken in the present general election campaign, the second within a year, which will culminate in voting on Oct. 12 and which will determine whether the people are in support of the Bruce government's decision to abolish the Federal Arbitration Court, turning arbitration jurisdiction over to the States, or favor the Labor Opposition's policy of Commonwealth jurisdiction.

The Nationalist, or Government party is confining itself to the arbitration issue, while Labor candidates, though stressing this question, at the same time emphasize the Ministry's amusement tax proposals. Motion picture theatres are being used extensively, largely at the instigation of moving picture interests, to combat the proposed increases in amusement taxation.

The Nationalist fight was carried into the enemy's camp last night when Prime Minister Stanley Bruce opened the campaign of his candidate in North Sydney against William Morris Hughes, wartime Prime Minister of Australia and now a member of the Country party, which failed to support the government in the last house and thereby precipitated the election.

A large body of Mr. Hughes's supporters constantly interrupted the Prime Minister. Mr. Bruce said Mr. Hughes had constantly tried to bring down the government through the last six years. The contest between the Nationalist and Mr. Hughes will be a straight one, the Labor party having declined to run any candidate.

Another Nationalist, named Marks, is runaing at Wentworth on an independent ticket, since his vote helped to bring about the defeat of the government.

Sir Lyttleton Groom, Speaker in the Federal House, must stand for reelection in Darling Downs as an unendorsed candidate because he declined to use his casting vote to help the government. The Nationalists consequently refused to accept his candidature.

James Scullin, leader of the Labor party, is the chief opponent of Premier Bruce. His party was the largest in the last House, the Laborites numbering thirty-one members, but was in a minority against combined Government and Country party forces.

MEXICAN OIL MEN CALM.

Surplus of 60,000,000 Barrels Won't Affect Them, They Say.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22.—Oil men in Mexico assert that they feel no alarm over reports from New York that overproduction of crude oil this year will amount to 60,000,000 barrels.

The oil men say that world consumption is too great at present to be affected materially by a temporary surplus and moreover that Mexico, with its present minimum production, particularly could not well be adversely affected.

MACDONALD'S NAME HISSED IN BOSTON

10,000 on the Common Hear Premier and Hoover Denounced for Naval Reduction Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 22.—The name of Ramsay MacDonald was hissed and booed on Boston Common this afternoon.

A crowd of nearly 10,000 persons, gathered to honor the memory of Commodore John Barry, Irish-American, as the father of the American Navy, was carried to a high state of emotion by the words of Representative John J. Douglas of East Boston, who took the occasion to criticize President Hoover for harkening to British proposals for a reduction of armaments.

"A gentleman from Europe plans to enter this country soon," he said. "He, with the connivance and consent of our President and the weak-kneed administration at Washington, plans to reduce the size of the United States Navy.

"I dislike to criticize the President of the United States, but when the safety of the United States is the issue, as a member of the United States Congress, and as a citizen of this country, I am going to criticize him.

"Though I am of that race and religion whose members are not allowed to become Presidents of the United States, I will never waver one iota from my position regarding the size of our navy. Never will I vote to reduce the size of the arm which defends my country."

Mr. Douglas then assailed "those pedagogues and pacifists who have criticized the actions of Washington and other great Americans in their pettifogging efforts to reduce the size of the navy."

He referred to the Senate as "British-controlled" and suggested the possibility of "the future culture of America being British."

"The peace of the world depends not on Kellogg treaties," he continued, "but on America and on the fulfillment of the policies of George Washington, with no foreign alliances and the maintenance of the means of defending our shores.

"Even as with President Wilson, the crossing of the ocean by Ramsay MacDonald [here he was interrupted by hisses and boos] will mark the beginning of his downfall. Let Americans stand together that the administration of MacDonald may fail," he concluded.

POPE IN TWO SPEECHES IGNORES ALL POLITICS

Addresses Catholic Men, Lauding Growth of Their Organization, Then Speaks to Retired Workers.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 22 (AP).—A striking absence of any allusions of a political nature characterized the addresses of Pope Pius XI today before representatives of the Association of Catholic Men and before the Retired Workmen in two audiences. This contrasted with his references to the alleged surveillance by Fascists of Catholic organizations in Italy in his speech to Catholic youths a week ago.

The Pontiff expressed gratitude today that while where there were only 1,000 groups of the Catholic men's organization functioning in 1926, there were 3,000 now, the total membership having grown from 36,000 to more than 100,000.

A significant point in the receptions of the day, which began with the Pope saying mass in St. Peter's, was the presence of about 500 Bersagliori veterans in the uniform of the famous army corps which participated in the capture of the papal city of Rome in 1870. The veterans cheered the Pontiff as heartily as they had cheered Premier Mussolini earlier in the day at a meeting in the coliseum.

PLANS TO CUT MINE HOURS.

British Minister Says Early Steps Will Be Taken.

SHEFFIELD, England, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press Cable).—As soon as Parliament reopens steps will be taken to reduce the working hours of the miner, declared the Hon. Ben Turner, Minister of Mines, at Highgreen, near here, last night.

Parliament would be tested on the matter and no member with any humanity could support the eight-hour measure passed by the last government, after the 1926 strike, "in anger and conceived in revenge," the Minister asserted. "It has had no successful results in its operation and it is time it went," he added.

BRITISH TROOPS QUIT WIESBADEN TODAY

Special Train Will Be First to Leave Zone—French Will Post 400 Troops as Guard.

WIESBADEN, Sept. 22 (AP).—The first special troop train of the evacuation of the Rhineland will leave here tomorrow with the Second Leicestershire Regiment, bound for Catterick, England. Three officers and men of the Nineteenth Field Brigade of the Royal Artillery also are leaving in three parties for Sheffield, Newcastle and Lark Hill.

The special train will run by way of Coblenz, Treves and Luxemburg to Ostend, where the troops will embark for Dover, where another special train will await them.

French authorities said today that 400 officers and men will be stationed here on the British evacuation. These will supply the guard for the headquarters of the High Commission and the residences of its members.

Official denial was made that France was sending a large body of troops into the territory now occupied by the British. The only places to become French garrison posts are Wiesbaden and Bingen. There will be 200 French soldiers at the latter point to guard the "Hindenburg bridge" over the Rhine.

Bandits Pillage Mexican Town.

ACCOUNTANTS BUSY ON HATRY DEALINGS

Throughout Week-End London Experts Have Worked in Relays on Arrested Financier's Books.

TASK IS COMPLICATED

Exchange Committee Will Consider Results of Collapse Today—Further Meetings Likely.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—One of the most remarkable Sunday scenes in the history of the city was concluded at midnight tonight by scores of accountants and other financial experts who, throughout the week-end, worked in relays on the great mass of documents and books connected with the Hatry companies at Pinners Hall, Austin Friars, a quiet backwater from which deals involving millions of pounds were instituted.

The workers formed the staff of Sir Gilbert Garnsey, the accountant who is in charge of the books and accounts of the Hatry companies and who will furnish the public prosecutor, Sir Archibald Bodkin, with detailed information of the methods of Hatry and his associates.

The experts' first task is to straighten out the accounts and to discover the full extent of the companies' assets and liabilities. The books being complicated, it will be several days before the limits of the financial liabilities are known and perhaps it will be months before the tangle is completely unraveled. Considerable progress has been made, however, since the work commenced on Friday and a preliminary report may be made tomorrow.

The accountants worked throughout Friday night and continued until midnight yesterday. Early this morning they rushed back to the deserted city, not even going out to meals.

The Stock Exchange committee for general purposes meets tomorrow and will consider questions arising from the Hatry collapse. So grave a view is held of the position that it is believed several additional committee meetings will be held during the week.

Efforts will be made to ease the serious situation that has arisen on the Exchange. A leading question is how long the present suspension of dealings in the seven issues with which Hatby was associated will be continued.

The situation is complicated by Thursdays being settling day.

FOUR LINERS HELD UP AT LIVERPOOL BY GALE

Sail After Overnight Delay as Storm Abates—Scythia and Adriatic Among Them.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Three Atlantic liners and one bound for Australia, held up at Liverpool with more than 3,000 passengers aboard by the heavy gale, were able to sail this afternoon when the wind somewhat abated. The ships were the Cunarder Scythia, the White Star liner Adriatic, the Canadian-Pacific Duchess of Atholl and the Aberdeen liner Themistocles.

The Scythia was gotten out of Huskisson Dock yesterday into Sandon Basin with the aid of six tugs, but it was considered too risky to attempt to get her into the river with the gale blowing along the waterfront. She had more than 1,000 New York passengers and should have left yesterday afternoon.

The other vessels remained in the dock. The passengers took the delay philosophically, passing the time as pleasantly as possible. A shipping official said that such a delay in Liverpool was likely to occur only about twice a year.

BRITISH FIGHT PULP FIRE.

Fifteen Engines Tackle Blaze in Store of 100,000 Tons.

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—Many tons of wood pulp were destroyed in a spectacular fire which broke out last night at the Ridham docks at Sittingbourne, where about 100,000 tons of pulp were stored.

Fifteen fire-engines from all parts of Kent and special equipment from the great Tilbury docks assisted in getting the fire under control, though it was still burning tonight.

The flames were visible for miles around, and a strong wind hindered the work of the firemen.

CREDIT MOVES TOLD BY RESERVE BOARD

CURRENCY DEMAND RISES

Review Makes no Mention of the Stock Market Activities on the Rise in Brokers' Loans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The effect of the policy of the Federal Reserve Banks of increasing their holdings of acceptances was described by the Federal Reserve Board today in a review of the credit situation, in which, however, it made no direct reference to the activities on the stock market and the continued increase in brokers' loans.

The board said that developments in the credit situation during recent weeks had been a seasonal increase in the demand for currency, a consequent increase in the demand for Reserve Bank credit and a continued firmness in money rates.

The growth in Reserve Bank credit, the board stated, had not resulted, however, in an increase in indebtedness of member banks at the Reserve Banks, which showed a decline during August from $1,045,000,000 to $1,005,000,000, the principal factor in this decrease being a growth between the average for the last week in July and the last week in August of $80,000,000 in Reserve Bank holdings of acceptances, exceeding by $25,000,000 the increase in currency demand.

On Member Bank Indebtedness.

Despite the decline of member bank indebtedness in August, the board said, it has remained at a high level for more than a year, and has continued to be a factor in sustaining the recent high level of money rates. Attention was called also to the fact that an increased volume of borrowing by member banks at the Reserve banks and a higher general level of money rates were usually characteristic of the Autumn season.

"The course of such indebtedness in the Autumn," the board said, "and consequently the course of money rates, depends in large part, however, upon the extent to which member banks obtain credit at the Reserve banks through other channels, particularly upon the volume purchases by Reserve banks of acceptances and government securities. These purchases depend in turn upon system policy at the time, as determined with reference to the general credit situation.

"Considerable purchases of acceptances by the Reserve banks during the Autumn have occurred in every recent year, but since 1922 there have been substantial purchases of government securities only in 1924 and 1927, when the Federal Reserve System was pursuing a general policy of ease, both by operations in the open market and by maintaining discount rates at a relatively low level.

Discount Rate and Acceptances.

"The recent increase in Reserve Bank holdings of acceptances, amounting to $80,000,000 from the last week in July to the last week in August, has in largest part followed the action taken at New York on Aug. 9 with reference to rates, when the discount rate was raised from 5 to 6 per cent and the official buying rates on acceptances were slightly reduced.

"These changes, together with an earlier reduction in buying rates on July 12, had the effect of substituting at New York a differential in favor of the official bill rate for an earlier differential in favor of the official discount rate.

"The changes in buying rates by bringing these into line with open market rates for bills was a factor in larger offerings of bills to the Reserve banks. There was at the same time some increase in the volume of American acceptances outstanding, reflecting growth in acceptances based on goods stored in or in transit between foreign countries.

"This class of acceptance business, furthermore, which represents extension of American credit in the financing of international trade, has been the chief influence in sustaining the volume of acceptances outstanding, which remained throughout the Summer at a level above $1,100,000,000, about $100,000,000 higher than a year ago."

Acceptances at London Compared.

Since a year ago, the board continued, the acceptance rate has advanced in London by more than 1 per cent and in New York by little more than one-half of 1 per cent, but from the early Summer of last year until midsummer of this year the acceptance rate at New York was generally higher than at London, in contrast with earlier years, when there was almost always a substantial differential in favor of New York.

"The recent relationship, like that in earlier years," the board added, "has tended to divert to New York a larger share of the early Autumn financing of international trade and thus to exert an influence against the further movement of gold from abroad to the United States."

In analyzing by districts the recent decrease in member bank borrowings at Reserve banks the board said that it took place almost altogether in the New York district, which showed a decrease of $122,000,000 from July 27 to Aug. 31, and reached a level approximating $250,000,000.

The board said that in July the issuance of the new small-sized currency resulted in an increase in the demand for currency which at its maximum amounted to more than $100,000,000, but this has been declining since the end of July.

It was evident, however, the board said, that the effects of the new currency on the amount of money in circulation were still considerable, and money in circulation, which earlier this year was in a smaller volume than a year ago, has been continuously above last year's level since the middle of July.

DR. KLEIN PREDICTS RISE IN RAYON USE

Commerce Expert Says Consumption Will Set New Record in 1929, With Peak Still Ahead.

SILK DEMAND UNCURTAILED

Increased Sales Show Rayon Has Not Blighted This Textile, He Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Discussing the prospects for the future of the rayon industry, Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, in a radio address delivered from station WMAL tonight, declared that "though a record was established last year in the domestic consumption of rayon, this record will be surpassed during the present year, indicating that we have not yet reached the peak."

He contrasted this development with the belief expressed in textile circles a few years ago that the saturation point in the use of rayon was about to be reached.

Dr. Klein asserted that with production 25 per cent greater than last year, with imports about 50 per cent larger than during the first seven months of last year, and with no indication of abnormal stocks on hand, there can be "little doubt that prospects for the immediate future are bright."

"While the per capita consumption of rayon in the United States is greater than that of silk," he continued, "it is negligible when compared with cotton and wool. It is therefore possible for still greater increases to be made in rayon consumption without nearly approaching cotton and wool consumption.

"With the quality of the fiber being constantly improved and its utility and versatility being increased, further growth of the industry is inevitable. It is, therefore, the general belief of well-informed observers that the industry is still in its infancy and that while the rate of growth may be somewhat less in future years than it is at present, rayon is bound to play an increasingly important part in the textile industry."

Dr. Klein said the question is often asked whether the tremendous growth in the rayon industry had affected other branches of the textile industry.

Dr. Klein said that figures on cotton consumption in the United States indicate an increase during the past several years, but that it was probable this increase was brought about largely through the increased use of cotton for industrial purposes.

"As to silk," he continued, "we are in a silk era, principally because of the prosperous condition of the country during the past several years. The advent of rayon has not resulted in any decline in the consumption of silk. On the contrary, we have been using more silk year after year since 1924. The latest available figures show that the imports of raw silk are 9 per cent greater than the record imports of last year."

TOOTHACHE SUFFERER LEAPS TO HIS DEATH

Retired Business Man Showed No Signs of Despondency, His Wife Tells Police.

Suffering intensely from toothache, David L. Rice, 45 years old, a retired business man, jumped to his death from an eighth-floor window of his home in the apartment at 207 West Ninety-eighth Street late yesterday afternoon.

According to the story told to detectives by Mrs. Rice, her husband had complained of a bad toothache for several days. Yesterday morning he had it treated by Dr. Charles Nathan, a dentist at 578 West End Avenue, and then returned home. He showed no signs of despondency, Mrs. Rice said.

Yesterday afternoon, at a little after 4:30, Mrs. Rice went to a nearby store. When she returned her husband was missing. Looking out an open bedroom window she saw his body in the courtyard. She notified Arthur McCausland, the telephone operator, who called Patrolman Peter Minauge.

Rice was dead when Dr. D'Angelo of Knickerbocker Hospital arrived.

McCausland told Detectives Moore and Bulger that shortly before Rice's body was found he had given him two letters with a request to mail them. He said that he had placed them in a mail box in the lobby of the apartment house at 215 West Ninety-eighth Street.

Rice formerly was in the fancy goods business, the detectives said, but had retired following the death of his partner. Besides his wife he leaves two children.

TRADE GAINS 6-FOLD WITH LATIN AMERICA

Our Exports and Imports Are Now Over $2,000,000,000, as Against $300,000,000 in 1900.

TREND TO SOUTHERN PORTS

But New York Area Still Handles More Than Half of Commerce With Southern Countries.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—American commerce with Latin America has grown from $300,000,000 in 1900 to over $2,000,000,000 at present, and the United States has steadily forged ahead from third place to a position where it now buys and sells more goods in Latin America than England, Germany and France combined, the Department of Commerce declared today in answering the question, "Who is getting this trade?" An analysis shows that the trend of the trade is swinging from the Northern and Eastern States to the South and the Pacific Coast.

Three-fifths of the 1928 exports to Latin America and half of the imports are credited to the New York district. The value of this trade passing through New York in 1928 was $1,023,352,000.

Since the pre-war period, New York's share of the Latin-American trade has fallen from 66 to 61 per cent in exports and from 58 to 48 per cent in imports, although the volume of the trade through that district has increased, the report shows.

Trade Through New York in 1928.

Latin-American trade through the New York customs district in 1928, which includes New York, Albany, Newark and Perth Amboy, was given by the department as follows:

Pacific Coast Gained.

Discussing where the relative loss of Latin-American trade on the Atlantic Coast has been picked up, the department's analysis, prepared by George J. Eder, says, in part:

"The drop since pre-war years in the share of the North Atlantic district in exports has been balanced by gains on the Pacific Coast and Mexican border. The South Atlantic districts have partly held their own, while the Gulf Coast has suffered a slight relative setback, attributable entirely to losses in the shares of Mobile and Galveston, as New Orleans, Florida and Sabine have forged ahead.

"The changes are in relative position only. In actual volume and value of exports, most districts have shown appreciable gains since 1913, and more than half have continued this increase into 1927 and 1928.

"In imports, as well, the North Atlantic districts show a decrease, although New York's losses are in part neutralized by gains in Massachusetts and Philadelphia. The South Atlantic districts have gone ahead, chiefly through advances in Maryland, Virginia and Georgia. The Gulf Coast districts have also gained, New Orleans having more than doubled its Latin-American imports since 1913-14. All of the Mexican border districts show a marked falling off, while the Pacific Coast reveals decided gains, chiefly in San Francisco and Los Angeles."

Mr. Edgar accounts for these advances by studying the regional trade with Latin America by major areas.

San Antonio Exports Increase.

El Paso and Arizona, he says, have both advanced, but their gains are overshadowed by the enormous strides made by San Antonio, which has increased its exports to Mexico from $2,128,000 in 1913-14 to $42,324,000 in 1928.

"There has been a distinct and increasing tendency for our exports to Mexico to go out through the border districts," says Mr. Eder, "and exports to that country through North Atlantic ports have fallen from 40 per cent of the total in 1913-14 to less than 23 per cent in 1928, exports through South Atlantic ports have dropped from 14 per cent to practicaly nothing, and Gulf ports have fallen from 19 per cent to 9 per cent of the total.

"On the other hand, shipments to Mexico through the Mexican border districts have risen from less than one-third to well over one-half of the total. The share of the Pacific Coast ports has likewise risen from 6 per cent to 11 per cent. These trends are chiefly attributable to the fact that in 1913 the disturbed conditions in Mexico made rail shipments extremely difficult and the tendency was to concentrate our export trade with Mexico at Tampico and Vera Cruz. With the improvement in railway services and in general conditions, many commodities have tended to move by this more rapid method of transport.

"On the other side, both Gulf ports and Mexican border districts have shown a distinct falling off in their respective shares of the total trade with Mexico, their relative losses being largely absorbed by increases in imports through Pacific Coast ports.

Banana Cargoes Go to West.

"San Francisco has more than doubled its exports to Central America, with an increase from $3,048,000 in 1913-14 to $6,144,000 in 1928, while Los Angeles exports to Central America have risen from $18,000 to $6,634,000 in the same period.

"In imports from Central America, too, the Pacific Coast ports have shown a marked increase, San Francisco's imports increasing by nearly $5,000,000 and Los Angeles' by nearly $2,000,000. This change may be explained by the increasing development of banana areas on the west coast of Central America, so that our Pacific Coast States now receive their banana supplies by direct steamer instead of by rail via New Orleans, as formerly."

The analysis shows that the West Indian trade is dominated by the Cuban commerce and is marked by the gains made by New Orleans, whose West Indian exports have tripled since 1913-14, and by Galveston, whose Cuban exports have continued to increase even during the recent years of economic depression on that island.

On the import side, Maryland, Georgia, Florida, New Orleans and Galveston have made enormous gains in Cuban trade since before the war, but all ports have shown a decided drop since 1926, which decrease can be attributed almost entirely to the low prices of Cuban sugar.

Factors in South American Trade.

Discussing "new factors" in South American trade, Mr. Eder's analysis continues, in part:

"These changes may be explained by the tremendous growth of the manufacturing industries in the Southern States, by the westward march of population in the United States and the development of the Pacific Coast region, and by the growth of the automobile and allied industries in Ohio and Michigan.

"This movement of the manufacturing industries of the United States, gradual though it is, is undoubtedly the major reason for the decline in the share of our total exports to Latin America passing through the North Atlantic customs districts and for the gain in the share of this trade moving through Pacific Coast, South Atlantic, Gulf and Mexico border ports."

Mussolini Tells Veterans to Prepare for the Future.

ROME, Sept. 22 (AP).—Premier Mussolini said to a mass meeting in the Coliseum of the veteran Bersagilieri Corps today that "one should not live only upon past glory, but must prepare for the future."

"Today and tomorrow, as yesterday, wherever appears the plumed hat of the sons of La Marmora (the Bersagilieri) there should always appear speed, courage, ardor and divine victory," he said. The Premier, wearing the uniform of an honorary corporal of the Fascist militia, received an ovation.

JUNGLE LANDING FORCED ON FLYING TEXANS

Plane Is Damaged but Four Business Men Escape Injury in Mexico.

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 22 (AP).—Forced southward by a storm which prevented its landing at Brownsville, a Lockheed-Vega monoplane owned by the Texas Company and carrying four prominent Texas business men as passengers, made a forced landing late last night in heavy jungles near Soto La Marina, Mexico.

The plane was badly damaged but none of the occupants was injured.

First news of the plane, which had been missing more than twenty-four hours and for which searching parties had been sent out, was contained in a telegram from Soto La Marina to Burt Hull, president of the Texas Pipe Line Company here. The message was signed by Jack Hott, manager of the Fort Worth Association of Commerce.

The monoplane was a part of the Fort Worth good-will aerocade which is touring South Texas. It was piloted by Bert Pidcoke. Besides Hott the passengers were James D'Arcy, manager of the Clover Land Company, A. L. Ford of the Cooke-Teague Motor Company and Frost Lynn, chairman of service for the Texas Company.

The telegram received by Mr. Hull said the only way out of the jungle was by burro and the trip would require approximately four days.

Later, however, advice from Brownsville said a rescue plane had been sent from the airport there to bring the stranded pilot and passengers out.

PALESTINE FEARS REVIVAL OF CLASHES

Rabbis Abandon Ceremonies for Dead to Avoid Arousing Arab Fanatics.

TROOPS RETURN TO SHIPS

By JOSEPH M. LEVY.

Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 22.—The immediate outlook in Palestine is viewed with grave concern by the authorities, according to a reliable informant.

The fact that today, under pressure, the Jews abandoned their age-old ritual for the dead in the recent disorders is indicative of the nigh tension still existing.

Today was the thirtieth after the killing of the Jews in Jerusalem and, according to Hebraic law, a special memorial service for the dead should have been held. Such a service was arranged, but entreaties of those who feared the ceremony would inflame further racial feeling and religious fanaticism prevailed, and at the eleventh hour the rabbinate decided to abandon the service.

In the meantime the police and military had made all preparations to handle the situation, and at the hour set for the service airplanes droned over the city.

Feeling is now so tense that Arab chauffeurs remove their fezes when driving through Jewish quarters for fear of attack and Jews, rather than pass an Arab on a road, prefer to take circuitous routes.

Holidays Cause for Fear.

Little hope is felt that this bitter feeling will subside for some time to come, and as a matter of fact it is considered likely to be further inflamed when the inquiry commission arrives. It is also feared that the Arab population again may become excited with the approach of three important Jewish holidays when, according to a century-old custom, the Jews will proceed to the Wailing Wall for prayer. It was on the Day of Atonement last year that the disturbances first began at the Wailing Wall, when, upon the request of the Moslem Supreme Council, the government forcibly removed, in the midst of prayers, a screen separating the men and women worshipers in accordance with orthodox ritual.

From Hebron, the burial place of the Patriarchs Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, which was recently the scene of a most barbaric slaughter, there comes an alarming story spread by Moslems there that is alleged to have struck great terror among them. Because of the slaying of sixty-six Jews, the report goes, the spirit of Abraham has been moved to wrath and nightly from his burial place at the Cave of Machpelah, over which now stands a large Moslem mosque, a low moaning is heard, followed by a wail, then words, uttered indistinctly, at first, then clearer: "Why have ye slaughtered my children? Why did ye shed innocent blood? Ye sons of Israel, why have ye dishonored your Father's name?"

The emotional Arabs are said to be terrified and many of them are asserted to be seeking means to propitiate the wrath of the Patriarch.

Troops Are Re-embarking.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 21 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Re-embarkation from Palestine of the landing parties from the British warships has been made, followed by changes in the distribution of the vessels of the Mediterranean fleet.

Arrangements have been made for periodical visits of the ships to Palestine waters. The aircraft carrier Courageous will call at Haifa on Thursday and at Jaffa on Friday. One ship of the third cruiser squadron will visit both ports on Sept. 30. According to the original program of the cruise, the battleship Barham will be off Jaffa from Oct. 1 to 8, in addition to the battleship Manaya, going to Jaffa on Oct. 17.

The protest of British Jews in Palestine for having been disarmed in the disturbances has been forwarded by Sir John Chancellor, the High Commissioner, to the British Colonial Office in London, it is learned.

With the streets of the cities gradually assuming a normal aspect, the cinemas reopened, the populace going about as usual until 9 or 10 o'clock in the evenings and motor traffic between the principal centres virtually normal, it is possible to survey the scene and say what went unharmed in the recent disorders.

Tel Aviv was never actually attacked; not a single house there was damaged. Most of the inhabitants in the threatened quarters have returned to their homes.

In the orange groves in Judea and Sharon not a single tree was cut down in all the colonies. With the exception of Hulda and Ekron, which were damaged, the colonies were unharmed. The Ekronites are returning home. The orphans' village at Ben Shemen was undamaged. The children, after spending a week in Tel Aviv, returned to the village.

Good Reports From Jezreel Valley.

Contrary to previous reports, no Jewish settlement in the Valley of Jezreel or the Jordan Valley was destroyed. Ruttenberg's power houses are working normally. The damage caused to Rosh Pinah and other Upper Galilean colonies was not severe. Resod Hamalah and Mishmar Hayarden, near the Syrian frontier, which were raided, looted and evacuated, subsequently were reoccupied. No machinery of the Novomajsky plant at the Dead Sea was damaged and the workers have returned to their posts.

Most of the refugees are reoccupying their homes in the evacuated parts of Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, the Sharon Plain, as well as at Acre and Hittin, and Mizpah, near Tiberias.

Odud Ha'avodah, the settlement of the labor battalion on the outskirts of Jerusalem near Talpioth, returned after losing one man and about $15,000 worth of property. Eleven houses were completely looted and one house was burned. Talpioth, which was evacuated, is gradually being reoccupied. Mekor Chaim, another Jerusalem suburb, was fired.

In Motza a few houses were burned, including the one where the Makleff family was slain. All the other houses were looted. All buildings were destroyed or burned at Hulda. The settlers have not yet returned there. In addition to the schoolhouse at Hartuv being burned, several houses were looted. The inhabitants have not returned.

Kastinia, an isolated point in the south, was severely damaged. The huts of the girls' farm on the outskirts of Haifa were burned. Shops and houses in the Jewish quarter of Haifa were looted, while a large estate on the Haifa Bay was burned and plundered. The damage here alone amounts to more than 75,000. In the following colonies in the Valley of Jezreel the granaries were wantonly fired: Beth Alpha, Mishmar, Ha'emek, Jeddah, Nachlath Jacob and Geva, while many head of cattle were stolen from the colony of Kescha.

The damage to Beisan, Safed and Hebron is already known.

Permit for Arab School.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 22 (AP).—The Palestine Government today informed Jews who protested against erection of a Moslem religious school at the Wailing Wall that a fully sanctioned permit had been granted to the Arabs by the government.

Reds Blamed for Disorders.

LONDON, Sept. 21 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—That the Communists had a share in the recent Palestine disturbances is the conviction of the authorities, according to the Jerusalem correspondent of The London Morning Post.

A raid was carried out in Haifa, resulting in the arrest of a number of Communists, the correspondent reports. It is recalled that the Communists have a means of playing on the fears and emotions of the Arabs through their consulate at Jeddah. Palestine Arabs making the pilgrimage to Mecca come under the influence of the Soviet consulate and return to Palestine incited to excesses, says the correspondent.

Peace in Palestine is more apparent than real, in the correspondent's view. Precautions still deemed necessary for public security suggest to him that the confidence of the authorities in restored order is unfounded. It is still illegal to carry any weapon, even a stick, which in a policeman's opinion might be used for disturbance. The police are made the arbiters of the effect of a song or gesture and are given authority to arrest offenders without warning. Assemblies are still prohibited.

The Oxford students who defended the Jews in the Arab attack in Jerusalem arrived in London from Palestine today in charge of the Rev. Graham Brown, principal of Wycliffe Hall. All wore sun helmets and carried their rucksacks. They looked bronzed and fit and seemed none the worse for the trying time they went through in Jerusalem. The students were reluctant to recount their experiences.

The father of one of the students who met them at the ship said that the Jewish community of Tel Aviv presented each with a special memento.

"My son appreciates greatly the treatment accorded to the party by the Palestine Jewish communities," he said. "The memento will ever be a treasured possession. The students are all young men studying for the ministry. The oldest is 25 years old. They were pleased at having enrolled in the police force and at having aided in restoring order in Jerusalem. On their return they all attended divine service to offer thanksgiving for their safe return."

Disorders Laid to Arab Envy.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Not the Wailing Wall, but the envy of Arab landowners, is at the basis of the conflict between Arabs and Jews in Palestine, the Men's Brotherhood of the First United Presbyterian Church was told today by Judge William M. Lewis, national chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, who returned last week from an extended tour of Palestine.

To make the Wailing Wall the crux of the dispute is to border upon the ridiculous, according to Judge Lewis.

"The real trouble in Palestine is with the Arab landowners, who still work their ground under the old feudal system with primitive methods and trudging labor," Judge Lewis explained. "The Jews have introduced modern machinery and working conditions, with the result that the Arab workers have shown dissatisfaction with their lot. Racial and religious hatred has been inflamed as a consequence.

"The hardships, however, have not deterred the Jews, sixty new immigrants having arrived there only last week," he added.

NATIONAL MEETING ON PALESTINE URGED

Executives of American Jewish Congress Issue Call for Early Conference.

WARBURG FAVORS DELAY

Time Not Yet Ripe, He Declares—Rabbi Wise Attacks Great Britain's Arab Policy.

The American Jewish Congress at a special conference of executives, members and delegates at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday afternoon directed its administrative committee to cause a national all-Jewish conference to be convened at the earliest possible date for the consideration of all problems arising out of the existing situation in Palestine.

The American Jewish Congress has already entered into correspondence with Felix Warburg of the Jewish Agency, suggesting that such a conference be called by the latter organization. In a reply, read at the meeting, Mr. Warburg expressed the opinion that the time was not ripe for such a conference, but the administrative committee was directed to continue negotiations with the Jewish Agency before considering any other plans.

The conference, as outlined, would not only deal with the immediate need of the Jewish people in Palestine, but would consider all such measures as might lead to the most effective participation of American Jewry in the building of a Jewish national homeland in Palestine.

The decision to call such a conference followed a general discussion of the Palestine situation in which Dr. Stephen S. Wise, honorary president of the congress, placed responsibility for the recent outbreak directly in the lap of Great Britain. If Great Britain had held herself responsible for the actions of the Arabs such an incident could never have occurred, he asserted.

"The British Government in Palestine did not bear itself in such a manner for the Arabs to take it seriously," he said. "Had the British Government led the Arabs to understand that the Jews were not in Palestine to rob them, but to help them and to cooperate with them and if it had made them understand that they must dwell in peace with the Jewish people, the outbreak would have been impossible."

Had the Madison Square Garden protest meeting taken place a month before the outbreak it might have had some effect, Dr. Wise said, in urging that the national conference be held as soon as possible.

Representative Nathan D. Perlman, chairman of the executive committee, reported on the past activities of the congress in regard to the outbreak and urged that individuals continue to make "public and fearless statements of protest," which, he explained, frequently had more effect than the more reserved statements issued by official organizations.

Reports by Dr. Wise, who recently returned from abroad, on the work of the Council for the Rights of Jewish Minorities and the Zionist situation in Russia was deferred until a later meeting, in view of the importance of the Palestine discussion.

At the opening of the meeting the delegates rose, in response to a suggestion by Bernard S. Deutsch, the president, and stood for a minute in silent tribute to Louis Marshall.

Rumanian Jews Protest on Riots.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 21 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—A delegation representing the Jewish Deputies Club in the Rumanian Parliament called on the Ministry of the Interior asking the government to take immediate measures to stop the new wave of anti-Semitic excesses, in which the perpetrators have been mainly students returning from their convention. Vice Minister of the Interior Ion Itzescus assured the delegation that the government had taken strong measures to prevent the spread of the excesses and to punish those guilty.

$9,000 FOR PALESTINE AID.

Special Performance of "Whoopee" Given—$2,000 for Two Seats.

A special performance of "Whoopee" at the New Amsterdam Theatre last night realized about $9,000 for the Palestine Relief Fund. Regular box office prices prevailed, although many ticket buyers contributed extra amounts to the fund. One anonymous patron paid $1,000 each for two seats in the balcony.

The theatre was donated by A. L. Erlanger and the production by Florenz Ziegfeld. Every one connected with the musical comedy contributed his or her services, except members of the stage crew, who were not authorized by their union to do so. The performance was arranged by Eddie Cantor, who induced Clayton, Jackson and Durante of "Show Girl" to appear during the final scene as guest entertainers.

Fifth Trial for Texas Girl Bandit.

LOCKHART, Texas, Sept. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, whose fourth trial for robbery of the Farmers' National Bank at Duda, Texas, resulted in a hung jury, probably will have to face another jury. District Attorney Blundell denied tonight that he had said he was "through with the case." He indicated he planned to take no action, however, until February, 1930.

Yes, more than that, for back of the twenty-five years of actual truck building experience is almost seventy-five years of engineering and manufacturing experience that has gone into other products of the Harvester organization.

International Heavy-Duty Trucks reflect this experience in design and construction and prove its soundness in the performance.

The new heavy-duty engines are noted for their simplicity, sturdiness and economy of operation. All models have five speeds forward and two reverse, and all have 4-wheel brakes.

There are new clutches, new transmissions and double reduction or chain final drive. There are increased capacities and there are bodies and wheelbase lengths to meet the requirements of each individual job. Capacities range from 2½ to 5-ton.

Come in and go over this International Heavy-Duty construction with critical eye—then take one of these trucks out and test it on your job without obligation.

Besides Heavy-Duty Trucks, the International line includes the ¾-ton Special Delivery, the 1-ton Six-Speed Special, and Speed Trucks for 1½, 1½, and 2-ton loads. Backing the trucks is an unequaled service organization—there are over 174 Company-owned branches in the United States and Canada, and dealers everywhere.

2,500 Condemn Morning Freiheit for Calling Riots a Revolt of Oppressed Arabs.

MOSCOW'S HAND IS SEEN

The Communist party of America and its public press, particularly the editors of The Morning Freiheit, Yiddish Communist daily, were condemned after "trial" by the vote of 2,500 men and women yesterday afternoon at the Central Opera House, where it was charged that the Communist organs had "maliciously falsified the news" of the Palestine outbreaks to make it appear that they were part of "a revolution of oppressed Arabian masses against British imperialism and its Zionist allies."

"Witnesses" called by the New York City committee of the Jewish National Workers' Alliance of America, under whose auspices the "trial" was held, pointed out that the reaction of The Freiheit from Aug. 22 to Aug. 28 was the reaction of most of the Jews in the world who deplored the aggressions of the Arabs. Subsequently, it was declared, on orders from Moscow, the Communist editors changed a "pogrom" into a "revolt" and went so far as to charge the Jews with attacking the Arabs. The local Communists then sent greeting, it was said, to the Arabian Congress, part of whose program was the disfranchisement of the Jews and the stopping of Jewish immigration.

Journalists Are "Witnesses."

The "witnesses" were a group of Jewish journalists and editors, including S. Niger, Dr. L. Muckdony, A. Ravutzky, Chayim Feinman, H. Ehrenreich and Dr. Chayim Greenberg.

L. Lehrer, who acted as "the devil's advocate," in seeking to analyze the psychology of the Communist movement, explained the attitude of the Communist in terms of abnormal psychology, illustrating his remarks by references to Freud, Jung and others. He "defended" the volte-face of the Communist Freiheit's editors by asserting that they were victims of "abnormal psychology," and said that "never before in the history of justice has it happened that we have had to sit in justice over a lunatic asylum."

Charging that the Communists had distorted the facts of the Palestine attacks because they were abnormally on the lookout for "the faintest sounds of the beginning of the world revolution," Mr. Lehrer and the other speakers said that the directions to the local Communists to adopt the "Arab revolt" explanation came from Moscow.

Mr. Lehrer suggested that the Communist movement be viewed from the standpoint of a study in morbid psychology and proposed to the audience that instead of blacklisting the Freiheit they continue to read it. The suggestion evoked a loud chorus of "No, no!"

Three Editors Resigned.

Mr. Niger declared that those who opposed the Communist interpretation, including three of the editors who resigned, were branded as "counter-revolutionaries," "betrayers of the working class" and "agents of the bourgeoisie." He charged the Communists with "demoralizing the Jewish people, their culture and their labor movement."

The jury of writers presented their verdict in the form of a resolution which was adopted with approval by the audience. The resolution recited that the Jewish Communists had "defended the Arab hooligans," that they "willfully and maliciously falsified the news from Palestine" and did "their very worst to charge the very victims of the pogrom with the atrocities committed against them."

After asserting that "this treacherous attitude of the Jewish Communists is quite in line with the criminal irresponsibility of all their activity in Jewish life," the Communists were blamed for "their demoralizing influence within the ranks of Jewish labor, their betrayal of Jewish culture and their spread of assimilationist tendencies among the Jewish workers."

In conclusion the resolution said: "We, Jewish workers, this day assembled, solemnly declare it our deep conviction that the accused are guilty as charged.

"We condemn them and place them beyond the pale of Jewish labor and Jewish public life. We call upon the Jewish workers and Jews at large to join us in this verdict, which springs from our most sacred faith in Jewish culture, in the Jewish masses and in the Jewish people."

All Schuylerville Firemen Will Quit Their Posts Today

Special to The New York Times.

SCHUYLERVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 22.—As threatened in a resolution presented by the Fire Department of Schuylerville to the village trustees two weeks ago, the department will disband tomorrow evening, according to Chief Joseph S. Glass.

Business men last night asked the firemen to reconsider their action, but they refused. They demanded an apology from Mayor Jaquith for "interfering" at a fire and the resignation of the Water Commissioner for "turning the hose on the fire chief."

LESLIE TELLS DRYS LAW IS IN A MAZE

ENFORCEMENT NOW INEPT

Executive Asserts Public Opinion Decides Prohibition's Force—High Sees Wets Convicted.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 22 (AP).—Congressional legislation clarifying the relationship of State and Federal Governments regarding enforcement is necessary before prohibition can be made effective, Governor Harry G. Leslie of Indiana declared today at the ceremonies in connection with the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union's fifty-fifth annual convention here.

The Governor's statement was made at the unveiling at the Indiana State House of a bronze plaque commemorating the election in this city fifty years ago of Miss Frances Elizabeth Willard as president of the W. C. T. U. Mr. Leslie accepted the tablet, made by Lorado Taft, Chicago sculptor, following presentation by Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn, N. Y., national W. C. T. U. president.

"Today Indiana is as dry as law can make it under present enforcement conditions," Governor Leslie declared. "She is in the forefront of those States which are cooperating with the Federal Government in the enforcement of the prohibition act. But to make prohibition more effective there might be legislation by Congress to clarify the relationship of the Federal enforcing authorities to the enforcement authorities of the several sovereign States. Enforcement responsibility must be placed."

"The effectiveness of prohibition," he added, "is dependent upon public opinion."

Stanley High, editor of The Christian Herald, in an address prepared for delivery at the night session, said the American people, "in good faith with the liquor business for three-quarters of a century," had given liquor a chance. But, he added, they "found out about liquor. That is why we have prohibition." He said prohibition would continue as long as folk remember what they learned about the liquor business.

Mr. High questioned the purpose of those who want prohibition abolished when he said: "I do not believe the average wet newspaper fights against prohibition because it believes it will gain by winning the fight. Nor do I believe that liquor is so hard to get that the average wet is made wet by his thirst. He can get liquor, only it is very inconvenient and not so good."

MOVE TO ESTABLISH COLONY AT HEBRON

Resolutions calling for the establishment of a colony in memory of one of the students killed at the Jewish college at Hebron, destroyed at the time of the massacre in which eight Americans lost their lives, were adopted last night at Yeshiva College, 187th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, at a meeting in memory of the slain students. Two of the eight American victims at Hebron, Rabbi William Berman and Benjamin Hurwitz, were former students at Yeshiva. The colony will be in memory of Rabbi Berman.

G. Bublick, president of the American Mizrachi organization, who recently returned from Palestine, told of the attacks by the Arabs.

"The Jews' answer to the massacres in Palestine," he said, "should be more zeal in the upbuilding of the land. The answer to the attack at Hebron must be the reconstruction of the college and the making of Palestine the spiritual and religious centre of world Jewry."

The meeting was presided over by Hyman Rutenberg and attended by more than 500 persons.

TWO DIE IN MAINE PLANE.

Special to The New York Times.

RUMFORD, Me., Sept. 22.—Roger Swan, age 26, pilot for the Maine Air Transport Corporation, and Henry Richards, 20 years old, of Hidlonville, Me., a mill worker, were instantly killed here this afternoon when a Waco biplane crashed to the ground after striking a "pocket" of air.

Richards was the twenty-sixth passenger taken for a flight by Swan from the airport. When the plane was about half a mile from the field on the return trip, watchers saw it rock sharply. The pilot regained control, but lost considerable altitude. About 300 feet from the ground the plane went into a nose dive and crashed in a gulley.

BRINGS BRITISH PLANE FOR SAFETY CONTEST

Major Cordes Here on Minnewaska to Seek Guggenheim Prize—Zeppelin Passengers Back.

Among the passengers who arrived yesterday on the Atlantic Transport liner Minnewaska was Major R. Cordes, formerly of the Royal Air Force and now test pilot for the Handley Page Aeroplane Manufacturing Company of London. He brought with him a plane from the factory to compete for the prize offered by the Guggenheim Fund in its safety contest.

The Major said his machine was of the "Sequi" type, which means that the lower wing is half the size of the upper one, and that it has the slotted wing, a safety device invented by Handley Page, which prevents stalling. Major Cordes said he would probably take quarters near a New York flying field.

Other passengers among the 320 first-class in the Minnewaska included Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Frost, who crossed from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen in the Graf Zeppelin, and R. E. Patterson, New York real estate man, who was accompanied by his wife. Mr. Patterson said that building operations were going on at a rapid rate in England and especially in London.

Officers of the Minnewaska said the new landing stage, more than 1,000 feet long, which is being constructed at Tilbury, near the mouth of the Thames, will be completed by the end of the year. This will permit the largest liners bound for London to discharge their passengers without waiting three or four hours for the tide to enter Tilbury Docks.

There was one stowaway in the Minnewaska, Frederick Hearn, 40 years old, a mechanic, who said he was an American citizen. He was discovered last Tuesday, three days out, hiding in the starboard shaft tunnel.

GOLFING GANGSTER SLAIN.

Illinois Police Believe Supposed Detroiter Was Taken for Ride.

GRANITE CITY, Ill., Sept. 22 (AP).—The body of a man, tentatively identified as that of Jack Wilson of Detroit, was found lying close to a river dike near here late Saturday. The man had been shot twice in the head and the police believe he was "taken for a ride" and his body thrown from the car after he had been killed.

Russ Conley, a cigar store proprietor of Alton, Ill., made the tentative identification. A golf score card of a near-by club, found on the body, bore the names Jack and Russ.

Conley, indicted on charges of violating the Federal narcotic act, said he had played golf with Wilson Saturday morning.

Graham-Paige Has Always Had Four Speeds Forward

The first Graham-Paige ever built offered the great advantage of four speeds forward with standard gear shift—now time-proved in the hands of thousands of owners. A 25% reduction in engine speeds at all road speeds adds a new thrill to motoring... silent smoothness with flashing acceleration and greater economy.

This outstanding feature, and the many important body and chassis improvements, are reasons why you should see and drive a 1930 Graham-Paige before buying any motor car...

"OVER THE WAR GROUND OF THE 77th DIVISION"

with ARTHUR McKEOGH

... begins today in the Evening Post!

ARTHUR McKEOGH, Adjutant to Major Whittlesey immediately preceding the cut-off of the Lost Battalion, has retraced the route of the 77th Division . . . to Ypres and Arras with the hard-pressed British, to our own front-line sector in Lorraine; next to real warfare along the Vesle River and North to the Aisne; finally through the Argonne Forest, where the Lost Battalion made its stand, and up to Sedan on the eve of the Armistice.

And there was plenty of hiking. But as Arthur McKeogh traveled over this familiar ground, from the English Channel almost to the Swiss border, he found great changes to report . . . in Calais the Rue Royal (where that narrow-gauge trolley runs) is all lit up like a star shell now . . . outside Ypres stands an old and rare battle sign identifying Shrapnel Corner . . . beyond, the road to Armentieres and "hinky-dinky-parlez-vous" . . . Arras Cathedral, now half constructed . . . in Barly a British sign at the turn of the road: "No Lorries This Way."

Arthur McKeogh has been over every foot of the long, long, winding trail once again . . . he has discovered what has happened to the people and places that the A. E. F. knew. He tells of his experiences in twelve corking articles in the Evening Post.

METHODISTS URGE LARGER DRY FUND

OPENING OF DRIVE IS SEEN

Cost of Prohibition for 1930 Is Put at $44,700,000 by Wets, but Drys Question It

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Increased appropriations for larger appropriations for prohibition enforcement, urged upon Congress by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, are looked upon here as the opening of a drive to be carried on next Winter to swell the already large funds for carrying out the dry laws.

In its official publication, The Clip Sheet, the board today argued the great difficulty of coping with liquor-running from Canada, and adds:

"It is obvious that the United States can greatly restrict this criminal traffic by the use of sufficient men and adequate equipment, and Congress should insist that this be done."

Appropriations for enforcing prohibition in the fiscal year 1930 have been estimated as totaling about $35,000,000, but, nevertheless, the board states that, if the needs had been carefully analyzed at the last session, there would have been "a greatly increased appropriation."

Dr. J. M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, has stated that the first nine years of prohibition work mounted to more than $213,000,000.

"The consideration of the budget," declared the board today in its Clip Sheet, "makes important the following acknowledged facts:

"The government is not using sufficient men nor is it supported with adequate equipment for prohibition enforcement.

"The Congress of the United States stands ready to appropriate whatever money is needed to secure efficient administration of prohibition and the people of the United States expect such appropriations.

"The Democrats in Congress have been even more insistent than the Republicans that prohibition enforcement be properly supported.

"The only reason a greatly increased appropriation was not made at the last session of Congress was because there had not been adequate analyses of the needs so that funds might be intelligently allocated."

The Clip Sheet cites the difficulty of enforcement along the American-Canadian border as a typical example of the need for more money.

Opponents of the dry laws put the cost of prohibition for 1930 at about $44,700,000, made up as follows:

Prohibition unit	$13,500,000
Coast Guard and customs	15,000,000
Department of Justice	9,000,000
Other funds	3,228,000
Total	$44,728,000

The "other funds" are the supplemental estimates approved by Congress last Spring, after the regular appropriations had been passed in the Winter.

The $3,228,000 was the recommendation sent to Congress by President Coolidge after Senator Harris unsuccessfully tried to have an additional $24,000,000 appropriated for enforcement, and during the discussion of which the Senate one day approved the $270,000,000 suggested by Senator Bruce of Maryland.

As authorized by Congress, the sum of $3,228,050 includes $1,719,600 for expansion of the prohibition unit; $260,000 for the Tawney-Beedham Commission, $307,800 for sixteen new Federal attorneys, $200,000 for the civil service, $150,400 for prohibition work on the Canadian border and $200,000 for narcotic enforcement.

Not long after the fight over the Harris amendment, the association against the prohibition amendment aroused the dry by declaring that enforcement cost the huge sum of $836,000,000 in 1928.

Dr. F. Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon League, derided this estimate as ridiculous, as did Dr. Doran. Both said the enforcement cost in 1927 was $36,000,000, one-half of which was offset by collections of fines.

The association against the prohibition amendment reached its total of $836,000,000 by adding an estimated loss of revenue, through prohibition, to actual sums appropriated. Its tabulation was:

Customs	4,000,000
Coast Guard	15,425,540
Department of Justice	9,000,000
Lost Federal revenue	$800,000,000
Lost State, city and county rev.	50,000,000
Total	$941,746,945
Collections and fines	5,000,000
Net	$936,746,945

Dr. Doran took this table and accepted the Coast Guard and Department of Justice figures, but cut $1,709,736 off the prohibition unit sum, reduced the customs estimate to zero, raised the collections to $21,872, and discarded the supposed revenue losses.

His estimate was:

Customs	450,000
Coast Guard	15,425,540
Department of Justice	9,000,000
Total	$36,487,209
Collections	21,872,072
Net	$14,615,137

In the calculations the sums for the Department of Justice and customs, service wire estimates, based upon the amount of work these departments supposedly do in aiding prohibition enforcement.

PRESIDENT TO MAKE CAPITAL A DRY CITY

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

capital. At the outset of the Hoover Administration it was reported that the President had determined to enforce the prohibition laws vigorously here with the object of setting an example to other large cities as to how they could be made dry.

Government officials, however, gave the impression then that there was no intention on the President's part to make Washington a sort of Exhibit A in dryness, and the interpretation placed on their statements was that the report of the President's intention was irritating to the White House.

It appears, however, from tonight's formal statement that Mr. Hoover contemplates cleaning up the illicit liquor traffic in Washington.

Probably no other city in the country, with the possible exceptions of New York and Chicago, has been so widely advertised as Washington as a wet centre. Much of the publicity the capital received came from incidents having to do with the privilege of Ambassadors and ministers to bring in wines and liquors without interference by the authorities. Senator Cole Blease of South Carolina was one of the most consistent critics of this practice.

Diplomatic immunity from the prohibition law received much attention over the decision of Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, not to authorize the importation of any more intoxicating beverages for the embassy.

Rumors that the Senate and House office buildings reeked with liquor have been common in Washington without the production of any direct evidence to support them. One of the mysterious characters of the capital was "the Man with the Green Hat," who was alleged to be a bootlegger for the Senate office buildings.

The Washington police, in cooperation with Federal prohibition agents, have been very active against bootleggers, and Southern Maryland has been combed by prohibition agents, who evidently believed that it was the chief source of Washington's supply of moonshine.

In the speech in the Senate yesterday which appears to have angered President Hoover, Senator Howell said, "The President of the United States is all-powerful in the city of Washington," and added:

"The appointive officials of the city, and under the law he can remove those officials when he sees fit, no matter if they must be appointed by the Senate upon appointment. If he insists upon their enforcing the law or leaving their offices, they and the police force under them would enforce the law."

In the course of his remarks, Senator Howell also said:

"We are not willing to go as far as necessary to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment. There is no question about it. Enforcement can be brought about; enforcement in the city of Washington can be effected. The President can dismiss any official in the city of Washington, because such officials are his appointees or are appointees of the President.

"In my opinion, if the President called the commissioners of the District of Columbia before him and said, 'I have secret service officials at my command. If they discover something here in connection with the violation of the prohibition law before you discover it, you are out,' there is no question about what the result would be. There could be one city in the country that could be cleaned up."

Said Carriers Were Accountable.

In discussing the matter of immunity from the liquor laws for diplomatic establishments, Senator Howell contended that any common carrier transporting "embassy liquor" would be subject to confiscation.

"I think it was in 1923," said Senator Howell, "that the Attorney General handed down an opinion that whereas liquor in the hands of diplomatic officers could not be seized, that if liquor were consigned to a diplomatic official it did not relieve it from the right of seizure and that any common carrier that transported that liquor would be subject to confiscation under the law.

"In most of those cases the liquor that came to the Siamese Legation or that has been delivered to other legations here was transported by a common carrier.

"In the case of the importation of liquor to the Siamese Legation I find the name of the steamship that brought it in the United States and that it has to cross the three-mile limit, that portion of the sea which is a part of the United States, and therefore that steamship was subject to confiscation for transporting the liquor through that zone. Has the Department of Justice done anything about it?

"Again, I have the name of the trucking firm that hauled that liquor to Washington. It does not make any difference that a diplomatic official or an employe of one of our embassies here in the city was sitting beside the driver of that truck; it was subject to confiscation under the decision of the Attorney General. The reason why this sort of thing is not stopped is because there is not the will to stop it."

It was this last remark which is supposed to have aroused President Hoover especially and led to the issuance of tonight's White House statement.

ASKS CURB ON CIGARETTE.

Methodist Publication Wants Congress to Ban Advertising.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in its publicity clip sheet, today came out against the advertising methods of manufacturers of cigarettes and called on Congress to take action.

After a reference to Senator Smoot's recent proposal to protect against tobacco manufacturers under the pure food law if they misrepresent their products, the Methodist Board says:

"But the time seems to have come when Congress should go further than this. There are many people who believe that the time has come when Congress should consider the propriety of protecting the American home and reserving to American parents the health education of their children by excluding from the radio and the United States mails all cigarette advertising.

"There is not the slightest doubt that such proposed legislation would receive the support of millions of Americans who have stood about all that they can stand or intend to stand.

"It is not contemplated to deprive the adult users of cigarettes of the opportunity to purchase them. But there is a majority sentiment in at least 300 Congressional districts prepared to demand the protection of American childhood from the atrocious assaults being made upon it."

IT TOYS?

THE day of laughter at "horseless buggies" and of polite scorn at the "crazy" Wright boys are within the memories of most of us. The era of derisive editorials on the folly of such scientific "toys" as the phonograph and the telephone is not much farther back.

But today, these one-time novelties are an accepted part of our every-day life—the result of patient effort and skill to make them more practical, useable and dependable.

Take the telephone for example. Jeered at by an English newspaper of the '70s as "the latest American humbug," it has become so increasingly useful that without it the pace of modern life could scarcely be maintained.

8700 times a minute—more than 12,500,000 times each day—the people of New York State entrust their social and business contacts to the telephone. The confidence with which this is done is justified by the increased dependability of the service and the speed with which the telephone gets things done.

BORROWS PAINTINGS ABROAD FOR EXHIBIT

WILL RETURN WEDNESDAY

Met With Enthusiastic Cooperation on Part of Foreign Collectors and Museum Officials.

Paintings from foreign collections as well as loans from American museums and private collections will be included in the first exhibition of the new Museum of Modern Art, which will open its galleries in the Heckscher Building early in November.

A. Conger Goodyear, chairman of the organizing committee of the new museum, is to return on Wednesday from Europe, where he has been collecting important paintings for the initial showing. Mr. Goodyear has met with enthusiastic cooperation on the part of collectors and museum officials in England, France, Holland and Germany, it was learned here yesterday.

Twenty-five paintings which Mr. Goodyear has borrowed for the first exhibition are valued at $1,500,000, according to appraisal here. Among those who have lent pictures for the museum's initial show are Lord Ivor Spencer Churchill and Samuel Courtauld of London, Baron de Hauke and MM. Hessel, Bignou, Doucet, Paul Rosenberg and Bertheim-Jeune of Paris.

This first exhibition is to include paintings by four of the pioneers in the modern movement in art—Paul Cézanne, Georges Seurat, Paul Gauguin and Vincent Van Gogh. Mr. Goodyear has obtained more than a dozen Cézannes, all of first rank, including a famous version of "The Card Players" and a portrait of Mme. Cézanne.

The family of Van Gogh have given Mr. Goodyear the choice of paintings by him still in their possession. Among the several pictures by Seurat is the well-known canvas "La Parade," often compared with "La Grande Jatte" in the Chicago Art Institute, "La Baignade" in the Tate Gallery in London, and "Le Cirque," which the late John Quinn of New York gave to the Louvre. Although these four French painters died neglected and misunderstood, they are considered today among the masters of modern art.

HOUSE OF BISHOPS WILL MEET ON OCT. 1

Three-Day Conference to Be Held at Atlantic City Will Be First of Annual Series.

More than 100 of the 146 Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church will attend a three-day meeting of the House of Bishops of that communion to be held in Atlantic City, beginning Oct. 1.

The last day of the session two missionary Bishops will be elected. One will be for Wyoming to succeed the Right Rev. Nathaniel Seymour Thomas, who resigned in 1927 to become president of the Philadelphia Episcopal Divinity School. Another will be for Honolulu, to take the place of the Right Rev. John D. LaMothe, who died Oct. 25.

The services to be held in connection with the business sessions will take place in St. James's Church and the Church of the Ascension. At a celebration of holy communion in St. James's Church at 10 A. M. on Oct. 1 the Bishops will wear their vestments and march in procession into the church.

This will be the first annual meeting of the House of Bishops. Heretofore it met only in connection with the triennial general convention or on special call of the presiding Bishop, who now is the Right Rev. John Gardner Murray.

The annual conference of the Bishops of missionary districts and the Bishops of diocese that receive financial aid also from the general church will be held at Haddon Hall, beginning next Saturday and continuing through Monday.

The host to the House of Bishops will be the Right Rev. Paul Matthews of Princeton, Bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey.

WARNS BRITAIN ON UNION.

Amery, Former Tory Minister, Opposes Joining European Federation.

STRATFORD, Ont., Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—"Entry into any economic union with the nations of Europe would be a fatal mistake for Britain; it should be resisted to the last breath," said L. C. M. S. Amery, Secretary for Dominion Affairs in the late Baldwin Government, in an address here Saturday night. Mr. Amery made an urgent plea for economic cooperation within the Empire.

"Freer trade within the Empire is the real key to greater economic development," he said. "This is a critical and creative stage, and, unless we take hands and promote freer trade within the Empire, we are bound to drift into a European union, and Canada is bound to drift into a similar economic union with the United States. This would be a fatal mistake for both Britain and Canada.

"No greater opportunity ever existed than the one which is before the nations of the Empire now for a greater economic union within our own Empire."

CUT IN CUBAN SUGAR SEEN.

Interior Secretary Expects 30 Per Cent Decrease in Oriente.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 22.—A reduction in the sugar output of Oriente Province next year probably reaching 30 per cent of the normal cane crop was forecast here today by General Manuel Delgado, Secretary of the Interior.

"The terrible drought experienced this year by Oriente Province, which is the largest sugar producing province of the island, has no parallel in the history of the country," he said. "In some sections of the province not a single drop of rain has fallen in ten months and the cane fields are suffering greatly.

"The cane looks wilted, and I am sure the yield per acre as well as the sugar content and cane stalk will suffer a tremendous decrease. This may mean an automatic crop curtailment."

Twelve Tablets Will Recall The Battle of Germantown

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Twelve bronze tablets, erected to indicate the landmarks at the scene of the Battle of Germantown, will be dedicated at the 152d anniversary of the battle on Oct. 5.

A committee directed by Dr. I. Pearson Willits, former president of the Germantown Historical Society, investigated records of the battle site and arranged for the markers.

The tablets have been placed on buildings, walls and boulders along Germantown Avenue, Church Lane and Limekiln Pike, on Chew House, where the battle opened; the home of Caspar Wister Haines, and other sites.

$250,000 INFIRMARY DEDICATED BY SCHOOL

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 22.—The $250,000 infirmary at Lawrenceville School was dedicated this afternoon. It is part of the development of the school campus and is in memory of Dr. Simon John McPherson, who was head master of the school from 1899 to 1919.

The principal speaker at the exercises was Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University. He paid tribute to Dr. McPherson, who was one of his close friends. The address of dedication was made by Dr. Mather A. Abbott, head master of Lawrenceville. A memorial tablet was unveiled by Mrs. Charles H. Raymond, a daughter of Dr. McPherson. A list of donors to the infirmary fund was read by Frank R. Searles, chairman of the executive committee of the board of trustees, and Mrs. Charles D. Ferry.

The names of boys and men in whose memory rooms have been dedicated at the infirmary were read by Dean F. J. V. Hancox of the school faculty. Those remembered in this way are:

CHARLES OEHLER, president of the Fathers' Association.
EDWIN C. FORESMAN, master.
RALPH C. BAGLEY, '01.
GEORGE P. MELLICK, '31.
LOUIS H. PFEIFER, '07.
JOSEPH H. SCALES, '28.
HUDLOW G. SIMMONS, '23.
DAVID S. TENNEY, '30.

The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. Dr. John Dixon of Trenton, president of the board of trustees of the school.

A service in the Edith Memorial Chapel preceded the dedication of the infirmary. In the chapel Dr. Abbott dedicated a tablet in memory of George P. Mellick, who died a year ago after a vain attempt to rescue a girl from drowning. The tablet was given by the boys of Griswold House, where Mellick lived while a student.

Classwork of the school will start tomorrow.

DEDICATE THE SITE OF NANCY HANKS CABIN

West Virginians Gather for Ceremony at Boll's Gap in Honor of Lincoln's Mother.

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 22 (AP).—A thousand persons gathered at Boll's Gap, near here, today to aid in dedicating the ground on which stood the cabin along Mike's Run, in Mineral County, where Nancy Hanks, mother of Abraham Lincoln, was born.

The ceremony marked the culmination of the efforts of a commission which has reported the establishment of the fact that Nancy Hanks was a native of the western portion of the old Dominion of Virginia, now the State of West Virginia.

Boll's Gap is in the Alleghany Mountains close to the Maryland line and not far from the Virginia border line in a district that still retains a semblance of the primitive surroundings in which the mother of Lincoln was born.

The principal address at the exercises was made by Dr. William E. Barton of Foxboro, Mass. William E. Barger of Keyser, a member of the State Commission, was chairman.

At a meeting of the commission here yesterday a report to be submitted to the Legislature was adopted, approving the finding that Boll's Gap was the birthplace of Nancy Hanks and recommending that the State buy the Boll tract of 800 acres as a State park. It also recommended the construction of a duplicate of the cabin in which Nancy Hanks was born.

VOTING MACHINES AN ISSUE.

Of Pennsylvania's 67 Counties, 36 Will Ballot on the Method.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP).—About 75 per cent of the State's electorate will have an opportunity to vote for or against the use of voting machines at the November election, according to a statement issued today by the Pennsylvania Elections Association, which advocates them.

The voting machine referendum takes place in only thirty-six of the State's sixty-seven counties, but the larger centres of population, where the association says the machines are most needed, are included.

Among them are Philadelphia, Allegheny County and the big anthracite and bituminous coal counties, where charges of fraud and irregularities have been frequent. The association estimated that 75 per cent of the State's voting population lives in cities, counties and boroughs in which the question will be submitted.

INDIANA GRAND JURY TOLD OF 1926 VOTE

Federal Attorney Presents Charges Involving Election in Which Senator Watson Won.

STORY OF GRAFT RECALLED

Gary Politician's Charges Made Before Reed Committee Are Discussed Anew.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 22.—United States Attorney Oliver Loomis has gone back to the Indiana election of 1926 seeking evidence of Lake County graft which he might present to the special grand jury meeting here. It was in that year, after an allegedly corrupt primary in the county in May, that Senator James E. Watson was returned to his seat with a majority of 11,000 votes.

The prosecutor admitted today that certain testimony regarding the election had already been given to the grand jury but refused to disclose its nature. He was also silent on the question of whether more such testimony would be introduced.

"We have been bound, on that angle, by the statute of limitations," Mr. Loomis said.

The statute allows but three years, which would now put the alleged primary violations out of reach of grand jury action. However, the general election in November and events of about one and a half months prior to it could lawfully be presented.

Specific charges of just what happened in the primary were made before the Reed committee investigating campaign expenditures in the Fall of 1926. Chief among the Lake County witnesses was Ralph Bradford, a Gary politician, who appeared before Senator Reed in Kansas City in October of that year and told a tale of corrupt officialdom.

Since what Bradford told the grand jury is not known, considerable talk is being made here of what he charged before Senator Reed. In response to a question as to who sent the money into Lake County for the Watson ticket in 1926, Bradford said: "Part of it came from Watson headquarters in Indianapolis, part of it from the local candidates on that slate, and a large portion of it was collected by city and county officials in Lake County, peace officers, from bootleggers and dive keepers, who were forced at the point of a gun to contribute as high as $400 apiece to this campaign fund, and were told if they did not do so at once they would be put out of business; and there were at one time 134 places of this character running during the primary campaign in the city of Indiana Harbor, all of them paying protection."

POLICE CHIEFS TO AID WICKERSHAM BOARD

Head of World Body and National Group Will Meet Today With Law Commission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP).—Chief of Police Philip T. Bell of Kearny, N. J., president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, and a committee composed of police officials from various sections of the country, are to confer tomorrow with the National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement. George W. Wickersham, national chairman, is to preside.

The police chiefs will submit suggestions on the causes and prevention of crime to aid the national committee in the formulation of a program.

CARDINAL DUBOIS AT CRISIS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—The condition of Cardinal Dubois remained stationary throughout today, according to a bulletin issued by his physicians this evening.

In the afternoon the prelate seemed to be resting quietly and late tonight he was reported to be sleeping soundly. The doctors, however, frankly admit that their patient is passing through a crisis. He is suffering from uremic complications after an intestinal operation.

Many distinguished statesmen and diplomats left cards today at the Cardinal's residence. A telegram received this morning by the Papal Nuncio from Vatican State and signed by Cardinal Gasparri says:

"The Holy Father charges you to communicate to the eminent invalid that his Holiness is following with keen interest the progress of his condition. His Holiness wishes to be kept constantly informed and implores divine grace on behalf of his Eminence, for whom he renews, with most paternal affection, the apostolic benediction."

WILL CUT TIME TO BOSTON.

New Haven Road Asks Workers to Suggest Name for New York Train.

"Absolutely the finest day train in the country," is the way President J. J. Pelley refers to the new limited, extra fare train which is to be placed in service in the Fall, running in each direction between Boston and New York on a faster schedule than ever before in effect between those two points, announces the carrier's magazine, Along the Line. Employes are requested to suggest a name for the new train. The schedule of the new train will be quicker than that of the Merchants and Knickerbocker Limiteds, which are now on a five-hour basis, and equipment is being built especially for this train.

"We intend," adds Mr. Pelley, "to give the public something which will be absolutely the last word in 'trainology.'"

LANDS ON ONE WHEEL.

Nova Scotia Flier Brings Plane With Passenger Down Safely.

SYDNEY, N. S., Sept. 22.—The difficult feat of landing an airplane on one wheel was accomplished by Lieutenant Charles Roy this afternoon, soon after he took off from the local airport with a woman passenger. Just as the plane took the air, watchers at the field saw the right wheel drop off. Air club officials succeeded in attracting Roy's attention to the fact.

WHITESIDE MURDER LAID TO BOOTLEGGERS

Philadelphia Police Take Up Theory That Gang Feared Artist Complained of Them.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—The suggestion that Frank Reed Whiteside, landscape artist, was murdered Thursday night by bootleggers who erroneously believed that he had complained to the police of their activities in his neighborhood was being investigated today as all other theories appeared to fail.

The bootlegger theory has arisen from the population peculiarities of the district near Fifteenth and Lombard Streets and from the fact that Mr. Whiteside was often a visitor at the Twelfth and Pine Streets police station for the purpose of registering minor complaints.

It is known to the police that bootleggers have operated covertly in the neighborhood, and that there were establishments in which quantities of liquor were kept.

After his return from the artist colony in Maine, about ten days before his death, Mr. Whiteside visited the police several times to complain of trash cans which had been permitted to lie about in the street and of automobiles which had been parked in the narrow thoroughfare for hours.

The police believe that his slayers may have connected these visits with their own illicit activities.

Mr. Whiteside's widow, who has been convalescing from a serious illness, arrived here from Maine today with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Francis Shuler, the latter an architect. Detectives conferred with them in a vain effort to develop other leads in the investigation.

HAWAII SHOCKS CONTINUE.

Earthquakes Lead to Belief Volcanic Activity Has Begun.

HILO, Hawaii, Sept. 22 (AP).—Continued earthquake shocks last night and today in the western part of the Island of Hawaii has led to the belief that there is volcanic activity in the vicinity of Hualalai or underground between that extinct volcanic cone and Mauna Loa.

The first appearances of the shocks Friday caused ranchers in the vicinity to move their cattle and household goods.

Dr. T. A. Jaggar, volcanologist, visited Hualalai, but said he found nothing unusual. Dr. Jaggar said an eruption depended on whether the sharp quakes continued.

R. V. Woods, custodian of the seismograph at Kilauea, said twenty-five shocks were recorded there, two of which were strong. He pointed out that the eruptions of Kilauea in February and July this year were preceded by many quakes and that the explosive eruption in March, 1924, was marked by a series of continued shocks.

TRIP TO MIAMI FINISHED.

Three Planes on New York Run Are Delayed by Weather.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP).—Delayed more than three hours by clouds and thunder showers, three six-passenger monoplanes, The City of Raleigh, The City of Columbia and The City of Savannah, arrived here at 6:35 P. M., completing the first trip of the passenger and express air service which the Eastern Air Express, Inc., has scheduled to run twice weekly between New York and Miami.

The planes left Tampa early today for Daytona Beach because threatening weather made it inadvisable to attempt a direct run between Tampa and Miami. They were forced to land at Orlando to wait for the weather to clear, and again after the arrival at Daytona Beach a wait was necessary. They stopped again at Stuart for the skies to clear.

A crowd of 2,000 persons assembled at the airport to greet the planes and only a few members of the reception committee were present when the planes landed.

They will leave on the return trip to New York at 7 A. M. tomorrow, with the first stop at Jacksonville for gasoline.

PLANS AIRPLANE FACTORY.

Fokker Aircraft Corporation to Add $300,000 Plant at Los Angeles.

The Fokker Aircraft Corporation, which has plants at Hasbrouck Heights and Passaic, N. J., and Wheeling, W. Va., announced yesterday plans to erect a $300,000 factory at Los Angeles where the work of constructing its four-engined thirty-two passenger transports will be concentrated.

The new plant will be on a thirty-three-acre tract adjoining the Alhambra Airport of the Western Air Express, of which Harris M. Hanshue, president of the Fokker Company, is also president. Six of the new airplanes have been ordered by Western Air Express. Plans for the plant call for production of a plane a week.

LOVE WINS PLANE RACE TO WORLD AIR CIRCUS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 22 (AP).—Pat Love of Richmond, Ind., landed at Fairfax Airport at 3:24:32 o'clock this afternoon, leading four pilots who completed a circular race through Kansas and Missouri in the opening major event of the International Air Circus, which began here yesterday and is scheduled to continue through next Sunday.

William Ong of Kansas City was second, F. M. Johnson of Kansas City third and Tex La Grone of Kansas City fourth and last.

Three pilots who took off yesterday on a flight that included Topeka, Kan.; St. Joseph, Kirksville, Columbia and Marshall, Mo., dropped out before the end of the first day's itinerary.

A crowd of about 25,000 persons was at the airport today for the program of short races and stunts.

When officials finished their computations, Love was declared winner of the Class A planes in the race with an elapsed time of 4 hours 26 minutes and 14 seconds. Johnson was second with 5 hours 7 minutes and 4 seconds.

In Class B, Ong was first with 5 hours 29 minutes and 47 seconds and La Grone was second with 5 hours 44 minutes and 22 seconds.

No crashes marred the program, although two Barling planes narrowly escaped coming together, the wing of one grazing the tail skid of another during maneuvers.

Freddie Lund, captain of the Waco Company stunt team from Troy, Ohio, thrilled the crowd with a "tail-spin climb." While 3,000 feet in the air, Lund headed his plane nearly vertically into the sky and spun while he climbed.

HIT-RUN POLICEMAN STILL A FUGITIVE

James B. Byrnes Suspended From Force for Killing Man With His Auto.

DETECTIVES ARE MYSTIFIED

Baffled by His Failure to Give Up —Victim of Auto Accident Remains Unidentified.

Patrolman James B. Byrnes, sought since Friday night as the driver of a police automobile which hit and killed an unidentified man in Brooklyn, was still missing last night. He was suspended yesterday for failure to report for duty.

Detectives of the Stagg Street station were mystified by Byrnes's failure to surrender. A constant watch has been maintained on his furnished room at 202 Madison Street, Brooklyn, and a canvass of the patrolman's friends has been made. He has communicated with no one, the detectives reported.

The departmental car which Byrnes drove when he went on duty at the Stagg Street station at 4 P. M. on Friday was found that night at 9 o'clock three blocks from the station. Byrnes's nightstick was in the car. The machine had been damaged at the radiator and one front tire had burst.

Witnesses who saw the man killed said the police automobile was driven at a fairly high rate of speed down Flushing Avenue. Midway between Evergreen and Central Avenues the car struck lightly against a moving van which was backed up in front of a furniture store. The force, however, was sufficient to deflect the course of the car and it caromed across the street.

The unidentified man was hit as he stepped off the sidewalk. The body was flung on a sandpile. The police car sped on, although a witness pursued it, calling upon the driver to stop.

The dead man was about 60 years old and weighed 145 pounds. He wore a brown suit, a khaki shirt and tan oxfords. A package containing a suit of overalls was flung from his hands when the car struck him. The body is at the morgue.

YOUNG FAGIN SENTENCED.

Taught Boy to Steal Because He Himself Was Robbed, He Says.

Anthony de Gaton, 21 years old, of 2,330 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, was sentenced yesterday to three months in the workhouse after he had told Magistrate Rosenbluth in West Side Court that he had trained a 14-year-old boy to rob sleepers in subway stations in revenge for having been robbed himself.

De Gaton was arrested in the West Ninety-first Street station of the Interborough Rapid Transit subway at 3:30 A. M. yesterday after Detectives Wick and Sheehan had seen him signal the boy to rob the sleeping man. The boy, Dominick Donatelli, of 375 Montague Street, Brooklyn, told the detectives that he sold newspapers to aid his family, that he had met de Gaton only that night, and that the sleeping man was the first one on whom he had tried de Gaton's instructions. The boy, who confessed first, will be arraigned in Children's Court today.

FIRE SWEEPS SYNAGOGUE.

Superintendent Saves Woman and 4 Scrolls in 81st St. Blaze.

Fire caused by an overheated furnace swept through the basement and first floor of the building at 149 West Eighty-first Street, occupied by the Middle Temple Synagogue, yesterday afternoon, causing damage estimated by the police at $10,000.

After turning in an alarm, Manfred Eikelens of 124 West Eighty-second Street, building superintendent, ran to the third floor and rescued Mrs. Alice Kramer, 55 years old, who had been affected by the smoke. Eikelens carried her to the street, where she recovered. Before this Eikelens had entered the synagogue and removed four torahs, or sacred scrolls, one from a closet in the basement and three from a closet on the first floor. He turned them over to a member of the congregation, which was scheduled to hold a service in the synagogue last night.

Two other tenants of the building, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Loblow, were escorted to safety across the roof by Patrolman Thomas Cunningham. The building has no fire escape and Loblow, who had been celebrating his sixty-seventh birthday with his 65-year-old wife, feared to descend the stairs because of the smoke and took his wife to the roof.

All the winners, according to the announcement, will enter Columbia this term. Seven of the nine to whom the scholarships were awarded are natives of Europe. FOUND DEAD IN HIS HOME.

Man, Carried There by Strangers, Pronounced Alcohol Victim.

Joseph Cich, 54 years old, of 332 West Thirty-seventh Street, was found dead on the floor of his home yesterday morning by his wife Clara, who told the police that he had been brought home the night before by two strangers. Patrolman Gleason called an ambulance and the body was removed to New York Hospital, where the death was attributed to acute alcoholism.

The death of an unidentified man whose body was found in a wagon Friday at Stanton Street near the East River was ascribed yesterday to poisoning by wood alcohol after an autopsy and analysis at Bellevue Hospital. The examination was performed by Alexander O. Gettler, City Toxicologist.

ACCUSED OF KILLING BORGER PROSECUTOR

MARTIAL LAW NOW LIKELY

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 22.—Captain Frank Hamer of the Texas Rangers, who is conducting an investigation of crime conditions at Borger, the riotous oil town in the Panhandle, today reported to Governor Dan Moody evidence regarding the slayers of District Attorney John A. Holmes.

He declared that he had obtained affidavits which fix the guilt upon certain persons who were about to be charged before the Federal grand jury at Amarillo with liquor law violations. Holmes was betrayed by a man to whom he had given his intended information.

Captain Hamer said that conditions in Borger were deplorable. It is not improbable that martial law will be declared in Borger by Governor Moody in the next few days.

Town Built on Two-Mile Street.

BORGER, Texas, Sept. 22 (AP).—The tumult of special investigations and charges of official conspiracy which has followed the assassination here a little more than a week ago of District Attorney John A. Holmes is merely an unusually turbulent chapter in the brief history of Borger, the most picturesque oil boom town in Texas.

Records show that since the town was founded three years ago there have been nearly twoscore murders and that the perpetrators of but two of them have been punished.

A mushroom oil town in its infancy, the city now has settled down to a steady growth, depending largely upon the carbon black industry, which now is maintaining a monthly payroll of $150,000.

In 1926, when oil was discovered, thousands of seekers of the black gold moved to Borger. The situation was turbulent and Texas Rangers were called in. For a time they made between 75 and 100 arrests daily.

When drilling had been finished, the oil wells outlined a field about forty miles wide and sixty miles long. J. A. Whittenburg, who had bought his land for a few dollars an acre, owned the heart of the field and refused to sell land for buildings unless he retained the mineral rights.

As a result, the main street of Borger, two miles long, runs between two lines of oil wells 330 feet apart, the distance specified by law. Little permanent building has been done away from the main street.

The two-mile-long town has been surrounded by carbon black plants which fill the sky with dense black smoke as they burn residue for the black. Sixty-nine carbon black units are operated by ten companies in the Borger area and additional units are under construction.

Smoke from the plants often hides the moon, while daylight hours almost always are hazy. Most of the buildings are of flimsy sheet iron or composition construction.

The town is prosperous, its payrolls totaling about $1,000,000 a month. It has a population of about 12,000.

CURLEY BREAKS IN DOOR.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—James M. Curley, twice Mayor of Boston and again a candidate for that office, today forced the radio broom door under the Parkman bandstand on Boston Common with a crowbar to permit operators to broadcast his own and other speeches at a navy gathering in memory of Commodore John Barry.

The ex-Mayor told a patrolman, who was hesitating over what report to make of the incident, that he could "tell Park Commissioner Long that the Mayor broke down that door."

He told the crowd of the incident, adding, "There is some hope that my speech will get on the air before I reach the final period," and it did.

DE PRIEST ADVISES RACE ON PATRONAGE

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 22 (AP).—Ways and means of playing politics and getting "your share of the patronage" was the theme of a talk given here last night by Oscar De Priest, negro member of Congress from Chicago, before the Colored Republican Club.

"Don't take pay as a campaign worker," he said. "If you are paid election day you can't go to a party council afterward and claim it still owes you something."

Citing his own experience as an example, he declared:

"I worked two years and spent $15,000 of my money doing preliminary work for Bill Thompson, now our Mayor. When I started he asked me how much I needed, and I told him nothing—that when the pie was cut, I would point out my piece. I did."

Paying his respects to Senator Thomas Heflin of Alabama, Mr. De Priest remarked:

"I saw in a paper the other day that Tom Heflin, the Senator from Alabama, said if I showed up in the Senate rest rooms he would throw me out. Well, just for that I'm going over there and see if he's big enough. I'm not looking for trouble, but I'm not going a block out of my way to avoid it."

FIREWORKS BLAST HURTS 25

Seven Carloads, About to Be Destroyed, Go Off Near Norfolk, Va.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 22 (AP).—About twenty-five workmen, in a longshoreman gang, were hurt today when wreckers, attempting to destroy seven carloads of fireworks, set fire to the entire lot piled in a field about two miles from Money Point, a village close to Norfolk.

The explosion did considerable property damage, blowing out windows and lights in a radius of about twenty miles.

The fireworks were to be destroyed through agreement between importers and customs officials because the former had failed to pay import duty.

it's the 'ammer 'ammer 'ammer on the 'ard 'ighway"

From merry old England came this rollicking refrain . . . a generation ago. But it might have been written yesterday . . . to describe the hammer-hammer-hammer of noisy typewriters . . . and their effect on office work.

For it's the constant repetition of tiny blows upon the human ear that hurts nerves, hampers thinking, burns up energy!

The clackety-clack of hammer-blow typing . . . nerve-specialists say . . . is the most devastating noise in modern business! It steals 15% from typists' efficiency. It slows down arduous mental work twice as much! But it takes its worst toll after office doors are locked . . . sending tired nerves, jaded minds, irritable tempers . . . home from work!

There's no 'ammer-'ammer in the silken, silent action of Noiseless Typewriters. They cut out noise . . . at its source.

There's another story in the silent mechanism of this modern typewriter . . . a story of mechanical efficiency. For where noise is cut out . . . wear and tear are cut down! Repairs are fewer. Typewriter life is increased. An investment in Noiseless Typewriters pays dividends a dozen ways.

Sample these dividends for yourself. Phone WORth 7500. REMINGTON RAND BUSINESS SERVICE INC., 374 Broadway, New York City, for a free demonstration in your own office.

ELECTRIC UTILITY SERVICE
No Dollar You Spend Buys More Value

TALKING ELECTRICALLY!

Telephoning is an essential feature of business and social life in New York City. Calls pour through the 154 central offices of the New York Telephone Company at the rate of 100 a second.

In the Manual Central Offices, our electricity operates generators and converters which produce current suitable for the telephone circuits including the signal lamps, ringing machines, message registers, and the coin collectors on pay stations.

In the Dial Central Offices the motors which control the switching apparatus put in operation by dialing, are directly connected to our service, and reserve supplies of electricity are maintained by charging giant storage batteries.

The many telephone buildings are made efficient and comfortable by the use of electricity for modern building requirements, including elevators, air and water pumps, cleaning and ventilating systems.

RADIO WORLD FAIR WILL OPEN TODAY

SCREEN-GRID DOMINATES

Electro-Dynamic Loudspeakers Also Popular at the Exposition—Television to Be Displayed.

The sixth annual Radio World's Fair opens today at 2 P. M. at Madison Square Garden, where, according to the management of the exhibition, 99 per cent of the radio set builders in America will display their latest products.

The official opening will be celebrated in a nation-wide broadcast from 7:30 to 8:30 P. M. Sir Thomas Lipton, Count Felix Von Luckner and Wallace White Jr., Representative from Maine and sponsor of the radio act in Congress, have been invited to talk before the microphone in the Crystal Studio at the Garden. Station WABC will do the broadcasting in New York. The large studio is glass enclosed so that visitors at the exhibition can see the speakers and entertainers as they broadcast. Many of the programs of the week will be played and acted in the Crystal Studio instead of in the studios of the Columbia Broadcasting System and National Broadcasting Company.

The fair will open daily, after today, at 1 P. M., and will close at 11 P. M. At midnight Saturday the show will end.

Screen-Grid Sets on View.

This will be New York's first opportunity to see the new screen-grid radio receivers all assembled under one roof. In fact it will be the first public showing outside of the retail stores. The instruments were shown to the trade at the Chicago Radio Trade Show in June. The sets being uncrated at the Garden on Saturday and yesterday indicate that the screen-grid tube installed with its associated circuit and parts in a console cabinet equipped with the dynamic loud-speaker will dominate this 1929-30 display. There are few table models compared with other years and the dynamic cone, popular a year or two ago, has apparently surrendered its glory to the electro-dynamic loudspeaker.

No actual demonstrations of sets and loudspeakers will be sanctioned at the fair. The manufacturers in many cases have engaged rooms in various hotels in the Times Square district where the instruments will be played. In addition, the K. of C. Auditorium on Eighth Avenue, between Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets, will be devoted to "the first radio retail exposition" as it is called by its sponsors, Walthal's. There visitors will be able to see and hear the new sets.

Television in its latest form, as developed by Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson and engineers of the Radio Corporation of America, will be demonstrated so that visitors may witness the actual performance in the studio and then see it reproduced by television on a ground glass screen fourteen inches square.

Plan "Aviation Day."

Tomorrow will be known as "Aviation Day" at the show. Air pilots and two aeronautical clubs, the Early Birds and the Quiet Birdmen, have been invited to the Garden. Those expected to appear in the Crystal Studio tomorrow night in addition to radio entertainers are Clarence D. Chamberlin, Lieutenant Al Williams, Captain Frank Hawks, Jimmy Doolittle and Colonel "Chick" Kirkwood.

Wednesday is designated as "Broadcasting Day." From the opening until the close of the show on that day specially prepared programs will be broadcast from the Garden featuring radio stars in coast-to-coast broadcasts.

Thursday is listed as "Football Day." Jess Hawley, former coach at Dartmouth, is scheduled to speak at 7:30 P. M. in introducing Jack Cannell, who succeeds him as Dartmouth coach. Other coaches are scheduled to participate in this broadcast. The Vincent Lopez orchestra will furnish the music.

Governor Morgan F. Larson has been invited to attend a "New Jersey celebration" at the fair on Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock.

On Friday at 3 P. M. a gold medal will be awarded to Malcolm P. Hanson, chief radio operator of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, by the Veteran Wireless Operators' Association for meritorious service in radio operating. The presentation will be made by David Sarnoff, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America. The short wave transmitter at WGY, Schenectady, will carry the ceremony to Hanson at Little America in the Antarctic, 11,000 miles away.

Broadcast listeners will hear this event through the WEAF network at about 8:15 P. M. Mrs. Hanson has been invited to the studio to witness the ceremony and to receive the medal for her husband. It is expected that Hanson's reply will be up from the Antarctic within five minutes and it will be read over WEAF's microphone.

Saturday, the final day of the show, will be devoted to the stage and screen. Prominent artists of filmdom and the theatre will entertain at 10 P. M. over a coast-to-coast network linked with WABC, the key station in New York.

GIANT LOUD-SPEAKER FOR LONDON EXHIBITION

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The biggest wireless show ever staged in Britain, the National Radio Exhibition, will be opened at Olympia tomorrow with three miles of stands and nearly $3,000,000 worth of apparatus.

Wireless and motoring are becoming closely allied, judging from the exhibits. Portable sets are said to be the backbone of the radio industry and several hundred of their varieties are on show, notable for the general price reduction, which is doubtless due to the growing use of portable radios in motoring.

The portable set is shown as having developed from a more or less standard suitcase model for out-of-doors use to a piece of furniture for the home.

Other features of the show include all-electric sets, needing no batteries, but plugged into the household current, and radio gramaphones playing through loud-speakers by means of valve amplifiers.

Twenty-five miniature sound-proof theatres have been provided, in which demonstrations can be given. It is recalled that last year such demonstrations had to be given on premises adjoining Olympia, since a miscellaneous competition throughout the vast arena of various loud-speakers was not desirable. One of the loud-speakers that will be heard at this exhibition is said to be the biggest in the world and has a reputed amplification factor of 3,000, enabling speech to be heard over a thirty-mile area.

HILLY ASKS RATE REFORMS

Urges Uniform State Laws for Regulation of Public Utilities.

Uniform State laws under which Public Service Commissions might work in regulating public utilities were advocated yesterday by Arthur J. W. Hilly, Corporation Counsel, in a radio address over station WOR.

"What is now legal in New York may be illegal in New Jersey, or vice versa," Mr. Hilly said. "In Illinois, for instance, the commission cannot make a rate unless it makes specific findings to show on what facts it bases its opinion. In New York that is not required to be done, so we do not know just how the commission arrives at its opinions."

Mr. Hilly also discussed the various problems confronting commissions and boards in arriving at proper rules for the regulation of all utilities. His speech was given under the auspices of the Iota Theta Law Fraternity.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

An Oscar Straus Operetta.

MARRIED IN HOLLYWOOD, with J. Harold Murray, Norma Terris, Walter Catlett, Irene Palasty, Lennox Pawle, Tom Patricola, Evelyn Hall, John Garrick, Douglas Gilmore, Gloria Grey, Nick Stambaugh, Bert Sprotte, Lelia Karnelly, Herman Bing and Paul Ralli, based on an operetta of the same name by Oscar Straus, directed by Marcel Silver; "Dance of the Paper Dolls"; Fox Movietone news reel; "Viennese Caprice." At the Roxy Theatre.

"Married in Hollywood," an audible pictorial adaptation of Oscar Straus's tuneful operetta, with additional music by Dave Stamper and Arthur Kay, has the distinction of being the first screen translation of a superior type of musical composition that has not been presented in this country. This offering, which is now holding forth at the Roxy, is an especially fine example of vocal recording, and, although the story is no weightier than one is accustomed to in such musical affairs, it is adroitly interspersed with joviality and extremely clever photographic embellishments.

The principal songs are charmingly rendered by Norma Terris, the Magnolia of Mr. Ziegfeld's "Show Boat," and J. Harold Murray, leading man of that popular stage contribution, "Rio Rita." The musical numbers were supervised by Edward Royce and the picture itself was directed by Marcel Silver.

Mr. Silver has accomplished his work with skill and imagination. He has succeeded in accounting for leaps from one place to another and for lapses of time so intelligently that all is as clear as crystal, without an explanatory stretch of dialogue or a subtitle. He keeps a check rein on his comedy, with the consequence that the fun is never spoiled by a too generous dose of one idea. True, his conception of the happiness of two lovers by showing them cavorting under trees in the Springtime is not conspicuously original, but before that sequence reaches the screen Mr. Silver has already captured the hearts of the audience by his Burlesque depiction of Mary Lou's (Miss Terris) dream.

Mary Lou is first seen retiring for the night. She has had a heated argument in the theatre with Prince Nicholai, the heir-apparent to the unstable throne of one of those fictional kingdoms of the Balkans. Soon after Mary Lou sets her alarm clock the scene dissolves into one of her slumbering thoughts, with Mary Lou sitting with the Prince at dinner, which, instead of being a tête-a-tête affair, the idea of which had caused the squabble between the two, is an elaborate banquet. The Prince, at dinner, wears his coronet, and he gives to Mary Lou another sparkling coronet, which, he says, he knows will fit her, as he had it specially made for mine. She places the emblem of royalty on her head, and as she leans forward it comes dangerously near to toppling off, but she adjusts it in time. After a while Mary Lou and her Prince, still wearing their coronets, glide gracefully over the waxed floor.

The evening is a marvelous success! The tinkling of gentle bells is heard, and then the scene fades from the dream to reality and there is a clock with the none too musical sound of its alarm.

Another nice stretch is that in which Mary Lou sings at a ship's concert on her way to her native land and a counter part is heard coming from the nebulous figure of the Prince.

At the outset Mr. Silver takes his audience from scenes of an orchestra to those on a theatre stage, where Mary Lou is the successful substitute for the prima donna. In later views of this playhouse Mary Lou is late. Why? Because she is away in the country with her Prince. The Queen is annoyed, and she perhaps has reason for being royally mad when the orchestra plays the national anthem three or four times, just because the stellar performer has not put in an appearance.

The last episodes of this production are in natural colors. They deal with Hollywood, to which centre Mary Lou has flown after a tempting offer from a motion picture producer who happens to be aboard the vessel when she sings at the ship's concert. This amusing producer is capitally played by Walter Catlett.

Some of the more subdued but none the less effective levity is furnished by Lennox Pawle, who has the minor rôle of the King in this his first talking film. Mr. Pawle for the short time he is on the screen makes seconds count. One might say that he gets under this King's skin. The troubles of the Balkan state are grave to Mr. Pawle, and his serious mien, quite naturally, aroused mirth from the unsympathetic spectators yesterday afternoon.

Miss Terris's spoken scenes are not to be compared with those in which she sings. Her acting here is nothing over which to wax enthusiastic, but her singing is quite another matter.

The same criticism applies to Mr. Murray, for while he has an ingratiating personality, his talking and acting are not likely to stir one's imagination.

The stage settings of this production and the costumes of the actors are in keeping with the calibre of the music. There is a sense of restraint, of commendable conservatism, which is most pleasing after the sharpness and noise of jazz and the hardness of modernistic furnishings.

A German Comedy.

A ROYAL SCANDAL, with Werner Krauss, Jenny Jugo and others, directed by Hans Behrendt; "Peculiar Households," a Ufa natural history study; "The Vision," an old prismatic short subject. At the Fifty-fifth Street Playhouse.

Werner Krauss is to be seen at the Fifty-fifth Street Playhouse in a German silent film known as "A Royal Scandal." It is quite well filmed, and except for periods when his movements are absurdly slow, Mr. Krauss does excellent work. He is seen as the rotund and paternal-looking husband of a bright-eyed and, apparently, demure young wife. Through a somewhat distressing accident, which is emphasized in various passages of this comedy, the young wife attracts the attention of at least three masculine admirers. The accident, however, culminates in promotion for the husband.

Mr. Krauss, with the aid of the director, Hans Behrendt, gives an interesting skit on a clerk in a Bavarian governmental office. His position is alluded to as being the second secretary to the under-secretary to a more or less important official. This husband goes to his office. He sits at his desk, watching the clock, twirling his mustache, of which he is inordinately proud. Hours pass heavily on his hands, but finally the time comes for him to take out the package containing his luncheon. He eats and then waits, without doing a stroke of work, until it is time to go home.

In the English subtitles of this film, this husband is referred to as a Bavarian Babbitt. In playing the part, Mr. Krauss wears a frock coat and a silk hat for the Sabbath. During the week the only change he makes in his attire is to replace the silk hat with one of straw.

In this comedy, which savors rather of the French, done in a rather heavy fashion, there is a spying spinster, who watches through her field glasses the suspicious callers on the Bavarian Babbitt's supposedly demure wife.

Jenny Jugo's performance as the wife is quite clever. The other rôles are also intelligently acted.

AN UNIMAGINATIVE FILM.

"Tonight at Twelve" Provides Much Mystery-Melodrama.

TONIGHT AT TWELVE, with Madge Bellamy, Robert Ellis, Margaret Livingston, Vera Reynolds, Norman Trevor, Hallam Cooley and others, from the play by Owen Davis, directed by Harry Pollard; a "Pat Rooney Family" sound comedy; "Oswald" sound cartoon and newsreel. At the Colony.

"Tonight at Twelve" appears to be a literal translation of the play by Owen Davis to the screen, for it follows, without regard for all that has been done with the camera before, the customs of the theatre. It appears divided into three distinct parts, with the climax, or what passes for one, coming at the conclusion of the second act. Where, on the stage, intermissions were the order, so that the scenery could be changed, the picture is brought out into the garden for some good, clean comedy to relieve the audience of the presumed strain.

The tension comes after a note is found by a suspicious wife and she accuses three of her friends and guests of being the recipients of the missive, written by her husband to a woman. The familiar phrase, "Cherchez la femme," comes into its own, for the "femme" is sought with a vengeance for approximately seven reels in the best fashion of mystery-melodrama. It is finally disclosed that a daughter of one of the accused women is the recipient of the note, but not until after another character, the maid, has taken the blame.

Despite the lack of imagination in direction, the picture manages to hold the interest until it exhausts all the triangular farcical situations known to playwrights.

There is also an "Oswald" sound cartoon on the screen. Animated drawings displaying such imaginative treatment as this one find great favor with cinema audiences. Fantastic excursions like Oswald's on the high seas are delectable bits of tomfoolery.

BEATRICE LILLIE TOPS SPLENDID PALACE BILL

Her First Appearance in Vaudeville Here Is Great Success—Toto at Loew's State.

The unique Beatrice Lillie, of whom there is positively only one, is at the Palace this week, and considerable should be the rejoicing thereat. This is the first time, unless the memory of an admirer is more than usually capricious, that Miss Lillie has been seen on the stage of one of the town's music halls, and that she is a success is to put it mildly. She was recalled for several encores yesterday afternoon, and finally finished up with "World Weary," to the great delight of more than a few patrons who had feared that she might get away without presenting her lackadaisically charming rendition of Mr. Coward's sophisticated ballad in the Irving Berlin manner.

In a poisonous red wig and an evening gown, Miss Lillie starts her antics with a devastating travesty of concert singers here, there and everywhere—a bit of mimicry which probably reaches its high spots with the number called "The Roses Have Made Me Remember What Any Nice Girl Should Forget." She later does one "straight" song, which has less to recommend it than the others, but, all in all, hers is a turn which falls short of sheer perfection only because the Palace management has not called in a platoon of dancing girls and firmly demanded that Miss Lillie work them into a hilarious revival of that infinitely best of all her numbers, "March With Me." It might also be mentioned in passing that Miss Lillie's accompanist is Hugh Sinclair, who has served her in that capacity before, but who can give—and, indeed, has given—a good account of himself as an actor.

The entire bill at vaudeville's First Theatre is top heavy, one of the most varied and enjoyable that have been got together there in some time. As a contrast to the hilarious foolery of Miss Lillie—and to practically everything else on the bill, for that matter—Bert Lytell, before starting a road tour in "Brothers," has hauled out the scenery for a week's engagement in "The Valiant," that excellent playlet by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass, which tells of the last hour of a condemned man who hides his identity for the sake of his mother and sister. The playlet has already done yeoman service in vaudeville, little theatres and the articulate pictures, and its chief novelty this time is that Mary Hay, hitherto chiefly celebrated as a song-and-dance girl, is to be found in its cast, giving a sincere and straightforward performance as the sister.

Horace Heidt and his entertainers are in their farewell week with another pleasing program, the more or less musical features of which include some close harmony and simulations of a radio broadcast and a crew in action.

Irene Chesleigh and Ruth Gibbs are to be heard delivering some raucous but frequently amusing "patter" in an act called "When Cat Meets Cat." The three fleet-footed dancers known as King, King and King repeat the success they scored during the Summer in the short-lived "Broadway Nights." There is another dance presentation which, after an ever so quaint beginning, showing three men dressed as cats chasing a girl dressed as a mouse, turns into an adagio act that should prove entirely satisfactory to that sizable group of vaudeville-goers which likes adagio acts.

"Nigger Rich" Now "The Big Shot."

"The Big Shot" is the title by which John McGowan's play at the Royale Theatre, produced as "Nigger Rich," will henceforth be known, the Shubert office announced yesterday. During its try-out the play at various times was also entitled "Parade" and "True Colors." Protests from several negro societies were given as the reason for the new title, according to the Shubert office, which did not specify the objecting groups.

Habima Players Hailed in Naples.

NAPLES, Sept. 21 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Habima Hebrew players presented "The Dybbuk" here last night. The presentation was praised with an enthusiasm similar to that accorded the troupe in Rome, Florence, Milan, Turin and Leghorn. The troupe will remain in Italy until the end of October.

It is a long time since before the war and Victor Herbert's operetta "Sweethearts" belongs precisely to the year 1913, when only very wise or very wicked people could so much as imagine a real war. Ruritanias fetched down by Anthony Hope Hawkins from William Shakespeare's maritime Bohemia upon a whimsical hint from Robert Louis Stevenson were the happy hunting ground of the stage romance that still put its trust in princes, dazzled lovely young eyes with the glitter of a crown or made fair young heads lie uneasy with the golden weight of it. The particular Ruritania of "Sweethearts" was called Zilania and the scent of the roses in the garden of romance of which it was a royal province clings still to the revival, though a very modern young woman with a becoming country-club haircut has been substituted for Miss Christie McDonald, who sang the leading part when Weber & Luescher first produced the piece for the entertainment of a town innocent of all the effects of trench warfare upon manners, morals, vocabulary and simple faith in human-kind.

Inevitably you are aware of a great gulf fixed between the entertainment offered in the Herbert piece and, say, "Show Boat," or even the attempt to extract both music and comedy from wild Western army life, with which we were favored last season in "Rainbow," by the author of "What Price Glory"—or one of them. There were people present Saturday night who found this gulf so impassable that they walked out on the show. On the other hand, there were people present—and not all of them quite resigned to retrospective pleasures—who were cheered, pleased and refreshed as they have not been by the monotony of high-flavored fare to which they normally find themselves confined. Variety is sometimes to be preferred to the spice of life served according to any insistent recipe.

For that reason, the Ruritanian operetta, with its stage carpenter-shop book and its plentiful lack of wit, really seemed better than it did sixteen years ago. There was a sort of novelty about the particular expression of the lack of wit, which the present expression of the like lack has lost through familiarity. The real charm and sound harmonic workmanship of the music were likewise brought into advantageous perspective with the music of Mr. Herbert's successors. This reviewer is not making out a scale of absolute merit and assigning niches. What was evident was that the music was an effective stage contrivance which could be used to produce results just as good as those we produce nowadays the actual thing to be produced depending upon shifting taste and habit. The orchestra had something to do that could be made to count—and was made to count: the singing actresses and actors and the chorus people had things to do that took some doing. Even the comedy was still comic where the actors' sense of comedy was rightly applied to the material—which, after all, was no more rudimentary than the regular modern line. Particularly, Slingsby was funny.

Aside from the music, the best thing about the show was the performance of the handsome young woman with the country-house haircut. She sang well, she spoke well, she looked well. Generally she put herself over as a desirable female person to be promoted from laundress by accident to Princess by birth. The name is Gladys Baxter. Charles Massinger, who played the Prince opposite, sang fairly well, in a fashion perhaps too sugary. He should not make such faces even in trying to sing his best. Also sticklers for correctness in riding clothes must regret that Ruritanian Princes, heirs of Rudolf Rassendyll, have sunk to such a level of shooting pad form.

MR. LA GUARDIA'S PLATFORM.

Between now and November there will be plenty of time for Mr. LA GUARDIA to develop the attack on the Tammany administration, in which he has already shown considerable aptitude. His speech accepting the Republican-fusion nomination by no means left his adversary unscathed. His description of the Citizens Committee as a "dumping ground" where constructive measures were left to rust, his comment on police administration since McLAUGHLIN, his references to political favoritism, all were nicely aimed at weak points in the Mayor's armor. Nor was the speech without epigrams. "Childhood cannot be protected by an arrow on a police sign." "You cannot move a family into a blue-print"—a telling thrust against the failure of the Mayor's housing efforts. But in the main Mr. LA GUARDIA'S address was in the nature of a program addressed to the sober thought of the community, and particularly to that "better element" in the Republican party to which General HARBORD, in his introductory remarks, made veiled reference. It was as if the candidate for Mayor had called the voters together in an old-fashioned town meeting and said to them: "Here, gentlemen, is my understanding of the problems confronting us."

Reorganization he put in the forefront of his program, daring, as have successive Governors familiar with local affairs, to call for a reform in county government; vestigial, wasteful, invisible. Local autonomy he would preserve by according the Borough Presidents "complete jurisdiction over all purely "local matters." Here he enters a field where controversy has ever been rife, though he joins with Mayor WALKER in the belief that street cleaning activities should be consolidated into one department. Mr. LA GUARDIA cuts deeper still in his advocacy of better planning. He quotes with evident approval the program of the Regional Plan Committee and the words of one who wrote that "the city must hence"forth be built consciously, and not "merely grow at random without plan or purpose." Thoughtful men and women of all parties may well desire to write that legend over the portals of City Hall.

The other outstanding municipal problem, transit relief, Mr. LA GUARDIA discusses at some length. His emphasis on unification, his promise to bring the companies together into conference, his pledge of a non-political operating agency are all welcome, though one may wonder how he will manage to reconcile the improvement that he forecasts with his explicit adherence to the Republican undertaking to maintain the five-cent fare. Certainly he shows courage in advocating resort to local assessments to help finance new subways. That is sound doctrine, but not popular. Reorganization, regional planning, improved transit—these are words to conjure with. Citizens will no doubt ponder them in the ensuing weeks, balancing Mr. LA GUARDIA'S pledges against the achievements of the present administration, with due allowance for those tangible and intangible factors in human character and affairs which limit ability to translate promise into performance.

No one can read the La Guardia speech without seeing that it comes from a man who has thought deeply and constructively about city affairs. He has now even convinced himself that a policy of party spoils will not do, and that the highest non-partisan ability obtainable is necessary.

NAVAL AND OTHER REDUCTION.

As each day brings a change in the outlook for naval reduction, it becomes plainer that there will be no hurricane reform. Even if Prime Minister MACDONALD and President HOOVER come to a full accord—either before or after the former's trip to the United States—everything will be conditional. Without the approval of the five-Power conference in January nothing final will be done. Meanwhile, with whatever hope and determination President HOOVER presses toward the object he has at heart, its immediate attainment is out of the question. Particularly must doubt still cloud his main purpose, announced more than once, to secure not simply naval limitation, but naval reduction. No expert has yet shown how parity of the American fleet with the British can be reached without a certain enlargement of our cruiser strength, instead of cutting down the building program.

The great navy reductionist appeared at the Senate hearing on Saturday in the person of Mr. CHARLES M. SCHWAB. Answering queries about his own personal attitude and the policy of the Bethlehem Steel Company, he declared that both were in favor of the smallest possible navy, and that he himself would like to see "an arrangement made by which all battleships should be sunk." This is not a new position for Mr. SCHWAB. His company had to do a great deal in supplying ships and armor and guns and shells during the war, but at present does not care ever to do any more work of that character. The large opportunities of commerce and industry lie in peace. Both Mr. SCHWAB and the president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation made it clear that they have no interest in promoting a large navy, and are ceasing to think of shipbuilding contracts as a really essential or even important part of their business.

Turning to the matter directly concerning the Senate committee, Mr. SCHWAB, like President GRACE, had known nothing whatever of the employment of Mr. SHEARER at Geneva or elsewhere. The engagement had been made by a subordinate in the company, whose superior officers believed it unwise and canceled it as soon as it came to their knowledge. Thus the foundation is being laid by the Senate committee for a proper estimate of the abilities and functions of Mr. SHEARER. First the men who hired him are being interrogated. Why they did so, and what they thought of his services, the record is gradually showing. When it is complete the time will have arrived for Mr. SHEARER to explain that he was the greatest patriot at Geneva and the biggest naval expert ever known. His counsel asked that he be permitted to thunder in the index at the Senate hearing, so that it will seem doubly hard for him to appear only in the appendix.

A FINAL SEVERANCE.

Announcing the retirement of the International Power and Paper Company from its 50 per cent ownership in The Boston Herald and Traveler—the last, it is said, of its brief newspaper stock ventures—the Boston banking group which has purchased the International's stock refers to the chain of events as an "episode." An episode can be either "an important occurrence" or "an incidental experience." In this instance the International's ill-judged venture is better described by that definition of an "episode" which relates that it is the part of a tragedy which comes between two chorie songs. The first chorie song was that sung by the power and paper company when, its stock operations being made known, it defended them. The second is the Boston bankers' statement. The part of the tragedy, which came between was revelation of the fact that reputable business men of large affairs are unable to see the excellent reason why a company owning public utilities should not own newspapers also.

All's well that ends well, and there will be no disposition on the part of press or public to be unfair hereafter to the International because of its bad judgment and obtuseness in this particular piece of business. That it has retired from the newspaper field is good news. It is all that could be asked of the company. In all likelihood the lesson has been well learned, and the scheme will not again be attempted. According to the statement issued by the Boston purchasers, the holding is worth more than was paid for it, which establishes Mr. GRADY'S good business judgment in that particular purchase. It is with the tone of the statement that press and public can hardly agree. That tone is found in the following extract from the public announcement:

> Thus ends * * * an episode which caused an amount of comment out of all proportion to the plain business involved in it.

The comment referred to was uttered almost unanimously by that great preponderance of American newspapers in which the International owned no stock. These newspapers, understanding the paramount necessity of keeping the well-springs of information free even from the taint of suspicion, naturally saw more than "plain business" in the control of newspapers by a company owning public utilities franchises. They saw public distrust of the news columns of these particular papers which would grow into suspicion of all. They noted the effort of the International to keep its purchases secret, and felt justly that this course proved the inherent ill judgment of the purchases. They sounded the alarm, in the public interest, against the practical application of an industrial theory that newspapers are mere business enterprises like chain grocery stores. Public opinion swiftly supported the warnings, and, in exact proportion to the gravity of the "plain business involved," the pressure proved sufficient to retire the International from the newspaper field.

BACK TO TEMPERANCE.

The members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, holding their international convention at Indianapolis, greeted a letter from President HOOVER with loud and enthusiastic applause. One would infer that they had scarcely heard it when read. For their resolutions are strong for enforcing the prohibition law, whereas Mr. HOOVER sought to remind them that "too many people "have come to rely wholly upon the "strong arm of the law to enforce "abstinence, forgetting that the "cause of temperance has its strong "foundations in the conviction of "the individual of the personal value "to himself of temperance in all "things."

This is, in a way, another sad reminder of what prohibition has done to temperance. It has certainly relaxed, if it has not in many places entirely suspended, the effort to prove the physical and economic and moral benefits of temperance. That was characteristic of the work of reformers for many years. And it had made undeniably great progress. The old habits of drinking to excess had been radically modified through many influences. It had come to be thought thoroughly "bad form" for young men to get drunk. Athletics had made for temperance. Social customs lending themselves to abuse of alcohol had undergone marked improvement, as in the abolition of the once established round of calls on New Year's Day, with copious intoxicants provided at each house. Moreover, large employers of labor, especially the railroads, had set up standards of sobriety for their men which were coming more and more to be accepted as not only respectable but necessary.

How prohibition changed all this at one stroke is known to all. In place of education and persuasion it endeavored to set up compulsion. The hope was to effect an instant transformation of an entire people, instead of proceeding by the slow but intelligent processes of reform. The results are common knowledge. In some parts of the country there is more drinking, particularly by young men and women, than there was before prohibition. The law is openly flouted. Good men and women have left off trying to teach temperance and have given their time and money to the hopeless task of trying to enforce an unenforceable law. This "strong arm of the law" has turned out to be a staff which breaks in the hand seeking to wield it. Such is the plain truth implied in the President's letter to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. It is, in effect, a reminder of what has been in this country, and throughout the world, the really most powerful force in behalf of temperance, and an appeal to return to it and to depend upon it more than upon vexing statutes which are almost universally disregarded.

NEW BRITISH BROOMS.

The British public, irrespective of party, is reported to be rubbing its eyes and hands over the remarkable showing of the new Labor Government. It must have been no inconsiderable section of timid middle-class opinion to which the best that might be expected from a Socialist government was non-activity. RAMSAY MACDONALD and his associates—so reassurance ran—couldn't begin to do what they wanted. Englishmen are now applauding MACDONALD and his associates for being up and doing every minute of the day. Merely by the amount of motion through space there has not been in Great Britain in the memory of man such a Cabinet of hustlers. Chancellor of the Exchequer SNOWDEN has been to The Hague and back—not a long journey measured in miles, but as exciting as the same distance over a Coney Island roller coaster. Foreign Secretary HENDERSON has traveled to The Hague and Geneva. J. H. THOMAS, in charge of unemployment, has just returned from a commercial trip to Canada. Chief of all, in a double sense, Prime Minister MACDONALD is getting ready to supplement his rapid air shuttlings between Scotland and Downing Street with a trip across the Atlantic.

Like every other employer, the British taxpayer cannot help being pleased by such a display of energy on the job. Contrary to the general assumption, even taxpayers are human. Like farmers clamoring for relief, they will not always insist on results. The British public is fully as much pleased by Labor hustle after Mr. BALDWIN'S policy of wait-and-see as by the fruits of such hustle. It is hard to say which has caused more gratification—Mr. SNOWDEN'S bringing home the bacon in the form of a couple of million pounds annually or his bringing home an enemy scalp or two. Mr. HENDERSON is credited in London with hastening allied evacuation on the Rhine; but such a move was everywhere accepted as bound to follow automatically on the acceptance of the Young Plan.

A London cartoon shows Mr. J. H. THOMAS, in the beginning regarded as the strongest man in the Cabinet, coming back to London and ruefully finding the British middle-class public eye pre-empted by no less than three other colleagues. Is the remarkable outburst of activity under MACDONALD to be explained in part by the spirit of emulation among the Ministers? That involves no personal discredit and spells good for the State. But it must be something more than that. The MacDonald Cabinet didn't simply happen to be on its toes when the whistle sounded. There is a calculated—and legitimate—strategy behind the speed and snap with which the government has been doing things, of which the objective is the enhanced prestige of the Labor party. The Young Plan could have been set into motion without the Snowden manner. The evacuation of the Rhine could have been hastened under any British Foreign Secretary. Arrangements for selling British coal to Canadian railroads could have been made without Mr. THOMAS'S personal salesmanship. But it does not hurt Great Britain, and it helps the British Labor party, if a good bit of drama is injected into the record.

MR. HOOVER'S SILENTIARY.

Mr. SMOOT'S declaration in the Senate that he had never said to or heard from Mr. HOOVER a word about the tariff bill was accepted by men of good-will as a revelation of such perfect delicacy and non-interference between Executive and Legislative as hardly could be expected, save in an ideal commonwealth. Now, thanks to the irreverent curiosity of Senator HARRISON, we know by whose counsel this policy of Presidential silence was initiated and will be maintained. "On many occasions," says Senator WATSON, "I have said to the Presi"dent: 'I think you ought to keep "'out of this tariff controversy "'while it is pending in the Senate "'of the United States.'"

To quote against this authoritative statement the denial which Mr. HOOVER felt it necessary to make of certain notions about the tariff Mr. WATSON had attributed to him is irrelevant. Mr. WATSON'S memory of particular opinions expressed by others or himself may sometimes be uncertain. If his recollection refers to a frequentative speech or action, that should be confirmation strong enough. The puerile gibe that when Mr. WATSON is in the White House Mr. HOOVER doesn't get a chance to say anything may be tossed into the limbo of threadbare jests. We know from Mr. SMOOT that the President's lips are locked, so far as tariff-making is concerned. It is an inevitable inference that Mr. WATSON'S repeated admonitions have caused this mutism.

Mr. HOOVER is a strong-willed man. Not without struggle does he yield to that persuasive voice and compelling intellect. "So far as I "have any influence on the Presi"dent of the United States," his Silentiary cries, "he will not engage in this controversy." Can there be any doubt that this influence will be as potent in the White House as it is in the Senate Chamber? Even on the dullest imagination the picture of the conflict between the leader of the Republican party in the nation and the leader of such Republicans as will follow him in the Senate must be enthralling. There is Mr. HOOVER, still subject, apparently, to rebellious velleities of utterance on the forbidden theme. There is the vigilant WATSON, radiating all his ascendant power to keep the spell of dumbness unbroken.

The philosopher, hardened to marvels, cannot be stirred by this marvel—for it is far more than a paradox: The effect of verbosity is silence.

ECONOMIC DEFEATISM IN MANILA.

Governor General DAVIS'S warning to the Philippine sugar producers not to expand their industry excessively is doubtless issued with a view to placating the American sugar interests which have been trying so hard to limit the importation of Philippine sugar into this country. But it suggests a departure in policy which can only be viewed with a certain apprehension. Filipinos are asked to curtail their output voluntarily so that their competitors in the United States may make larger profits and thus be less inclined to hamper the Filipinos.

How to reconcile this sort of super-conciliation with the Governor's original plans for the economic development of the islands is not clear. He explains that the movement in the United States to restrict the imports of Philippine sugar is likely to be followed by proposals to exclude other Philippine products. If the new policy is to be consistently followed, the Governor will then have to suggest that Filipino producers of the offending goods shall also cut down their production.

Obviously, this sort of economic defeatism, if accepted and practiced by the Filipinos, would prevent the development of any article in the islands which a sufficiently powerful group in the United States did not wish to see produced in large quantities. Already the three principal Philippine crops, sugar, coconuts and by-products, and tobacco, are under fire. If their development is to be determined by American opposition rather than by the best interests of the Filipino people, the economic future of the Philippines is dark.

Nor is the policy alleviated by the sound suggestion that greater diversification of crops would benefit the Filipino farmers. Governor DAVIS pointed out that the Filipinos do not produce enough food to meet their needs, and that they import rice, dairy products and wheat. It needs only a scant acquaintance with tropical agriculture to know that wheat cannot be profitably grown in the Philippines and that milch cattle survive only with greatest difficulty. Of the important food products, rice alone can and should be grown in larger quantities at home. During the six years of his Governorship of the islands the late General WOOD carried on a consistent campaign to stimulate an interest in raising more rice. He met with a large measure of success. In 1922, the year he took over active control, the output of rice was 43,790,500 cavans, whereas in 1927, the year he died, it had risen to 49,791,700 cavans. Imports of rice fell from $2,300,000 in 1922 to $1,000,000 in 1927.

The best interests of the Philippines would be served by encouraging as wide a diversification of crops as is possible and economically profitable. But any attempts to curtail production, whether by legislation of the American Congress, or by restrictions placed by the Philippine Legislature, or by compliance with the advice of the Governor General, can only be harmful to Philippine interests.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Developing Marine Park. Commissioner BROWNE may not persuade the Board of Estimate to appropriate the large sum—$30,000,000 to $50,000,000—that he is asking for Marine Park in Brooklyn, but no citizen will begrudge a reasonable amount for that worth-while project. In the course of a tour of Brooklyn's park system NATHAN STRAUS Jr., president of the Park Association, remarked that "there is not a city in the world that makes so little use of its waterfront for recreational uses as Brooklyn." It is an added reason why the recreational facilities of this fine tract of over a thousand acres should be enlarged.

Prospect Park was the pride of Brooklyn even before consolidation, but the population of the borough expanded more rapidly than its park areas. Congestion and real estate values have now reached the point where it is difficult to acquire new sites. Some months ago the Regional Plan Committee published comparable figures for the year 1925 showing the population per acre of park to be as follows: Manhattan 1,130, Brooklyn 364, Queens 504, Richmond 369, Bronx 212.

Recently large additional purchases have been made in Queens and Richmond. Brooklyn's main recourse must be in developing existing facilities, with possibly added relief from the adjoining borough of Queens. That parks yield a financial as well as a social return is evidenced by the fact that whereas the book value of Prospect Park is only $7,000,000 its assessed value today, according to Mr. STRAUS, is $64,000,000.

One of the Best. Mrs. RUTH HANNA MCCORMICK, Congressman-at-Large from Illinois, is a woman, but she is a skilled politician without regard to sex. Her forthcoming campaign for the Republican Senatorial nomination will be conducted in the acknowledged American political tradition. Mrs. McCORMICK makes speeches, goes barnstorming, shakes hands, kisses babies and sits in on "strategy board" meetings exactly as a male candidate does. No opponent is given any reason to feel that he must go light with the lady. She hits as hard blows as she knows how, and announces in advance that she wants to be hit as hard in return. Her opponent, Senator DENEEN, is also a shrewd politician, and the race between them should be one of America's best shows this Autumn.

Senator DENEEN defeated Mrs. McCORMICK'S husband for re-election. Mrs. McCORMICK chose the office of Congressman-at-Large as a stepping-stone to succeeding her late husband and got the largest majority of any Congressional candidate in Illinois last year. Now she intends to be the first elected woman Senator. She has built up a personal organization which the late Governor E. F. BRADLEY spoke of with anxious admiration. At Kansas City her penchant for sharp comment and determined canvassing was a thorn in the side of the Hoover managers. She is a rival who can give Senator DENEEN a harder race perhaps than any man of the party in that State.

Traffic Defeats the Buses. Commissioner WHALEN has at last consented to the return to Manhattan for traffic purposes of those portions of Seventh Avenue and Broadway in the vicinity of Times Square which he had previously set aside as the special and nearly permanent parking places of sightseeing buses.

This is, to be sure, in accord with an intimation which came from his headquarters when the attacks on him for permitting this gross misuse of one of the most crowded traffic arteries in the city were at their height. In the Autumn, he said, new traffic regulations would go into effect. Till then the buses could retain their special privileges.

It remains to be seen how effectively—and how long—the new ruling will be enforced. Even though the season for sightseeing is now coming to a close, the companies which have enjoyed these special privileges will not relinquish them without a struggle. But it may be that the widespread approval of the order terminating the special parking privilege in Times Square will outweigh the resentment of those who are now restored to a basis of equality with the rest of the public.

Cures by Snake-Fright. Violent shock has sometimes been known to cure where medical treatment had failed. A sudden fright is the traditional prescription for hiccoughs. Airplane rides with hair-raising loops and drops have been known to cure deafness. Hopeless paralytics have been known to leap from their beds when a sudden fire threatened their lives.

Utilizing this principle, physicians of Guayaquil loosed a nine-foot-long boa constrictor in the paralytic ward of the Civil Hospital. Terrified by the monster, several patients forgot their ailments, rushed from their cots to doors and windows and fought each other in their frantic attempts to escape. Those who were unable to leave their beds were hastily reassured by attendants that the snake was really quite harmless.

By this means it was discovered that some of the patients had been shamming. Others, really mental cases, were definitely cured by realizing that they actually could move arms and legs.

The success of the make-fright cure may tempt authorities to acquire the big snake as regular hospital equipment. But since such cures are often not lasting, and the discomfort for the incurable must be acute, it is not likely that many hospitals will adopt pet boa constrictors.

Branded Foreign Goods.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Touching your editorial "A Tariff Comedy" concerning the marking of imported merchandise, I might illustrate your point by a concrete case. Some years ago I visited Vantine's shop to purchase a lampshade. The one that appealed to me was of Chinese manufacture, made of silk, fringed and with characteristic Chinese embroidery. It was a work of art. But in compliance with the legal requirement it had been marked in a "conspicuous" place by pasting a label with "Made in China" on the outside.

I called the salesman's attention to this marking of the article. Being a very small label, he attempted to remove it, as I was an assured purchaser and had been duly advised of its origin. In doing so he smudged the fabric and I instantly objected that it was a damaged article. It was conceded, and the price, for that reason, was reduced by one-third. If Congress is aiming to destroy a market, let it at least be consistent and destroy the marketable value of the merchandise by "branding" it with a hot iron in a "conspicuous" place.

Chalom-Duval Marriage Formal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES published on Aug. 17 an account of the marriage of Mrs. H. Gordon Duval, formerly Miss Hilda Von Herrlich, to Maurice Chalom of Paris, at Antibes, France, stating that the marriage had been performed while the bride and groom were in bathing suits.

This report is absolutely unfounded, as the marriage was performed by the Mayor of Antibes under most formal circumstances.

Mrs. H. Gordon Duval was the widow of H. Gordon Duval, the former president of the Park Avenue Association and owner and editor of The Club-Fellow.

A QUESTION.

When earth and all her clods against me ranged Depression's forces, and the embodied ghost
Was subtly wearied, till the bright life changed
To one of tarnished metal, came a boast
Of triumph and of beauty. Farthermost
Uncharted seas of hope made unestranged,
My bark to find good haven on many a coast,
And all the powers of care to be deranged,
Ah! When I met you I was taught old things.
That mind has force to make its proper road,
That heart despairing is but half a heart.
What power is in you then, that thus it brings
A cheerful heart back where it once abode,

JEFFERSON MARKET'S CLOCK

Villager Insists New Building Must Have a Timepiece.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We are troubled in Greenwich Village. The lofty tower of Jefferson Market will soon be crumbling in a cloud of brick, dust and mortar. A wrecking gang will cart away its remains and a new building will arise in place of the crimson irregularities of that Venetian pile which, outlandish as it was, somehow gratified the eye.

But the wrecking gang cannot cart away the memory of the old tower nor of the clock that has superintended the comings and goings of Greenwich Village for so many years. And that is what I want to ask you about. Have you seen the plans of the new building? Do they include a clock? If they do not, I make my protest now to our fellow-villager, Mayor Walker, and demand that the plans be altered before it is too late.

Yet good as a new clock may be, and accurate as its hands may point the hours, it cannot take the place of the old clock that we have lost. That has been a beacon, a counselor and a friend. How many dates has it timed? How many merry parties have gathered under its harvest moon benignity? How many vigils has it paced against the night horizon of the city? How many watches have been compared to it? Its hands have waved a million good-byes and beckoned a million welcomes. We have hustled at its gesture and slowed down at its hint. When it was slow, we have fretted. When it was fast, we have blessed it. When it stopped, as it did regularly after every blizzard, we felt lost in the storm.

No, we shall not forget the Jefferson Market clock. But as is the depth of our devotion to that noble and philanthropic companion, so is the measure of our insistence that we have a new one to take its place. Sixth Avenue at Tenth Street without a clock at midnight would be like Mayor Walker himself without his smile. The Village will be desolate without its clock. We must have it, rearing high above the roofs and four-square to all the winds that blow.

THE FLEXIBLE TARIFF.

Proposal to Eliminate Provisions From Bill Is Approved.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It now fortunately appears that the Senate is likely to strike out the flexible tariff provisions from the pending bill, upon the ground that it is an illegal delegation of the power to tax to the President. Such action will be approved by every thoughtful believer in constitutional government, be he a Democrat or a Republican. For this is not a partisan question. Since the time of Charles Stuart the people have been violently opposed to taxation by executive fiat. And rightly so. The flexible tariff sets up the most powerful bureaucracy imaginable. In the hands of an unscrupulous or narrow minded President it is liable to the gravest abuse. The cost formula has now been abandoned as unworkable. The new proposal frankly leaves it to the discretion of the President to determine "competitive conditions."

Taxation should be definite and certain, so that the taxpayer knows where he stands and can plan his business accordingly. But under any flexible tariff the bureaucrats in Washington may change his tariff rate at any time, and thus keep him on a hot griddle of perpetual uncertainty. That is not taking the tariff out of politics. It is plunging it into the worst kind of back-stairs, hidden politics. Instead of being progressive, it is the worst form of reaction. It takes us back to the time when the king levied ship money on John Hampton and thereby lost his head.

It is a pity the Supreme Court did not declare the flexible tariff unconstitutional. It is well that Congress seems to be about to ignore its rather casuistical decision.

Moreover, the scheme as drawn is not fair. It empowers the President in his discretion to resort to a change to American valuation. Thus he can "raise" duties far above the nominal limit of 50 per cent, while on the other hand he can only "reduce" duties 50 per cent.

Aliens on American Ships.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Aliens are employed on American-flag ships, while many American seamen are left idle. A very large percentage of these aliens have jumped foreign-flag ships in many ports of the United States and many of them are in the country unlawfully. They have no intention of becoming citizens; all they want is Uncle Sam's money to support their heroes in foreign ports.

When signing on members of a crew as an American-flag ship Federal authorities never ask to see passports or citizenship papers.

American shipowners go weeping to Congress for financial aid and cry to the American public for cargoes. The American public is building a merchant marine with American money to employ American citizens, but on the West Coast, the Gulf, and right here in New York, American seamen walk the streets while aliens sail the ships.

Credit to Dr. Ullrich.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an article entitled "Hundred History Texts Are Tested" appearing in THE TIMES for Sept. 8 the impression is left that I was responsible for the whole of the work in connection with the testing of the texts. This is erroneous. I was chairman of the committee of the American Association of University Women which gathered the data regarding the texts used in the country.

The analysis of the books was in charge of Dr. Laura F. Ullrich of Evanston, Ill., who was chairman of the reading committee referred to in the article appearing in THE TIMES. Dr. Ullrich's signed report was published in the June, 1929, issue of the Journal of the American Association of University Women.

HENDERSON PRAISES LEAGUE'S PROGRESS

British Minister Calls Session a Conspicuous Milestone on Road to Brotherhood.

HAILS ARBITRATION MOVES

He Lauds Paving of Way for Our Entry into World Court and Steps to Revise Covenant.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, who arrived in London yesterday evening from Geneva, told press representatives at Victoria Station it was his firm belief that the tenth Assembly of the League of Nations would be a conspicuous milestone on the road toward the brotherhood of mankind.

The official report of the interview follows:

"On the paramount questions of arbitration, security and disarmament the British delegation has, I venture to say, spoken with a voice of conviction. Nor is it only by speeches that we have shown our determination to go ahead. When the Prime Minister announced that the governments of the British Commonwealth had all decided to sign the optional clause before the end of the Assembly, his words made a tremendous impression, and they have had the practical result that no fewer than twelve new signatures will have been given before the Assembly separates next week.

Stresses Arbitration Steps.

"Remember that when the signatures have been ratified four great European powers—Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy—will all be bound to send their legal disputes to the Permanent Court of International Justice for settlement and that other very important countries like Brazil, Holland, Czechoslovakia, the Scandinavian States and others will also be similarly bound. We have also hopes that other great nations will follow suit. This is therefore an important advance in the sphere of arbitration, and if it is not more than a first step it is nevertheless a big one.

"In other ways this Assembly will be a memorable one. There was unanimously passed a protocol which will, it is hoped, enable the United States of America to accept the statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice. That alone is a great achievement. We have also endeavored to bring the covenant into consonance with the pact of peace so that it will be clear from both these instruments that the nations of the world have renounced war as an act of national policy. A committee has been set up to consider our proposals in this connection.

Looks to Economic Bond.

"On disarmament, Lord Cecil, who remains as the chief British delegate, made on Thursday a powerful appeal intended to strengthen the hands of the Preparatory Commission in their work. The criticism has sometimes been made that the principal naval powers ought to give a lead in this work. The Assembly was, therefore, deeply interested in the Prime Minister's account of his conversations with General Dawes, and the Preparatory Disarmament Commission is eagerly awaiting the results of our efforts and the decisions of the five-power naval conference in the hope that they may achieve an effective limitation of naval armaments.

"We hope also we have laid the foundation for solid progress in economic cooperation in respect to matters that are vital to British trade. Following upon the remarkable speech made by the president of the Board of Trade before the Assembly, we have put forward practical proposals for a conference on hours, wages and conditions in the coal industry and for agreements for limitation, and in the end, we hope, for a reduction of tariff barriers. Of course, in anything so controversial as tariff or wages questions, agreement must be difficult to secure, and if we were to endeavor to rush our action we might spoil all chance of success. Our proposals have nevertheless had most satisfactory results. We hope that in a few months a conference on the coal question will meet and that the economic armistice, as it has been called, which is to be the preliminary to a general tariff reduction conference, will have been agreed to."

TO OPEN LANGDELL HALL.

Harvard Law School Ceremony Wednesday to Draw Notables.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 22.—Statesmen and outstanding members of the legal profession will assemble here from various parts of this country and Europe on Wednesday, when Langdell Hall, Harvard's new Law School building, will be dedicated. With the opening of this new building Harvard marks the consummation of a campaign begun in March, 1926, for a better-equipped law school.

Included among the 500 or more guests who are expected in Langdell Hall for the ceremonies will be George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, and Joseph P. Cotton, Under-Secretary of State of the United States.

Following addresses by Dean Pound and Mr. Cotton, a portrait of Dean Pound, painted by Charles Hopkinson of Boston, will be presented to the Law School by the Law School Association. President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University will receive the keys of the building from the architect, Charles A. Coolidge of Boston. Honorary degrees will then be conferred upon distinguished foreign scholars.

The outstanding feature of the new Langdell Hall is the reading room, said to be the largest in the world, 490 feet long, extending the entire length of the building. Of the sum raised by the campaign conducted during 1926-27, about $500,000 was set aside for the endowment of the library. A further $100,000 was provided for bibliographical assistance and $200,000 for a publication fund.

The new building provides for 20,000 shelf units and has stack room for 500,000 books.

POINTS TO BRITAIN AS LAW-ABIDING

Montreal Barrister Compares Conditions There With Those in the United States.

HITS SENSATIONAL TRIALS

In Address to American Prison Association He Condemns Our Criminal System.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—Criticizing the methods of police in the cities of the United States and the publicity given to murder trials there, Robert L. Calder, a Montreal barrister, told the American Prison Association at last night's session, that there was less crime in Great Britain than in the United States because the law was triumphant there. Among the audience were many delegates from the United States and Mr. Calder later apologized to them for his comparison, although asserting that his statements were supported by "their newspapers, politicians and magazines, whom he could summon as witnesses."

"Since the great war," Mr. Calder said, "Britain has seen such a decrease in crime that some of its penal institutions have been closed down and turned into factories, but in the United States crime is increasing.

"How shall we explain the difference? We cannot say that home life in Britain is not as pure and wholesome as in the United States. We cannot say that there is any more insanity in Britain than there is in your country. The big cities of the United States are cosmopolitan, but not more cosmopolitan than the big cities of Britain. The newness of the United States—that's the reason given by Clarence Darrow, but it is hardly convincing. No, it is not any of these things, it is this, that the law is triumphant in the minds of the British people."

Condemns Police Methods.

He declared that American police methods only tend to make the individual, whether guilty or innocent, "full of resentment against the law and anti-social." He said that in his own legal experience he has known of these methods.

"The first requisite of any system of law is fairness to the criminal," he continued. "He must know that he has been fairly treated. Under English law the criminal has a fair trial. There are no newspaper interviews with the District Attorney, no newspaper pictures of the criminal, the detectives who arrested him and the District Attorney who will try the case. There is nothing dramatic or hysterical."

Without making direct reference to the Baumes law in New York State, Mr. Carter attacked what he termed the severe penalties for crimes in the United States.

"My attitude toward capital punishment in this country and in the United States is well known," he said. "The difference between Great Britain and the United States is that the former has capital punishment and applies it. But in the United States you have capital punishment, you do not apply it, and the criminal knows there is only a remote possibility that it will be applied."

Favors Clinic in Prisons.

"The best clinic for crime is the penitentiary and the jail, because there you have the criminal," he said. "I don't believe there is any time when a warden cannot get the source of truth of a crime even from the most hardened criminal. The time will come when a warden will be flanked by psychiatrists and physicians, who will find that in the prison there is something of a soul."

The problem of the criminal after he has been confined in the penitentiary was discussed by a group of more than thirty wardens from penitentiaries in the United States.

That the tendency toward greater severity in the treatment of criminals was responsible for the recent riots in New York prisons, some of the wardens declared. The Baumes law was cited as one of the causes of the outbreaks.

APPROVES PAROLES BY JUVENILE COURTS

Jewish Board of Guardians Makes Annual Report—Suggests Control of Incorrigibles.

The record of juvenile courts in New York City, which sent only one out of twelve delinquents to correctional institutions last year, was endorsed in the annual report of the Jewish Board of Guardians, which was made public yesterday. The report was transmitted by Mortimer L. Schiff, president, to Mayor Walker and the State Legislature.

"It is a matter of great satisfaction," the report reads, "that the old haphazard way of sending children to institutions is a thing of the past, even though possibly the present-day policy of parole and probation goes too far toward the other direction. Too often children were committed for trivial offenses, or for the misdeeds that were the result of sudden temptation and did not indicate a state of moral obliquity."

The work of preventive agencies has greatly curtailed the number of children sent to the Hawthorne School in Westchester, one of four correctional homes maintained by the board, it was announced. Society still is faced, however, the board says, with the problem of the incorrigible, and it asks:

"Would it not be wise to protect society against their depredations by committing them, when everything else points to failure, for indefinite terms in some proper institution, rather than repeatedly releasing them till they end up in a State's prison?"

The board reports expenditures of $375,353 for last year and receipts of $217,352 from the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropical Societies and $110,694 from the city. Its officers, besides Mr. Schiff, are:

Mrs. MORTIMER M. MENKEN, vice president.
SIDNEY C. BORG, treasurer.
EDWARD A. KOHLER, secretary.

The executive committee, of which Mr. Borg is chairman and on which the other officers also sit, includes:

ROOSEVELT URGES BAUMES ACT CHANGE

Would Modify Clause Making Life Term Mandatory for Fourth Offender.

COMMUTES TERM OF LIFER

Frees Bert N. Garstin, Who Was Sentenced for Giving $300 Bogus Check.

Louisville Man's Previous Offense Was Committed 15 Years Ago—Many Asked Mercy for Him.

In extending executive clemency to Bert N. Garstin, at one time business manager of a Louisville newspaper, who has been serving a life term at Dannemora prison for grand larceny as a fourth offender under the Baumes law, Governor Roosevelt in a memorandum expressed hope that the next Legislature would amend that statute, to temper the rigidity of a clause under which judges have no choice, but must sentence fourth offenders to life imprisonment.

Garstin, who is 46 years old, was found guilty of grand larceny, second degree, by a jury in General Sessions in 1927 for defrauding John J. Hindon, a bond broker, out of $300 on a bogus check. Former convictions in Buffalo, Baltimore, Boston and Rochester were spread upon the record of the trial. The jury that brought in the verdict recommended mercy, but under the Baumes law Judge Max S. Levine, before whom the trial was held, had no choice but to send Garstin to prison for the remainder of his life. Earlier Garstin had entered a plea of guilty, explaining that his latest lapse from the path of rectitude had so humiliated him that he felt too disgusted to stand trial. To give him a chance for an acquittal by facing a jury, Judge Levine subsequently permitted him to withdraw his plea of guilty.

Roosevelt Explains Action.

Governor Roosevelt in a memorandum explaining the reasons for commuting Garstin's life sentence to the two years and four months he has already served, said:

"This prisoner, an experienced and able journalist, is serving a life sentence for issuing a check for $300 on an account in which there were insufficient funds. The sentence imposed was mandatory under the provisions of the so-called Baumes laws by reason of the fact that it was the fourth felony of which the man had been found guilty. The other three felonies were similar transactions: One in Boston, in 1906, in which the sum involved was $150; one in Buffalo in 1910, convicted only of an attempted grand larceny and in which the sum involved was $50; and one in 1912 in which the sum involved was $31.

"These three offenses are spread over a period of twenty-one years. The amount of money obtained in the four felonies was less than $500. His last felony of $31 was committed fifteen years before this present one, during which period the man seems to have behaved. These offenses were all claimed to have been committed while he was under the influence of intoxicating liquor; and, of course, no violence of any kind was used or attempted or threatened.

Cites Possibilities of Injustice.

"The circumstances in this case show the possibility of a grave injustice being committed under the mandatory statute providing life sentence for all fourth felony offenders. I am certain that it was not the real intention of the statute to cover a case like this. It was aimed at more serious offenses, and more particularly those of force or violence. While the Baumes laws, as a whole, were absolutely necessary to cope with the situation and still are, and while they have served as a salutary deterrent to crime, I believe that, in a few isolated cases to which they apply, such as the present one, the result reached is unjust. The District Attorney of New York County writes me in this connection:

"'This is one of the cases that I brought to the attention of the State Crime Commission in my effort to induce the commission to introduce a bill modifying the provisions of Section 1942 of the penal law which make it mandatory upon the court to sentence a fourth offender for life.'

"I trust that the next Legislature will give this question further and deeper study and pass the necessary amendments to prevent the recurrence of such instances without weakening the provisions of the laws in any way in respect to the criminals for whom they were really intended.

Served Two Years and Four Months.

"The judge who was compelled to sentence this man for life advises me that if it were not for the mandatory statute this prisoner would probably have been permitted to plead guilty to a misdemeanor and would probably have received a sentence of from six months to three years. He has served two years and four months of his sentence. He seems to owe his present plight apparently to overindulgence in intoxicants.

"The judge and the District Attorney have both strongly recommended executive clemency. They have both appeared before me personally and voluntarily urged the same on the ground that an actual injustice had been done pursuant to the mandatory law under which they were compelled to proceed. The judge recommends that the sentence be commuted to a period of two years, which have already elapsed, and the District Attorney has joined the judge in this recommendation. A great many letters from very reputable newspaper men and publishers and other citizens in his behalf have also been received by me.

"The only way in which this man can be spared from spending his whole life in prison for these four transactions is by Executive action. I have decided to take such action and to commute his sentence to the time served."

Was Pardoned in Maryland.

Before asking Governor Roosevelt to intervene on his behalf Garstin last June sued out a writ of habeas corpus and was brought before Judge John K. Collins in the Clinton County Court at Plattsburg. He then placed on file a certified copy of a pardon received from Governor Goldsborough of Maryland following one of his previous convictions and produced a copy of the Maryland law stating "that a pardon removes the penalties and disabilities of such conviction and restores him to all his civil rights; it makes him, as it were, a new man and gives him new credit and capacity."

It was then that Garstin was asked why this document had not been produced at the time of his latest trial and he explained that he felt too mortified to try to defend himself. Judge Levine was communicated with by Judge Collins and said that but for the fact that he was sailing for Europe the same day, not to return until September, he would have been willing to have Garstin brought before him and in the light of the new disclosure resentenced, with a less severe penalty imposed.

SEEKS MORE FACTS ON MANCUSO CHECKS

Brooklyn Prosecutor Expected to Question Judge and Anthony Paladino Today.

With the extraordinary grand jury investigating the failure of the City Trust Company preparing to sit every day this week, Acting District Attorney Louis Goldstein of Brooklyn was seeking more light on checks totaling $20,000 made out by Frank M. Ferrari, late head of the defunct company, and cashed by Judge Francis X. Mancuso, president of the board of directors.

Mr. Goldstein was expected to question Judge Mancuso and his friend, Anthony Paladino, a Bronx contractor, who says he loaned the judge $20,000 cash but has no record of the loan. Judge Mancuso has said the checks represented a refund on undelivered stock for which he had advanced Ferrari $20,000 after borrowing it from Paladino. Judge Mancuso has told the special grand jury his version of the checks which were found in a safe deposit vault last Wednesday, but he and Paladino probably will be summoned before that body again today.

District Attorney Banton in Manhattan said he was not sure who would be today's witnesses before the extraordinary grand jury seeking evidence of criminal negligence on the part of the City Trust officials. Some of the directors have not yet told their stories, and it has been reported that Judge Mancuso, his father, Pasquale, and Edward F. Glynn, a nephew of Governor Smith, who obtained a charter for the City Trust Company, might be reached today.

Martin Conboy, attorney for Judge Mancuso, said last night that he had not been informed whether his client had been subpoenaed to appear before either grand jury today.

DECLARES CRIME IS BRED.

Dr. Gosline Asserts Environment Is Not a Criminal Factor.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 22.—Dr. H. I. Gosline, who has just resigned as pathologist of Sing Sing prison, today denied, in an article in The Eugenics Magazine, that a criminal is created by his environment.

"He is a criminal by reason of his criminal nature and his heredity, and is lacking in certain of the functions which go to make a normal human being," he said. He concluded that there are definite bodily and temperamental deficiencies among criminals which seem to explain their difference from normal people.

"If we take the terminology of the instincts," Dr. Gosline said, "we may say that there is a lack in the protective instinct, the instinct of avoidance, repulsion or disgust, in gregariousness, in primitive passive sympathy, in submission and in constructiveness. There is an exaggeration in the combative instinct, the instinct of curiosity, food-seeking, escape, self-assertion, mating, acquisitiveness and appeal. In the qualities of conduct and character there is in some individual criminals a deficiency of courage of bravery, generosity and an overabundance of timidity, meanness and cruelty. In others, the obverse is true."

CHARGES FAILURE OF UTILITY CONTROL

Gov. Roosevelt Says Overcapitalizing Has Broken Down Regulation by Commission.

'CONSUMERS UNPROTECTED'

Executive, at Warm Springs, Ga., Reiterates Policy of Public Handling of Power Production.

Special to The New York Times.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Sept. 22.—Regulation of public utilities by Public Service Commissions has broken down and proved ineffectual for the purposes originally intended, in the opinion of Governor Roosevelt of New York.

The Governor is at the health resort here to get in trim for a series of hearings soon to be held at Albany to shape the State budget for the coming year. His remarks today concerning utility regulations were occasioned by discussion of his attitude toward the efforts of J. P. Morgan & Co. through subsidiary corporations to obtain certain valuable hydroelectric sites on the St. Lawrence River along the northern boundary of New York State.

"The Democratic policy in New York State contemplates public ownership and control of production of hydroelectric power, while the Republican policy has favored private ownership under regulation by Public Service Commissions," the Governor said.

"The State owns half the St. Lawrence River from its shore line to the international boundary that traverses the geographical centre of the stream.

Points to Ontario's Policy.

"I am fully convinced that the public should handle the production of hydroelectric power and possibly its transmission, but that distribution may well be put in the hands of private enterprise under contract to insure the lowest possible rates to consumers.

"The Canadian Province of Ontario handles its hydroelectric developments somewhat in this fashion, owning the production and transmission facilities while the actual distribution is in the hands of the municipalities and sometimes of the counties. It is all public ownership, however.

"Consumers in the Province of Ontario get their electric current for one-third to one-half the price paid by consumers on the American side of the border, although the Niagara River at Niagara Falls is the source of hydroelectric power on both sides.

"The power is produced, transmitted and distributed by private enterprise on the American side. However, public ownership means something to the people of Ontario."

Charges Watering of Stock.

Turning to the operation of Public Service Commissions and the general policy of regulation of privately owned public utilities, the Governor said:

"Under the original theory, a public service corporation desiring to operate in a given territory would go to the Public Service Commission and ask for approval of the project, the idea being that the commission would protect the company from 'wild-cat' competition and guarantee a reasonable return on the invested capital by allowing such rates as would net such a return.

"That was perfectly right and proper, for the company in turn agreed to give the consumers in its territory the benefit of such economies and improvements as might be brought about in the service, by reducing rates accordingly.

"What has happened, however, generally speaking, is that the capitalization of the big public utility enterprises does not by any means represent the actual money invested in the properties. As a matter of fact, the actual money investment is a comparatively small part of the capitalization.

"Nevertheless, the corporations still claim the right to receive a reasonable return on their total capitalizations, which include in almost every instance great quantities of watered stock representing no actual cash investment.

"This condition of over-capitalization by the issuance of watered stock has come about under the regulation of public utilities by Public Service Commissions, so that the policy has failed to maintain that degree of protection for the public which was contemplated at the outset.

"It appears to me that the policy of Public Service Commission regulation has broken down and proved itself ineffectual for the purposes originally intended."

FALLS KILLED 38 IN STATE.

Fatal Industrial Accidents in August Dropped Below July.

ALBANY, Sept. 22 (AP).—Though the preliminary report of the deaths of 191 workers during August represents a decrease of twenty-five from those reported in July, Frances Perkins, Industrial Commissioner, stated today, such deaths continued abnormally large in number for the month.

"Besides the usual large number of fatalities caused by falls and by vehicles," the commissioner said, "there were fifteen caused by electricity, explosions and burns, which is a large number for this group of fatal accidents."

Automobile accidents caused twenty-seven out of forty-one deaths attributed to vehicles of all kinds. Of thirty-eight deaths as the result of falls, twenty-nine were caused by falling from elevations and nine on level surfaces.

Claims for compensation have been filed by dependents in eighty-three of the cases. The dependents included sixty-one widows, one widower, seventy-one children, twenty-two parents and eleven minor brothers and sisters.

To Give Course in State Capitol.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Capitol at Harrisburg will become a college classroom this Fall when Dr. Harwood L. Childs, Professor of Political Science at Bucknell University, conducts a course in Pennsylvania State Government. The first meeting will be held in the Senate Caucus Room, Oct. 2, when William A. Schnader, Deputy Attorney General, will speak. Many of the heads of the State Government organizations will assist in subsequent lectures.

Radio Corporation to Sell 'Ether Music' Device; Plans to Popularize Theremin Instrument

The Radio Corporation of America has acquired the patents of Professor Leon Theremin for an ether wave musical instrument, and is about to introduce "RCA Theremins" on a commercial scale, it is announced today. A separate department has been created by the Radio Corporation to exploit this musical device, under G. Dunbar Shewell, and a demonstration model will be exhibited at the Radio Show opening today.

The General Electric and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing companies have taken steps to produce Theremins on a commercial scale for merchandising through the Radio Corporation of America. The instrument is to be introduced through dealers in all sections of the country, and musicians in the employ of the dealers will be invited to attend a one week's course in New York to become acquainted with the instrument and learn to play it.

It is planned to popularize the Theremin as an instrument available to any unskilled person with a love for music but who is not trained in any instrument requiring years of study. The instrument is operated merely by waving the two hands, one controlling volume and the other tone.

The first public demonstration of the device was given in the Metropolitan Opera House last Jan. 31 by the inventor. A week before he had given a demonstration before friends and invited guests at the Hotel Plaza. On Aug. 27 the instrument was played by Professor Theremin before about 12,000 persons at the Lewisohn Stadium, "which was followed by five minutes of persistent applause," according to an observer. Professor Theremin arrived in this country Dec. 21, 1927. In Russia he is known as an inventor and scientist. He is about 30 years old.

The amount paid Mr. Theremin for his rights was not revealed, but it is understood that an initial cash payment and royalties on sales were agreed upon. The rights of the Radio Corporation include the United States, Canada, Cuba and United States insular possessions.

First regular production models, which were developed secretly and which are to sell for $175, have been received from the factory, according to an announcement made by E. A. Nicholas, vice president in charge of the radiola division of the Radio-Victor Corporation of America. He expresses the belief that the RCA Theremin is ready to take its place as a musical instrument beside the piano, violin and other instruments.

"Any one who is able to hum a tune, sing or whistle is likely to play the RCA Theremin as well as a trained musician," Mr. Nicholas says. "Still one may study it and improve continuously. The first instrument we are placing on the market has an entirely new tone color, similar to the violin or 'cello.'"

The source of the sound is a loudspeaker to which there is applied alternating current voltage of variable frequency generated within the instrument itself.

PEACOCK MAY TAKE THE STAND TODAY

He Will Admit Confession That He Killed Wife, but Plead She Drove Him Mad.

TO CALL FORTY WITNESSES

State Expected to Rest After Cross-Examination of Slayer's Mother-in-Law.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Two versions of the killing of Dorothy Heinzelman Peacox, alike in important respects but differing in details, may be presented to the jury tomorrow when the first-degree murder trial of her 21-year-old husband, Earl Peacox, reopens before Supreme Court Justice Tompkins.

One version—the one which District Attorney Frank H. Coyne is counting on to convince the jury of married men that the killing was premeditated—is contained in the three signed statements Peacox made after his arrest last April. They will be read to the jury in the morning. Afterward the State is expected to rest its case.

The defense is expected to open its case immediately by calling the defendant to the stand to relate his story. Peacox, according to his counsel, Sydney Syme, will not repudiate his confession. He will admit that he killed his wife last April 21 when she referred slightingly to her former home at 32 Edison Avenue, Mount Vernon, as "the same old dump." He will admit also that five days later he drenched her body in kerosene and burned it in a thicket off the Ardsley Road near Greenburg.

But Peacox, who has been preparing for his appearance on the stand by making notes on the testimony of the State's chief witnesses, will try to convince the jury that he killed in self-defense while temporarily deranged. He will seek to accomplish this, it was said, by telling of the jealousy aroused in him by his allegedly flirtatious wife, and emphasizing points which were treated superficially in his three confessions. Particularly, he will seek to impress the jurors that he "didn't mean to kill," and that he was "panic-stricken" when he realized he had.

The trial is now entering its second week. Only eighteen witnesses have testified for the State, which is expected to conclude its case soon after cross-examination of Mrs. Adelaide Heinzelman, mother of the girl whom Peacox married and killed on their first wedding anniversary.

The defense has subpoenaed forty witnesses and is preparing to present expert testimony to the effect that Peacox had been driven temporarily mad by his wife's indiscretions and that he was not accountable for his acts at the time of the killing. Mr. Syme estimated that it would take at least a week to put in his case. The State is then expected to call alienists in rebuttal of the insanity defense and observers estimated that it would be nearly two weeks before Peacox will know his fate.

Alcohol in Brain of Drowned Man.

An autopsy and analysis performed yesterday by Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, City Toxicologist, showed that the brain of Joseph Sanginetti, cement worker, of Union City, N. J., whose body was found Saturday with his automobile in the North River off Gansevoort Street, contained ethyl alcohol. The body was definitely identified as that of Sanginetti by Anna Sequeri, his cousin, with whom he lived.

TIPSTER DIES IN JAIL, FACED 4-YEAR TERM

POSTER CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Better Business Bureau to Start Drive This Week on Swindles—Three Methods Explained.

Charles F. Rideal, 75-year-old stock tipster, who recently was sentenced to serve four years in Atlanta Penitentiary for using the mails to defraud, died at 10:30 yesterday morning in the Federal House of Detention here. Death was due to natural causes, according to Dr. David Doyle of St. Vincent's Hospital.

Rideal and Richard H. Woolfall were convicted Sept. 13 in Federal court in connection with the promotion of stock of the Universal Utilities Company. Federal Judge R. T. Ervin sentenced them the same day. Woolfall, who is 65 years old and in whose case the jury recommended clemency, received a sentence of a year and a day.

At their trial both men testified that they believed every statement they had made about the securities they sold. A letter which Rideal, an Englishman, sent to a friend in London twenty-six years ago was introduced in evidence. In it the defendant had said:

"Americans are not to be relied upon either by word or contract. The only thing they are good for is to make money out of them. When it comes to that they are about as silly a set of geese as ever were plucked by human hand."

Rideal lived at 230 Woosley Avenue, Astoria.

As United States Attorney Tuttle prepared to continue his drive on tipsters and bucket shops, the National Better Business Bureau announced it would launch a poster campaign this week against salesmen of fraudulent stocks who seek to repeat sales to former purchasers through "reloading" schemes. Three systems, it was said, are in use. They are known as the "merger," the "exchange" and the "allotment" methods.

In the first the salesman tells his client that a merger is in prospect that will increase the value of stock already purchased, and urges the victims to take more. In the second, a holder of worthless stock gets an opportunity to exchange it for a sounder one if he will pay a cash difference in price.

The third method consists of having the purchaser of a doubtful stock visited by a supposed executive of the company whose shares he holds. This visitor tells the prospect that the stock salesman did not let his client know what a really "good thing" he was selling and urges him to take more.

THREE QUESTIONED IN $512,000 THEFT

Detectives Think One May Be "Key" Witness in Case of Brokers' Messenger.

NO CHARGE AGAINST BOY

Milton Alter Still Held at Police Headquarters—Not Taken to See Men, Who Are Let Go.

Detectives following the trail of the $512,000 in stocks which Milton Alter, 17-year-old messenger, has said he sold to a chance friend for $1,130 a man to Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon and questioned him for about five hours. The man was not under arrest, but the detectives said he might prove to be a "key" witness in the hunt for the securities. They refused to say whether he was suspected of being the man who drove the "bargain" with the messenger boy.

The man was permitted to leave headquarters shortly after 10 o'clock last night, his identity still shielded by the police. It was disclosed then that two other men had been examined in the evening and let go.

The target of the police examination appeared at headquarters at 4:45 P. M. He was accompanied by Lieutenant Patrick E. McVeigh and by Detectives McHale, Wilson and Riley of the staff of Deputy Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney. He was escorted to Mulrooney's office and McVeigh advised his chief.

Inspector Mulrooney motored from his home in the Bronx to headquarters and began examining the man. All that the inspector would admit about the man was that he was being questioned in the stock theft.

Man Found in Brooklyn.

The man was about 25 years old and of dark complexion. He was short and slight. Only his shoes and the top of his felt hat were visible as he moved into the police building completely hedged in by the bulky detectives. He was found in Brooklyn, it was reported.

Alter, who is held at headquarters with no charge against him, was not taken to view the man. He remained in his cell in headquarters, sullenly bewildered by the turn of events that had changed him from a "victim" of hold-up men to a tool of what Police Commissioner Whalen believes to be an organized group preying on Wall Street messengers.

In the course of the day the boy was taken from his cell and placed in a police car. With several detectives riding on the back seat with him he was taken for a ride which lasted an hour. The police refused to tell where he had been taken.

Others to Be Questioned.

"This man is one of a number we intend to question in this case," said Inspector Mulrooney when he emerged from his room at 7 P. M. and left headquarters, saying that he would return and resume the questioning in an hour and a half. During his absence the grilling of the witness was taken over by Lieutenant McVeigh.

Alter disappeared on Friday morning. He had been sent to the Guaranty Trust Company with a certified check for $400,000 drawn by his employers, R. V. Hiscoe & Co., brokers, at 111 Broadway. At the trust company he turned in the check and received $512,000 in collateral which had been deposited by the brokers in connection with a transaction.

According to Alter's first story, he was kidnapped by several men who took him around Manhattan and Brooklyn in an automobile, finally putting him out in Brooklyn, where he telephoned his employers and reported that he had been robbed. The boy's story provoked police skepticism and after hours of questioning by Inspector Mulrooney and Commissioner Whalen he confessed that his first narrative had been untrue.

He said that a man called Jack Rosen had struck up an acquaintance with him and had told him how some easy money could be made. In brief, the easy money was to be made by turning over to Rosen any valuable consignment of securities which Alter might be assigned to deliver. Rosen had met him on the trip to the Guaranty Trust Company and had suggested that $512,000 would be a good consignment to start with.

Police Still Skeptical.

According to Alter's second version, which has failed to do away with the police cynicism altogether, Rosen said he had a man ready to buy the securities and that he would deliver $50,000, as the boy's share, to his father, Louis Alter, a tailor at 246 Rivington Street. The father knew nothing of this arrangement and was heart-broken when his son's trouble was disclosed to him.

Alter, continuing his amended account, said that he and Rosen had separated at Lexington Avenue and Thirty-first Street. Rosen handed him the $1 and told him to wait in a motion picture theatre near Fourteenth Street and Third Avenue until he returned with the proceeds. When Rosen failed to reappear, according to Alter's story, he went to Brooklyn by the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit subway, and from Roebling Street and Broadway he telephoned to his employers.

Alter said that Rosen had coached him in the kidnapping story.

Commissioner Whalen in announcing that Alter had told a second story involving Rosen, expressed the theory that an organized gang trained boys to get jobs with brokers or with banks and then induced them to take hold-ups.

QUIESCENT VOLCANO ACTIVE

Soufriere in Windward Islands Rumbles, Natives Flessing.

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, Windward Islands, Sept. 22 (AP).—The opening of a new crater on Mont Pelee in Northern Martinique has apparently caused feeble activity and mysterious murmurings in Soufriere, the quiescent volcano of this island. The rumbling of the mountain was heard yesterday by natives, who promptly began to move to places of safety.

Today the volcano was apparently calm. The water in the crater lake was rising.

Mr. Rogers Has Discovered What Ruined 48 of Our Cities

EL RENO, Okla., Sept. 22.—When you are visiting the beauty spots of this country, don't overlook Frank Phillippe's ranch and game preserve at Bartlesville, Okla. It's the most unique place in this country. Got everything but reindeer. He shipped fifty down from Alaska at a thousand dollars a piece. They stood the Summer fine and all froze to death in the Winter.

Just flew over Oklahoma City, where they have struck big oil wells right in town. They are going to move the Capitol building to put in wells. State and Federal capitols have ruined forty-eight towns and cities in this country. No town has survived a capitol, so, as I see it, to strike oil is the only salvation.

This is Reno, our historical old fort, but now our protection is in the hands of Senate investigating committees. We will meet 'em and defeat 'em with testimony.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

NIGHT FIRE WRECKS THE CLUB RICHMAN

CAUSE PROVES MYSTERY

New Decorations in the Resort Destroyed—Rumors of Tragedy Bring Crowd to Scene.

The rough stone and red brick stable at 157 West Fifty-sixth Street, in which the carriage horses of the late Andrew Carnegie once pawed the straw-strewn floor and which of late years has housed the Club Richman, was wrecked early yesterday morning by a fire of unknown origin. The club's quarters were badly damaged and its large and newly decorated revel room was left open to the sky.

No one was on the premises when the fire started. William Erb, a stock broker, who occupies a suite on the top floor, was out of town. Louis Schwartz, who, with Harry Richman, revue actor, operates the club, sub-leasing it from Mr. Erb, who pays his rent to Carnegie Hall, Inc., returned to enter his second-floor apartment there at the height of the blaze.

The fire was discovered shortly after 2 o'clock, when a passer-by saw smoke seeping from windows. An alarm brought Deputy Chief William Murphy to the scene and the blaze was extinguished in an hour. The dense smoke from the burning decorations and draperies of the club, which had been renovated at a cost of several thousand dollars, hung low over streets in the vicinity. A large crowd gathered at the scene, when reports spread that a night-club disaster similar to that in Detroit last week had occurred.

Yesterday morning's fire was the climax of a series of adverse events, which had previously failed to shake Mr. Richman's enterprises. When the club was first organized in 1924 "to promote sociability among its members," Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, then owner of the property, sued to oust the club, which adjoins Carnegie Hall.

Then, in 1928, prohibition officials sought to close the place, but Mr. Richman maintained that no liquor had ever been sold there. Yesterday, however, Mr. Schwartz, in the absence of his partner, who is "on the coast making a picture," admitted that the club, which was to have opened for the Winter season Oct. 8, would have to seek new quarters.

FAMILY TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Man, Wife and Two Sons Reported Poisoned by Soup.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 22.—A family of four persons are in the Elizabeth General Hospital as the result, it is said, of eating some tomato soup last night in their home at 661 Adams Avenue. They are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hammond and their sons, Curtis and Joseph. They were stricken ten minutes after finishing dinner, the police learned.

Mrs. Hammond fell from a chair, complaining of pains about her heart. As her husband was assisting her he and the boys were stricken. Neighbors heard their screams and summoned an ambulance. At the hospital it was said they probably were suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

The police found canned soup, bologna, crackers, bread and coffee on the dinner table, and took samples of the soup for analysis by the city chemist.

GASTONIA DEFENSE AIDED.

Fund Headquarters Here Receives Pledges From Labor Unions.

Messages pledging financial support and the "solidarity of the workers" in behalf of the Gastonia strikers and strike leaders on trial in North Carolina in the Aderholt killing were received yesterday at the headquarters of the Gastonia Joint Defense and Relief Fund at 50 East Eleventh Street from thirty cities. It was asserted there that several American Federation of Labor locals had sent aid in defiance of the injunction of President William Green against helping the Communists.

Fifteen hundred members of the United Mine Workers employed in the Orient mine in Illinois voted to assess themselves 25 cents each for the defense of the strikers, according to the announcement from the headquarters here. It was also announced that "workers" rallies in behalf of the defendants will be held in Baltimore on Friday, in Detroit Sunday and in Philadelphia Oct. 11.

PEEKSKILL LEADER NAMED IN LAND DEAL

Ex-Supervisor Murden Said to Be Partner in Sale of Tract for 13 Times Cost Price.

TAX OFFICIAL INVOLVED

11 Acres Under Contract for $25,000 Were Part of 40 Acres Purchased for $7,000.

LOT A SWAMPY PASTURE

Untermyer, Informed of the Case, Says He Is Considering, Investigating It.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 22.—A real estate transaction by which the Westchester County Park Commission has contracted to buy for approximately $24,000 eleven acres of wasteland near Peekskill which was part of a forty-acre lot which sold about five years ago for $7,000, was reported today by Walter Frost, a retired landowner, who dwells on the adjoining property. Part of the property was bought in 1924 by Tax Assessor James Dimond of Peekskill, Mr. Frost said.

The rest, it was said last night, was bought in the name of the mother-in-law of David S. Murden, former county supervisor, also of Peekskill.

Tract Is Swamp and Pasture.

The property, composed of swamp, brush and undeveloped land and pasturage, was part of the estate of Calvin Frost, deceased. It lies along the route of the proposed Bronx Parkway Extension toward the Bear Mountain Bridge. The contract of sale is now in the hands of the Attorney General of the State, it is said, who is examining certain matters in connection with its title.

Walter Frost added tonight that Dimond had told him that he recently bought another piece of property called the Shipley Farm on Croton Pond Road for $20,000. At one time it had been the plan of the Westchester Parkway Commission to develop parks and highways in that region. Later the plan was changed. The Croton Fond property is for sale now.

Untermyer Informed of Deal.

The report of the sale of the Frost farm property to Dimond and its subsequent partly completed transfer to the Westchester Parkway Commission was brought to the attention of Samuel Untermyer tonight. Mr. Untermyer is special representative of Governor Roosevelt investigating certain sales of land in White Plains and elsewhere in Westchester County. He has authority to go into the new question, if he so desires. He said last night that he is considering the matter.

Mr. Frost, who has lived all his 64 years on the same farm near Peekskill, described how Dimond told him of his purchase.

"Have you looked over the property carefully?" Mr. Frost asked him.

"No," said Dimond.

"It's all swamp," the other asserted.

The forty acres, selling for approximately $175 an acre in the transaction of five years ago, have mounted in value, according to the price mentioned in the county parkway sale, approximately thirteen times. The sale for about $24,000 comprised only eleven acres of the land in question.

The reputed partner in the transaction, David Murden, though beaten decisively some time ago as a candidate for re-election as a County Supervisor, is one of the Republican leaders of the county and is prominent in Republican councils in Peekskill. He could not be reached by telephone last night, his wire having been disconnected.

Refuses to Discuss Deal.

Dimond, questioned in the matter, refused to acknowledge or deny the transaction.

"There's something in it," he said, "but I don't care to discuss it further."

Asked if he had heard anything as to a possible investigation by Samuel Untermyer, he said:

"I understand he's going to investigate it, yes." He refused to reply to other questions.

Mr. Untermyer would not discuss his plans to broaden the inquiry he is now conducting, as directed by Governor Roosevelt, to include sites bought for county parkways. At the same time friends and members of the Westchester County Park Commission were quoted today as welcoming the investigation. "It will result in a boomerang against the complainants," they said.

They were referring particularly to the alleged purchase of swampland in Bedford for a price put at either $90,000 or $70,000 from a corporation in which William Barrett, brother of Supervisor E. P. Barrett, had a one-third interest. The corporation, it was alleged, had bought the land for $11,000.

Meanwhile, former Mayor Ulrich Wiesendanger of Yonkers, an independent Republican who is running on an independent ticket for his old post, took up the Untermyer revelations as a campaign argument. He is opposing Mayor John J. Fogarty, who is connected with the regular Republican organization dominated by William L. Ward.

COOLIDGE WEDDING TODAY IN A BOWER

Church Where Ex-President's Son Weds Miss Trumbull to Be Elaborately Decorated.

A CHRYSANTHEMUM ARRAY

1,500 Giant Yellow Blooms to Be Used—Governor Trumbull Entertains Bridal Party.

PLAINVILLE, Conn., Sept. 22 (AP).—Final preparations for the wedding tomorrow afternoon of Florence Trumbull, daughter of Governor H. Trumbull of Connecticut, and Major John Coolidge, son of former President Coolidge, were made today as florists, caterers and carpenters completed their plans.

The little Congregational Church where the ceremony will take place and the Trumbull home, which will be the scene of the wedding reception, will be transformed into bowers of autumnal beauty.

More than 1,500 giant yellow chrysanthemums from California will be used in the decoration of the church. Yellow pom-poms, smilax and palms are to complete the decorative scheme.

Bronze receptacles six feet tall, filled with chrysanthemums, will be spaced along the two aisles in the church, closing in the centre section where the eighty-two guests will be seated during the ceremony. Pyramid candelabra holding tall, waxed tapers are to be placed in front of the pipe organ, which will be screened by masses of palms and smilax.

The church vestibule will be decorated with a plaque of chrysanthemums, yellow gladioli and pernet roses, surrounded by a bank of maiden-hair fern.

The Trumbull home also will be decorated with chrysanthemums, ranging from pale yellow to burnt-orange tints. If the weather permits the reception will be held on the extensive grounds surrounding the house, where tents already have been erected to supply refreshments for the 400 guests.

Major Coolidge and his bride will receive the guests in the sunken garden at the rear of the house.

Gifts have arrived at the Trumbull home in such large numbers that many remain unopened. Those which have been opened fill three rooms on the second floor of the house. Among them is a large silver bowl bearing the inscription "Presented to Mr. John Coolidge on the occasion of his marriage by the heads of the diplomatic missions, Washington."

Near it are two dozen jars of vegetables, the gift of a former cook in the Trumbull household, and a lace centrepiece, given by a servant in the Coolidge home.

The wedding service will be conducted by the Rev. Kenneth Weller of Albany, N. Y., former pastor of the Congregational Church at Northampton, Mass., where former President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge reside. He will be assisted by the Rev. J. Roy Wilkerson, pastor of the Plainville Congregational Church. Only relatives and intimate friends will witness the ceremony. Miss Jean Trumbull will attend her sister as maid of honor, and Stephan Brown of Northampton will be Major Coolidge's best man.

Major Coolidge and his bride-to-be attended church services this morning in the little white frame Congregational Church where they will be married. They were accompanied by Governor and Mrs. Trumbull. John drove the Governor's car, in which they rode.

No other members of the wedding party were present.

When the services ended Miss Trumbull was surrounded by a group of friends who came to extend their good wishes for her happiness. The party then entered their car and drove away.

Governor and Mrs. Trumbull were hosts to the wedding party today at a midday dinner at the Shuttle Meadow Country Club, and entertained them again at a buffet supper tonight in their home.

Bermuda Yacht Cup Won by Aileen Although She Finishes Third in Final Race

AILEEN CAPTURES BERMUDA YACHT CUP

ERMAR CROSSES LINE FIRST

STIRRING RACE IS SAILED

By SHANNON CORMACK.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., Sept. 22.—The Royal Bermuda Yacht Club Trophy was won today by Cornelius Shields's Sound interclub sloop Aileen. This boat, sailing under perfect yachting conditions, finished third today, but her lead in points was such that she was able to win the cup despite the fact that Ermar and Daphne finished ahead of her in today's race, which was held by the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club.

It was the eighth finished race of the series and the ninth scheduled by the interclub class. Last week's race was called off due to a lack of wind.

In addition to the interclub race the Manhasset Bay club scheduled races for the six-meter and R classes. The wind was about due east and was blowing hard. None of Class R appeared, while three six-meters and seven interclubs came out. The sixes were all reefed and Lucie won handily. The interclubs were not, as they have no reef points in their sails.

Sail Triangular Course.

The course was triangular, the first leg, from Execution Light to Mattinnecock Point, being a beat and the second and third reaches. Ermar was among the first boats to get away. She never relinquished first place, although she was challenged by Daphne in one of the most stirring finishes ever seen on the Sound. Gordon Raymond had enlisted in his crew William Swan, one of the best sailors that Long Island Sound has ever turned out, and they made a valiant effort to win the race.

These boats had been fairly even all the way to the second mark, with Ermar having the best of it. Mr. Cowl's boat rounded the mark at Mott's Point about ten seconds ahead, and she set her spinnaker for the broad reach home.

Daphne also set a spinnaker, but it was noticed that she was working to leeward all the time, and this apparently put her out of the race. It did not. She counted on getting well to leeward, running with the wind dead abeam, and then reaching for the mark. A boat reaches faster than she runs, and this strategy would have worked perfectly had the course been fifty feet longer than it was.

Aileen Just Behind Them.

Daphne to leeward and Ermar to windward thundered down on the line, with everything set, and with Aileen a little behind both of them. Over the finish line they went, with Ermar just one second ahead of Daphne, and Aileen five seconds behind the second boat.

BOWMAN WINS TITLE IN FOUR-SET MATCH

Beats Kahn for Hudson Valley Tennis Honors by 1-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Special to The New York Times.

ELMSFORD, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Herbert L. Bowman of Bronxville won the Hudson Valley tennis championship today at the Fairview Country Club by defeating Ernest Kuhn of New York, 1—6, 6—2, 6—2, 6—2. Bowman, who was seeded first, was favored to annex the title held last year by Frank Bonneau, Yonkers star.

Kuhn, a fine all-court player, started to make trouble for Bowman by mixing the length and pace of his shots. A cleverly placed drop shot would lure Bowman to the net, where he would find himself either passed with a hard hit drive or scrambling after a beautifully placed lob. Kuhn played almost faultless tennis in the first set.

After the opening chapter, however, Bowman settled down to his own game and his forehand and backhand drives had Kuhn running from corner to corner and entirely on the defensive. Not once in the last three sets was Kuhn able to assume the offensive position he held in the opening set.

An exhibition mixed doubles match was played before the finals of the singles. Miss Caroline Roberts of New Rochelle, teamed with Charles M. Wood Jr., Fairview professional, to defeat Miss Clara Greenspan and Richard Lewis.

NAUTILUS SETS PACE FOR 10-METER BOATS

TWO CRAFT ARE DISABLED

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 22.—A special race for ten-meter boats was held under the supervision of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club today and was won by the Nautilus, owned and sailed by James H. Ottley.

There was a strong east wind and a long sea, which resulted in two of the boats being unable to finish. A few minutes after the start Harold Weston's Shawara split her mainsail and Albert W. Johnson's Nachvak became dismasted, and both were obliged to retire from the race. Six boats started in the race and four finished.

It was a ten-mile course, windward and leeward, the start being off Captain's Island, around Cow's Buoy off Shippan Point, Stamford, and return. Nautilus took the lead from the start, but at times was hard pressed by Francis S. Page's Narcissus. On the homeward stretch, however, Nautilus increased her lead and finished some distance ahead of Narcissus.

The time between the first and last boat was 3 minutes and 45 seconds. Only 17 seconds elapsed between the finish of the second and third boats.

KOZELUH VANQUISHES RICHARDS BY 7-5, 6-4

Special to The New York Times.

DARIEN, Conn., Sept. 22.—Karl Kozeluh, world's professional tennis champion, defeated Vincent Richards, holder of the American professional tennis title, 7—5, 6—4, in an exhibition match at the Wee Burn Club today. Some 1,000 fans watched the match.

Richards's errors and Kozeluh's strong backhand strokes were the undoing of the American. In the first set Richards had a lead of 3—1 in games only to have Kozeluh even the count and then take the set.

Richards came to the net more in the second set and when he remained in back court did some excellent placing.

Kozeluh paired with Arthur Rudolph, another professional, to beat Richards and Edgar Troth, 6—3, in a doubles exhibition. Then Kozeluh with the same partner, defeated Richards and Agutter, 6—4, 4—6, 10—9, in another doubles exhibition. With the score 9-all in the last set, it was agreed that the next game would decide the match.

Before the exhibitions Mrs. Fannin Charake and John Nickerson won the mixed doubles championship of the club, defeating Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Patterson, 6—1, 6—2.

HAKOAH WINS, 4-3, AT EBBETS FIELD

Beats Hungaria in Eastern Soccer League Game in Debut at Ball Park.

Making their debut at Ebbets Field, where their headquarters will be henceforth, the New York Hakoah soccer team, champion of the United States, defeated Hungaria by 4 to 3 after one of the most hotly contested games in the Eastern League's series this year.

Hakoah set the pace from the start and the first quarter of an hour yielded two counts for them. From then on they were held scoreless until the second half. Early in the second period Hungaria electrified the crowd of 2,000 fans by scoring twice. A penalty cost them the lead, and from this they never recovered.

The game was hardly under way when Gruenwald scored from a fine cross by Grenfeld on the left. Taking advantage of a good opening, Gruenwald passed to Wortmann, who made a goal for Hakoah, who then had a lead of 2-0 after playing only a quarter of an hour.

The appearance of Neufeld in the second half was greeted by tremendous cheering. He took the place of Schwarcz at outside right. Play had been on for five minutes when Scentmiklosy and Kramer worked the ball down, giving Pipa his chance to score Hungaria's first goal. The crowd fairly gasped when Kuntner evened after a good combination by Weidner and Kramer, ten minutes later.

Weidner brought down Wortmann, and the referee blew his whistle. Grenfeld shot the goal that gave the advantage back to the champions. From a corner kick on the left, Neufeld got possession and his cannonball drive nestled within the net. In the last minute of play Kuntner scored from Kramer's pass, leaving the score 4-3 in favor of Hakoah.

SOCCER GIANTS TIE PORTUGUESE AT 2-2

Each Side Sends Ball Into Own Net in Eastern League Match.

The New York Soccer Giants met with surprising resistance by the Newark Portuguese eleven at Starlight Park yesterday, and after ninety minutes of rousing play had to be content with a 2-2 tie in their Eastern League game at about 2,000 fans looked on.

The play went up and down for twenty-five minutes when Adair broke away on the right and dropped over a perfect centre. Davie Brown pounced upon the ball and whipped it into the net for the first tally.

This reverse stung the Portuguese team and just before half time they got a goal. Doherty made a well-placed corner kick and in trying to get the ball away, John Brown turned it into his own net to tie the score.

The Jerseymen jumped out in front ten minutes after resuming when Strong raced through all opposition to beat Jock Brown with a bullet-like drive. The lead was held until ten minutes from the final whistle, when Adair put over a great flag kick under the cross bar and Pentland, with a frantic attempt to clear the ball, just pulled it over the goal line to even the score once more.

WARILY COQUETTE BEST FOX TERRIER

ESMOND GINGER ALSO WINS

Is Judged Best of Smooth Group at Belmont Park—Tanna Doublepay Leads Puppies.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

In the presence of the leading fox terrier fanciers of the country, Warily Coquette, the grand wire-haired fox terrier bitch, bred and owned by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald M. Lewis of Bedford Hills, N. Y., was judged best in show by George N. Owen of Great Neck, L. I., who made the awards at the annual Summer show of the American Fox Terrier Club, held yesterday in the paddock of Belmont Park.

There was an excellent attendance, considering the chill northeast wind, and interest in the judging was keen until the last special was awarded.

There was an excellent entry in almost every class and the quality, both in smooths and wires, was as high as any group ever brought together in this country.

The smooths, contrary to the usual run of fox terriers at the all-breed shows, pressed the wires closely in all-around quality.

Warily Coquette, a consistent winner, is by Ch Talavera Marcus out of Ch Warily Wiregirl of Wersbrough. She is a hound-marked bitch and was at the top of her form in excellent coat and going all the time.

Esmond Ginger Owned by Stevens.

She scored first in open class for bitches, was judged the best wire-haired fox terrier and then went on to defeat the winning smooth, Esmond, Ginger, owned by Dexter Stevens of Pawtucket, R. I.

The wires, like the smooths which had been judged in the morning, were a level lot on the whole and competition was exceedingly keen. Owen judged with care and gave every contestant ample opportunity to show its points. A young puppy came to the top in the class for youngsters of six months and under nine months in Tanna Doublepay, owned by Mrs. F. B. Korshin of Media, Pa. He was good enough to place second to Cyril Crimmins's Halleston Handy in the novice class, being placed over Shaw McKean's Prides Hill Sensational, the winner in the older puppy class.

A fine specimen, Chappaqua Selected, won in the open class, champions barred. In the open class for dogs, the winner was Filanna Speedy, owned by Dr. Philip G. Hood of Long Branch, N. J.

Estelle of Bramwell Excels.

Among the wire bitches, a fine record was made by Estelle of Bramsil, owned by Eland Hadfield of Narberth, Pa. She won in the novice class, the open class and placed third in the open class, champions barred, in which Warily Coquette was the winner, with Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Bondy's Sonora of Wildoaks, second.

ARCHER DEFEATS GOLFERS

Scores 65 to Best Ball of 70 for Three Rivals.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 22.—Archery won over golf at the Woodway Country Club today, when Howard Hill of Miami, shot his way around the course with bow and arrow in seven under par for a 65. He scored birdies on seven holes, playing against the best ball of three members of the club, Samuel N. Pierson, H. M. Ridabock and John Flaherty, assistant professional.

At the conclusion, Hill was 5 up on the best ball of his opponents, which was 70.

Later British Open Golf Date! Sets Back U. S. Play in 1930

The 1930 United States open golf championship at the Interlachen Club, Minneapolis, will be played on July 10, 11 and 12, two weeks later than the 1929 event at the Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y. H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the championship committee of the United States Golf Association, announced the change yesterday through The Associated Press.

The later date has been made necessary because the British open will come five weeks later than it did this year. The British event is to open on June 16. A number of the country's leading pros will bid for the British title, and most of the first-rank amateurs as well. The Walker Cup amateur team matches are to be played on British soil next year and members of the American squad will be entered in the open.

CRUMP CUP FINAL CAPTURED BY KNAPP

Special to The New York Times.

PINE VALLEY, N. J., Sept. 22.—A tournament which attracted a distinguished field of entries came to an end today when Alec Knapp, former Yale golfer, captured the Crump Memorial Cup at the Pine Valley Golf Club.

The 22-year-old Baltimore star, who won the qualifying round medal, climaxed his triumphant march in the competition by defeating James M. Robbins, former Princeton captain and former Pennsylvania amateur champion, by 4 and 3 in the eighteen-hole final.

Knapp survived a field which included such luminaries as Max Marston, Watts Gunn, Eddie Driggs, Duke Woolworth and William Reekie.

Except in the semi-finals this morning, Knapp disposed of his opponents with ease. His greatest test came this morning, when he squeezed through with a 1 up victory over John Riddell Jr. of Lakeville.

Robbins in the morning defeated Driggs, Long Island titleholder, 3 and 2.

In the final Knapp got into difficulties on the first nine and went 1 down when he took an 8 on the long seventh hole. He squared matters by winning the ninth. After the turn Robbins's game weakened and Knapp won four of the next six holes. On the thirteenth and fourteenth Knapp was conceded the holes before he had reached the greens.

RIEDEL WINS RACE AROUND MANHATTAN

BILL KRAUER IS SECOND

Fleet of 31 Encounters Rough Water on Hudson and Adverse Tide in East River.

Taking an early lead and increasing it gradually during the entire journey, Ernie Riedel of the Pendleton Canoe Club came home first in the annual canoe regatta around Manhattan Island yesterday. The event, conducted from the float of the Knickerbocker Canoe Club, was sponsored by the Island Canoe Club of City Island, under the sanction of the American Canoe Association.

A total of thirty-one entrants started in the twenty-six-mile grind at 10 A. M., but the brisk wind and the uncertain sea forced almost half of them to withdraw before the course was completed. Several of the competitors found it exceedingly difficult to plow south through the waters of the Hudson on the first stage of the race and withdrew before they reached the Battery.

Those that continued found an adverse tide in the East River and were forced to battle every inch of the way to remain in the race. Conditions in Hell Gate were the most adverse, however, and many of the starters who managed to survive the buffeting waves of the East River had to give up just before the last lap.

Riedel set a steady pace early in the grind and at the start had only to contend with Julius Krauer, winner of the race two years ago, for the lead. The Pendleton representative took exclusive possession of the lead before the Battery was reached, however, since Krauer was disqualified for paddling in the wake of a barge. Riedel went along at a comparatively rapid clip after that and came back to the finish line after 5 hours and 59 minutes, 20 minutes better than Bill Krauer, who was second.

Bill Krauer, a brother of Julius, made a gallant fight to take second place, coming up from eighteenth position at the Battery to fight off Charles Robinson for the runner-up post near the end. Robinson, representing the Pendleton Canoe Club, finished third, in 6 hours 31 minutes, 2 minutes better than John Kuhnest, fourth-place winner.

CAMPOLO AND SCOTT TO FIGHT TONIGHT

Twice-Deferred Bout Between the Argentine Giant and Englishman for Ebbets Field.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

The twice-postponed heavyweight battle between Victorio Campolo, Italian giant of the Argentine, and Phil Scott, English boxer, is scheduled for tonight, with assurance from Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy that it will be held unless unfavorable weather upsets his plans.

The men are carded for ten rounds as the feature of a heavyweight carnival at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, originally scheduled for Sept. 11 put back to Sept. 18 and once more deferred. Postponements were attributed to a pain in the back contracted by Campolo, but he was found physically fit in an examination last week by Drs. William H. Walker and Joseph S. Baldwin, State Athletic Commission physicians. The contest has lost some of its appeal, due to the postponements. Added to this is the Autumn chill.

Campolo faces a test tonight which will either make him or break him. If he is beaten by Scott, who was knocked out in a round by Knute Hansen and lost a ten-round decision to Johnny Risko in his last American appearance here, Campolo can prepare to take the next boat back to Argentina. A defeat for the giant who conquered Arthur DeKuh and battered Tom Heeney in nine rounds is not entertained by his admirers. He will be meeting a boxer who boasts a degree of cleverness without qualifying for first-rank consideration and some of the terrific right-hand drives to the heart with which Campolo reduced the stout-hearted Heeney are expected to take their toll from Scott.

Ernie Schaaf, Elizabeth youngster, and Jack Renault, Canadian veteran, are paired in the semi-final of ten rounders. Paul Swiderski, Syracusan, and Lou Barba, Greenwich Village heavyweight, are scheduled for the first bout of ten rounds. Two four-round affairs also are on the card.

A heavyweight carnival also is scheduled tonight for New Jersey fight fans. At the Newark Velodrome Matchmaker Harry Mendell will offer a card featured by two ten-round bouts. The principal event will be between Frank Montagna, Italian from Madison, N. J., and Rufino Alvarez, Spaniard. Cowboy Willis of Tacoma, Wash., and Gunboat Williams will bring together Danny Williams of Bloomfield are paired in the ten-round semi-final. An eight-round event will bring together Danny Cooney and Dave Williams.

Mueller Here to Box Goldstein.

Sankey to Box Burrone.

The ring rivalry between Harry Sankey and Vic Burrone is to be renewed Saturday night at the 212th Anti-Aircraft Regiment Armory, where the pair will clash in the stellar bout of ten rounds.

Franco Georgetti, all-around Italian star, and holder of the American motor-paced championship, demonstrated to some 15,000 bike fans at the New York Velodrome yesterday that he is going to be hard to beat for the 1929 title when he captured the second thirty-mile national motor-paced championship race after finishing third in the first thirty-mile whirl.

Georgetti, paced by Jimmy Hunter, battled George Chapman for twelve miles before he was able to pass him and take the lead to stay there until the finish of the second grind.

SANFORD PUSHES ATTACK

Gets Fine Support From Captain Roark and Wise—Cowdin Tallies Twice for Losing Side.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SANDS POINT, L. I., Sept. 22.—Three polo players of Great Britain, with a No. 1 who plays abroad as much as he does here, overwhelmed an American team today in a game added to the season's list at the Sands Point Club. The teams were called, for the day, Hurricanes and Roslyn, and the Hurricanes were on the long end of a 17 to 3 score, with another goal at the closing bell that would have made it 18-3, disallowed.

The Hurricanes played with Stephen Sanford, Aidan Roark, Captain C. T. I. Roark and Colonel P. K. Wise in that order. Sanford and Pat Roark were with the Hurricanes in winning the open championship.

Roslyn had Harold E. Talbott Jr., Earle W. Hopping, J. Cheever Cowdin and Robert E. Strawbridge Jr. in that order. Talbott and Cowdin played with Roslyn in the open. Hopping with Eastcott and Strawbridge with the Hurricanes.

Hurricanes Hold Upper Hand.

The Hurricanes had the upper hand completely before the first period was ended. Pat Roark, dropped back to No. 3 from his No. 2 position of the early season, was content to let his younger brother, Aidan, go sailing through for goals and the young Irishman scored nine times during the afternoon.

The elder Roark was again the polished, refined polo player. In front, Sanford played very well in spots, hit hard and made good use of his fast ponies. At back, Colonel Wise had a good afternoon, using his weight to good advantage in shutting out attacking players and hitting well on all sides of his mount.

The losing side never came together as a team. Talbott apparently has not fully recovered from the injury which put him out of the open championship. Big Earle Hopping seemed slow during most of the game and never flashed in the attack with the speed necessary to shake off the persistent Roark brothers.

Cowdin Fails to Get Support.

Cowdin at times had bursts of hard, aggressive polo, but he never had his team come up to the pace with him, and Strawbridge at back was not hitting with any of the power and accuracy which were his when he aided the Hurricanes in the open.

Three goals in the opening period and two in the second gave the Hurricanes a large margin. For the next couple of periods Roslyn shut down a bit and allowed only one goal in each, but Hurricanes' goals came in bunches after that, two in the fifth and three in the sixth making the match a runaway. Five goals made in the two closing periods were superfluous.

Only in the seventh, when Cowdin stormed to his second goal and Hopping had one, did the losing side hold its own at all with the winners.

The line-up:

Hurricanes (17).	Roslyn (3).
1—Stephen Sanford	1—H. E. Talbott Jr.
2—Aidan Roark	2—E. W. Hopping

FREEBOOTERS BOW TO ROVERS AT POLO

Spirited Riding Marks 14-to-8 Victory in Invitation Final at Harrison.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISON, N. Y., Sept. 22.—The Rovers polo team of Rye, a ten-goal combination, won the final match of the invitation tournament held at Bowman Park today from the Freebooters four, also of Rye, by a score of 14 to 8. The Freebooters received one goal by handicap, but their advantage was lost in the first few seconds of play through a brilliant goal from the mallet of Bullock, the Rovers' hard-hitting back.

In a consolation match preceding the final, the blue-shirted Rumson quartet outrode and outplayed the Ox Ridge team, 20 goals to 9. Rumson, rated at sixteen goals, conceded nine goals to its opponent, and then proceeded to obliterate the handicap and win with ease.

Although the Ox Ridge players tried hard to stave off the barrage of Rumson goals, their efforts were unsuccessful, nor were they able to score a single earned goal for themselves.

The contest between the two Rye squads was marked by spirited riding and clever shot-making throughout.

RESERVES TRIUMPH IN MILITARY POLO

Overcome 12-Goal Handicap at Half to Defeat Madison Barracks Four, 26-12.

Overcoming a twelve-point handicap before half-time, the Organized Reserves polo team routed the Madison Barracks four, 26 to 12, before 2,000 spectators in the first semi-final round match of the fourth annual Second Corps Area military polo championship tournament yesterday at Governors Island.

The Organized Reserves, composed of three Yale University R. O. T. C. students and members of the Old Aiken team and one army officer, displayed the best brand of polo seen thus far in the tournament. The winners did not permit the losers to penetrate their goal once during the match, all of the Madison points coming on handicap.

Six goals in the first chukker, four in the second and two in the third by the Reserves deadlocked the match at 12-all when the teams left the field at half-time.

The Reserves proved even stronger in the second half, accounting for fourteen goals in the final three periods, while the Madison Barracks malletmen again were unable to score a goal.

Jimmy Mills and Mike Phipps, two Old Aiken stars, were the outstanding players for the Organized Reserves, each scoring nine goals. Stewart B. Iglehart, another Old Aiken player, tallied four times, the same number of goals that Brig. Gen. Howard S. Borden made.

The line-up:

HENDRICKS RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF REDS

To Remain With Club Until End of Season—Succeeded Moran as Cincinnati Pilot.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 22 (AP).—Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati baseball club, handed in his resignation today, effective at the end of the season, Oct. 6. Hendricks said he would represent the Reds at the annual draft meeting in Chicago and his work would then be finished. He said he had no future plans and did not know who would pilot the team next year.

Hendricks became manager of the Reds after the sudden death of Patrick J. Moran, previous manager, at the Spring training camp at Orlando, Fla., on March 7, 1924. Hendricks at the time was a scout for the club. He had served a short term as leader of the St. Louis Nationals in 1918.

His first three years with the Reds were marked by steady improvement in the team's rating. It finished fourth in 1924, third in 1925, and second in 1926. Since then, however, the Reds have been a second division club. His resignation was rather expected.

YANCE BEATS CARDS, THEN ROBINS LOSE

Brooklyn Wins Opener, 7-2, but Is Shut Out by Grabowski, a Rookie, 4-0.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—A slender rookie southpaw in a Cardinal uniform pivoted on the mound late this afternoon to send the ball whizzing by the mighty Babe Herman, fanned the Brooklyn slugger for the third straight time to end the game and gave the Cardinals a 4—0 shut-out victory for an even break on the afternoon.

The crowd of 7,500 rose to cheer and many rushed on the field to grasp the hand of the triumphant rookie. His name is Al Grabowski and he will be bad news to other National League clubs next year.

Behind Dazzy Vance the Robins took the opener by the score of 7 to 2, a prodigious home run by Babe Herman off another rookie, Jim Lindsey, increasing the total by three when the Robins already had a one-run lead. Save for this one blow, Herman had a disheartening day, making eight hitless trips to the plate and knocking several points off his dwindling average.

Grabowski was a marvel of precision and control throughout the nightcap. In seven of the nine innings only three men faced him and only once did a Brooklyn runner get as far as third base. He allowed six hits.

He fanned eight men and on four occasions covered first to receive a toss from Jim Bottomley for a put-out.

Three Robin errors helped to discomfit Ray Moss, who also pitched a good game. Two of the Cardinal runs were unearned because of misplays by Jackie Warner and Del Bissonette.

For six innings of the first game Jim Lindsey, the big right-hander from Houston, had the edge on the great Mr. Vance, even though the Robins had a one-run lead for four innings. They got the run in the first without making a hit when Lindsey gave Eddie Moore his only pass of the game and Moore got around on two fielder's choices and an infield out. In the fifth Gelbert's fly to short fell inside the foul line, got away from Hendrick and went for a home run to tie the score.

But from the seventh Lindsey weakened. The Robins took the lead in the seventh on singles by Bissonette and Gilbert and a force play, and in the eighth cracked out five hits to score three runs.

YANKS BREAK EVEN WITH THE WHITE SOX

Chicago, in Final Stadium Appearance, Defeats Pennock in Opener by 7 to 4.

SHERID STAR IN NIGHTCAP

Pitches Brilliantly to Win, 3 to 1, and Drives In Two Runs—Homers for Reynolds, Durst.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Earnest striving manifested by all four of the pitchers concerned in yesterday's double-header at the Yankee Stadium provided most of the tension and thrill attaching to the spectacle. Herb Pennock could not bat home more runs than the White Sox gained in the first game, so the Yanks lost that one, 7 to 4. Roy Sherid, in the second game, could, so the Yanks wound up their twelve-day home stand with a 3-to-1 victory, and an even break for the four-game White Sox series.

Sherid, with a noisy single to right in the fifth inning and another in the seventh, drove home the first two Yankee runs in the second game. The third scored on a force play before the seventh inning closed, but since the junior ace of the Stadium staff held the Sox to five hits and one unearned run, the two tallies he hammered home himself were enough to win him the sixth victory of his first major league season.

About 20,000 sat through the bleak afternoon and, except for their vain exhortations addressed to Babe Ruth on the subject of his wilted September home-run campaign, devoted their time mainly to offering Pennock and Sherid vocal support to make up for what they were not getting from their teammates. A general looseness of fielding encouraged Lena Blackburne's seventh-place hustlers to hit the ball hard and keep running at all times, but Sherid yesterday was close to unbeatable.

Cissell Moves to Third.

Just two opponents got any further toward scoring than first base. In the first inning Cissell reached first on Koenig's fumble and moved from there to third when Dickey threw the ball to centre field trying to catch him stealing second. Clancy's single scored him. In the last eight innings Moe Berg was the only visitor to reach second base, and he went no further.

Four innings against Alphonse Thomas failed to produce even a hit out of the Yankee batting order, let alone a run. In the fifth, however, up stepped Sherid in his own behalf and tied the score with a single to right that scored Koenig from second. No more Yankee runs came until Sherid supplied another tally-driving single in the seventh.

Pennock's run-driving in his game was achieved with a squeeze-play bunt in the second inning. That ended his run-driving, and his last game of the season became a defeat.

Yankees Help Rivals.

Reynolds's second homer in two days marked the peak of Pennock's pon-support. The last three Chicago runs off Herb were accomplished by sound swatting, but the first four had a lot of help from the Yanks. Their first scored from second base in the fourth inning on an infield error which should have made the third out.

In the fifth, after a couple of singles and a sacrifice fly, Reynolds whaled a liner out along the left-field foul line. Durst tried to field it on the rebound off the wall, but the ball rolled up his sleeve and over his shoulder, dropping into the front row of the stands for a freak home run.

Durst atoned by pasting a bona fide homer into the right-field bleachers in the sixth, tying the score. But the Yanks could not tally again on Red Faber, so the Sox socking in the eighth and ninth had no opposition.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

THIS is Heavyweight Week, a matter that should not be taken too lightly. A few days ago there came an official flash from Campolo's camp: "Victorio Campolo is rapidly nearing the peak." That probably meant that he was on his hands and knees. He is so tall that he has to bend over to get near any ordinary peak. He's the Paul Bunyan of the pugilistic tall timber.

To hear Campolo's friends tell about it, Phil Scott of jolly old England hasn't a chance. The Campolo chin is so high up in the air that Phil couldn't reach it without calling out Hook and Ladder 89 from a near-by fire house. That doesn't seem fair. In such cases the smaller man should be allowed to wear hob-nailed shoes and kick his opponent on the shins. That was a great sport in the old days, by the way. Merry-makers put on hobnailed shoes and kicked away at each other's shins until one of them yelled "Uncle!" For no apparent reason, the game was called "purring," or at least it sounded like that when the late Jim Pilkington used to reminisce on the subject.

Not Altogether True.

Probably this is the first time that any such thing ever happened, but it must be confessed that several statements in official bulletins from the Campolo camp have not been scientifically accurate. Thus Carl Carter, who occupied the important position of chief buffet-absorber in sparring practice, was quoted as saying:

"No man can stand up under Campolo's right hand."

If half the stories of his height are true, or even if the stories of his height are half true, ninety-nine out of a hundred citizens could stand up under Campolo's right hand and fellows like Miller Huggins could run under his legs.

Again Carter said: "There are few boxers who are as anxious to go through their paces as Campolo." Without pausing to pick flaws in his use of the word "anxious," it may be pointed out that Campolo's burning desire to leap into action was so intense that the bout was twice postponed at his urgent request. Still, it isn't fair to judge strangers within our gates by our own customs and habits. Campolo is an Italian brought up in an essentially Spanish country, thus combining a "dolce far niente" birthright with a "mañana" atmosphere. Asking for only two postponements may be the equivalent of rushing into action for him.

A Sore Spot.

There will be few British subjects at Ebbets Field to raise the cry "St. George for Merry England!" as Phil Scott swings into action against Campolo. The heavyweight situation is the biot on the British scutcheon.

Toss in a lighter lad like Jack Berg or Teddy Baldock, and from the rows around the ringside will come cheers and cries that indicate the presence of compatriots of the boxers. Lancashire and Yorkshire dialects will clash with cockney accents. But put a British heavyweight in the ring and the British spectators in the enclosure will start for the exits on their hands and knees.

Just why jolly old England should turn out fine boxers in the lighter classes, competent competitors in the middle divisions and nothing but failing bodies in the heavyweight sector is a mystery that has baffled more than Scotland Yard.

From Friar Tuck and Richard Coeur-de-Lion down to Tom Sayers, the British heavyweight fighters were not only mighty men but upright fellows. There's no need of annoying a friendly nation by pressing that point any further.

Never Say Dive.

This Scott is a fearless chap, however, and his slogan is "Never say dive!" He may go down, but they have to knock him down, and he put Knute Hansen to the trouble of knocking him down half a dozen times. This got him a fine reputation as a courageous fighter, but some cynics say that the fifth time a man gets up it ceases to be courage and degenerates into mere stubbornness.

Even so, Scott is something more than stubborn. He may not be a British lion, but neither is he a woolly lamb being rushed to the slaughter. He has an immense advantage over his altitudinous opponent from the Argentine in the matter of speed, boxing ability and experience. That should count for something.

The Campolo contingent expects Victorio to score a victory with the first punch he lands. It may not be as easy as all that and there is the point that Victorio may have trouble in landing. Campolo isn't one who fancies a flying target. He complained that the heavy bag was too lively at the training camp.

In short, he hasn't hit Scott yet and he may not get around to it until late in the evening. Too late, perhaps.

Answering an Assortment of Letters.

Speaking of the Ebbets Field affair recalls that Signor Humberto Fugazy gladly broadcasts all his fights, whereas the Madison Square Garden officials no longer broadcast the big outdoor fights held under their jurisdiction.

More than a few letters have been received taking issue with the Madison Square Garden attitude, but it's their fight and their business and they can run it the way they please. They feel that a radio audience getting a big fight would include many people who would be at the ringside (at ringside prices) if they knew the fight would not go on the air. So far this point has not been proved to any noticeable extent.

There is the point, though, that other corporations as strictly commercial as Madison Square Garden and a hundred times larger in scale pay out huge sums annually for the privilege of advertising their lines of goods over the air. It's probable that some people would stay away from a fight and get it over the air at home if they knew it would be broadcast, but for every one who does that, ten radio listeners who have had no previous interest in the game will become fight fans and possible ticket purchasers of the future. The world's series is broadcast every year and so are the big football games. How much has it cut down the attendance at these affairs?

In this connection it might be remembered that in the early days of boxing there were some astute people who said to promoters: "Don't let those reporters in to write about the fight. People won't pay to see the fight if they can read all about it the next morning for a penny or two."

There were riots in England when machinery was first put into the cotton mills and Galileo was confined to his cell for making what were then regarded as revolutionary statements about the world turning on its axis. But the world does move, and the proof of it is that some people are left behind.

HUGGINS OF YANKEES IS CRITICALLY ILL

ENTERED HOSPITAL FRIDAY

Suffering From Influenza, He Went to St. Vincent's—O'Leary and Fletcher Handle Team.

Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, is critically ill at St. Vincent's Hospital. A severe infection of the face, with a high temperature, has complicated the attack of influenza from which he was suffering when he entered the hospital Friday.

Dr. Edward King, the Yankees' consulting physician and Huggins's personal physician, spent a large part of yesterday afternoon at the bedside. The Yankees' manager had been ailing for the past month and remained away from the Stadium because of illness Thursday.

At the Stadium the club officials stated that he had a high temperature yesterday but that his condition was slightly improved last evening. Charlie O'Leary and Arthur Fletcher, who have handled Huggins's duties during his absence at various times this year, took charge of the team Thursday and will be in command on its trips to Boston and Washington this week.

Huggins's illness interrupted his plans for starting the rebuilding of the Yankees for next year, the first move of which was his release of Third Baseman Gene Robertson to the Boston Braves last Monday.

Huggins, though he gamely stuck to his discouraging task throughout the nerve-trying vicissitudes of this Summer months, has not been in good health since the Spring. During the last Western trip he suffered from severe headaches, which he ascribed to sinus trouble, intending to devote his Winter to a thorough program of physical recuperation under medical supervision.

The recent cold weather, however, proved too much for him. Since Labor Day he has had to stay away from his afternoon sphere of operations in the Stadium dugout on three occasions because of illness. He sent word to Charlie O'Leary Thursday that he was slightly ill again, but expected to be on hand Saturday. On Friday, however, upon the advice of Dr. King, he entered St. Vincent's Hospital for treatment.

SENATORS CONQUER ATHLETICS IN 10TH

Rally Against Walberg to Triumph by 7 to 6—Earnshaw Yields Six Runs.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP).—Washington defeated a makeshift Philadelphia team today, 7 to 6, in ten innings.

Connie Mack led with his ace, Bob Grove, but retired him at the end of three innings, during which the Senators had not obtained a hit. Washington then fell on Earnshaw for six runs and won the game off Walberg, who went to the mound after Earnshaw.

Marberry relieved Hadley in the ninth after the Athletics had driven four runs across, and he got credit for the victory.

BOSTON, Sept. 22 (AP).—Cleveland scored three runs in the tenth inning against the Red Sox to win the final game of the series, 7 to 4, today.

The Red Sox, who are battling to get out of last place, tied the count with a two-run rally in the last of the ninth against Ferrell but Joe Sewell, Gardner, Hodapp and Luke Sewell fell on Milt Gaston for two singles and two doubles in the next inning to saw up the game.

It was Ferrell's nineteenth victory of the season and gave the Indians their thirteenth triumph against nine for the Red Sox in 1929.

40,000 SEE CUBS BOW TO GIANTS, 5-4

McGrawmen Reach Bush for 3 Runs in Seventh to Triumph—Scott Relieves Fitzsimmons.

SEASON'S SERIES TO CUBS

Win 12 to 10 for New York—Hornsby Hits 38th Homer and Terry Also Drives for Circuit.

By JOHN DREBINGER.
Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—All Chicago went on a world's series dress rehearsal today when 40,000 jammed Wrigley Field to see the Cubs and Giants battle for the last time this year. It was an astounding spectacle when it was considered that the outcome of the game meant nothing whatever, but the Roman holiday effect was completely ruined by the Giants who, doubtless actuated by a spirit of revenge, turned on the newly crowned National League champions and rolled them back, 5 to 4.

This caused the great crowd no end of dismay although, up to the moment that the Giants rushed three runs across in the seventh, the gathering enjoyed itself immensely. It rent the air with tumultuous cheers as the Cubs, striving to gain a nineteenth pitching victory for Guy Bush, ran up a 3-to-1 lead in the early innings over Freddy Fitzsimmons. And it set up another thunderous roar when Rogers Hornsby hit his thirty-eighth homer of the season.

Lindstrom Circles Bases.

But in the sixth the Giants became disagreeable. Terry hit a homer into the packed centre-field bleachers, and in the seventh they tore the honors right out of Bush's hands. With two on the bases, Lindstrom singled to centre, scoring both his comrades and circled the bases himself when Hack Wilson allowed Lindy's hit to roll through his legs.

Jack Scott then relieved Fitzsimmons and kept the Cubs behind to the end.

The victory enabled the McGrawmen to conclude their final Western trip of the year with a record of ten victories against four defeats. Despite the fact, however, that on this final visit here they won three out of four from the Cubs, the season's series went to the new champions by twelve games to ten.

Park Is Filled Rapidly.

The baseball craze that has beset this city is rapidly becoming almost indescribable. The fact that the pennant was clinched days ago seems to mean nothing. The park was practically filled to capacity a quarter of an hour before game time, and every move the Cubs made during the fielding practice was cheered.

NEW CONGREGATION IN FOSDICK CHURCH

Central Presbyterian Begins Services in Old Park Av. Baptist Edifice.

GETS CONGRATULATIONS

"God never gave any church a greater privileges and opportunity than He has given to this church," said the Rev. Dr. Dwight Witherspoon Wylie, the pastor, in a devotional address at a celebration of the Lord's Supper, which marked the opening yesterday morning of the edifice at Park Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street as the new Central Presbyterian Church. The Presbyterian body bought it from the Park Avenue Baptist congregation, the new structure of which at Riverside Drive and 122d Street is now rapidly nearing completion.

"Not only has God given us the opportunity to help millions in China through our mission station at Hwai Yuen and hundreds in Kentucky through our mission station at Hyden, but He has given us a ministry in the great City of New York with its 6,000,000 people," continued Dr. Wylie. "Let us remember this as we gather today about the table of our Lord at this the first service in our new church home.

"If there is any malice or anger or hatred in your hearts, for Christ's sake put it away. I want you and I want every one who walks by this church to feel that its very stones cry out 'For God so loved the world.' My friends, our interest in this church will be just in proportion to our love for Christ and our devotion to Him."

Dr. Wylie prayed that all who passed by the edifice "would get a thought of God."

The pastor praised Harden L. Crawford, an elder; Philip L. James, a trustee, and Graham A. Eickelberg, superintendent of the plant, for "diligent service" in getting the edifice ready for the opening.

Dr. Wylie read the following telegram sent Saturday by the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Baptist body from which the property was purchased. This read:

"Both for myself and the Riverside Church let me express to you and to your congregation our fraternal good wishes for an auspicious beginning tomorrow of a long and serviceable ministry."

The Rev. Dr. Dubois S. Morris, who was reared in this congregation and has just become an assistant pastor, read the Scripture lesson from a Bible printed in 1788. This was used in the first edifice of the congregation, which was in Broome Street. Dr. Morris, who was the son of the late Theodore W. Morris for many years an elder in Central Church, has served more than twenty-five years in Hwai Yuen as one of the dozen missionaries there supported by Central Church.

Other clergymen who assisted were the Rev. Wesley Baker, for several years an assistant, and the Rev. Orin D. Swank, minister of Mixpah Chapel, 420 West Fifty-seventh Street.

Adelmor R. Bryan of Ridgefield, Conn., was received into the membership of the church from the Methodist denomination, in which he had studied for the ministry. Dr. Wylie said he had been accepted by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions and would sail Oct. 16 next for China to become another missionary of the Central Church at Hwai Yuen.

After the benediction Dr. Wylie baptized Alice Susan Taschiem, 4 months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taschiem of Woodside, L. I. Both parents are members of Central Church. This was the first baby to be baptized in the edifice, which was erected seven years ago. And it was the first baptism by the laying on of hands. The baptistry in which adult candidates for membership in the Baptist denomination were immersed is still back of the pulpit. Dr. Wylie said after the service that no step had been taken to remove it. He also explained that the edifice would not be rededicated, the Baptist dedication being accepted. He announced that there would be, however, an "occupation" service shortly to mark the formal opening.

URGES SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

Dr. Augustus Steimle Says Keeping the Sabbath Helped the Jews.

The survival of the Jews during the thousands of years that saw the dissolution of other ancient races was attributed in large part to their traditional regard for the Sabbath by the Rev. Dr. Augustus Steimle, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Advent, Broadway and Ninety-third Street, in his sermon yesterday morning. He deplored observance of Sunday as a duty instead of a privilege.

"We read in the Bible of the dealings between the Jews and the other ancient peoples," said Dr. Steimle. "The other races have disappeared, but the Jews have survived. Perhaps their survival is partly due to biological reasons, but perhaps also it is due in a great part to the punctilious way in which they kept the Sabbath."

Dr. Steimle said it was necessary to balance the week of labor with a day of rest. If Sunday was properly observed, he added, the soul had a chance to commune with itself.

"But," he continued, "is it a Sunday like that which is experienced by those who leave the city by motor and by train saying, 'We would rather spend our Sunday out-of-doors?' When are the most sins committed? When do most family quarrels occur? When do young people slip into vice? On what day are the police most active and God and His will most often outraged? The answer is, of course, on Sunday."

ASSAILS MODERN MORALITY.

Father McCabe Says Sin Is No Less Serious Than Formerly.

"The wages of sin is death," was the text of a sermon preached yesterday morning by the Rev. Charles J. McCabe at St. Patrick's Cathedral. Modern tolerance of sin, Father McCabe said, does not make it less serious than it used to be.

"The age in which we live," he said, "is undeniably one of great material progress, the character of which caters to man's physical well-being. But this age has left man's spiritual and moral nature untouched. Spiritually man is still in darkness and ignorance.

"Always, when the world has been at a high level of material progress it has been at a low ebb morally."

Every Faith Eventually Reverts To Superstition, Dr. G. F. Beck Asserts

"It is the fate of every belief in its turn to meet its judgment day and become a superstition," said Dr. Gustav F. Beck, director of the Labor Temple School, yesterday morning in his sermon, "Superstition—a Comfort and a Curse," at the West Side Unitarian Church, 550 Cathedral Parkway.

"The hold of superstition on the masses is still very strong," he said. "The thinkers and scientists have stepped out of this sort of thing, but mankind is still very young. We only left the animal world yesterday. A child, bumping against the table, strikes it with his fist and says 'Naughty table.' This is a curious atavistic act, harking back to the old religion when inanimate objects were thought to contain evil spirits. This theory that the forces in back of life were malignant and must be appeased is superstition.

"What to you and me may be superstition may to others still be religion. Even the Protestant can see his religion being turned into superstition by those who do not agree with him. To the Unitarian even the Modernist has a few fragments of superstition. The man to whom God is not 'He' but 'It' looks on the believer in a personal God as superstitious. The man who believes in no God at all looks on the pantheist as superstitious, and the mechanist believes that whoever thinks life has any directing force behind it is superstitious."

After declaring that every faith is in turn relegated to the realm of superstition, Dr. Beck said, "We must find another way of distinguishing between religion and superstition. Whoever consents to the suffering of another is outside of religion. Whoever gives the benefit of the doubt and is prepared to give the better reason instead of the worst to another's act, he is truly religious. It seems to me that here is the real difference between the curse and the blessing of superstition; that love is worth more than hate; that peace is better than war; that we cannot be happy as individuals unless we are happy as a group—since we cannot prove these things they must all be superstitions, but they are superstitions that are a blessing. If we must have superstition, then let us at least have the kind that brings light and joy and comfort."

CITES IMMORTALITY IDEA

People in First Century Longed for Life After Death, Pastor Declares in His Sermon.

Great as are the changes in our mode of living, they are insignificant in comparison with the basic facts of human nature, which have remained unchanged since the first century, the Rev. Dr. Minot C. Morgan asserted in his sermon at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church yesterday morning.

Speaking of the words of John, "Beloved, now are we children of God," he declared:

"Centuries have passed and what has become of the 'now' of John. 'Now—nothing' says the skeptic. Amazing advances of civilization have taken place. Myths and fables that satisfied the simple minds in the first century have been explored by science. There are, of course, authorities on both sides of the argument, but I am not going to quote authority. I'm going to appeal to you and to your sense of need.

"You have read in the papers during the past week the testimony of a great psychologist, who says that most New Yorkers are unhappy. They fail to achieve or when they do they are not satisfied with the character of their achievement.

"Your mode of thinking and your ways of living are just the clothes you wear and not you. They may serve you or embarrass you according to whether or not they are appropriate or in fashion. In that which is fundamental in human nature, however, there is no change from the first century until today.

"They feared death then and longed for eternal life. Today we can say as then, 'Beloved, now are we children of God.' That is all the evangel you need."

SAYS HOOVER LIVES HIS INAUGURAL TEXT

The Rev. W. C. Subke Declares President Has "God-Consciousness of Prophets of Old."

"President Hoover's Text," Proverbs, 29, 18, that verse in the Bible kissed by him at his inauguration, was the subject of the Rev. Walter C. Subke's sermon yesterday morning at the Greenwich Presbyterian Church on Thirteenth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues.

"Where there is no vision the people perish, but he who keepeth the law, happy is he." "The man is the illustration of the text," Mr. Subke said. "He has the God-consciousness of the prophets of old, whose godly insight and knowledge of the trends of the times made them men of vision who see things in the light of eternal verities.

"Where there is no vision of world peace, there can be no outlawing of war, and the people will perish. Our President has had this vision, and so has Premier Ramsay MacDonald, who is shortly to visit this country. We, the people of this country, must realize that where there is no vision, neither is there progress nor enterprise reaching toward better tomorrows and the kingdom of God on earth.

"It may be said that great crises discover great leaders, men of vision, such as Lincoln in the Civil War; but often society kills its prophets because they are too far ahead of their times. The propaganda of selfish interests, corporations, greedy tariffs and organized selfishness has too strong an effect on public opinion.

"Vision and law are not separate, but one acts on the other. Consciousness gets into the backbone, and vision becomes conviction. A great law originates in a great vision. So have the truths of Jesus become the bulwarks of society."

UPHOLDS CHURCH DOCTRINE

Dr. Daniel Russell Says Experience Is Often Overemphasized.

Discussing the foundations of the Christian faith, the Rev. Dr. Daniel Russell, pastor of Rutgers Presbyterian Church, 236 West Seventy-third Street, said in his sermon yesterday morning that experience was greatly overemphasized in the liberal preaching of today.

"You cannot have a skyscraper without a steel frame," he said, "nor can a greenhouse be erected without metal to hold the glass through which the sunshine streams. Doctrine is the core about which faith and aspiration play to produce Christian experience. Without doctrine, experience is impossible. It is doctrine which gives us knowledge, and the man who yields the best he has to the highest he knows is on the way to the true faith."

CROWDED CHURCHES HELD THING OF PAST

Dr. J. F. Fraser Says 50 Years Ago People Had Nothing to Do on Sabbath.

SEES REAL TEST TODAY

Protestantism Cannot Be Judged by Statistics or Grandeur of Edifices, He Declares.

Comparisons are odious and statistics are unconvincing when it comes to matters affecting the Church and worship, according to the Rev. Dr. John Falconer Fraser, pastor of Central Baptist Church, Amsterdam Avenue and Ninety-second Street, who preached yesterday morning on the topic, "Who Is on the Lord's Side?"

Dr. Fraser, recalling the crowded churches of a generation ago in New York, declared that the real test has come today, when things have changed and the Sabbath is no longer considered a day wholly to be devoted to worship.

"It is beside the mark," he said, "to compare church attendance today in its comparative bearing on churchgoing fifty years ago. In those days Manhattan was just an overgrown city at the height of the Victorian conventions, and Brooklyn was a series of small towns with blue laws operating in the absence of moving picture shows, automobiles and other rapid-transit devices.

"Religion is being tested under modern conditions as it never was when Sunday crowds had little occasion to go anywhere else except to church. In all probability the days of the crowded church are over forever, excepting sporadic cases, but that is no occasion for despair for the outlook of better churches and more consistent living among professing Christians. Although the principle does not always apply, yet it is the rule that the most helpful and consistent Christians are to be found among those who are most faithful in their church attendance."

Dealing with church statistics, Dr. Fraser said:

"Nothing in America needs ventilation more than religious statistics. The value of church property, the alleged number of adherents to our respective denominations, membership gains and losses, are among the mysteries that need to be fathomed to the bottom in order to know the truth about religion in America.

"This question is not determined on the side of the largest crowd. There is no book as skeptical of majorities as the Bible itself, and concerning the great illusion of democracy Jesus Christ uttered the most solemn warnings. Whether Protestantism be a success or failure cannot be judged by the grandeur of the church edifices erected in the name of God and the saints. We do not forget that the impressive specimens of church architecture standing in Europe today were built in the age of Europe's greatest degeneracy, when superstitions abounded and religious liberty was quite unknown."

BISHOP SEES LACK OF INTELLECTUALS

The Right Rev. W. H. Moreland, in Sermon Here, Says America Needs Uplifters.

While the United States leads the world in invention, big business and financial genius, its intellectual attainments are meagre, declared Bishop William Hall Moreland of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Sacramento, Cal., who preached yesterday morning in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

"Our colleges turn out swarms of engineers, electricians and business men," he said, "but where are the American orators, poets, sculptors to inspire the nation's soul and lift the people to heights of heroism and sacrifice?

"A Zeppelin flying around the world would have been regarded as a miracle by our grandfathers. A miracle is the triumph of spirit over matter. Jesus Christ stilled the storm, healed the sick, raised the dead without violating any law of nature. He simply used powers we have not yet discovered. He promised that we should do greater things by working with God. This promise is fulfilled.

"Christ healed a few lepers, but we have abolished leprosy, yellow fever, smallpox almost entirely. Next will come the end of cancer and tuberculosis as we learn God's secrets. On the Mount of Transfiguration Jesus practiced television which we are just discovering. We are learning to control storms. Modern science has wiped out distinction between spirit and matter. Everything is living energy."

SAYS NO CHRISTIAN WOULD BAR NEGRO

HAS ONE IN HIS PULPIT

No Christian would refuse any negro the privilege of worshiping in his church, but "even negro leaders believe that their people will thrive best in their own churches," according to the Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of Chelsea Methodist Church, Fort Washington Avenue and 178th Street, who made that assertion in his sermon on "Negroes and the Church" last evening.

"The attitude of the Brooklyn rector who barred the negroes from his church has doubtless been distorted by emphasizing the negative rather than the positive side," he said. "Even negro leaders believe that their people will thrive best in their own churches rather than to have a minority of white attending their churches, and vice versa. But no Christian will refuse any negro the privilege of enjoying any church privilege; they are as certainly members of God's family as are the Chinese or Indians.

"We proudly elect one with the latter blood in him to be Vice President of the United States, and he would certainly not be proud of the uncivilized Indians who remain in it unchristianized. We expect entirely too much of the negroes. No race in all history has progressed as rapidly when we recognize that they were so recently slaves and then received so little help after being freed. It is a shame the way the debauched life of Harlem is played up by so many current plays and newspaper stories. Some people might conclude that sin predominated there.

"One colored Methodist church in that region with a heroic and scholarly pastor, the Rev. J. W. Robinson, D. D., has a budget of $1,000 a week, which they meet regularly. And there are fifteen or twenty similar-sized churches with ethical teaching and service programs that would shame many white churches. One of the brainiest men ever graduated from Boston University School of Theology was coal black of face, and today he is training dozens of young preachers at Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga. I am delighted to have in my pulpit this evening a cultured negro lawyer, the son of an Episcopal Bishop—Delaney, who is the Republican nominee for Congressman form this district.

"Some day all kinds of publications will publish good things about negroes as well as about others. How many of them are serving humbly amid every temptation with honesty and humility! The vast majority of them prefer to keep to themselves and see no profit in crowding among the whites merely to prove their equality.

"Negro churches should be encouraged and sustained, for they can train their own people and provide an appropriate religious background better than can any one else."

CALLS IT "SOCIAL ERROR."

Dr. Jennings Predicts Color Line Will Vanish in Distant Future.

"As a former member of old St. Matthew's Church, having been baptized there as a child some forty odd years ago, I regret exceedingly the action of my brother clergyman in his recent public utterance against our colored brethren," the Rev. Dr. Jeffrey Jennings, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Atonement, Seventeenth Street, near Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, declared in his sermon at the church yesterday morning.

"I feel that he has made a grave mistake in the way he handled the situation," he continued, "and that, had he first conferred with our dear, big-hearted Bishop Stires in the prayer both suggest, he would not have made this social error. If my knowledge of Episcopal law is correct, he cannot legally prohibit a colored person who is a communicant of the church from receiving communion at St. Matthew's altar rail.

"Jesus Christ certainly never was interested in the color of a man's skin. Jesus was always interested in a man's heart, his thoughts and his actions. Modern society does not square with the teachings of Christ. The world has not progressed thus far. But as a prophet looking into the future, I predict that some day in the years to come the color line will be done away with, the social barrier will fall, and as God has made of one blood all the nations of men for to dwell on the face of the whole earth, so the doctrine of the brotherhood of man, as preached by the Saviour, shall make of one race all nations of men to dwell on the face of the whole earth."

KATZ SCORES SNOBBISHNESS.

Likens Rich Who Shun Poor to Pastor Who Bars Negroes.

The Rev. Dr. Jacob Katz, rabbi of Montefiore Congregation, Hewitt and Macy Places, the Bronx, in his sermon yesterday morning had this to say:

"The difference between the minister who told his colored neighbors that they were not wanted in his church and the Jew who leaves his old synagogue and neighborhood because his poor brothers have moved to that locality is only a matter of degree. Not wanting to be with those who are lower on the social ladder even in the house of God is the element in common to those who do not want to be their brother's keeper. What one has done by word of mouth the other has performed by the act of removal. Some flimsy excuse may be found on behalf of the whites who do not want to be worshiping alongside of their colored neighbors, but what justification can we have on behalf of those who have grown opulent and think they have grown too big to be worshiping in the same synagogue with their poorer brothers.

"To bring of the first fruit of the land as an offering upon the altar was the first commandment given to the children of Israel upon entering the promised land. And here we are in a land full of promise for the ethical, cultural and inter-racial development, in a land where the first fruits that we can offer upon the altar of American life is the real neighborly contact between those of a higher and lower level of economic standard and cultural status."

WARNS OF RACE INTOLERANCE

Mgr. O'Keefe Says All Peoples Are Equal at Altar of God.

Addressing a predominantly negro congregation in the St. Charles of Borromeo Roman Catholic Church, 203 West 141st Street, yesterday, Mgr. Thomas O'Keefe said that all races, creeds and colors were equally welcome at that church, provided they came in the proper spirit to pay homage to their God. It was Mgr. O'Keefe's first sermon as pastor of St. Charles's church. He served for forty-one years at the Church of St. Benedict the Moor, on West Fifty-third Street.

"Regardless of your color, nationality or creed; whether you are of this parish or another; whether saint or sinner, rich or poor, you are all equal when you kneel at the foot of God's altar," he said. "It makes no difference to God what sphere you have been placed in outside His tabernacle. Here you are all equally worthy and important in His sight.

"As pastor of this church I have but one request to make of you. Cooperate with me. Do not let racial or religious intolerance cause dissension in this church. Here let the great and small feel a common bond in that they are alike in the eyes of their Creator."

DR. HAYNES FOR EQUALITY.

Says That Is Policy of Federal Council of Churches.

"The pressure of prejudice under which the negro people in America labor comes to its most acute expression whenever a Christian church closes its doors against them," said Dr. George E. Haynes, secretary of the commission on the church and race relations of the Federal Council of Churches, in an address last night at a mass meeting in the Nazarene (colored) Congregational Church, Grand Avenue and Lefferts Place, Brooklyn.

"The recent action of a Brooklyn clergyman," said Dr. Haynes, "in excluding negroes from his parish, requesting them to go elsewhere and in defending his action by a statement that his church is a white church, should be repudiated as in no sense representative of the ideal and policy of the Christian Church. This pastor makes the lame excuse that there are negro churches for negroes to attend. In this free country every person has a right to decide for himself the question of where and how he worships God, and no minister has any right to decide that for him."

11 NEGROES ATTEND BLACKSHEAR SERVICE

Pastor Avoids Direct Mention of Race — Six Detectives at Brooklyn Church.

"I took special care to avoid making any reference to negroes in my sermon," the Rev. William St. John Blackshear, rector of St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal Church, McDonough Street and Tompkins Avenue, Brooklyn, told reporters after the morning service yesterday. Last week he announced that he discouraged the attendance of negroes at his church.

Eleven negroes attended the service. Lieutenant Joseph Scheidler and six detectives of the Gates Avenue station were present to prevent any demonstration.

In his sermon the Rev. Mr. Blackshear cited several incidents in the life of Christ to justify his action in discouraging the attendance of negroes. "Although Christ preached love for all," he said, "there were times when even Christ refused the company of certain people." He then related the story of the man from whom Christ exorcised a devil but whom He refused to accept as a disciple.

The general theme of the sermon was that a man should have "the courage of his convictions." The title was "Christ, the Creative Warrior," and the text was from St. Luke 22:36: "Then said He unto them, but now, he that hath a purse let him take it, and likewise his scrip; and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one." The sword, the Rev. Mr. Blackshear said, symbolizes truth and courage.

"We also must stand by the convictions of our conscience and what we believe to be right."

He went on to say that every one should follow his own race in matters of religion, and that no one has the right to intrude one's self upon another socially, as in church affairs, outside of religious services.

"In the middle of the service two negroes walked ostentatiously down the centre aisle to seats in the front of the church. A detective slipped into a seat behind them.

After the service the negroes gathered in front of the church. The one negro woman present, Mrs. Emmy Hadley of 439 Tompkins Avenue, said that she was not a member of the church, but had attended the services during the past six Sundays. "I live near this church," she said, "and will not walk in any other."

T. A. P. Morton of 12 Utica Avenue, one of the negroes present, said he had attended the service to see if any active measures would be taken to bar negroes.

CHURCH UNITY URGED BY DR. J. A. MOREHEAD

GOD AS SOURCE OF POWER

Realization of This Truth Would Solve Many Social Problems, Clergyman Says.

A plea for the recognition of God as the source of all spiritual power was made by the Rev. Dr. John A. Morehead, executive director of the National Lutheran Council of America and president of the Lutheran World Convention in Copenhagen, in his sermon in the Lutheran Church of St. James, Madison Avenue and Seventy-third Street, yesterday morning. He asserted that realization of this truth would create the much-desired unity among Christians and automatically solve such problems as divorce and crime.

"Whether it be a negative or a positive interest," said Dr. Morehead, "there is a great interest in religion today. Many churchmen are in an anxious frame of mind lest religion decline and the Church lose its mission. As a result of this, many of them tend to become very busy and anxiously seek by human means to promote superficial church unity by organizations and dinners in an effort to save the church.

St. Paul's Knowledge.

"We need to get back to the original source of spiritual power in religion and the Church. Paul, as the prisoner of the Lord at Rome, in the fourth chapter of Ephesians, knew the source of this power. In order that the ministry be established in its proper position, it is essential for the Church and the Christian people to revive the true realization that God is the original source of the saving grace and power.

"How can the undivided Christians and Christian Church manifest and prove the possession of that power? Again we may turn to Ephesians for the answer. In the same passage which I quoted we find, 'Walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called, with all the lowliness and meekness, with long suffering, forbearing one another in love. We must manifest our holy living by our attitudes and actions. The unanswerable argument of holy living and serving Christ is the best proof of the reality and truth of religion.

"If there were long sufferance and forbearance in our homes we would be eliminating divorce by prevention. If there were long sufferance and forbearance in society, we would not have strife, division and conflicts and crime would be almost negligible. If we would have long sufferance and forbearance in the Church, we would avoid the shameful schisms that so often exist.

Unification of Church Forces.

"The conservation of the spiritual life and power which comes from God can be accomplished through the recognition of the source of these things which would inevitably result in a unity among Christians. The genuine unity can be achieved by the acceptance of the truth of the religion which they confess. This means the gathering of all the forces of the Church for the ministry of the Gospel, for the education of all and all the other means by which men may be established in faith and holiness of life. No union of the existing Christian Church can be real, thoroughgoing and permanent unless based on the inner spiritual unity. The unity achieved among the Lutheran Churches of the world at the recent conference in Copenhagen is unique among the Christian unity movements because it was based on a common confession of faith.

"This age needs a truer, deeper, fuller and more exalted conception of the reality of God. The different sciences lead us by the microscope and chemistry into the understanding of matter. The further science may be able to let us see the magnitude of the universe the clearer will be this conception. Thus, instead of the elimination of our conception of God by the magnification of man or making all reality mechanistic, the more sublime should become our understanding of the creative powers and the wisdom of the Almighty Who is in us but infinitely above us."

FINDS CHURCH OPPOSED BY AUTOS AND MOVIES

Dr. C. R. Brown, Dean Emeritus of Yale, Talks on "Challenge to Religious Forces."

"The Present Challenge to Our Religious Forces" was discussed by the Rev. Charles R. Brown, dean emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, in his sermon yesterday morning in the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street.

"'New occasions teach new duties,' as Adam said to Eve when they were making their way out of the Garden of Eden," said Dr. Brown. "It meant for them change of method, for now they would have to eat their own bread made by the sweat of their own brows.

"The Christian Church is not having an easy time these days. Its progress is challenged by the forces of evil without and by spiritual lethargy within. Roger Babson says the automobile has put the forces of evil on wheels. Every member of the Police Department knows that. He adds that the cheaper airplane will soon gamble the forces of evil to mount with wings like eagles."

Dr. Brown continued by saying the tasks which confronted ministers today were harder than those which he had found when he was ordained forty years ago. There were the automobiles, which took millions of persons away from church on Sunday; the movies, a cheap, easy form of diversion which was teaching millions not to read or to think but just to sit and look at pictures, and the radio, which for the able-bodied provided an unworthy substitute for the real thing. Other adversaries which challenged the churches were the pressure of a multiplicity of things and the changing conditions of belief.

"The challenge can be met," said Dean Brown, "only when the Churches are prepared to make a better showing in a finer quality of worship, in better methods of Christian nurture through religious education and in a more inclusive grasp of Christian purpose upon all the varied interests of human society."

Holds Many Crave Religion, But Bar Popular Idea of God

Men and women still believe in God; but are deceived by the descriptions of God that pass currently in religious circles, said Rabbi Marius Ransom in his sermon at the initial "forumized services" yesterday with which he opened the New American Synagogue at Pythian Temple, 135 West Seventieth Street. More than 100 worshipers were present, and in an open discussion following the sermon they disclosed a wide difference of opinion as to their conception of the deity.

"There are a growing number of men and women who are interested in activities and beliefs that are religion, but cannot accept the popular belief in God," said Rabbi Ransom.

"I believe that people still crave religion and are more responsive than ever before to the instincts that are palpably religious."

RESIDENT OFFICES REPORT ON TRADE

BETTER DRESSES ACTIVE

Novel Hemlines Sought in Coats—No Drop in Ensembles—Rug Price Trend Now Upward.

Producing, rather than selling, has become the ready-to-wear manufacturer's paramount problem. This is true of practically all of the women's apparel lines and especially so of dresses and coats. It is proved by the extent to which production has fallen behind, as indicated by the time allowance buyers must give for delivery on new orders. In some cases this is as much as four weeks.

Concentrated buying after a period of style hesitancy on the part of both retailers and manufacturers is the principal cause. As yet the difficulty in getting shipments promptly has not had a deterrent effect on buying, which was generally active last week. Men's apparel also came in for more attention with the advancing season. In the dress accessory field good orders were placed, and advance buying of holiday merchandise showed a notable increase in some directions. Shortages in these lines are also appearing.

The following excerpts from the market reports of leading resident offices give an idea of what was done last week and what is in prospect:

KIRBY, BLOCK & FISCHER—"The new style flat tailored curtains in filet net and shadow lace have replaced ruffle curtains, and buyers are placing liberal orders on this class of merchandise. Domestic 'washed' Oriental rugs have proved excellent sellers, and are very difficult to obtain for short delivery. Reorders for gloves have been very consistent, with slip-ons the most popular style. The longer ones are particularly wanted. For jewelry departments the outstanding demand is for brown pearls in 'chokers' and necklaces. The popularity of real stone jewelry continues. Brooches set with rhinestones are being sold in both jewelry and trimming departments as dress ornaments. New millinery lines employ touches of fur, as seen on many of the imports."

Strong Call for New Styles.

McGREEVEY, WERRING & HOWELL, INC.—"There is strong consumer demand for new styles in better dresses, and the requisite delivery is two to four weeks. It is suggested that stocks of early garments be cleared during this month to allow for the business anticipated on the new styles. Two-colored beading is employed on crepe dresses with effective results. Dresses of this material maintain their lead in all price classes. We have had an unusual raincoat business during the past few weeks. We have also received considerable reorder business on jackets and skirts for sport wear. The coat market has been very active this week, with an increased demand for popular-priced merchandise. The ensemble suit business continues large."

CHARLES E. MAY COMPANY, INC.—"Buyers in town are purchasing the new coats styled in princess effects with irregular hemlines and higher waistlines. Clients feel that customers will be attracted to these coats because of their distinctive and different styling. During the past week we have received numerous calls for one-piece dresses of the new type in cantons and a few in satins and velvets. Chiffons and metal cloths in the new silhouette sponsored for dinner and tea wear are being ordered in anticipation of the Thanksgiving holiday. These frocks retail from $35 up, and require several weeks' delivery. Stress is being put on the amber shade in both chiffons and flat crepes to match amber jewelry."

McELROY-SHEEHAN, INC.—"Indications in the floor coverings trade point to higher prices. Concrete evidence of this was given during the week by the advances made on the larger size axminster and velvet rugs by W. & J. Sloane, selling agents for the Alexander Smith and Masland interests. There are also indications that, with the exception of the Sloane firm and the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Company, Spring lines will be opened on Nov. 4. The Sloane opening has been definitely set for Dec. 16, the new prices to become effective on Jan. 1. A fair retail demand for merchandise has been apparent here throughout the week, with prompt deliveries the rule."

HART, FLANAGAN COMPANY, INC.—"We feel that the princess frock will be worn quite long by the young miss in sizes 12 to 18. Manufacturers have decided that where the model is straight-line, three to four inches below the knee is correct. However, there is no censorship where panels and uneven circular hemlines are concerned. Next season will unquestionably find the short dress a thing of the past. We are again advising our clients to clean out their present stocks to make room for new merchandise and to be prepared for the new silhouette demand. Goods can be bought only from two to four weeks' delivery."

Heavy Orders on Furnishings.

CONSOLIDATED CLOTHIERS, INC.—"During the past week orders for shaker sweaters, fancy hosiery and fancy pajamas have been exceptionally heavy and the demand for leather clothing has increased noticeably during the few days of cool weather. The manufacturers call has been for cape and suede jackets in the slip-over model. Purchases of holiday goods continued unabated. Handkerchief and tie sets, mufflers and initial handkerchiefs are being reordered liberally. The knitted polo shirt continues popular. Long-sleeved models are wanted most and colors are taking precedence over white. Boys' solid-color sweaters show evidence of increasing demand. Holiday orders for these items show a substantial increase."

MERCHANDISE REPORTING COMPANY, INC.—"We have had many calls for silver muskrat coats, both in trimmed and untrimmed styles. This type of fur is very desirable from the viewpoint of attractiveness and wear. Lapin jackets, as well as loose swagger models in that fur, are also popular. Jackets in many instances are worn over tweed skirts, carrying out the ensemble idea. In cloth coats the higher priced merchandise seems to be particularly wanted. We find that we are having most requests for straight-line coats and that the flares and irregular hems are only considered in the novelty end. Long-haired furs as trimmings are still more popular than short-haired, although lapin is an outstanding exception to this."

JOHN M. BIGGINS, INC.—"In shopping the glove market the scarcity of the much desired suede slip-ons is found pronounced. Dark browns and blacks are especially difficult to procure. Black appears to be gaining favor. We look forward to a greater demand not only in slip-ons, but also in eight, twelve and sixteen button mousquetaires. One of the leading importers say that while the latter will be used quite extensively this season, and he recommends their early display, his remarks are based on personal observation in Europe."

BEN F. LEVIS—"The millinery trade has been busy this past week on novelty draped turbans in tweed cloths. These are in demand and are selling at all prices. The newest item is the velour with metallic trim, which seems to be taking well with the trade. They are made in close-fitting, off-the-face styles. Felt hats must be 'dressy' in order to sell, as there has been no demand for plain tailored millinery. Chiffon velvet ribbon timbans, as well as those of draped Lyons velvet, are doing well, and business in these hooks encouraging. Leading colors are black, independence blue, English green and brown. Low-priced brushed angora hats, in both women's and children's sizes, are thought well of."

JACK HARTBLAY, INC.—"In men's clothing the demand is centred chiefly on the conservative coat model suits in dark worsteds and cheviots. Preference is shown for two-pants suits. Topcoats are being called for in the camel's hair and California weights, these coming in the single-breasted box model. Numerous calls have been received for overcoats in heavy fleeces, both in single and double breasted box models. Keen activity in buying boys' clothing was seen during the week. Suits with one pair of long trousers and one pair of short ones sold best. Boys' overcoats are being purchased in the larger sizes only, such as 13 to 18. The continued demand for sheep-lined clothing has created a distinct shortage.

CATTLE RECEIPTS LARGE.

Hog Prices Rise in Week While Lamb Values Decline.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Beef steer prices continue to decline, with a loss of $1 to $1.50 for the week, while cows and heifers declined 50 to 75 cents. Feeders, although averaging lower, closed the same as a week ago. Western range cattle were around 25 cents lower. The week's receipts of 61,300 were the largest since last December and about 4,000 less than last year. The range on beef steers of $12 to $14.80 for the bulk of sales compared with $12.25 to $15.25 the previous week and $14.25 to $17.25 last year. The week's average on steers was $13.40, a drop of 35 cents, and compared with $15.75 last year.

Hog prices made a better showing than cattle, although being sharply lower early in the week. The close was 25 to 55 cents higher, with the bulk of sales at the end at $9.70 to $10.80. The week's average of $10.20 compared with $9.65 the previous week and showed a loss of $2.20 from a year ago.

Sheep men had a fair week, with prices off 50 cents for fat lambs, 50 to 75 cents for feeders, and no change in yearlings and aged sheep. The average on lambs of $13.05 was 10 cents better than the previous week and 65 cents below a year ago. Sheep prices were off 15 cents for the week, averaging $4.50, as compared with $6.85 last year.

Fresh dressed lambs in the wholesale market sold at 18 to 25 cents, against 17 to 26 cents the previous week, and were 2 cents lower than last year. Dressed beef, at 14½ to 25 cents, was practically the same as the previous week and a month ago. Pork loins ranged at 18½ to 30 cents, with practically no change in three weeks, but compared with 22 to 34 cents two months ago.

	Cattle.	Hogs.	Sheep.
Past week	61,300	198,900	97,400

Every Colliery in Wilkes-Barre Field in Operation.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 22.—For the first time in many months practically every colliery in the Wilkes-Barre district has resumed operations.

Early last week the Delaware and Hudson Coal Company issued orders for the resumption on a full-time basis of all mines in the Lores division. Other collieries of that company on the West Side are enjoying favorable working time. Yesterday the Pennsylvania Coal Company, employing 10,000 men in the Pittston section, resumed operations at all its collieries after another slack period.

The Lehigh Valley Coal Company reported that, with the exception of its Mineral Spring breaker, all of its collieries are now working full time, and Frank A. Wagner, general manager, predicted a prosperous Winter for the anthracite mine workers. The Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company reported that it has sufficient orders on hand to insure work for an indefinite period.

The district union reports that conditions within the organization are better by far today than in former years. Internal strife, which existed for a number of years past, apparently has been forgotten. The general opinion is that the anthracite industry is rapidly recovering from the setback caused by the strikes of 1922 and 1925, and bankers and merchants are looking forward to an era of prosperity throughout the fields.

BRITISH METALS HOLD GAIN.

Position of Iron and Steel Reported Better Than Last Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The British import trade in iron and steel products increased in August, as compared with July, while the export trade was reduced, according to a cablegram from William L. Cooper, commercial attaché at London, to the Department of Commerce.

Mr. Cooper said that the position of the British iron and steel industry is considerably better at this time than it was a year ago, the marked Summer slump of last year being absent. The pig iron trade is considered fairly satisfactory.

"The demand for semi-finished steel is falling off on account of the increasing Continental competition and the demand for finished steel is considered weak, but with indications pointing to an improvement in export buying. The sheet and tin plate trades are steady with prices unchanged.

INDUSTRY IS ACTIVE IN CHICAGO AREA

Steel Production Is Slowing Down, but the Rate Is Still High.

SMALL CROPS CUT BUYING

Dry Goods Stores, Mail-Order Houses and the Chain Stores All Report Good Business.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Steel production in this district has slowed down thirty days later than usual and is operating at 88 per cent. For the four months, mills have worked at capacity and made new high records. They are now working at about 10 per cent greater capacity than a year ago. Backlogs are declining as new business is slow in coming in, and is largely dependent upon railroads, as automobile and implement makers are practically out of the market.

The Santa Fe, and North Western Railroads are in the market for 100,000 tons of rails, and the Union Pacific has bought 75,000 tons. In the Santa Fe's budget, there is provision for the purchase of 5,354 freight cars, requiring 75,000 tons of steel, and 22,000,000 feet of lumber. Other large railroads are in the market for rails and cars, and the outlook for these specialties is much brighter. Smaller crops of grains, it is said, may curtail open buying operations by implement industries for the coming season.

Three blast furnaces in the Chicago district are either blown out entirely or banked. Part of those that are closed are to be relined after an unusual period of activity. Pig iron values have strengthened locally and in the South, particularly in the latter, and the Chicago basis remains at $20 for No. 2 foundry.

Colder weather enlivened buying of fuel by all interests and the situation is improved. Production of soft coal in the Middle West has enlarged, but stocks are about an average.

Builders are taking fair supplies of lumber, brick and tile, and furniture makers are after hardwoods to a liberal extent.

Retailers of men's and women's clothing report increased buying owing to an unexpected drop in temperatures. General distribution by retailers and wholesalers of dry goods and of general merchandise show gains. Mail order houses and the chain stores are having an increase in sales.

Collections are mixed, with slowness reported in sections where crops are small and marketing of the new grain is limited. Farmers who have raised fair crops and realized on them are, in most instances, said to be better off than in seasons when yields were large and grain prices low.

ICELAND TAKES TO AUTOS.

Increases American Imports Because of Road Building.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The rather rapid improvement in Icelandic public finances and general economic conditions has led to the inauguration of an ambitious road construction program by which the pony is fast being replaced by the American automobile, according to a report by H. Sorensen, commercial attaché at Copenhagen, to the Department of Commerce.

During 1928 automobiles in operation in Iceland included 310 passenger cars and 402 trucks. During the first half of 1929, it is estimated that 200 additional automobiles, of which a large proportion were trucks, were imported.

PLANTATION RUBBER IS STEADY IN LONDON

Quotations for Para Grades Hold —Prices of Tin and Lead in English Markets.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—In the rubber market yesterday plantation grades were quiet but steady. Smoked sheet spot and September sold at 10 15/16d to 10¾d a pound and sellers. October at 10¾d to 10 7/16d and sellers, December at 10 9/16d to 10½d and sellers, January-March at 10 13/16d and sellers, April-June at 11 1/16d to 11 3/16d to 11¼d and sellers; crepe spot at 10 5/16d and buyers. Para grades were unchanged, hard fine spot being quoted at 10¾d and sellers.

In the tin market the East reported 175 tons sold at £214 c.i.f., an advance of 45 shillings. Here the market opened firmer and three months sold at £209 10s. Demand was poor, but with sellers more reserved values hardened and on balance cash showed a gain of 15 shillings, and three months 20 shillings. Sales amounted to 200 tons. Cash sold at £205 5s, September at £205 5s, October at £205 10s, December at £209, three months at £209 10s to £209. The settlement price was £205 5s. The afternoon market was firmer. October sold at £207 10s., December at £210 to £210 5s, three months at £209 10s to £210 5s. In options there were buyers of puts and calls at £10 and sellers at £11. English common tin was steady at £205 10s.

September sold at £23 12s 6d to £23 11s 3d, October at £23 8s 9d, and December at £22 10s. The settlement price was £23 12s 6d. The afternoon market was idle. English lead remained at £25.

Provision Market at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—A better tone is observable in the lard market, with stocks in Chicago decreased nearly 6,000,000 pounds in two weeks. Foreigners have bought lard more freely and there is said to be a better export business under way. Speculators, however, have sold on heavy bulges, but the packing interests appear confident of the market doing better. Closing lard prices were at gains of 2½ to 5 cents, with September and October $11.55, December $11.70 and January $12.15. Ribs were neglected and unchanged at $12 for September. Speculative holders of dry salted clear bellies unloaded and packers took their offerings, and closed the market at $12.60 for September and October, the lowest of the week, with net losses of 50 cents as compared with a week ago.

STEEL PRODUCTION IS STILL DECLINING

TRADE WATCHES PRICES

Little Contracting Reported—Fabricated Steel Active, With Record Bookings for August.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—Steel production, well sustained in early August, when it was only 6.7 per cent under May, the banner month, is now declining more markedly. By the end of August it was scarcely 10 per cent under the May rate, but it is now close to 15 per cent under that rate.

The rate is not a low one, as a full 15 per cent decrease would leave the rate above last year's general average, and last year was a good year in steel. The present rate of production is about 10 per cent above actual production in any calendar year prior to last year.

Each of the first eight months of this year showed a large gain in steel production over that of a year previous. To Sept. 1 the gain was 6,000,000 tons, or 18 per cent. The monthly gains varied chiefly from production having fluctuated last year. Now there is declining production against increasing production a year ago. This month will probably show a little gain over last September, but unless the present trend is reversed next month will show lighter production than last October.

The year's gain, in other words, is likely to be less than the 6,000,000-ton gain shown to Sept. 1.

The automobile industry is not doing so well in the second half of the year as it did in the first half.

A recent prediction that the farm implement industry would increase its production is being withdrawn on account of less favorable crop appraisals.

Seasonal rail buying has begun to appear, but that is purely a routine matter.

In striking contrast with conditions in some other lines, fabricated structural steel makes a very favorable showing. The official report for August shows all-time record high bookings, 365,750 tons, and likewise a record in shipments, 328,000 tons.

Each of the last seven months has shown shipments under bookings, the cumulative difference being 300,300 tons, or close to an average month of work.

Throughout the trade both sellers and buyers are watching prices very closely.

Reports are that there is little fourth quarter contracting.

Burlap Exchange Opens Today.

The newest of the city's organized futures markets, the New York Burlap and Jute Exchange, which has just been turned over to the officials of the Exchange by the contractors, will be open to the trade and public today from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. and daily thereafter until Friday. The following two weeks will be devoted to testing the trading machinery and breaking in the staff which will operate the Exchange, which will begin trading on Oct. 16.

Hide Exchange Sets Record.

All records for volume of trading on the New York Hide Exchange were broken during the week ended Sept. 21, when sales totaling 5,920,000 pounds, with an approximate value of $1,036,000, were recorded. This was 1,760,000 pounds in excess of the previous record, established during the week of June 4, when the exchange opened.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Hesitation on the Stock Exchange as the Autumn Season Begins.

It could not be said that last week's stock market held the centre of the financial stage; indeed, the course of that market almost since the beginning of September has actually been one of hesitation. Markets in the past have been brought to such a state of uncertainty by various causes. Sometimes it began to be suspected that prices were intrinsically too high; that the actual future of the companies and the country, so far at least as concerned results not too far distant, had been ("overdiscounted." Sometimes, while still affirming that the advance which had occurred in preceding months had been a reasonable forecast of the subsequent course of industry, a sense of doubt began to prevail as to whether these conditions would continue. Sometimes the action of the money market caused misgiving; not because Wall Street did not feel willing to pay a high price for use of credit on an advancing market, but because of misgiving as to whether something might not be amiss with the credit situation itself. These were familiar explanations of the stock market's hesitation after a long advance in the Summer of 1923, at the beginning of 1920, in the Autumn of 1909 and 1902.

It may be worth while, even in the present general mood of confidence, to inquire how far (if at all) any one of these grounds of misgiving can be made to apply to the present situation. The unbounded enthusiasm of the market, in the last months of 1928 and the early months of 1929, may plausibly be said to have been warranted by the remarkable heights reached by industrial activity and profits this past Summer. That activity, very abnormal for that time of year, gave occasion for two opposing inferences—one, that it was only a prelude to far greater industrial achievement in the normally active Autumn months; the other, that Autumn business had been so far anticipated that the actual pace of later months might be slower than that of the same period last year. The gradual slackening of this month's production of steel and certain other industries and the extremely large reduction in the United States Steel's unfilled orders as of the end of August (when they should normally increase) have given some ground for that expectation.

It is less easy to be sure how far the money market's action has been a factor; first, because the stock market has for more than a year professed indifference to the high rates (often describing them as "artificial" and "temporary"); second, because high rates had been generally accepted as a certainty for this Autumn, whereas a year ago Wall Street was full of talk that "defeat of the Reserve Board" meant return to easy money. Possibly entry into this Autumn season with money rates 2 to 2½ per cent higher than a year ago has caused reflection as to whether the stringency may not reflect some other and much deeper cause than an arbitrary policy of the Federal Reserve. All past experience has taught that a considerable period of continuous high money must elapse, in an era of speculation, before the speculative markets were willing to recognize its meaning.

These considerations have little bearing on the fact of American prosperity. The wealth, resources and confidence of the people are indicated as plainly now in the new security offerings and the bank mergers as they were by the public's action in the market earlier in the year. We may today be only awaiting another sensational forward surge of activity and prosperity. But a sense of something like bewilderment, of inability clearly to grasp and discriminate the influences at work in the recent enormous pouring of capital and credit into the Wall Street market, certainly seems at the moment to exist.

Such a feeling is perhaps the penalty for the prolonged and joyous insistence that old precedent and old economic law had become obsolete, that past experience was no longer a guide to future probabilities. Supposing this to be true, to the full measure of the recent confident assertion, in just what position would it leave the market or the individual who tried to read the future? Unless on the assumption that conditions which had lately prevailed would never change, the rather inevitable result would be the attitude of some one groping in the dark.

DELAY IN RAISING BANK RATE DISLIKED

MUST MAKE RATE EFFECTIVE

Feeling That, If No Action Is Taken, It Will Mean Coercion by British Treasury.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Although the Bank of England still clings to the 5½ per cent discount rate established last February, the London money market looks expectantly every week for a rise in the rate. Opinion is growing rapidly that the Bank should no longer delay in taking the one step which, in the view of most bankers, would correct the adverse position of the exchanges and end the export of gold.

No doubt seems to be entertained in the foreign exchange market that rates would move substantially in favor of London if the bank rate were raised to 6½ per cent. On the other hand, some question is raised as to whether such a favorable movement would be long maintained, unless the higher bank rate were really to impress on foreign markets the feeling that the Bank of England is prepared at all costs to protect its reserve. In other words, it would be necessary to support the higher rate by evidence that the Bank was determined to bring back to London a good part of the gold and credit funds which have been lost in such large volume during the past six months.

Withdrawals of gold from the Bank of England have, it is true, been less in recent weeks than during August. But the drain on the Bank's reserve of gold nevertheless continues steadily. It has been unable to obtain any important quantity of the metal on the open market. Shortly the Bank will receive in gold a million sterling from Australia and half a million from South Africa, both in sovereigns, but these are mere drops in the ocean. At present the belief is confidently entertained that action to arrest the gold outflow and the drain on credit which the gold shipments reflect will be taken within the next two or three weeks.

If the bank rate is not raised by that time, it will be generally inferred that the Bank of England is yielding to pressure from the treasury. Every one now appears to recognize that the situation calls plainly for a higher rate and that no improvement will come until such action is taken.

ANXIETY IN LONDON OVER HATRY INCIDENT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The alarming collapse in prices for shares in companies of the Hatry group, with its unpleasant sequel in the prosecution of the promoters, turned the London stock market at the end of the week into an extremely nervous condition. Depression in the market value of the shares in this group, including the Photomaton Parent Corporation, the Retail Trade Securities Company, the Associated Automatic Company and Corporation and the General Securities Company, had run into the millions of pounds sterling, and the serious nature of the position had been made evident by the unusual action of the Stock Exchange Committee on Friday in suspending dealing in these securities and in the immediate investigation of the companies.

Conjecture is naturally rife, and at the week-end a feeling of alarm prevailed. Losses to the public through this break in prices are heavy, while the event itself constitutes a first-class financial sensation of a character to which the market is not often treated. The outcome is awaited with much anxiety, since confidence has been pretty severely shaken.

LONDON DISCOURAGED AT STERLING MARKET

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The position of sterling in the French foreign exchange market remains extremely unsatisfactory and to London extremely discouraging. Rates on both New York and Paris are still below the gold point at London, while the German rate is only a trifle above that level. New York bought all the gold available this week in the bullion market from Africa, with the exception of the usual moderate amount required for India and the trade. In the meantime, France has again taken a moderate quantity of gold from the Bank of England.

There is no prospect of the bank being able to secure any gold from the open market so long as exchanges remain at their present level. It will probably continue to lose gold to France, and New York is expected to continue taking most of the metal arriving in the open market.

MORE BRITISH UNEMPLOYED

Highest Percentage Since March, but Below Other August Figures.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The monthly report of British unemployment issued by the Ministry shows that out of 17,830,000 registered work people the number of unemployed on Aug. 26 was 10.1 per cent, comparing with 9.9 a month before, 9.8 at the end of June and 11.6 a year ago. This ratio is the highest in 1929 since March, but is the lowest for the end of August in nine years except for 1927.

There was some improvement last month in the coal mining industry and in several smaller trades, but conditions were less favorable in the building industry, in public work, in engineering and in the motor trades, also in the shipbuilding and artificial silk and textile industries.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—Comparison with a year ago of the index of French industrial production in July, as now published by the government, indicates how substantially trade activity has proceeded and shows why that movement has contributed to demands on credit. The general index, on the basis of 100 for 1913, is placed at 139, which compares with 129 a year ago.

The largest increase over the same date in 1928 was in the rubber trade, whose index is 924, against 584 last year; in the mechanical industries, with an index of 156, against 146, and in metallurgy, with 128, against 123. There were some declines. Automobile production scheduled at 644, against 787 in the preceding July; textiles at 92, compared with 100.

THIS YEAR'S DRAIN ON LONDON'S GOLD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The government's report on gold exports and imports from Great Britain during the year to date show to what extent the movement has been against this country. During the same period of 1928 gold imports were £32,373,786 and exports £31,481,239, leaving £892,547 surplus of imports. This year the same eight months resulted in exports of £54,485,590 and imports of £31,900,124, leaving excess of exports £22,583,466.

Of this year's gold exports to date the largest shipments were £16,556,265 to Germany, £18,155,491 to France, £10,734,586 to the United States, £2,848,975 to Belgium, £500,285 to Sweden, £1,486,829 to Switzerland, £1,438,326 to India and the rest in smaller amounts to Holland, Egypt, the Straits Settlements and other countries.

Imports this year up to the end of August were made up of £23,978,575 from South Africa, £1,800,000 from Argentina, £1,025,484 from Australia, £2,955,387 from Holland, £856,320 from Germany, £628,837 from Rhodesia, £558,840 from West Africa and £283,032 from France, the balance coming from other countries.

FEW NEW LOANS AT LONDON

Prospective Borrowers Are Holding Back Through Fear of Bank Rate.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—New capital issues on the London market continue small, principally confined to loans put out by existing companies. A New Zealand Government loan for £5,000,000 sterling offered this week is purely a conversion operation involving no fresh money.

Several important industrial issues are projected, but in view of uncertainty regarding the bank rate, a marked diminution in new capital offers is certain to occur, because all financial operations which can be deferred will undoubtedly be held back. Many borrowers will resort to temporary loans from bankers, reserving their public issues until a more propitious time.

TIGHTNESS OF MONEY AFFECTING PARIS

French Discount Rates Are Low but Stock Exchange Rates Are Rising.

6½% AT SETTLEMENT

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—Though the Paris money market has been fairly narrow this week, with outside discount rates unchanged around 3½ per cent and call money at 3 per cent, supplies were not abundant and rates were much higher on other classes of loans. At the last Bourse settlement, carry-over money brought 6½ per cent. This was unexpected by the market, and the effect on security prices was bad.

Since last Monday the tendency has been irregular and business much more slack. Dearer call money at New York and continued fear of a higher London discount rate have caused hesitation. Financial circles ascribe the tighter money market to seasonal requirements for credit, particularly this year, when the harvests are exceptionally abundant, wheat in particular. But the magnitude of direct tax collections is also beginning to cause some of the banks to withdraw their balances.

Since the treasury cannot immediately employ the revenue thus collected, it is deposited with the Bank of France, and thus the money previously utilized by private banks for their own money market investments has disappeared. It is this shortage which incites private banks to call on foreign balances, particularly at London. These withdrawals are keeping the sterling rate around the gold import point, and on Wednesday France bought £226,995 gold from the Bank of England, the first of such withdrawals since Sept. 6.

The reaching of 6,260,000,000 francs in the country's import surplus on foreign trade account during the seven first months of 1929 continues to cause comment. The tendency to an import excess is not expected to change in coming months and the import balance for the calendar year is now estimated as high as twelve billion.

Comparison with the average prewar import surplus indicates that, in spite of the depression in the franc and the universal rise in gold prices, the 1929 deficit will be relatively heavier than that of pre-war years. There is, nevertheless, an estimated credit balance on all payments with foreign countries, but the balance cannot yet be utilized in long loans abroad. Placing of foreign loans in Paris is particularly difficult, first, because of the high fiscal taxes; second, because such issues require sanction of the Financial Ministry. Reform in this matter has been constantly demanded and the question will probably come up next month when the budget estimates for 1930 are discussed in the Chamber.

BANK OF ENGLAND'S GOLD.

£655,774 Loss Last Week—£510,000 to Be Received This Week.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Receipts of gold by the Bank of England during the past calendar week were only £84. Withdrawals were £655,858, mostly for France and Germany.

Next Tuesday £510,000, nearly all in sovereigns, is due to arrive from South Africa. This will be sent direct into the Bank of England.

THE LOAN EXPANSION AT BANK OF FRANCE

Paris Ascribes Fourfold Increase in a Year to Results of Stabilization.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—The remarkable increase during the past year in loans by the Bank of France to the home market, which reached a total figure exceeding 8,000,000,000 a few weeks ago, as compared with barely 2,000,000,000 at the same date in 1928 and 1927, represents a rapid growth of rediscounting by private banks of their own loans at the Bank of France. It is one of the consequences of stabilization. When the franc had been stabilized, the banks no longer faced the risk of depreciation in the franc value of their loans on maturity. Therefore they gave much wider facilities to customers—which the market needed urgently, first because prices rose and production increased, but, second, because business men were no longer able to borrow francs against foreign exchange as they had been doing during the period of moderate stability preceding regular revaluation.

After the formal stabilization, French private banks began to invest capital abroad. The sequel as affecting home credit was somewhat as follows: Private banks had to meet larger credit requirements from industry and trade, yet still desired to invest part of their funds abroad. To effect this twofold purpose the private banks got the Bank of France to rediscount trade bills with a freedom not previously witnessed. This is the simple explanation of the year's great increase.

FRENCH BANK GAINS GOLD.

Shipments From London Supplemented by Return of Hearded Coin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—The Bank of France return of last Thursday, covering the position of the week before, showed the gold reserve to have increased 24,000,000 francs in the week. Of this gain in gold 19,000,000 represented importation from London and about 5,000,000 old coin purchased from French hoarders. The increase of about 125,000,000 francs in the last three weeks has been chiefly due to purchases for private banks at London, but demonetized French coin has been regularly coming in at the rate of 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 francs a week.

The bank's ratio of reserves to sight liabilities is now 46.11 per cent, the highest since stabilization. A year ago the ratio stood at 39.41. At the stabilization date in June of last year it was 40.45.

NEW SECURITIES AT PARIS.

Decrease in August From July, the High Record Month.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—New capital issues in France during August amounted to over 621,000,000 francs. This was much less than the 1,543,000,000 of July, which was a high monthly record. The decrease was due to the fact that fewer companies made increases in their outstanding capital during August.

Issues for that purpose amounted to 285,000,000 last month, compared with 650,000,000 in July, and smaller bond issues aggregated 219,000,000, as against 795,000,000. The slump is mostly ascribed to the fact that August was the holiday season in French financial markets.

MONEY HOLDS FIRM ON BERLIN MARKET

But Reichsbank Position Is Strong, and Quarterly Settlements Are Arranged For.

CITY BORROWINGS DISLIKED

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—Uncertainty as to the Bank of England's discount policy continued to keep time rates high at Berlin this week and practically no business was transacted. Day money, however, became increasingly plentiful during the week and rates declined. But they did not reach low quotations, and on Friday rose again to 7 and 9 per cent.

The Reichsbank, whose status, as reported during the week, showed further improvement, is a good position to finance the September quarter-end settlements. The government will carry through its own settlements without new short-term borrowing.

At present the chief demand for cash is from municipalities, which are still paying 11 per cent, including commission for short-term credits. Oberbürgermeister Brachi of Essen has issued a public warning to municipalities against borrowing at unduly high rates. He declares that, until the towns cease doing this, no home or foreign long-term credits will be obtainable.

The German Democratic party demands that as part of the impending financial reform governments shall abolish the present partial tax exemption of State and municipal enterprises of an industrial and public utility order. This demand is made at the behest of smaller manufacturing and trading firms which are now being ousted through competition of publicly conducted enterprises.

The Boerse has continued generally weak. An attack was made on shipping stocks in connection with termination of the agreement between the North German Lloyd and the United States Lines. Rayon stocks touched a new low level. There was some foreign buying here in the week, mainly Swiss bids for Farbenindustrie shares, but weakness followed on Friday owing to the insolvency of a small Berlin banking firm.

The Frankfurter Zeitung's index of stock market prices as of Sept. 13 stood at 119.28, against 120.79 a week before. The latest index number is the lowest of the year.

A PROSPECTUS CRITICIZED.

Attack on German Rayon Fusion, for High Fees to Directors.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—Financial journals attack sharply the prospectus issued by the Rayon Corporation, formed by the fusion between the Vereinigte Glanzstoff and the Dutch Enka, on the ground that the prospectus gives no clear picture of the financial position; also because it allots 30 per cent net profits as fees for services of directors and members of the supervising board. In answer to these criticisms the corporation has issued statements saying that these officials have made an agreement between themselves not to accept such huge fees.

The financial press retorts by asking why, if that is so, the prospectus should allot them the full amount.

German Prices Slightly Higher.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The official index of wholesale German prices as of Sept. 11 works out at 138.2, as against 137.9 on Sept. 4.

Plans Chain-Store System.

F. L. Innes, president of the Spiegel, May, Stern Company, announced yesterday the formation of a wholly-owned subsidiary, Standard Home Utilities, Inc., to operate a national chain store system. The new company will handle only nationally advertised standard products, mainly those consuming gas and electricity, the announcement states.

LONDON BANK REVIEW SEES MONEY TENSION

Barring Large Decline in Stocks Here, Higher London Bank Rate Is Urged.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The current monthly reviews of the large London joint stock banks do not as a rule comment much upon financial matters, although they contain much useful information on the existing status. This month's bulletin of the Westminster Bank, however, contains a well-written and thoughtful review of the whole money situation. After examining various developments which it considers might ease the money situation—such, for instance, as a major break in the speculative American market—the Westminster Review comes back to the final corrective—namely, a rise in the bank rate. Such a step, it says, implies a period during which money will be very dear. Although industry has thus far shown no setback under the relatively high rate of the past five months, it believes that a higher rate, if maintained for any considerable time, could scarcely fail to have restrictive effects. It would also react on the plans of the government for carrying through large financial operations.

In the long run, however, the bank concludes that maintenance of a gold reserve adequate for all national needs must be insured even if it be at the cost of serious temporary inconvenience. Only in this way, it believes, can eventual return to easier money conditions be assured.

Central Public Service Corporation

A growing system of well established public utility properties

CENTRAL PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION, through its subsidiaries, operates gas, electric light and power, transportation and other utilities in 21 eastern states and two Canadian provinces. These are located as far west as Wisconsin and as far south as Florida.

The most recent acquisitions are the gas properties in such leading southern cities as Atlanta, Augusta and Macon, Georgia; Charleston, South Carolina; Roanoke, Virginia; Mobile and Montgomery, Alabama, and Pensacola, Florida.

The Corporation's record of growth and expansion during the period from June 1925 to May 1929 created by a sound and conservative management, is of particular significance in estimating the future. Today the Corporation, through its subsidiaries, has about 294,000 metered customers, an approximate increase of 239% over 1925. The number of communities served totals 357, an increase of 149%, embracing a population of 2,200,000, an increase of 287%.

The intensive development and growth of the System is indicated by the following figures, as officially reported: Gas sales increased 13.9% during 1928 over gas sales for the same properties for 1927. The approximate per cent increase for the country as a whole was 3.4%. Electric sales increased 16.1% during 1928 over electric sales for the same properties for 1927. Approximate per cent increase for the industry as a whole was 8.7%. These increases in gas and electric sales were reflected in an increase of 12.9% in net earnings of the Corporation for 1928 as compared with 1927.

Further increase in earnings is expected to result from an extensive construction program completed during 1928, which included extensions providing for a substantial increase in customers. The operating subsidiaries of the Corporation now own electric generating stations with a combined capacity of 97,219 h.p., of which 27,729 h.p. is hydro-electric.

The management has adopted conservative expansion as the keynote for the further development of the Central Public Service System, and the future of the Corporation should favorably reflect this policy.

EUROPE IS HOPEFUL OF OUTLOOK HERE

Opinion Not Affected by Reaction in New York Stock Market.

STRESS INDUSTRIAL PROFITS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—Notwithstanding the week's decline on the Wall Street stock market, the feeling here is that the American industrial outlook is still extremely favorable. Berlin financial journals emphasize the big profits of industrial corporations.

Regarding stock market prices, the dominant view seems to be that there is room for a further rise in public utility and railway shares; but considerably less confidence is felt about industrials. The Frankfurter Zeitung expresses doubt as to whether the organization of American investment trusts is not being overdone. It describes the present enormous increase in capitalization of such enterprises as a "foundation fury," and suggests that new incorporations should cease and attention be concentrated on consolidating the positions of concerns already established.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 20.—The reaction on the New York Stock Exchange is still considered here to be only of a passing nature. Confidence in further expansion of American trade and industry is still widely entertained, and almost every day large purchases are made on the Dutch markets by speculative investors buying specialty stocks, steels and high-priced railway shares.

Expectation seems to be that some of these specialties will advance to new high records. The only fear in Amsterdam banking circles is an exaggeration of the speculative movement in New York, following advances which had already discounted exceedingly favorable future developments.

The American foreign trade figures cause no anxiety; the smaller August export surplus is commonly ascribed here to unusually large imports, made with a view to possibly higher tariff rates.

INDUSTRIAL POSITION CONFUSED IN GERMANY

Railway Traffic Lower, Steel Output Higher and Unemployment Still Increasing.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—Unemployment in Germany is still slowly increasing; at the end of August 9 per cent of labor union members was unemployed, as against 8.6 at the end of July. This increase, however, falls entirely to the seasonal industries. Unemployment declined in the mining, pottery, clothing, leather and tobacco branches.

Railway freight traffic also shows a decline for the first week of September. The railroad corporation's gross receipts for July were 501,295,000 marks, against operating expenditure of 407,752,000. But the total expenditure, including service of Dawes bonds and allocations to reserve, was 499,020,000. The first half of the year shows deficit of 2,300,000 marks, which, however, was wiped out by the July surplus.

Steel production in August was 1,401,707 tons, against 1,392,000 in August of last year, and production for the first eight months of the year was 11,190,590, against 10,571,048. Production of rolling mills for eight months was 7,731,713, against 7,609,915. The chemical industry is very active.

Reports of immediate prospects in the German exports trade are generally favorable, but steel export business is poor. All export prices via Hamburg for rolled goods except sheets are several schillings per ton lower than a month ago. England, however, is buying German semi-products heavily.

Cost of Living in England.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Ministry of Labor's cost of living figure for the end of August places the index number 64 per cent above that of July, 1924, as against 63 per cent a month earlier and 65 per cent a year ago.

Increasing the Scope of Motion Picture Activities

DAILY the scope of the motion picture increases. It is rapidly becoming an important factor in the wide public dissemination of political and civic appeals. In effect it means that millions can both see and hear candidates for office at the same time in theatres and at heavy traffic points. Conditions in hospitals, schools, public works, etc. can be actually demonstrated. For the first time on a large scale in New York City municipal campaign films will be used this year. The same significant trend to the motion picture as an aid is being experienced in industrial and church work.

which in conjunction with leading motion picture organizations has developed GRANDEUR PICTURES, the new method of film presentation on a wide screen giving the illusion of a third dimension. This new device has been hailed by men in authority in the industry as the greatest step forward since the introduction of sound.

General Theatres Equipment, Inc. occupies the dominant position in the most stable field in the motion picture industry—the manufacture and distribution of equipment for theatrical, industrial, educational, political and home use.

HIGHER LONDON RATE EXPECTED IN EUROPE

PARIS GOLD WITHDRAWALS

Past Week's Activities Not Considered Likely to Influence Bank's Discount Policy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 20.—Owing to the inevitable Autumn demands on the Bank of England, it is not believed here that the Bank will be able to surmount that pressure without increasing its discount rate. An advance is not expected this coming week, since the Bank of England has not lost much gold lately, and the argument is still presented that a higher rate would greatly hamper British industry, which seems to be recovering. But an advance is expected around the beginning of October. Generally, the belief is that the higher rate will not last long, since the Bank will continue to do its utmost to avert pressure from industry.

The past week's withdrawal of gold for Paris from the bank was not considered likely to influence its discount policy. That outflow was independent of the bank rate. It was thought here to have been caused by insufficient organization on the French money market. Since adequate opportunity is not furnished on the home market for investment of their liquid resources by French banks, they are compelled to shift such balances frequently to and from foreign markets, thus causing unsteadiness in the foreign exchanges and occasional gold movements.

The Netherlands Bank is in a very strong position, and it is expected that the Autumn demand for credit, which usually lasts only a short time, will be met without a higher rate.

BERLIN ON BRIAND PLAN.

Not Deemed Practicable—Effect of Higher Tariff Here.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The prevalent view here is that Briand's plan for European economic union and the suggestion of a two years' "tariff armistice" are chimerical. The general comment is that smaller States with weak industries, such as Ireland, Yugoslavia and some British dominions, consider even their present tariffs inadequate. The new American tariff, it is reasoned, would have no effect whatever in furthering European economic union. The reason for this view is the feeling that European countries will find it easier to increase their own tariffs in retaliation than to negotiate on a general measure of European defense.

PASSENGER REVENUES RISE

Report for August Also Favorable —Operating Ratios Lower Than in Same Parts of 1928.

The report of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad for August and the first eight months of the year shows a notable increase in surplus after charges. In August the surplus totaled $2,044,000, an increase of 36.5 per cent over August, 1928, and in the eight months the surplus was $9,378,000, an increase of 105.6 per cent over the same period in 1928. These increases were substantially greater than the increases in gross revenues.

Freight revenue in August increased $449,000 to $7,068,000, and passenger revenues increased $82,000 to $4,203,000, the latter showing that efforts to stimulate passenger business have been successful. In the eight months freight revenue increased $3,378,000 to $51,142,000, and passenger revenues increased $32,000 to $30,826,000. No retroactive mail pay is included in the gross figures.

Expenditures on maintenance of way and structures increased $261,000 to $1,841,000 in August and maintenance of equipment was cut $51,000 to $1,907,000. Transportation expenses increased $12,000 to $3,648,000. In the eight months, maintenance of structures and way expenditures were cut $322,000 to $12,858,000. Maintenance of equipment was cut $809,000 to $16,753,000 and transportation expenses cut $848,000 to $28,524,000.

The operating ratio in August was 84.7 per cent, against 86.2 in August, 1928, and in the eight months it was 87.5 against 71.5.

ENGINE REPAIR RECORD.

Roads Greatly Reduce Number in Need of Overhauling.

Despite the record freight traffic handled this year, Class I railroads on Sept. 1 had fewer locomotives in need of repair than at any previous time on record, the American Railway Association has announced.

On that date there were 7,106 locomotives in need of repair, or 12.4 per cent of the number on line. This was a reduction of 347 under the previous low record established on July 1 this year, at which time there were 7,453, or 13 per cent. The number in need of repair on Sept. 1 was also a reduction of 1,687 locomotives under the number of such locomotives on Aug. 15.

GERMANY'S BUDGET DEFICIT

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The ordinary budget of the Reich for the first four months of the financial year shows a surplus of 313 million marks and a surplus of 42 millions in the extraordinary budget. Since, however, the treasury is carrying from the financial year 1928-29 an ordinary deficit of 154 millions and extraordinary deficit of 905 millions, the net result is a cash deficit of 704 millions.

At present this is carried through the medium of selling treasury bills and by borrowing from such public corporations as have a free surplus.

GERMAN CROPS INJURED.

Late Drought Hurts Growth—The Talk of "State Monopoly."

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The recent drought has done serious damage to German crops, particularly potatoes, sugar beets and hay. The probable results will be increased import of foreign fodder.

Food Minister Dietrich declares that the agrarian demand for a State grain monopoly is impossible and that partial monopoly by means of State import prohibitions is forbidden by Germany's commercial treaties.

STOCK AVERAGE LOWER.

"Fisher Index" Still Places Average 19% Above Year's Lowest.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20.—Professor Irving Fisher's index number of Stock Exchange prices, based on the 215 most important stocks on the market, reckoned on their average of 1926 as 100, shows an average of 209.1 for the past week, as against 209.4 a week ago, 209.7 two weeks ago, 208.6 three weeks ago and 208.8 fours weeks ago. The average of two weeks ago was the highest for the year to date. The average of May 31, 175.7, was the lowest of the year.

Another index number compiled by Professor Fisher and based on the fifty most active industrial stocks of the week is 1,151.7. This compares with 1,148.9 a week before, 1,134.1 two weeks before, 1,111.4 three weeks before and 1,060.5 four weeks before.

ALL GRAIN PRICES DECLINE IN WEEK

Drop in Values Brings Liquidation and the Technical Position Is Improved.

TRADING IN WHEAT GAINS

Frost Scare in Corn Early in the Week Advanced Prices Two Cents, but Rises Are Lost.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Holders of grain who have had confidence in higher prices are showing an inclination to take a more conservative view of the situation. Bullish statistics, on which the trade has worked for three months, have failed to bring in foreign buying in volume, especially for wheat. These have been price declines of 18¾ to 24¼ cents from the high on July 18, while corn is off 8 to 9 cents, oats 3¼ to 4¾ cents from the season's high, and rye is 10 to 16¾ cents lower.

The lowest prices were made today and the week's finish was at net losses on all grains, with wheat the leader, showing a decline as compared with a week ago of 5¼ to 6¼ cents, corn 2¾ to 3¾ cents, oats 1¾ to 1¾ cents and rye 1¾ to 2¾ cents. Declines have brought liquidation and the technical situation in all markets has been improved.

The continued dragging tendencies in all markets, particularly in wheat, with commercial stocks in the United States around 101,000,000 bushels, or 90,000,000 bushels more than last year, tends to make buyers timid, even at the severe decline. Eastern interests have consistently sold December wheat on bulges, and accumulated May on breaks, although paying around 10 cents premium for the privilege of being long the May.

Argentine wheat, c. i. f. Liverpool, was quoted at $1.35 at the close, as compared with American hard Winters at the Gulf at $1.39. December wheat in Liverpool was at practically the same prices as in Chicago. This is a peculiar situation and there must be radical advances in Liverpool or a decline in the United States to lead to exportations of wheat.

December wheat touched $1.58 in July, and was down to $1.35 today, with the close at $1.36 to $1.36¼. September closed at $1.28⅜ to $1.28¾, March, $1.42 to $1.42¼; and May $1.46¾ to $1.46¾.

Trading here during the week increased, with aggregate sales of futures of 318,385,000 bushels, as compared with 224,377,000 bushels the previous week and 150,153,000 bushels last year. The open interest increased to the largest of the season so far, being 235,575,000 bushels at the close Friday, compared with 223,503,000 bushels the previous week and 115,579,000 bushels last year. There is 159,959,000 bushels open in December wheat alone.

The open interest in all wheat futures is 50,000,000 bushels more than the visible supply. As there is practically no hedging pressure, it suggests a material increase in the speculative short interest which is considered especially important.

Primary receipts for the week were 10,649,000 bushels, the smallest in more than a month, compared with 11,397,000 bushels the previous week and 18,468,000 bushels last year. Shipments were 6,164,000 bushels, against 7,744,000 bushels the previous week and 9,564,000 bushels last year. Total for the season to date is 230,000,000 bushels, or 20,000,000 bushels more than last year. This excess, however, is not especially important, owing to the duplication of receipts, there being an unusual movement from one terminal market to another.

A frost scare in corn early in the week advanced prices about 2 cents on local buying. Country speculators, however, instead of taking hold, did the reverse in futures, and also increased their offerings of cash grain to arrive.

The open interest in September corn of 5,575,000 bushels compares with 6,759,000 bushels last year. At the close prices were around the lowest, with September 99¾ cents to $1, December 97 to 97¼ cents, March $1.01¼, and May $1.03¾.

Primary receipts for the week, 5,054,000 bushels; previous week, 3,920,000 bushels; last year, 4,547,000 bushels. Shipments were 2,548,000 bushels, against 2,785,000 bushels the previous week, and 2,788,000 bushels last year.

Cash interests are accumulating September oats and December oats on breaks, and recent buyers at high prices have liquidated freely. The close was: September, 50¼ cents; December, 53¼ to 53¼ cents; March, 50 cents, and May, 57¼ cents. The primary movement since Aug. 1 aggregated 48,000,000 bushels, as compared with practically 40,000,000 bushels last year. The crop this year is about 250,000,000 bushels short.

Coty Shares on Paris Bourse.

Capital stock of Coty, Societe Anonyme, oldest of the foreign Coty companies in which Coty, Inc., the American company, has acquired large blocks of stock, was traded for the first time on the Paris Bourse on last Friday. The price was about 1,175 francs a share. The amount outstanding is 600,000 shares of 100 francs par, of which a substantial block has been placed with French banking interests. Until recently all the stock was held privately.

WHEAT CROP SHOULD MEET WORLD'S NEEDS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The latest Broomhall estimate of wheat supplies available from the current season's world crops places the figure at 413 million quarters of eight bushels, as against 477 millions for the crop of 1928. It points out also that the surplus carried over from the world's crop of the preceding year was 60 millions this season, against 31 millions a year ago. Certain minor modifications have subsequently been made in this estimate in some official returns, but it is thought that no very substantial adjustment of the total will be necessary.

These figures, Broomhall states, certainly indicate a sufficiency for normal consumptive requirements. But supposing consumption in the current season to be as great as it was in 1928, there would remain at the end of the season only 27 million quarters for total reserves, which is below the normal.

COUNT AMERICAN TOURISTS.

Nova Scotia Authorities Report 12,000 Visitors in August.

Special to The New York Times.

TRURO, N. S., Sept. 23.—Over 3,100 tourist cars, containing more than 12,000 people, from the United States entered Nova Scotia during August, according to the results of a traffic test made public by the Tourist Bureau today.

Nearly one-half came from Massachusetts. New York was next with 350. Thirty-two other States contributed the remainder.

BETTER FORECAST OF COTTON DOUBTED

Southern Traders Not Looking Now for Upward Revision of Government Report.

SPINNERS BUYING FREELY

Stocks Piling Up in Ports and Big Clearances for Foreign Markets to Start Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 22.—There was less activity in the cotton market last week than in the weeks immediately preceding. As soon as the bullish effect of the government's crop forecast wore off, which happened as soon as those who had rushed in to buy found that they had no extensive following, these early buyers became discouraged and sold out.

With so large a portion of the long interest liquidated, the professional traders who had sold on the breaking of the drought in Texas and on the belief that the crop in Texas and Oklahoma would be benefited by the rain to an extent that would compel a revision upward of the government's estimate, found their position less comfortable than they could wish. While the speculative long interest liquidated, there was a good deal of trade buying on the scale down, which absorbed offerings so that when shorts sought to cover they found contracts scarcer than they could wish.

Upward Tendency Noticed.

Under these conditions it began to look as if the technical position of the market had been strengthened, and the last part of the week witnessed a tendency to rally which, while it did not result in gains, at least brought prices back to about the levels from which they had started a week ago, although still a full cent a pound below the high point reached immediately after the government report was issued on Sept. 9.

The crops in the West do not appear to have made the progress since the breaking of the drought that was expected. Owing to the forcing weather of the drought period, the plants appear to have made all the cotton which can be expected. Moreover, the breaking of the drought was followed by so much rain that many traders feared that the damage to the grade of open cotton and the delays to picking and ginning more than offset the possibility of some increase in yield from late cotton.

The reports from Texas have not been encouraging and advices from that State are that the crop is turning out as short as had been feared, with the staple of much cotton inferior as a result of premature opening of bolls. While the immediate prospect in Oklahoma and Arkansas as well as in Northern Louisiana, probably is a trifle better than in Texas, that prospect hinges entirely on the date of frost. The unseasonably cool weather of last week over a considerable portion of the cotton belt, while in no sense damaging to growing cotton, served to remind traders, as well as producers, that cold weather is coming.

Poorer Forecast Feared.

The week closed with traders much less confident that the government will have to revise its last estimate upward, and some even contended that the September deterioration had been such as to cause fears that a further reduction in the yield prospect may have to be made. At the same time it is difficult to infuse anything like bullish enthusiasm into traders with the crop coming to market at a rapid rate and with producers apparently willing sellers at present prices, which are still much above the range of prices current just a year ago.

Whatever the size of the crop, however, it is evident that spinners, both domestic and foreign, are buying cotton more freely in all the Southern markets, and the export demand, which until lately was somewhat backward, was much more in evidence last week. Exports to date are now practically on a par with last season's, and at the rate at which cotton is piling up at the ports there is every reason to believe that before long the clearances to foreign ports will run ahead of those of last season.

Until the last few days the spot demand has run largely on good grades of cotton 1 inch or better in length of staple, while ⅞-inch cotton was neglected and was even being offered on a tenderable basis. Last week a better demand developed for ⅞-inch cotton for export, and this cotton is being bought up, making the position of October shorts rather precarious, with the first notice day for that option now near at hand.

There has been some quiet liquidation in the October position and there probably will be more within the next few days. It is believed that considerable cotton will be tendered on October contracts, but it also is probable enough that with the demand for export increasing the tenders will be absorbed quickly.

COTTON CARRY-OVER LOW.

Cannot Be Reduced Much, Prof. Todd Says in Review Issued Here.

The carry-over of American cotton cannot safely be reduced much more than it has been, and, consequently, consumption during the coming season must be kept within the limits of this year's crop. This is one of the principal points made in an annual review of the world's cotton situation by Professor John A. Todd of Liverpool, England, that has just been published by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York.

The need of better farming and boll weevil control in this country to increase per acre yield is stressed by the review, which adds that the world will take for many years to come all the cotton it can get at a reasonable price. The possibility of the crop elsewhere than in this country reaching 13,000,000 bales this year, against an average of 12,000,000 during the past several years, is also mentioned. The review further says there are indications that the Russian crop may outstrip the pre-war figure.

Garside Data for Cotton Exchange.

The New York Cotton Exchange announced yesterday that it has acquired the Garside Cotton Service, an informational cotton trade bureau, and has engaged Alston H. Garside, director of the service, as economist of the exchange, effective on Oct. 1. The exchange will continue the service in its own name, under the direction of Mr. Garside, with the exception of reports on the cotton crop, which will be transferred to other hands, and Mr. Garside will have no further connection with them.

COLUMBIA GRAPHOPHONE COMPANY

ENTRY INTO THE RADIO FIELD.

LORD MARK'S SPEECH.

The Annual General Meeting of the Columbia Graphophone Company, Limited, was held today at Winchester House, Old Broad Street, London, E. C.

The Right Hon. Lord Marks (the chairman) said: Ladies and Gentlemen, I will ask you that we may as usual take the Report and Accounts for the year, that have already been circulated to you, as read. (Agreed).

Your Directors are happy in being able to report that our profits for the year have exceeded those of any previous year. The measure of the increase perhaps can be more fully appreciated when it is seen that the profits for the twelve months were £495,136, as against £491,305, for the preceding fifteen months which is, in effect, more than 25 per cent increase over the twelve months immediately preceding.

INCREASED ASSETS—BUILDINGS AND MACHINERY.

On reference to the Balance Sheet it will be seen that the first item on our assets side, namely, Freehold Land and Buildings, has been increased from £188,000 to £235,000. It may be recalled that at our last Annual Meeting I stated that we had purchased five additional acres of land adjacent to our Wandsworth factories. On this land we have since erected and equipped additional buildings which is the explanation for the increase.

The fixed plant and machinery as shown in our balance sheet has increased by only £3,000, but this sum represents only a small percentage of the cost of the new and additional machinery we have actually installed in our factories.

INVESTMENTS.

Investments are increased by the sum of £625,000, representing the interests we have acquired in Pathé Freres, of France, and further additional holdings in our associated companies.

The balance due by our associated companies corresponds practically with the similar items on the liability side.

STOCK-EXPORT TRADE GROWTH.

Stock on hand has increased to £240,000, caused chiefly by our growing business in instruments that are needed particularly to meet the requirements from our expanding foreign markets, larger stocks being necessary to enable us to give prompt and efficient service for the enormously growing export demands. Although the amount is larger than last year it is still but an extremely small percentage of our annual sales.

Our cash is reduced as compared with last year by £121,000, and our debtors increased by £93,000, and as against this our Trade Creditors Reserves and Credit Balance is reduced by £15,000, making the net difference of our liquid position only £12,000, which is more than covered by our increase of stock on hand.

Turning to the liabilities side of our Balance Sheet, it will be noticed that our issued capital is increased by £676,000, of which the bulk is accounted for by the issue to you of the 150 per cent Bonus Shares last October.

The Reserve for Income Tax and contingencies is £1,000 higher than last year. We are not asking this year for an appropriation of this item, as the £80,000 is considered more than ample to cover our requirements under this heading.

SALES EXPANDING EVERYWHERE.

Our sales are still expanding practically all over the globe, and we have materially added to our factories and organisations throughout the world in order to keep pace with the enormous growth.

RESEARCH.

While every year in connection with our business intensive research and careful investigation is essential, that we may keep abreast of every scientific development and movement in connection with allied industries, the past year has been one of particularly interesting intensive development in our factories everywhere, and a further period is ahead of us during which undoubtedly still additional work of this character must be carried out. The full benefit of these developments may not be felt for at least two years. I think I have in the past tried to explain to you that in our business we consider nothing that is produced, however satisfactory it may be at the time, as final either in design or in accurate or scientific reproduction of sound. Hence we have elaborate research and scientific departments, not only in our own company, but co-operating and collaborating with like scientific research departments of other associated companies, which helping the other in a manner that enables us to co-ordinate their efforts and thus secure the greatest practical advantage possible from our investigations.

Our industry during the past few years has undergone many and rapid developments, and I think it is quite clear that the future developments will be equally marked and rapid.

We are maintaining exhaustive and intensive research work in all countries and are confident from the past experience that the future results will be such as to keep us, not only fully abreast, but we hope ahead of the times.

ELECTRIC REPRODUCTION.

In February last we manufactured in this country our first Columbia Electric Reproducing Instrument, which has effected another big advance in tone reproduction, while excellent results already secured have given us the fullest satisfaction.

COMBINATION INSTRUMENT.

We are now manufacturing a combination gramophone and radio instrument which we hope to have on the market this year.

RADIO-WIRELESS.

The growth of the radio or wireless industry has been very closely watched during the past few years, and although competition is our keenest enemy, we have always welcomed from its very first introduction, a broadcasting that the radio would increase our business and our belief has proved to be correct.

Our policy has always been to welcome and encourage anything that brings good music to the home, knowing that such must assist and increase our business.

Our very careful investigations and watchful observations of the radio industry have satisfied us that it has reached stabilization, and that being so we are convinced that now is the opportune moment for our company to commercially enter the W have a radio department controlled by men who for many years have been experts alike technically and commercially in the radio industry, and who have had the benefit of the experiences of that which has led up to the present position that enables us to have confidence in the steps upon which they are engaged in now producing.

COLUMBIA RADIO.

We have manufactured Columbia Radio Sets that we unhesitatingly say are equal to any competitive sets now known, and the Directors feel we have been successful in the trade as conditions generally existing this month have made us absolutely confident that we can look to a great expansion in this section of our business.

It is also intended to extend the use of that the name "Columbia" already associated all over the world with the best sound reproducing instruments, shall become equally famous for the highest repute in the Radio world, so that we may be able to make the Columbia Instruments combining the two entertainment interests.

As regards other new articles in hand we may rest assured that the highest standard of quality for which Gramophone Company stands will prevail, and the world will be in every detail maintained in Radio productions.

BUILDERS SEEK CUT IN INSURANCE RATES

HAZARD SEEN AS REDUCED

Survey Shows Highest Rate of Accidents Occurred Among Workers on Saturday Forenoon.

Owing to the Saturday holiday and the increased wage scale in the building trades, contractors plan to demand lower rates for compensation and contractors' liability insurance, according to Allen E. Beals in the current Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

Charles L. Eidlitz, chairman of the Structural Steel Board of Trade, Inc., has announced the result of an investigation undertaken in behalf of the city's leading structural steel erectors, in which he shows that, prior to Aug. 24, Saturday forenoon was responsible for more accidents than any other half-day over a period of eighteen months.

"Our records for the eighteen months prior to June 30, 1929, show a total of 2,490 accidents on the work of our members," said Mr. Eidlitz. "Dividing this number into half-days, we count 226 accidents per half-day. The number occurring on Saturday forenoons, however, was 250; an increase on Saturday half-days of 10.05 per cent over the half-day average during the period.

"In talking with a prominent representative of organized labor the other day, I asked him how he accounted for the increased accident factor on Saturday forenoon, and his reply was interesting, at least, for he said: 'The men are tired. They have been working all week and their minds do not function as quickly as they should.'

"If this is the answer, and I doubt it, the facts in the structural steel industry speak for themselves, and if this great element of risk has been eliminated by the introduction of the Saturday half-day and an increase in wages to take care of the otherwise lost compensation for Saturday forenoons, we, as well as others in the building trades, felt that our insurance rates should be adjusted downward accordingly, particularly when we are able to prove that, although the four Saturday morning hours were 9.90 per cent of the forty-four hours worked during the week, the Saturday morning accidents were 10.04 per cent of the total reported.

Lower Rates Asked.

"Fortified with these facts, our counsel, R. B. Thomas, addressed a letter to the Compensation Inspection Rating Board in which he called attention to the shorter work-week now in effect, concluding with the observation that 'it would seem, therefore, that there is on the present rates an immediate increase of premiums paid for workmen's compensation and public liability insurance and a decided reduction in the hazard because of the elimination of the Saturday half-day,' closing with a request that this matter be brought to the attention of the board and that an investigation be made looking toward the possible reduction on account thereof in the manual rates for workmen's compensation and public liability insurance relating to structural steel erection on buildings.

"In reply to this communication we have the following letter from William G. Lutz, chief engineer of the Compensation Inspection Rating Board, dated Sept. 3:

"'This will thank you for your letter of Aug. 28 advising of the increased wage scale now effective in connection with structural steel erection in this city and also of the decrease in the number of working hours, per week.

"'The latter will have no bearing on the rate, if you will have in mind that the measure of exposure and the basis of rates is per hundred dollars of payroll. The increase in wage scale is, however, an item which may have a bearing on the rates and will be referred to the Classification and Rating Committee for consideration in connection with a general revision of rates at present contemplated to become effective Jan. 1, 1930.'

Official Loan Statistics.

"We have just received from the State Department of Labor their official statistics showing the cost of compensation for the entire year ending June 30, 1928," Mr. Eidlitz said. "Under structural steel erection they give the number of cases at 1,038. The number of weeks' disability arising from these cases totaled 21,480, on which was paid $634,689. The total number of death claims paid, which includes two cases of permanent disability, was 32. The present value of awards in these cases (computed future actuarial liability), $230,155. Permanent partial disability cases numbered 317, costing in compensation $272,560. Temporary disability, either total or partial, ran up to 689 cases, on which $131,374 was paid.

"The average cost per case in structural iron and steel erection was $611.45, while the average cost per case in all construction work was $370.72.

"The costs given in these items do not include medical service, claim settlement work or any other overhead, including insurance premiums connected therewith. The quotations are for actual compensation paid. It is probable that these other costs are equal to, or greater than, the total compensation cost. These statistics cover the whole State of New York, but for New York City they are alarming enough.

"We compute accidents in New York City and vicinity at 75 per cent of the State total. We can, therefore, estimate the total accident cost to members of the Structural Steel Board of Trade for compensation alone, which does not include public liability and property damage, at $1,000,000 a year. Note that that is the load carried by only twenty structural steel firms, out of several thousand building trade contractors operating in New York City alone."

REALTY FINANCING.

Loans secured by mortgages on the following properties were announced:

Long Island.

Five-story apartment house on the south side of Central Avenue, from Maple Avenue to Locust Avenue, Cedarhurst; $225,000 first mortgage for the Central Cedarhurst Corporation from the Prudence-Bonds Corporation.

Four-story office building at the northeast corner of Woodbury and Frederick Streets, Hicksville; $125,000 construction loan for one year for the Manetto Holding Corporation from the S. W. Straus Investing Corporation.

DEALS IN NEW JERSEY.

Sales of Properties in Newark as Reported Recently.

William Mallon has sold the property at 574-580 Ogden Street, facing Rector Street, Newark, to Nils I. Malmstrom and Frank G. Fanning, principals in the Ogden and Rector Parking Company. The property is an old Ballantine estate holding and was sold through the Fiedler Corporation as broker. Part of the site has been leased to the Warner-Quinlin Company for a gasoline filling station.

Industrial Welded Alloys, Inc., has purchased the former Titan steel plant on Lister Avenue, Newark, through Louis Schlesinger, broker. The property was sold by Factory Associates, Inc. The plant has four acres of land and 75,000 square feet of buildings of the industrial type. It fronts 291 feet on the Passaic River.

UNITE TO STOP ACCIDENTS.

300,000 Workers Are Enrolled in State Prevention Campaign.

BUFFALO, Sept. 22 (AP).—Three hundred thousand workers in 1,440 industrial plants of the State have united in a drive against preventable accidents, through the accident prevention campaign sponsored by Associated Industries of New York State, Inc.

This enrolment, according to Maxwell S. Wheeler, president of the organization, marks a peak in cooperative effort along these lines in New York. Last year 1,020 firms, with about 250,000 workers, competed for the trophies offered in the campaign.

The present drive opened with the first working day in September and will continue until the close of the last working day in November. Chambers of commerce, manufacturers' associations and various trade organizations have joined in the campaign, direction of which was placed in the hands of a general committee composed of representatives of the various cooperating organizations, with Frank E. Redmond, educational director of Associated Industries, as chairman.

Competing firms will report weekly to this committee the number of accidents in their plants, weekly standings being based on the percentage of labor hours lost compared with the total number of hours worked.

INCREASES GAS SERVICE.

Associated Gas and Electric Co. Completing New Plants.

The new gas plant under construction at Worcester, Mass., for the Associated Gas and Electric system will be ready for operation by the end of the year, increasing the company's capacity by 7,000,000 cubic feet daily. The system has belted Worcester with high-pressure mains.

This year's gas service has been extended to Shrewsbury, Clinton, Grafton and North Grafton, near Worcester. Other extensions are being completed to include Whitinsville, Uxbridge, North Uxbridge, Linwood, Millbury, Farnumsville and Rockdale.

Other current gas developments in the system include the construction of a complete new plant at Plattsburg, N. Y., and completion of a fifty-mile line from Lockport, N. Y., to municipalities including Brockport, Hartford, Medina, Middleport, Newfane, Gasport, Albion, Parma and Olcott. The Associated unit operating in Owensboro, Ky., lately has been shifted from manufactured to natural gas, which involves piping from fields only fifteen miles distant.

BUILDING TRADES PAY HIGHEST IN NEW YORK

Plasterers Lead Here at $1.92½ an Hour—Five-Day-Week Movement Reported Growing.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—According to statistics and data compiled by Edward M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' Association of Chicago, New York is the banner city for high wage rates for building workers this year. The plasterers there lead with the scale of $1.92½ an hour and following them come the bricklayers with $1.87½ an hour. The New York iron workers rank third with a rate of $1.75 an hour.

Mr. Craig reports that $1.62½ an hour is the rate paid for the same class of mechanics in many of the other cities in the country.

Tabulation of five-day week statistics, compiled from reports furnished by builders' and employers' associations in 130 cities in the United States and Canada, shows that journeyman plasterers head the procession in the five-day week movement and work on the forty-hour week schedule in 42 of the cities.

Painters come next with 34 cities; then follow lathers and plumbers with 25 cities, bricklayers with 21, carpenters with 15 cities and iron workers with 14. The sheet metal workers register with the low score of 10 cities.

Three Chicago building trades are now employed on a five-day week schedule. They are the painters, plasterers and lathers. Request has been made by the Building Trades Council for establishment of the forty-hour week in the entire local building industry.

GAIN IN NEW CONTRACTS.

Dodge Corporation Reports an Increase in Construction.

Contracts for building construction awarded in the metropolitan area for the week ending Sept. 20 totaled $13,493,200, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. The figure compared with the preceding week shows an improvement of $496,000 in new building and engineering work.

Statistics show the following types of construction to be most active during the week: $6,290,000, or 47 per cent of all construction, for commercial projects; $3,563,600, or 26 per cent, for residential buildings; $1,580,700, or 12 per cent, for public works and utilities, and $914,000, or 7 per cent, for educational buildings.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22(?)—The disturbance off the South Atlantic Coast is still of slight intensity and it is apparently moving very slowly northward with centre about 200 miles off the South Carolina Coast.

The Western disturbance has made little progress Eastward and it still has three centres, Edmonton, Winnipeg and Flagstaff, Ariz. Pressure is still quite high but falling slowly from the lake region and the Ohio Valley southward to the Northern Hudson Bay. The temperature has risen in the lake region and the upper Mississippi and lower Missouri Valleys and it has fallen in Georgia, North Florida and in portions of the Northern Rocky Mountain region.

The disturbance of the South Atlantic Coast will cause occasional showers Monday and Tuesday in the Atlantic States as far north as the Southern New England Coast, otherwise the weather will remain fair east of the Mississippi River during the next two days. The temperature will rise slowly in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, Northern New York and Northern New England.

SLOW SHIPS SHOW LEAD IN BUILDING

51.8 Per Cent of All New Tonnage in Last Nine Years Is Less Than Twelve Knots.

SIX NATIONS ARE LISTED

Council Finds Glaring Dearth of Cargo Vessel Construction in the United States.

The National Council of American Shipbuilders issued yesterday a report of its analysis of the activities of the six principal nations in shipbuilding and set forth the following findings:

For the countries considered, 51.8 per cent of the gross tonnage of all kinds of ships built from 1920-28 inclusive is represented in ships whose speed is less than twelve knots.

For these countries 47 per cent of the gross tonnage of all types of ships built in 1928 is represented in ships whose speed is less than twelve knots.

For these countries the gross tonnage of ships under twelve knots built in 1928 is treble what it was for 1926.

For the United States alone there is a glaring dearth of cargo ships. Two cargo ships were built in 1923, one in 1924 and none from 1924-28.

For the countries considered, 54.2 per cent of the gross tonnage of cargo ships built from 1920-28 inclusive is made up of ships whose speed is less than twelve knots.

For the United States alone, 90 per cent of the gross tonnage of cargo ships built from 1920-28 inclusive is made up of ships whose speed is less than twelve knots.

Great Britain in Lead.

The nations considered in the survey are the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France, Italy and Japan. In the broadest analysis, covering all types of ships built from 1920-28, ships of less than twelve knots totaled 8,902,154 tons, ships of twelve to fifteen knots totaled 6,045,765 tons and ships of more than fifteen knots totaled 2,261,961 tons.

Great Britain leads in the number of ships and volume of tonnage of all classes. Her tonnage in the fifteen-knot class was 1,198,337, the United States taking second place with 324,481 tons, and again in the class of ships of less than twelve knots these two nations held similar places, the British ships totaling 5,747,624 tons and the American ships 2,930,142 tons.

Great Britain led in the class from twelve to fifteen knots with a tonnage of 3,407,770, but Germany supplanted the United States in second place with a total tonnage of 1,905,201. France was in third place with 569,366 tons and the United States followed with 209,746 tons.

How Nations Ranked.

The nations were listed in the total for all speeds in the nine-year period covered by the survey, with number of ships, total tonnage and percentage of the total, as follows:

Great Britain	1,332	8,353,731	48.5
United States	542	3,534,309	20.7
Germany	328	2,024,208	11.7
France	226	1,247,022	7.1
Italy	154	1,102,377	6.4
Japan	185	953,508	5.5

The period from 1926-28 showed the nations increasing their output of ships of more than fifteen knots, the tonnage being 837,331 as compared to 640,459 tons in 1922-25 and 784,141 tons in 1920-21. In other classes of ships, however, the period from 1920-22 led with a tonnage of 2,749,312 for ships from twelve to fifteen knots and 5,685,350 of ships under twelve knots.

Of the grand total of 17,207,580 tons built in these nine years, including all speeds, 9,263,803 tons were built from 1920-22, and 4,122,141 tons from 1926-28 and 3,821,936 tons from 1923-25.

MEMORY OF BARRY HONORED BY 20,000

WALKER FOR ANNUAL EVENT

Promises Use of City Property for Meeting—Resolution Adopted Urging Adequate Navy.

The memory of Commodore John Barry, "father of the American Navy," was honored by 20,000 persons yesterday afternoon on the Mall in Central Park.

Representatives of veterans organizations were present, in addition to details of sailors and marines from the Navy Yard in Brooklyn. More than 200 public school children sang and the Police Department band played. Members of all Irish societies in the city attended the ceremony.

Mayor Walker, after commending those present for their patriotism, declared:

"Why are the Irish in America greater than in any other part of the world? It is not because of any particular quality of the soil or the race or because of any peculiar difference as to the climate. But may it not be justified to see something written into the Declaration of Independence to guarantee those who settle here opportunities to work and worship in freedom and without molestation which gave them a new spirit? There was divine inspiration upon Barry and his fellow patriots who laid the foundation which made it possible for us to meet here today."

The Mayor said he was in favor of a "Barry Day," declaring that those present could choose "any part of the park or all of it," as it would be granted for the the same purpose again "if I still have the jurisdiction to permit meetings on city property. I will be with you," he said, "either down among the audience or up on the platform, but present I will be."

Mgr. John Chadwick, giving historical details of the exploits of Barry, extolled his heroism.

Michael J. O'Connor presided, and Father F. L. McFadden, chaplain of the Brooklyn navy yard, read the invocation. A poem dealing with Irish bravery was recited by Francis B. Jones, boy member of one of the Irish societies.

Other speakers were Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steigeur, Frank P. Walsh and Thomas Ford, president of the Irish World Corporation.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted asking that an adequate navy be maintained to insure the safety of the country and that a policy not to entangle this country too much in the affairs of the rest of the world be observed. The resolutions will be forwarded to Washington.

Mr. O'Connor expressed the hope that some day a statue of Barry might be erected in Central Park.

CAMP SMITH ENDS TRAINING

20,000 Guardsmen Drilled During Season, Says General Haskell.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Camp Smith's greatest training season, in the opinion of Major Gen. William N. Haskell, commandant, closed today with the striking of the camp's colors while the 369th Infantry, colored National Guard regiment, stood at attention on the parade ground. The regiment had just completed two weeks of drill.

During the three months that the camp was open, about 12,000 men received intensive training. General Haskell placed the number trained in the whole State at about 20,000.

"In many cases," he added, "the men have increased their qualifications 100 per cent. The morale has been excellent. Not a single case has occurred where a man has had to be severely disciplined. There has been no court-martial required. Everybody has enjoyed himself. Governor Roosevelt visited Peekskill three times and expressed himself as greatly pleased."

FLOOD MINE TO HALT FIRE.

Germans Adopt Drastic Means to Quench Saarbruecken Blaze.

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany, Sept. 22 (AP).—The pit of the Saint Charles coal mine was flooded today as a last recourse to quench the huge blaze which followed a fire damp explosion last Monday.

Twenty-three miners were killed and twenty-five injured by the explosion. It was feared the enormous volume of water poured in today would greatly increase damages and would endanger adjoining pits because of pressure on the intervening walls.

Asserts Churches Disclose Largeness of City's Soul

The soul of New York is colossal and when one goes to church on Sunday morning one sees only a faint glimpse of it, according to the Rev. John J. Laherty who expressed that belief yesterday morning in his sermon at the Catholic Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, Park Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street.

"In order to have an idea of the immensity of the city's soul one must multiply the glimpse one gets in church on Sunday by the number of churches in the city," Father Laherty said. "It is only when we have done it that we are astounded by the largeness of the soul of the city's millions.

"We forget sometimes that New York has a soul because of its greatness. At times it seems a misfortune to be born in this great city. We grow up in its gigantic bigness and fail to see it in perspective and to appreciate its size. It is the person who is born in a small town and comes to New York that sees its immensity."

SEVEN HURT AT BALL GAME.

Part of Chimney Falls on Group of Spectators in Outfield.

Seven spectators of a baseball game yesterday afternoon at Sterling Oval, in East 164th Street, near Clay Avenue, the Bronx, were injured slightly when a slate chimney slab and several bricks fell from the roof of a five-story apartment house in the outfield of the baseball diamond. All received medical attention and went home.

All mechanical parts are inside the cabinet

YOU want an electric refrigerator that is easy to clean. And Frigidaire is built with this in mind. Surfaces inside and out are smooth and lustrous with nothing to catch dust or dirt. The simple power unit is completely enclosed in a separate compartment at the bottom of the cabinet . . . out of sight and out of the way.

And the Frigidaire power unit is extra powerful. It has a reserve of power that you can tap at will with the Frigidaire "Cold Control." When you're in a hurry for ice cubes or have a difficult dessert to freeze, you never have to worry. Just turn the lever of the "Cold Control."

The Frigidaire "Cold Control" is one of the greatest improvements ever offered on an automatic refrigerator. And it is found only on Frigidaire. No other electric refrigerator has it.

Come in and see the new Frigidaires. See for yourself the many features that save time, work and trouble. Note the elevated shelves that make stooping unnecessary. See how the interior is arranged to hold large quantities of food. Listen for the sound of the motor. It is so incredibly quiet that you don't hear it start, stop, or run.

The Frigidaire "Cold Control" has introduced a new standard in electric refrigeration. It is as important as a gas regulator on an oven.
